ROYAL MARRIAGE

Scene of Rare Brilliancy in Madrid

King Alfonso and Princess Victoria Married in Presence of a Distinguished Gathering — The Bride Was Showered With Flowers by the Populace—Enthusiastic Greeting for King and His Bride

MADRID, May 31.—The city awoke today under a cloudless sky with dazzling sunshine adding its glories to the bewildering maze of color in which the streets were enveloped. From an early hour the centers presented an aspect of extreme animation. The entire night had been passed amid the din of fireworks, singing and dancing and thousands of provincials, unable to secure shelter spent the night in cafes and in the streets. At 8 o'clock crowds densely packed the main thoroughfares and the troops took up their positions, stopping all traffic, and the whole city took an air of feverish expectancy. The Esplanade, fronting the royal palace was occupied by regiments of the royal guards in full gala uniforms with glittering breast plates and helmets. They formed semi-circles guarding the approaches to the palace from the crowds eager to gain points of vantage.

The massive outlines of the palace were without decorations save the royal standard floating above. Detachments of halberdiers with quaint cockades stood with halberts crossed at the prince's gate leading to the palace court yard. All along the route of cortege hurried preparations were going on. Troops lined both sides of the streets in solid ranks for miles.

BRILLIANT SCENE.

The scene from the Puerto Del Sol to the Pardo palace was one of striking brilliancy. All the buildings were resplendent with the yellow and red colors of Spain woven into sunbursts, huge rosettes and graceful streamers looped from roof to roof and arches of roses from which were suspended enormous flower baskets and trailing vines. Under this dazzling canopy of flags and flowers surged dense masses of humanity in festival attire, the women wearing white mantillas and bunches of bright flowers in their black hair and with bright colored fans whipping the air. The population of Madrid had turned out in a body and was augmented to twice its usual size by visitors from the country and neighboring towns.

ESCORTED BY REGIMENT.

Princess Victoria came from the Pardo palace to Madrid early in the morning, accompanied by her mother, Princess Henry of Battenberg, and her ladies of honor and escorted by a regiment of the royal guards. The bride's party was installed in the ministry of marine which had been sumptuously prepared for her. The princess put on her wedding dress and Queen Christina greeted the bride after which the ladies breakfasted together in the blue salon of the ministry.

The wedding cortege started from the royal palace at 9.30 a.m. amid the ringing of church bells, the firing of artillery salutes and the clamorous enthusiasm of the crowds massed along the route.

Ahead rode trumpeters in crimson velvet suits of the time of Philip II., sounding the approach of the royal party. Following them came the personnel of the royal household; the heralds mounted on stallions from the royal stud and caparisoned in Oriental style, each led by a cadet of the royal riding academy and the equeries and grooms from the royal stables leading the king's favorite horses with gold embroidered saddle cloths and colored plumes, accompanied by pages and riding masters and all the bewildering equipment of a luxurious court.

NOBILITY OF SPAIN.

Next came a long line of gala coaches of the Spanish grandees, each of a distinctive color with panels richly painted, gilded and jeweled and drawn by magnificent horses in silver harness, adorned by tall plumes matching the livery. Within rode the nobility of Spain; the men with their breasts covered with orders and the women in wedding attire.

But the brilliancy of this part of the cortege was far surpassed when the famous royal gala coaches came into view, each drawn by eight white horses with golden and silver harnesses and lofty colored plumage, looking like the coaches depicted on some illuminated page of a fairy book.

These coaches formed one of the most striking features of the wedding cortege. They were marvels of luxury, some of tortoise shell others of mahogany, sets with panels painted by famous artists, all ornamented with precious metals and emblazoned with the royal insignia. They were relics of by-gone days when kings and queens rode in golden vehicles but they had been renovated in all their original splendor for this occasion.

The most interesting coaches were the Amaranth coach for the court ladies; the Cypher coach for the lords in waiting; the coach of the ducal crown for the infantas, and the shell coach for the queen mother.

All the trappings and surroundings of these magnificent vehicles were in keeping. They were drawn by teams of six and eight white horses, well matched and of the finest breeds.

About these glittering vehicles circled retinues of grooms, pages, heralds and others in the showy uniforms of Louis XIV.

The coaches of the Spanish gandees were hardly less remarkable than those of royalty, the main difference being that they were drawn by only two horses, according to rigid rule.

Some of the most notable of these coaches were as follows:

The Duke of Albas' coach of yellow with red wheels, the plumage of the horses and the livery of the lackeyes being of the same color; that of the Marquis of Viana, a 17th century coach with paintings by Vincente Lopez; that of the Marquis De Miraflores, distinguished by its whiteness, all the plumage, harnesses and livery being white; those of the Duke of Sotomayor and the Marquis De Tovar, each of blue with red wheels and plumage of the same colors; that of the Duke of Tamames, brown, and the Count of Heredia, green. There were some 25 of these historic coaches of the grandees, each having its own peculiar brilliancy, and all forming a dazzling pagant.

Following the coaches of the Spanish princes and infantas were those of the visiting princes, including the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Archduke and Archduchess Francis Ferdinand of Austria, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Vladimir of Russia, Prince Albrecht of Prussia and Prince Albert of Belgium and representatives of all the royal houses of Europe.

KING ALFONSO.

Closing this dazzling array of princes appeared a coach bearing the royal crown in which were seated King Alfonso, his witness, Prince Carlos and his majesty's [illegible] nephew, Prince Alfonso, the actual heir to the throne of Spain.

As the king's coach appeared it was greeted by a great roar, while the multitude wildly waved handkerchiefs, fans and parasols. His majesty was smiling and bowing to the popular greetings. He wore the uniform of a field marshal, his hat surmounted by a sweeping white plume. Around his coach was a cavalcade of royal guards, heralds, equerries and pages holding back the enthusiastic populace.

Immediately following the royal coach came the bride's party, forming another glittering array of gala coaches bearing the lords and ladies in waiting and the princes and princesses of the house of Battenberg and finally came the famed mahogany coach with the radiant bride, Princess Victoria, attended by her mother and Queen Maria Christina.

BRIDE CHEERED.

The appearance of the princess, who was about to become their queen, aroused the people to the highest pitch of emotion, men and women cheered and showed friendly salutations, while others from the balconies of the houses along the route showered flowers on the princess and let loose hundreds of pigeons carrying long bright streamers. The bride looked most charming and graciously acknowledged the continued ovations.

As the cortege entered the Puerto Del Sol the picture presented was strikingly beautiful, with the buildings ablaze with color, the streets densely packed the balconies crowded with people, the swarming windows, housetops and trees and in contrast the stately royal cavalcade defiling slowly amid the enthusiastic clamor of the populace.

On reaching the chamber of deputies the cortege came in sight of the church of St. Jeronimo El Real, which was magnificently adorned for the ceremony. Over the entrance was suspended an immense canopy of red and yellow velvet, embroidered with Spanish escutcheons and supported on gold tipped lances. Awaiting the bridal party stood lines of halberdiers and palace guards.

HAD TWO NAMES

Man Known as Sullivan and Hayes

Today's police court session was a long drawn out affair but of not very great importance. The greater portion of the court's time was taken up with an assault and battery case of a minor nature.

HAD TWO NAMES.

John Sullivan pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with drunkenness. "This man was here under the name of John Hayes a few days ago," said Deputy Welch to the court.

"What is your right name?" asked the court.

"John Hayes," replied the defendant.

A suspended sentence was hanging over Hayes' alias Sullivan's head. The suspension was revoked and he was sentenced to the state farm.

OTHER DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Charles Gagnon, a parole man, was ordered in $20 to tomorrow morning. John P. Corcoran and George Lowrey were fined $6 each. The first offenders were fined $2 each.

FOR INDECENT ASSAULT.

The case of Edward J. Allen for alleged indecent assault was continued for one week. The complainant is a 15-year-old girl.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Marshal S. St. John, an East Merrimack street shoe dealer, was charged with assault and battery on Thomas Bodkin, a small boy. The boy claimed that Mr. St. John choked him until his throat was lamed to such an extent that he swallowed and talked with difficulty.

The defendant said that the boys had annoyed him many times and that on the day in question the complainant struck him in the face with a rotten potato. Mr. St. John said he grabbed the boy to hold him for the police, but that the boy got away from him. The defendant's testimony was corroborated by other witnesses.

The boy said he did not hit Mr. St. John with the potato and that the assault was unprovoked. Other boys who were with the complainant corroborated his testimony.

Included in the witnesses for the defendant was Patrolman Killoy who said he had been called on two occasions to the Bodkin home because of complaints made against the complainant. James E. O'Donnell appeared for the commonwealth and William A. Hogan for the defendant. Mr. St. John was found not guilty.

JOSEPH JENNINGS

JOSEPH JENNINGS, THE NEW POLICE COMMISSIONER TO SUCCEED JOHN R. SHEA.

Appointed Police Commissioner by Mayor

Capt. Joseph Jennings of hose 11 of the Lowell fire department, was today appointed police commissioner for six years to succeed Commissioner John R. Shea. Mr. Jennings will be the chairman of the board.

The following letter of appointment was delivered to Mr. Jennings this morning:

Lowell, Mass., May 31, 1906.

Mr. Joseph Jennings, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I hereby appoint you as a member of the board of police of the city of Lowell for the term of six years beginning the first Monday of June, 1906.

I hereby designate and appoint you as chairman of the said board of police of the city of Lowell.

Truly yours,
JAMES B. CASEY, Mayor.

Prior to the receipt of his appointment Mr. Jennings tendered his resignation as a member of the fire department to Assistant Chief James F. Norton, in the absence of Chief Hosmer.

Mr. Jennings came to Lowell 38 years ago and was appointed a call fireman on engine 1 in Gorham street and in 1875 was appointed a lieutenant of the same company. In 1888 he was made a permanent man and January 1, 1895, was transferred from engine 1 to hose 11 and made captain of the latter company, which position he has filled in an efficient manner until this morning when he tendered his resignation. He is 58 years of age and unmarried.

In conversation with a representative of The Sun this morning Mr. Jennings said: "I will insist on a thorough enforcement of the law and will endeavor to win the confidence and good will of my fellow citizens by my official acts."

He will be sworn into office Monday morning.

It is understood that John R. Shea will be appointed clerk of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Joseph Smith.

STATE HIGHWAY

Commissioners Grant No. Chelmsford $5000

FOR EXTENSION OF BOULEVARD

The Lowell & Fitchburg Road Opened Today

Selectman James P. Dunnigan of Chelmsford is the happiest man in the North village today for this morning the chairman of the board of selectmen received notice from the state highway commission to the effect that that body had appropriated $5000 for the continuation of the state highway from the Princeton boulevard across the village of North Chelmsford to the Tyngsboro line. Selectman Dunnigan has been at work to get this concession since he became a selectman over two years ago and had appeared three times before the state highway commission in behalf of the project.

NEW LINE OPENED.

The new Lowell & Fitchburg street railroad opened its line between North Chelmsford and Fitchburg, the first car leaving Ayer at 6 o'clock. The cars make the trip between North Chelmsford and Ayer in about 45 minutes. As yet the cars are not coming into Lowell but in a few days they will run from Merrimack square to Ayer Junction without change. The new company has agreed to build a branch line between North Chelmsford, West Chelmsford, Brookside and Westford post office, and must have the line as far as West Chelmsford in operation by August 1.

The new electric lights in Middlesex street, North Chelmsford, will be installed tomorrow. The lights will be operated between sunset and 1 o'clock a. m.

An adjourned meeting of the North village water district will be held at the town hall tonight to elect their water commissioners. A committee consisting of C. Frank Butterfield, Preston L. Piggott and John E. Hogan will prepare a ballot. The terms of the commissioners will be one, two and three years. The meeting will also vote upon the question of authorizing the chairman and treasurer of the water commissioners to issue bonds, notes or certificates of debt to pay all expenses legally incurred in installing the plant.

ONE COMPANY

BOARD OF TRADE OPPOSED TO TELEPHONE COMPETITION.

The directors of the board of trade at a well attended meeting Tuesday evening went on record as opposed to a competing telephone company in this city and instructed a committee to request the board of aldermen to give a public hearing on the matter before taking any action. President Walsh, Secretary McKenna, Jesse H. Shepard, Charles H. Conant, Henry A. Smith were appointed a committee to look into the matter further.

Secretary McKenna reported on the matter of new freight sheds on Maple street and Henry A. Smith on behalf of the committee that has in charge the organization of the business men against unprofitable advertising schemes, reported that the committee was diligently at work and was meeting with the greatest success among the business men who regarded the movement to be in the right direction. He also reported that the committee had decided on a small placard which will be distributed among the signers of the agreement for display in their place of business.

J. A. McEvoy and T. A. D. Sullivan were admitted to membership in the board.

NEARLY SUFFOCATED

Two Firemen Overcome at This Morning's Blaze

Assistant Engineer Charles Stackpole and Captain Daniel W. Hilliard of truck 2 in Westford street, had narrow escapes from being suffocated at a fire in a tenement house in Liberty street, the property of the Jonathan Hope estate, early this morning. They were overcome by the smoke and the heat and were in such a condition that it was necessary to remove them to their homes and secure doctors to attend them.

The fire, which had been burning for some time before being discovered, did considerable damage.

When the department arrived the flames were shooting through the rear of the house and the roof. The fire was the hottest in several chambers in the rear of the house and a blind attic and owing to the fact that the roof was slated and there were no openings the heat in the attic was intense.

The fire started in a large clothes closet, and before it was discovered worked its way up through a partition into the blind attic.

While fighting the flames in the attic Engineer Stackpole and Captain Hilliard were overcome and the former was taken to his home at 81 Liberty street by Harry Sanders, Chief Hosmer's driver, and Captain Hilliard was taken to his home, 29 Osgood street by the driver of his truck.

None of the occupants of the house seemed to know how the fire started, nor does Chief Hosmer.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building.

DR. WILLIAM BASS

Honored by the Physicians of Lowell

The physicians of Lowell to the number of 51, representing practically every school of medicine practiced in this city, assembled at the New American house last evening to do honor around the festive board to Dr. William Bass, upon the occasion of the 60th anniversary of his entrance into the practice of medicine. During the evening Dr. Bass was presented a handsome antique hall clock by the Middlesex North Medical society.

Dr. George H. Pillsbury presided and acted as toastmaster and speeches were made by Drs. J. B. Field, Leonard Huntress, Joe V. Meigs, John H. Nichols, Moses G. Parker, Herman J. Smith, T. F. Harrington, Owen P. Porter, T. B. Smith, T. G. McGannon and J. C. Irish.

Dr. Bass was the last speaker and he said in part:

"If I should undertake to answer all that has been said here tonight, we should not go home until morning. I am very grateful to you all for your words, your gift and your presence here. It shows you have no quarrel with me. We have got along together very well so far.

"I have been here practically 50 years. For two years I was away, but I returned and I have been plodding away, standing the wear and tear better than anyone has expected I could or than I myself thought.

"The timepiece is very good, but your friendship is better. I want to thank God for all He has done for me."

He concluded by offering a brief prayer that all present might be spared and blessed.

FUNERALS

McBRIDE—The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret McBride took place yesterday morning at 8.15 o'clock from the home of her son, William F. McBride, 70 Broadway. High mass of requiem was sung at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church, by Rev. Fr. Carney. The choir under the direction of Thomas F. Boulger rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory Mr. Boulger sang Lechuch's "Pie Jesu." At the conclusion of the service Miss Nano M. Gallagher rendered "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and as the remains were leaving the church "De Profundis." The bearers were: Messrs. Francis and William Powers, George Noonan and Albert Wilby. Rev. Fr. Carney officiated at the grave in St. Patrick's cemetery and the interment was in charge of C. H. Molloy & Sons.

McGOVERN'S BOUT

The Terror Showed His Old Time Form

NEW YORK, May 29.—Terry McGovern of Brooklyn [illegible] last night by his [illegible] against Jimmy Britt of California [illegible] tory club in the [illegible] the presence of [illegible] Britt was [illegible] to give [illegible] of the [illegible]

Immediately [illegible] the [illegible] were [illegible] with [illegible] pure fight.

McGovern [illegible] the [illegible] California.

McGovern [illegible] Britt [illegible] Brooklyn man.

[illegible] McGovern stuck to his old bulling style of fighting. There was a good deal of clinching, holding and mauling, and wherever the contestants broke away Terry had the better of it.

Britt [illegible] McGovern's head and face, but McGovern did [illegible] Terry [illegible] always on the alert for an opening to land a swing or hook, and got in a few which shook up the western fighter.

McGovern opened up a cut over Britt's right eye with a left hook in the second round and in each succeeding round the cut was reopened with jabs or hooks. Britt was bleeding from the nose, and McGovern's right eye was puffed up at the end of the sixth round.

It was a battle to finish all the way through and McGovern had the upper hand in every round but one, the opening round, in which honors were pretty even.

There was a lot of clinching and holding in the opening round, and the referee had a hard time pulling the men apart. McGovern got in a hard left on the body, and Britt hooked his left and right to the head. In the clinches McGovern had the call in landing short-arm blows. Britt offset these with left jabs, and the round was even.

Britt opened the second with a left to the body, and Terry sent a short right left to the head. Britt had the better of some exchanges on the body, and Terry hooked his left, [illegible] Britt's [illegible] Terry swung right to the head and landed two right hooks to the side of the head and neck. They were clinched at the bell.

An exchange of lefts in the third was followed by a clinch, [illegible] Terry [illegible] A hard left to the head [illegible] Britt [illegible] from two wild swings. Terry rushed him to the ropes, landing right and left to the face [illegible] body [illegible] Britt [illegible] left to the face, and Terry, [illegible] both hands to the [illegible] Britt [illegible] left to the face at the bell.

The final round found [illegible] the pace. After a clinch both [illegible] and left to the head [illegible] Terry had the upper hand [illegible] Terry [illegible] swing [illegible] left hook [illegible] were fighting at close quarters when the [illegible] ended the fight.

UP TO GOVERNOR

Supreme Court's Decision in Tucker Case

BOSTON, May 29.—Whether petitions [illegible] the [illegible] of death [illegible] governor [illegible] with [illegible] court on [illegible] petition for [illegible] saving the death [illegible] of Charles L. Tucker, convicted [illegible] Mabel Page, to the [illegible]

[illegible] the case [illegible] Tucker who [illegible] petition must necessarily [illegible] to the council and cannot [illegible] by the governor alone.

[illegible] decision of the supreme court [illegible] In great part it consists of a review of the constitution [illegible] which relate to [illegible] powers of the governor [illegible] in cases of petitions for [illegible] commutation of sentence [illegible] court expressed the opinion that [illegible] definitely recognize the [illegible] act of pardon or commutation to be the act of the governor [illegible] that of the council which is [illegible] advisory body.

[illegible] conclusion of the governor, the court holds, must rest finally upon his own judgment, although he may seek [illegible] he may think of assistance. If the governor does not deem it his duty to exercise the power of pardon or commutation he has no occasion to seek advice of his council. If, however, he should consult the council and the council should [illegible] to pardon or commute [illegible] his duty to act [illegible] should think that he [illegible] however, the [illegible] that the governor should [illegible] before the [illegible] pardon or commutation [illegible] of the [illegible] court says [illegible] whether [illegible] attempt the exercise of the power of pardon that he [illegible] method of reaching [illegible] without submitting the [illegible] to the council."

Governor Guild announced that he would receive [illegible] council [illegible] H. Vahey and Charles [illegible] p. m. today in connection with [illegible] petition for commutation of Tucker's sentence. Tucker's [illegible] commutation on the [illegible] discovered evidence [illegible] the defendant [illegible] that the governor will now pass [illegible] his original intention [illegible] interrupted pending a legal decision on the question of the power of the executive council and will [illegible] Sheldon and Sherman [illegible] the Tucker trial, to pass upon the [illegible] in possession of the prison [illegible] ney. FAVORS LOCK CANAL

Exhaustive Report Sent to the Senate

WASHINGTON, May 29.—In recommendation of the construction of a lock canal across the isthmus of Panama the minority of the senate committee on interoceanic canals has drafted an exhaustive report which was submitted to the senate today by Chairman Millard.

One of the chief arguments made in favor of a lock canal is that [illegible] that congress intended that should be the type [illegible] the authority to decide was [illegible] upon the president, [illegible] minority says.

The president having taken the advice of competent engineers and of the canal commission has recommended that it is advisable to construct a lock canal.

The minority declares that the only question presented is whether congress shall annul the action of the president or shall simply hold its hand and allow the president to exercise the power which has heretofore been conferred upon him. The canal type proposed by the minority of the board of consulting engineers is the lock canal, which is the type favored by the majority of the senate committee.

The report states that the plan is well balanced for it will take just about the same time to construct the dam [illegible] for the locks and build the locks as it does to make the [illegible] excavation through the Culebra cut, a period of not more than seven and a half years.

In answer to the objection to having locks placed in flight, the minority says that locks thus arranged in flight or in steps, so to speak, are no more of an experiment than a single lock."

Transformation of a lock system into a sea level one, the report says, could be effected without interfering with the traffic in the local canal and at an estimated cost of $[illegible]. The cost of maintenance of the lock canal is estimated at $[illegible] a year.

A large part of the report is devoted [illegible] which, it says [illegible] of controlling the water [illegible] This would be done by the construction of [illegible] dams [illegible] the sea level canal [illegible] and the shores of Limon bay.

The minority says there is no reason for supposing that [illegible] earth and that this would be the most effective way of preventing injury to the canal in time of war.

Incorporated in the report of the minority are two letters from Frederic P. Stearns of Boston, one of the American engineers who signed the report in favor of a lock canal and a statement by Charles Derleth, Jr., professor of structural engineering in the University of California at Berkeley, on the subject of earthquake damages in California recently. The report says it was shown that the reservoir dams and the buildings constructed properly of masonry were uninjured. Mr. Stearns declares that fears expressed for the canal works at Panama are fanciful in the extreme.

Estimates made by the majority as to the cost of the sea level canal are disputed by the minority which declares that the cost will be [illegible] instead of $[illegible].

POWERS AGREE

To Increase in Turkish Customs Duties

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 29.—The representatives of the powers in a collective note sent yesterday to the Turkish government have agreed in principle to a three per cent. increase in the customs duties for a period of seven years, provided Turkey fulfills the stipulations of the powers regarding the enforcement of the mining law, the reform of the customs service and the suspension of the objectionable regulations for the storage of petroleum and guarantees the correct collection of dues and the assignment of [illegible] amounts collected to make up the deficit in the Macedonian budget.

STARTED TODAY

ON RACE TO BERMUDA FOR THE LIPTON CUP.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The two [illegible] yawls Lila and Tamerlane which withdrew from the race to Bermuda for the Lipton cup after the Lila's mast was broken on Saturday, made a fresh start today. In the meantime a new mast was stepped in the Lila and the owner of the Tamerlane waited for his crippled rival to be refitted.

As the Gauntlet continued the race on Saturday she ought now to be half way to Bermuda if no mishap has befallen her.

A FLAT REFUSAL

The Railroads Will Not Increase Wages

CHICAGO, May 29.—The [illegible] gave their first definite answer [illegible] to the demands of the [illegible] for an increase in wages [illegible] was a flat refusal. While only two of the roads, the Rock Island and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois, disclosed their position, their action is believed to be indicative of the stand which the others will take.

Committees chosen from [illegible] in the Rock Island freight houses were told the company was willing to [illegible] the wage scales of last year [illegible] in pay. In view of the [illegible] the railroad business [illegible] The offer [illegible] promptly was [illegible] by the men.

An attempt was made by the officials of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad company to induce the employes to [illegible] individual demands.

EIGHT HOUR BILL

Favored by Committee on Labor

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The house committee on labor today authorized a favorable report on the eight-hour bill. Chairman Gardner of New Jersey said there was no opposing vote.

DIVORCE CASES

Before Judge Hitchcock in Court Today

The superior court opened this morning with [illegible] attendance of men and women awaiting the divorce [illegible]

The first case called, however, [illegible] of Elizabeth Mary Ann [illegible] Thomas J. Johnston of County Derry, Ireland, vs. [illegible] Hoover, public administrator, and [illegible] of the Roxbury Institution for [illegible] It appears that a woman [illegible] Catharine or Caroline or [illegible] died intestate, leaving [illegible] representing goodly [illegible] which passed to the public administrator [illegible] The Taylor woman had [illegible] Ireland [illegible] Johnston and [illegible] these parties [illegible] During [illegible] Mrs. Taylor deposited money [illegible] for her sister's [illegible] was shown by letters which had passed between the parties [illegible] them she stated that she [illegible] the deposits while alive [illegible] the income to Ireland [illegible] After her death the [illegible] to get possession of the money which still lies in the bank [illegible] claims.

At the conclusion of this case the [illegible] contested divorce [illegible] were [illegible] the first case was that of Arkain [illegible] for nullity vs. Arkain. Lawyer [illegible] for the petitioner. The services of an interpreter were necessary. Dr. Arkain testified that he married [illegible] Arkain Oct. 12, [illegible]. He had known his wife only a week previously and had been in the country only eight months. He lived with his wife four months when he left her upon making [illegible] unpleasant discovery. His wife afterward went to Canada. The friend who introduced him to his wife, he said, assured him that she was a good decent girl, but it developed later that the friend was trying to get him to marry the girl.

The fact was brought out that at the time of their marriage Arkain and his wife had no common language, Arkain being unable to talk English.

A brother of Arkain gave testimony as did Dr. Mary Trudeau.

Jennie M. Savage of Newton Centre asked a release from her husband, Frank S. Savage whom she has not seen for seven years. When she last saw him she had him arrested for beating her and he was fined and put under bonds to keep the peace. She admitted that she had had cases since he left. Her husband was a marble cutter before she married him, but he never did much of anything but drink. A Mrs. McKinley testified that Mr. Savage has been living with another woman and had been writing letters to young girls, while an insurance man testified that he had never seen the husband at the house.

When all the testimony was in Judge Hitchcock remarked: "Have you [illegible] desertion?"

Lawyer J. J. Foley, who appeared for Mrs. Savage called attention to the fact that Savage left his wife seven years ago.

"But she practically drove him out!" said the court.

The witnesses were recalled to testify the husband and then the [illegible] was called.

Mrs. McKinley seemed so positive in her statements that the court remarked: "Have you any particular interest in this case?"

"Not any, except that I want to see a woman get her rights."

Mr. John L. Gray, whose troubles with William Manning were rehearsed at yesterday's session would like it understood that he did not show a knife to Mr. Manning before entering the court room but he admits that he informed Mr. Manning that if the latter ever pulled a gun on him he would cut him to pieces. It is quite evident that relations between Messrs. Gray and Manning are somewhat strained.

The court has accepted the resignation of Walter Adams of Framingham as auditor in the cases of Cawley vs. the City of Lowell and will appoint another auditor next Tuesday unless the counsel agree upon an auditor in the meantime.

PLEDGED TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER.

It is not often, either in Lowell or outside of Lowell, that a residence of the character and cost of the E. L. White place, Nesmith, corner of Sherman street, is advertised under a signed pledge of absolute sale to the highest bona fide bidder. The estate has actually cost $[illegible], and every dollar of value that has been put into the property is there today.

There is not a house in Lowell like it, neither is there one that even approaches it in the characteristics deemed essential in the homes of persons of wealth and refinement in New York or Boston; some of the most expert artisans in the country were employed in its development. It is the one residence in the city of Lowell of its type. To go through the house, using only an ordinary degree of observation, one must be more or less astounded and charmed, first with its substantial massiveness, next with its luxurious and elegant effects, then with its artistic appointments and remarkably convenient arrangement. From the moment you enter until you leave the impression of wealth and culture is constant. While the structure has much size, the finish and division is such as to destroy all disappointing effects of size.

The construction is so perfect that it is surprisingly economical to maintain. Should the property sell for one-third, one-quarter, or even one-fifth of its cost, would the purchase of it be as rare an occurrence as the property is exceptional? Mr. Conant would be very much pleased to answer any and all inquiries relating to the sale of the property.

APPROPRIATION BILL

Estimates of Amounts Needed For Different Work

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 29.—The sundry civil appropriation bill was completed and Chairman Tawney was authorized by the appropriations committee to report it to the house today. It is the largest sundry civil bill ever reported, carrying $94,316,575, of which $25,[illegible] is for work on the Panama canal. The amount carried is $11,[illegible] less than the estimates from the various departments. The canal appropriation is to be reimbursed to the treasury from the proceeds of the sales of [illegible] bonds which have been authorized to the aggregate amount of $[illegible].

Including the canal appropriation the bill carries $14,721,980 more than the current sundry civil act.

For river and harbor work heretofore authorized and contracted for there is appropriated $17,318,576, which is $6,[illegible] in excess of the amount available this year.

For new public buildings heretofore authorized and the repair of buildings $[illegible] is appropriated, a reduction of $[illegible] from the current appropriation under this head.

Among the canal items are:

Pay of officers and employes on the isthmus other than skilled and unskilled laborers, $3,328,088. Skilled labor on the isthmus, $5,593,020. Unskilled labor on the isthmus, $4,148,439.

Purchase and delivery of supplies and equipment on the isthmus, $10,371,-[illegible].

Loan to the Panama railroad for new equipment, $1,000,000.

A printing reform is inaugurated by requirements that no money appropriated in the bill shall be used to maintain branch printing offices in any executive department in Washington; that the plants of such branch offices shall be turned over to the public printer within 90 days after the passage of the bill and that hereafter detailed estimates for printing must be transmitted to congress from each department.

The bill provides for the appointment by the attorney general if the secretary of the treasury desires of a solicitor of customs at an annual salary of $5000 and assistant solicitors at salaries of $[illegible].

The bill will probably be called up for consideration in the house Thursday.

Some of the more important items of appropriation are:

Construction of vessels under revenue cutter service $270,000, increase $170,000.

Construction of national museum building in Washington, D. C., $500,000.

For the interstate commerce commission, $575,000, an increase of $10,000. This increase is to the fund of $75,000 to enable the commission to keep informed regarding compliance with the act to promote the safety of employes and travelers on railroads. In addition to the regular fund of $249,000 for general expenses there is transferred $[illegible] from the so-called anti-trust fund under the department of justice.

Public health and marine hospital service $1,182,000.

Quarantine service, $[illegible].

Prevention of epidemics, $316,000, which includes an unexpended balance of about $[illegible].

Bureau of fisheries $670,970, reduction of $[illegible].

For enforcement of the Chinese exclusion act the appropriation is reduced from $[illegible] to $[illegible].

Construction of the office building for the house of representatives $[illegible].

Expense of collection of revenue from sales of public lands $[illegible].

Surveying the public lands $[illegible].

United States geological survey $1,-[illegible], reduction of $[illegible].

Armories and arsenals $[illegible], increase $[illegible].

Expenses of the executive mansion $[illegible], increase $[illegible].

Construction of buildings at military post $[illegible], reduction $150,000.

Improvement of the Yellowstone National Park $55,000, reduction of $75,-000.

National military parks, $196,000.

National home for disabled volunteer soldiers, $4,292,441, increase of $[illegible].

Continuing aid to state and territorial homes for the support of disabled volunteer soldiers $1,[illegible], increase $[illegible].

Payment due on pay of bounty to volunteer soldiers, including volunteers in the war with Spain, $[illegible], increase $[illegible].

Expenses of United States courts $[illegible], increase $[illegible].

Department of agriculture building $[illegible].

Public printing and binding $[illegible], reduction $[illegible].

New York city custom house, $[illegible]; court house and post office, $[illegible]; rent of old custom house building $[illegible].

San Francisco, Cal., custom house $[illegible].

River and harbor improvements, Boston, Mass., $[illegible].

St. Mary's river, Mich., $[illegible].

Delaware river, Pa., and New Jersey, $[illegible].

Mississippi river commission improvements, $2,000,000.

Ohio river below Pittsburg, care of [illegible], $1,281,576. Locks No. 8 and 11, $[illegible].

Patapsco river, Md., $[illegible].

Sabine and Naches river, Texas, $411,-[illegible].

International waterways commission $20,000.

Mount Ranier national park, $30,000.

Publication of records of the Philippine insurrection $15,000.

The appropriations for public buildings include the following: Providence, R. I., $20,000.

Appropriations for river and harbor improvements include Portland, Me., $40,-000; Bridgeport, Conn., $72,500; New Haven, Conn., $[illegible]; Kennebec river, Me., $15,-000; Honolulu, Hawaii, $[illegible]; Lynn, Mass., $97,537; Harbor of Refuge, Point Judith, R. I., $100,000; Providence river and harbor, R. I., $75,000; Harbor of Refuge, Sandy Bay, Cape Ann, Mass., $100,000; Woods Hole channel, Mass., $100,-000.

How's Your Hair?

Falls & Burkinshaw Announce That They Have at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Lowell that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years. We refer to the prescription of Sir Erasmus Wilson, M.D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was knighted for his many successes in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson, this prescription was secured by American chemists and is now offered to the public under the name Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow hair on bald heads even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornelia Stevens, 6 Smith avenue, Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff scales or any scalp troubles, try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. The "Allenburys" Malted Food No. 3
Allenburys Milk Food No. 1
Allenburys Milk Food No. 2
Allen & Hanburys LONDON

The 'Allenburys' Foods

For Infant Feeding

The 'ALLENBURYS' Milk Food No. 1	For infants from birth to three months of age. This food is the nearest approach to human milk that it is possible to produce, and has been found to be as easily digested and assimilated. It can therefore be used alone, or alternately with the breast without fear of upsetting the child's stomach.
The 'ALLENBURYS' Milk Food No. 2	For infants from three to six months of age. Comprises the same elements as the "No. 1 Food" with the addition of certain other properties which experience proves to be required at this period of development—not only to supply the increasing demands of the child, but also to give a needed stimulus to the powers of assimilation.
The 'ALLENBURYS' Malted Food No. 3	For use after six months of age. Unlike "No. 1" and "No. 2" which, being milk foods, require the addition of water only; this is a partially predigested farinaceous food needing the addition of fresh cow's milk in preparing it for use, and is provided to meet the still further requirements of the child at this age.

This "series" of three foods is so graded that each affords the maximum amount of nourishment, which, at the period for which it is intended, the organs of the child can digest and assimilate with perfect ease. The great success attending the use of these "Foods" is due, not only to the close resemblance of the "Milk Foods" to human milk, but also in a large measure to the fact that 'The Allenburys' Series of Foods change like the mother's milk—according to the growing needs and requirements of the child.

The 'Allenburys' Foods are sold by all druggists—ask your dealer for book on "Infant Feeding and Management." If he cannot supply you write us and we will mail you a copy free.

SENSATIONAL CASE

Bank President Charged With Dual Life

NEW YORK, May 29.—Constant A. Andrews, president of the United States savings bank, former president of the United States Realty company, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, of the American Museum of Natural History and of the New York Botanical Gardens and whose wife is related by marriage to President Roosevelt, has been named as co-respondent in a sensational suit for absolute divorce brought by Frank Klemme, a bookkeeper living at No. 225 North Greenwich street, Philadelphia, against his wife Anna M. Klemme.

The case presents astonishing complications. In the divorce papers Mrs. Klemme is charged with living at the Andrews residence, No. 237 Madison avenue, and there posing as housekeeper. And it was disclosed last night that Mrs. Blanche Vance Andrews, wife of the millionaire co-respondent, was in the same house, under treatment for mental delusions, until yesterday, when she was mysteriously removed to a retreat on the Hudson.

Mrs. John Ellis Roosevelt, of No. [illegible] Madison avenue, sister of Mrs. Andrews, and whose husband is a cousin of President Roosevelt, was greatly exercised last night when she was apprised of the divorce action, and declared that legal steps would at once be taken to protect her sister's interests.

"Constant A. Andrews has wrecked my sister's life," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "and I am shocked beyond measure at the conditions said to exist at the Andrews home. The town house at No. 237 Madison avenue is owned by Mrs. Andrews and if the facts as described in the divorce papers are correct, our family will take immediate action to separate my sister from the influence of her husband. Her large estate is now held in trust by my husband and her attorneys.

"I have known for some time past that Mr. Andrews has had a young woman of a vivid type of beauty living at the house where my sister resides; but I naturally never dreamed of the true situation. I recall that the young woman's name is Mrs. Klemme. I understand that she was a nurse prior to her coming to my sister's house. She is a very handsome woman, with very red cheeks, light blue eyes and wavy dark hair.

"It is terrible to think that my sister, who is unable to comprehend any unusual situation, has been placed in such a terrible position."

The serving of the papers in the divorce action upon Mrs. Klemme, who is a young and strikingly handsome woman of twenty-eight, came as a dramatic climax to the arraignment of her husband before Magistrate Steinert in Yorkville police court yesterday, whither he had been haled by Mrs. Klemme on charges of abandonment.

CHILDREN ILL

POISON HID IN CASTOR OIL BEAN.

NEW YORK, May 29.—A philanthropic young merchant wandered through Norfolk street yesterday afternoon selling pleasant tasting beans to all who could procure pennies to pay for them. Fortunately for the children of the neighborhood pennies were scarce. The attractive particles of candy were nothing more than castor oil beans covered over with sugar and browned.

Between Stanton and Houston streets about fifty of the beans were sold and in a short time as many children were ill and some went into convulsions.

Physicians called were nonplussed until Dr. Lewisohn, of No. 226 East Tenth street, attending Ida Miller, aged nine, and the two small daughters of Jacob Rapport, at No. 179 Norfolk street, found in the hand of one the remains of a bean. He recognized it at once as the crude bean, which contains a violent poison. A few of them would be a fatal dose to a grown man.

He had hardly rescued his first patient when he was implored by other mothers to rush to the side of their little ones. Other doctors were called and they had hard work to save the many lives that had been jeopardized. The sufferers could not at first tell where they had secured the beans, but later declared a man had sold them from a basket. The police found some of the beans in front of 187 Norfolk street.

RATE BILL

MANY AMENDMENTS AGREED TO TENTATIVELY.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—At a two hours' session of the conferees on the railroad rate bill today, a number of undisputed amendments were agreed to tentatively, all of the disputed points were passed over and considerable time was devoted to a discussion of the so-called "Jim Crow" car provision. This amendment has given the republican conferees some concern because of the opposition made by northern negroes against the alleged principal involved in the separation of the races. Senator Tillman announced that he would not consent to any change in the senate provision.

GIRL ADRIFT

SHE AND ESCORT TWO DAYS ON STORM-SWEPT SOUND.

NEW YORK, May 29.—After having been adrift on Long Island Sound since Sunday morning, when they started out sailing in an open catboat, a pretty girl and a young man made a landing at New Rochelle last evening, nearly exhausted from hunger and exposure.

The couple would not tell who they were. It is learned they hired a boat on Sunday morning at Capt. Tom Weber's ship yard and started out for a sail, but the Sound became so rough they lost control of the boat and finally had to take turns at bailing to keep from sinking.

They struggled for nearly 24 hours, and several times Sunday night barely escaped being run down by the big Sound steamers. When they landed at New Rochelle their clothes were soaking wet.

The first thing the young man did after landing was to call a cab and drive his companion to a drug store. Here he had the clerks mix a prescription for her. The girl was a tall brunette, and wore a light shirt-waist. She looked to be about nineteen years old.

She hurried away to New York, without waiting to change her clothing, as she said she feared her parents would be prostrated from worry over her.

TERRANOVA CASE

Trial of Accused Girl Resumed

NEW YORK, May 29.—The trial of Josephine Terranova, charged with the murder of her aunt, Mrs. Concetta Reggio, which had been suspended for several days pending the investigation of her sanity was resumed today before Justice Scott in the supreme court. The commission appointed to ascertain whether Mrs. Terranova is insane reported to the court that while the girl formerly had hallucinations as to her conduct in killing her uncle and aunt and still has them, she is able, in their opinion, to consult and advise with her counsel as to the progress of her trial. As such a condition satisfied the requirements of the law the trial proceeded.

WILL ATTEND RECEPTION TO THE LONGWORTHS.

LONDON, May 29.—The visit of Congressman Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Longworth to London will be marked by a number of interesting social gatherings, not the least of which will be a reception and dinner at Dorchester House, the residence of Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, a week after their arrival which, it is understood, King Edward has promised to attend.

MEMORIAL DAY.

We seek for sweet violets
In woodland and dale,
And gather bright flowers
From hillside and vale,
To twine them in garlands
To place on each grave,
As a token of love for
Our true and our brave.

Lilies and roses and violets blue,
We scatter their fragrance
With reverence due.
We ask not how lowly
Or what was the creed,
We know all were heroes
In action and deed.

Ah, well may they rest in
The long silent sleep
As ages roll by children's Children will keep Fresh in their memory
With pride and with joy
The deeds and the doings of
Our brave soldier boy.

BITTER FIGHT

FOR THE GOVERNORSHIP OF TENNESSEE.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May [illegible].—Soon after the democratic gubernatorial convention was called to order today, a wrangle arose over the selection of temporary chairman and at 1 o'clock pandemonium reigned in the convention hall. The campaign for the democratic nomination for governor has been the most bitter this state has known in recent years. John I. Cox, who succeeded to the governorship when Gov. Frazier was elected senator to succeed the late Gen. W. B. Bate, started for nomination and is opposed by Congressman M. R. Patterson of Memphis and Judge John K. J. W. ALEXANDER

SAILED SECRETLY FOR GENOA TEN DAYS AGO

NEW YORK, May 29.—James W. Alexander, former president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, it was disclosed last night, has been on the ocean for ten days, having sailed from Boston under an assumed name on a vessel of the Cunard line, for Genoa, where he should land in a day or so.

Every possible precaution for secrecy was observed in cloaking the movements of the man whose mind and health failed under the exposures of the insurance scandals, and who has been in a quiet retreat, cut off from everyone but near relatives, for several months, and so well was the secret of his departure from Europe kept that the fact that he had sailed nine days before did not leak out until yesterday.

From Genoa, where he will be joined by his physician, Dr. Pearce L. Bailey, who sailed from New York, Mr. Alexander will go to Munich for treatment by the foremost European specialists in mental diseases.

He was examined here by alienists, who decided that he would be benefited by a particular treatment administered at Bloomingdale, but his family objected to the publicity that would attach should he go to that asylum, and he was slipped away to Europe from Deerfield, Mass., in charge of a male nurse and attendant.

If his condition shows improvement after his visits to Munich and Dresden Mr. Alexander will make a trip around the world before he returns to this country, and his friends have hopes that all his faculties will be restored.

By J. E. CONANT & CO. - Auctioneers

OFFICE: LOWELL, MASS.

Today, May 31, at 5 O'Clock

The E. L. White residence, numbered 209 Nesmith street, is to be sold for what it will bring. One of the finest residences in Lowell is herewith pledged without limit or reserve of any kind whatsoever to the highest bona fide bidder at absolute auction sale.

Mr. White has decided not to return to Lowell. He has recently purchased a residence on Beacon street, Boston, and is now removing the last of his personal effects from his former Lowell home. The house is well known as the brick and sandstone mansion on Nesmith street at the corner of Sherman street. It is a question if there has ever been erected in Lowell a more expensive or elegantly finished residence of its size. It is like a luxurious Boston or New York home in character and style. The architecture is most pleasing and the appointments artistic and dignified. The expenditures upon this property have equalled $50,000. Few people who have not entered, or been through the house, realize its exceptional beauty and rare attractiveness. In outside appearance its combination of brick, sandstone and shingled frame-work, all resting upon granite, are very effective. In its construction and arrangement the extravagant expenditure of money is everywhere evident, even to the casual observer.

The first floor, with a single exception, is finished throughout in oak; the floors being inlaid in quartered oak. The hall is in the centre and around it all the apartments enter much after the style of early Colonial days; at one end is the large vestibule; a portion of the hall is finished to the height of the structure; here the walls are adorned with mural painting; from the stairway, reaching to the second floor, is a spacious balcony landing. The first floor has a massive reception hall; drawing room; library finished in mahogany; smoking room opening on balcony; breakfast room, dining room finished in green Flemish oak with metal leaf ceiling and opening on large piazza; butler's pantry; pantries; dumb waiter; toilet rooms, and servants' dining room. In the hall and in each room are large, deep fire places, for use.

The second floor has a large hall finished in oak, with inlaid oak floor; seven large chambers or dressing rooms, these rooms are so arranged that their circuit can be made without entering the hall, and five of them are corner rooms; three bath rooms of elaborate design and equipment; four open fire places, and an unusual number of excellent closets or storerooms with chests of drawers and cupboards built within them.

The third floor, with slight exception, is finished throughout in natural wood. It has large hall in centre. The handsome billiard or music room, opening onto two balconies, is on this floor, and was finished with an inside balcony and arranged with footlights, for the purpose of private theatricals. There is also a square chamber and two very large corner rooms, one used as a children's play room and gymnasium. Also a toilet room and several storage rooms and large closets for the careful hanging away of apparel and things.

The basement is finished throughout in natural wood and brick. There is a large kitchen; butler's room; bath room; hall, boiler room, tool room; and immense storage for coal. Also laundry; wine and vegetable rooms, and three entrances one being by servants' piazza. Under the [illegible] is a cellar.

The residence is lighted by electricity and heated by an Ingalls & Kendricken system of indirect radiation. The distribution of [illegible] leaded glass was accomplished with much taste. The approach is over a brick terrace and through a brownstone arch. About two years ago there was a slight inside fire in the southeast corner of the structure. Since then the premises have been put in perfect condition inside, with the expectation of Mr. White's returning, and the property is now in perfect condition inside and out, with the slight exception of a few places needing [illegible]

The lot has a frontage on Nesmith street of 92 ft., a frontage on Sherman street of 170 ft., and a total area of 14,836 square feet. It is up above the grade of the streets, and is laid down in lawn and slopes to the sidewalks. Scattered about are several shade trees, including [illegible], weeping, birch and magnolia.

Adjoining the lot and on Sherman street at the corner of Porter Terrace, is a lot of land 54x52 feet. This lot is now fenced as part of the White premises. The purchaser of the residence and 14,836 square feet of land will have the option at the sale of taking this lot at 20 cents per square foot, if he takes advantage of the option immediately after the first lot is struck off; otherwise it will be then and there put up to the highest bidder.

The purchaser of the first lot must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $250 just as soon as the lot is struck off.

The purchaser of the second lot must deposit with or secure to the auctioneers $250 just as soon as the lot is struck off.

Two-thirds of the purchase money (possibly more) on the first lot, may remain upon mortgage for three years, if the purchaser so desires, with interest at the rate of four per cent. per annum.

The sale will take place upon the premises, regardless of any conditions of the weather, on Thursday, the 31st day of May, 1906, commencing promptly at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The residence will be open for inspection and examination after 10 o'clock in the forenoon the Tuesday and Wednesday next preceding the day of sale, or before on application at the office of the auctioneers, where all inquiries should be made.

NEAR TO DEATH

Aeronaut Had a Narrow Escape

IN A POOL OF QUICKSANDS

Friends Managed to Save His Life

NEW YORK, May 29.—A piece of wood left lying at the side of a railroad track yesterday was the humble instrument which saved a human life and kept from the annals of aerial navigation the record of another dramatic death like that of Paul Nocquet.

Professor Archie Griffen, a fervid follower of aeronautics, had searched a week for his huge balloon, which had slipped its ropes and sailed away. He located the silk back out in a marsh between Passaic and the Hackensack river, N. J.

The balloon had escaped on May 20, after the professor had made an ascent from Hillside Park, N. J. It swung into the air and swished off. It was flung hither and thither by the air currents until lost to sight.

The professor and friends hunted all over the district without result. Yesterday a telephone message called them to the marshes. A hunter from the Greenwood Lake section of the Erie railroad met them. The silk billows were seen rising from the water of the marsh.

The hunter pleaded with Griffen to get a boat. The professor was eager beyond discretion. He waded in. He managed to get far beyond reach of his companions and then began the frightful experience. Inch by inch the man's body sank. He fought like a lion to get free, but every time he moved the pressure became greater and he sank deeper.

The men on shore were frantic. They ran here and there, wringing their hands like women. It would have been fatuous for them to have followed the professor. They probably could not have got out to him, being much heavier than he.

Alongside the railway track, a short distance away, lay the discarded piece of wood. The hunter called down blessings upon the head of the man who had thrown that thin plank away. He raced back with it, and holding one end, splashed the other into the water. It just reached Griffen. The aeronaut flung himself on the end and gripped it with the strength of a drowning man. Inch by inch, minute by minute, the prey of the quagmire was pulled to shore. His muscles stretched, his tendons ached; but he clung on until with a last jerk he was sprawled upon the bank where he lay almost senseless. Hot drinks, folds of warm woolen garments and massage were resorted to, and it is believed Griffen will suffer no ill effects from his adventure. The balloon was rescued later by men in a row boat.

The death of Nocquet was caused by practically the same agency as that which imperilled Griffen. Nocquet, at night, dropped on the edge of a marsh on Long Island with his balloon. Miles off lights twinkled in houses. He struggled forward bravely, always being lured by those lights, which seemed near, yet were far. His body was found on a little oasis of comparatively firm land to which through long stretches of quagmire he had made his way, only to fall fainting there and be drowned in the rising tide.

REVOLUTIONISTS

Driven Back Across the Mexican Border

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Guatemalan revolutionists who attacked Ocos have been driven back across the Mexican border, but small parties of revolutionists are appearing at various other points along the Mexican boundary and threatening the Guatemalan government. This information was contained in a despatch received at the state department today from Mr. Combs, the American minister to Guatemala and Honduras.

Mr. Munoz, the Guatemalan minister had a long conference today with Secretary Root. He sought to get information of the revolutionary movement in this country. So far he has had no advices whatever concerning the movement against President Cabrera.

There is nothing in despatches Secretary Root has received which shows that the lives and property of American citizens are in danger and no steps have been taken to send a warship to Ocos.

POOL SELLING

GOV. GUILD SAYS LAW MUST BE OBEYED.

BOSTON, May 29.—Instructions to enforce the law relating to the subject of pool selling at race tracks in the state were given to Chief Shaw of the Massachusetts police today by Governor Guild in consequence of a hearing given at the state house today to several clergymen and prominent laymen headed by William Shaw, treasurer of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Governor Guild instructed Chief Shaw to communicate with the local authorities in the several cities and towns where pool selling is alleged to exist and if those officials were unable to enforce the law the governor said he expected the state police to do it.

FOURTH OF JULY

City Council Voted to Appropriate $3000

Both branches of the city council met Tuesday night in [illegible] and passed an order calling [illegible] of $3,000 for the observance of [illegible] of July. The order [illegible] Councilman Leighton met [illegible] in the lower board, but [illegible] was introduced in the upper [illegible] it went through both [illegible] with flying colors.

THE ALDERMEN

It was five minutes [illegible] o'clock when Chairman W[illegible] called the board of aldermen to order and all were present, but Alderman D[illegible] who is confined to his bed.

The order to borrow $[illegible] for improvements for the fire department was voted. Of the sum [illegible] for the Dahill [illegible] apparatus for the Babcock truck, $[illegible] for five life nets and $[illegible] for four new fire alarm boxes.

At this point an intermission of [illegible] minutes was voted but the ten minutes stretched to thirty before [illegible] board reconvened and when [illegible] Alderman Crosby introduced an order to borrow $3,000 for the observance of July 4. The order provided for [illegible] committee consisting of three aldermen, five councilmen and the mayor.

The order for a loan of $[illegible] for the lands and buildings department was read and adopted. The money is to be used for the [illegible] street [illegible] stables, fire escapes on high school and the Dracut rifle range.

[illegible] Alderman Allen [illegible] Monday, June 1[illegible]. [illegible] was read and [illegible] to the committee on lands and buildings.

Prior to the adjournment of the meeting Alderman [illegible] spoke of the amount of time that was [illegible] in getting the [illegible] the calling of the [illegible].

Adjourned at [illegible] o'clock.

COMMON COUNCIL

When President Harry H. [illegible] called the council to order [illegible] answered to their names.

[illegible] Mahoney moved [illegible] order relating to the fire department [illegible] be taken from the [illegible] and it was so voted. Councilman [illegible] asked for information relative to [illegible] losing their position in the fire department if the new Dahill apparatus was voted. Councilman H[illegible] stated that such would not be the fact but it would mean the making of the central station truck company a permanent one and the transfer of the call men of that company to another.

An invitation to [illegible] St. John's day parade was read and accepted.

The joint order for a joint convention to elect a commissioner for the Huntington hall board, was read and adopted.

A joint order to borrow $3000 for the observance of July 4, introduced by Councilman Cheney, was read. It provided also for a committee of five from the council and three from the aldermen together with the mayor.

Councilman Leighton expressed the belief that Lowell people generally wanted an observance, and he thought that such observance would mean thousands of dollars to merchants. The letting of lots on the South common would bring about $1[illegible], meaning that the loan order would involve only $1[illegible].

The vote was then taken and seventeen voted in favor and seven against, there being one vote shy of the two-thirds and the order was declared lost.

Councilman Carr moved for immediate reconsideration. A second vote on the question of adopting the order showed the same result, 17 to 7. Councilman Cheney, who fathered the previous order, [illegible] to have the [illegible] for a celebration [illegible].

The [illegible] order for an [illegible] was adopted in concurrence.

The order transferring the care of the city [illegible] from the [illegible] department to the park commission came up and was adopted in concurrence.

[illegible]

Upon reconsideration the July 4 order [illegible] by Councilman Cheney, who [illegible] the place of President [illegible]. The order [illegible] passed by a vote [illegible] Councilman Cheney being [illegible].

SMOKE NUISANCE

Some Facts From Other Cities

Following are some extracts from a [illegible] on the smoke nuisance:

Sir Henry De La Beche and Dr. Lyon Playfair reported to Lord Canning, in [illegible] "[illegible] the [illegible] combustion [illegible] of [illegible] consequence of [illegible]."

William M. Barr, [illegible] engineer, [illegible] says: "In the ordinary boiler furnace, with flat grate, a nearly smokeless fire can be maintained by breaking up the coal and coking it immediately inside the fire door so that the gases will distill from the coal slowly."

A. H. Mott, member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Society of Chemical Industry and American Chemical Society, in [illegible] the smoke nuisance says, in part: "Feed small coal, feed it even, and at regular intervals to prevent smoke."

Mr. Bangs, of Bangs & Wells, real estate, says: "By practical experience we find that it is possible to do away with the smoke in all the buildings for which we are agents are equipped with smoke consumers, for instance, the Old South building, the Jewelers' building, the Warthrop building and several other large buildings in Boston and vicinity, from which we have never received any complaint from neighboring buildings. Ten million dollars worth of real estate is represented by this concern and we feel that it is of a great advantage to real estate dealers and property owners to do all possible for the abatement of this nuisance."

J. Richard Carter, president of Carter, Rice Co., says: "In my mind this nuisance can be abolished by other than mechanical appliances, namely, careful firing, and I am heartily in favor of any legislation which will do away with the smoke nuisance, and I think the necessary laws are contained in a petition which has been presented to the legislature by Mr. F. R. Warren."

Mr. Francis Peters, president of The National Bank of Redemption and president of The Reversible Collar company, Cambridge, has the following to say in regard to the smoke nuisance: "This matter of smoke nuisance is entirely a case of intelligence in firing. At our factory in Cambridge, where we consume thousands of tons of soft coal annually, we have no trouble whatever with the smoke and we use no smoke consumers. Our firemen and engineers treat the fires in such a manner that the smoke is all consumed by the fire itself. If this is possible in one plant, why not in all others? If this evil is not soon remedied, Boston will soon be in the class of Pittsburg and other dirty cities, made so by the smoke nuisance. The air of Boston and suburbs is very foul, and a walk in the parks will demonstrate that fact by the particles of black soot which falls on one's clothing in a very short time."

John Clancey, engineer at Keith's Theatre, says: "We have two boilers of 1[illegible] horse power each, and burn about ten tons a day, seven parts soft and ten parts screenings. We find the mixture the cheapest. Soft coal could be burned without smoke that would be a nuisance if the firemen kept a little closer to their fires. Let it coke in front, and [illegible] it back. Spread it even and [illegible] often."

George A. Larkin, engineer of the Telephone building, 1[illegible] and 125 Milk street, says: "We use soft coal, and seldom make smoke which amounts to a nuisance. A simple smoke consumer device which we have introduced saves us about $[illegible] a year. There are many other devices which will do the same thing. A good fireman, if he handles his coal properly, even without a consuming device, at least calculations, can do away with 70 per cent. of the smoke. We have four boilers of 160-horse power each."

Angus Sinclair, a locomotive engineer, whose text-book on "Firing Locomotives" is the recognized authority on the subject, says: "It is fair to assume with ordinary firemen that smokeless firing is economical firing. An immense waste of money results from the work of the careless fireman whose best efforts are directed to converting coal into smoke." He tells of two test runs of a little less than two hours each, the first with a bad fireman, who made smoke, the second with a good fireman, who made none. The first burned 8[illegible] pounds, the second [illegible] pounds, at $3 a ton. The "no smoke" firing saved $5.25 in two hours.

Walter M. Lowney, chocolate bonbons, 117 Commercial street, says: "In our boilers which we maintain here we burn soft coal, but without any black smoke, because our furnaces are properly constructed."

E. Stanley Abbott, formerly assistant superintendent of the city hospital and now connected with the McLean hospital at Waverley, says, in a letter of Feb. 21: "At the power house of the Boston city hospital a smoke consumer has been in operation four or five years, which enables the hospital to use a soft, smoky coal, with production of almost no smoke. The apparatus is not expensive, nor does it require frequent repairs."

Prof. S. Homer Woodbridge of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was called in as an expert to give his opinion upon the plans for a great central power station for the government buildings in Washington said in his report, dated Jan. 7, 190[illegible]:

"Objection to the selected location would be reasonable on the ground of smoke nuisance if a smokeless operation of the plant were not assured, for wherever the plant may be located, the prevailing winds of winter and summer will carry the chimney products eastward, with a trend to north in summer and to south in winter. Smoke may be prevented with certainty, however, and constancy by suitable methods of feeding and burning, and by the avoidance of irregularity in firing. The low cost of bituminous coal and the high thermal value which it possesses justify both the initial expense of providing proper furnaces and appliances, and also the continuous and remunerative expenses of intelligence, faithfulness, and skill on the part of attendants in charge of the fires. From a plant burning 30,000 tons per year the money cost of unburned fuel in smoke might easily [illegible] per annum. Smoke should not be allowed, and may be almost wholly excluded from chimney discharges. With suitable boilers and furnaces and draft, and by easy and regular rather than by forced and unequal firing, smoke may be so eliminated as to become negligible. The attention and discipline of attendants required to supplement the operation of devices for preventing smoke will be far better secured under the strict regime of a well-organized and managed central station than in a score of boiler rooms scattered over the territory of a square mile."

The report of the smoke abatement committee of London, 1882, states that Messrs. Minton's great potteries and porcelain works are being conducted practically without smoke at a saving of 40 per cent., a careful account of about 5705 firings under the new system showing saving of about 20,000 tons of coal, or $50,000, and in addition a saving in wages and a better production of ware.

Following is the report of chief smoke inspector, Thomas F. Kelley, for the year ending June 30, 1897:

"If smoke could be abated only by entailing an added expense, it would no doubt be found difficult to enforce the law; but a device used for suppression of smoke not only abates the smoke nuisance, but invariably shows an absolute economy of fuel, as it promotes combustion, and prevents before they can be utilized the escape of valuable gases for heating purposes to produce steam. Even the emission of a small quantity of smoke, due to various causes, destroys for the time very valuable property. When owners of steam plants fully realize that the maintenance of a smoke nuisance entails an actual money loss, then and only then, will suggestions from those in charge be considered. Smoke and soot are destroying goods the value of which would aggregate many thousands of dollars."

Justin Ohage, M. D., commissioner, office of the department of health, St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 31, 1905: "The city is virtually smokeless. The enforcement of the smoke ordinance has in no way caused any injury to commercial or manufacturing interests. To the contrary, in every instance where smoke has been done away with by the installation of smoke-consuming devices, of which there are quite a number of good ones in the market, it has been done with a large saving of fuel."

Boardman, Dever & Boardman, lawyers, 537, 538, 539 Andrus building, Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 6, 1905: "I have had occasion, in trying to get at the real merit of smoke-consuming devices, to examine a great many furnaces and boilers in the cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and I state, without qualification, that smoke can be stopped under all circumstances if the owners and firemen really want it stopped. Even these people who are hostile to the cleaning up movement, as far as the smoke nuisance goes, admit, when closely questioned, that smoke-consuming furnaces and devices take no more fuel at least than the old smoking furnaces; and firemen and engineers, without exception, agree that the same amount of fuel with the smoke-consuming furnace will generate more and steadier boiler horse power, no matter what fuel is used. I would further state that careful firing will do away with a great deal of unnecessary smoke, but this cannot be depended upon, as firemen will be careless. As an illustration of what can be done, we had an engineer of the General Electric company here arrested for allowing his chimney to smoke. The company appeared in court and paid his fine, and asked for a reasonable time in which to attach some smoke-consuming device to their furnace. This, of course, we gladly granted, for we are not trying to persecute anybody, but only to prevent a nuisance, the abatement of which will be a great benefit to every man, woman and child in the city. In about a week the electric company had steam jets applied to their furnaces, and now scarcely a wisp of smoke is visible from their chimney, which formerly belched forth great black clouds. What little smoke does appear now is light colored, and almost free from soot. After they are made to do it, they are practically all friendly to the movement and agree that they save fuel thereby. In regard to the bill you sent me, if anything, I would say it was a trifle too lenient with the smokers, as you want to treat them fairly, but very firmly."

COMMUNICATION

Editor Sun:—It is now intimated that the Ennel street schoolhouse will not be finished in time for occupancy at the opening of the next school term, in September. Surely a year and a half is time enough for the construction and fitting up of such a school! It is a signal illustration of the incompetency attendant on about all work done for the municipality. Is it the building or the school department that is responsible for such incapacity in this instance?

SCHOOL BOARD

School Teachers Want More Pay

STURTEVANT GETS $200 INCREASE

Private School for the Polish Children

The regular meeting of the school committee was held Tuesday night. The principal business before the committee was action on a petition of one hundred and seven school teachers in the primary and grammar grades of the local schools asking for an increase in pay. The resignation of two teachers was received and reports from several committees referred.

President Duncan called to order at 9.30 o'clock. The reading of the records of the previous meeting was dispensed with and the committee reports were then in order.

Mr. Swapp, for the committee on teachers, recommended that the list of teachers for the Riverside school in Wigginville be the same as before that part of the town was annexed to Lowell. He also recommended that George F. Sturtevant have charge of the janitors with an additional salary of $200 per annum. The recommendations were adopted.

Mr. Swapp, of the janitorial committee, recommended that the wages of janitors be the same as previous to May 1, and that all new appointees receive the wage of $2.25 a day. Accepted.

Supt. A. K. Whitcomb then offered suggestions relative to school work. He referred to a petition signed by the citizens of Wigginville in which they prayed for the retention of the teachers in the Riverside school there. Placed on file.

A letter was read from Dr. Schafer, president of the National Educational Association, relative to the gathering of money from school children, to rebuild the schools of San Francisco. This letter did not exactly ask for money, it said the money would be welcome. Another communication on the same subject, from the superintendent of schools in San Francisco was also read.

On motion of Mr. Swapp it was voted to allow subscriptions to be taken, but that each pupil be limited to contributing five cents.

A communication from Charles H. Conant, representing Rev. Alexander Ogonowski, pastor of the Polish church in High street, stated that the pastor had instituted a private school for children of the Polish race. About 35 scholars attended it and the teachers are Mary F. Walker and Thomas Urvanik. Teaching is in the English language.

It was voted to approve the school after Supt. Whitcomb had made a thorough examination of it.

Leave of absence from May 25 to Oct. 18 was granted Miss Mary E. O'Conner of the High school.

The resignation of Miss Helen E. Geekin was accepted and a vote of thanks tendered her for faithful and efficient service. The resignation of Miss Georgia Harnden was also accepted.

Mr. Johnson was named as a member of the sub-committee for the Riverside school in Wigginville. The petition for the increase of pay signed by 107 teachers of the primary and grammar grades was received and read by Supt. Whitcomb. No action was taken on this matter and it was referred to the committee on teachers and salaries. Supt. Whitcomb spoke favorably of the increase.

The board adjourned at 9.45 o'clock.

Where Baking Begins Right

The baking of the NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY begins with right material, and every step thereafter through the whole process of baking is right. There is not one point of quality that care, skill and modern bakeries could make better. It is perfection itself—through and through.

It Ends Right

when it reaches your table untouched by strange hands, untainted by odors. The quality, oven-flavor and freshness are preserved in a dust and moisture proof package, distinguished by the trade mark here shown. It always appears in red and white on each end of the package and warrants the perfect condition of the contents. For example try packages of GRAHAM CRACKERS—possessing the rich, nutty flavor of graham flour—unlike any graham crackers you ever tasted.

FROTANA—a temptingly delicious union of biscuit and fruit—the newest delicacy of the National Biscuit Company.

GREAT BALL PLAYING

Lowells Played Like Big Leaguers Yesterday

And Delighted a Big Gathering of Fans — Two A1 Double Plays—Burkett Does His Little Kicking Act

The biggest gathering of the season went out to Spalding Park yesterday afternoon and saw a ball game that [illegible] will talk about for days to come. They couldn't have seen a better game in the big league. Every player was on his mettle and brilliant plays were frequent. A new pitcher named Smythe started in but he had no more speed than a steam roller and Manager Lake who was out to win took him out and put in Abbott in the first inning. The crowd at first were disposed to resent Lake's haste in removing the youngster but in a few innings they became aware of the wisdom of [illegible] move and gave him due credit. It was a pitcher's battle from start to finish and the score was 0 to 0 for seven innings and had not Bushey got something around his neck in the eighth they'd be going yet in all probability. In the eighth Bushey gave three bases on balls and then made a wild pitch and Lowell landed a run followed by another one a moment later. It looked rather bad for Lowell for a moment in the first inning and the crowd handed out all sorts of [illegible]. Chadbourne got his bases on balls and went to second on a sacrifice by Lord. Then he stole third while Smythe was getting himself together. [illegible] drew his base on balls and [illegible] Smythe out and put in Abbott. Zacher stole second. Burkett hit out a fly to deep right field which Sullivan caught. Chadbourne started for home when the fly was caught but Sully upon catching the ball drove it home like an arrow and Chadbourne was nailed at the plate in as pretty a double play as will be seen this season. In the seventh Lowell made another double play. Hickman got two bases on [illegible] and was forced at second on Bradley's grounder to O'Neil. Bradley stole second. Knotts put up a high foul fly way back to the grandstand. Lake made a great run for it and caught the ball only a few inches off the boards. Bradley made for third on the put-out but Lake by a quick and accurate throw nailed him [illegible]. Lowell scored two runs in the eighth on three bases on balls, a wild pitch and a single by old reliable Jesse Burrill.

Burkett gave his little performance in the ninth. With one man gone [illegible] hit the ball to Rothernel and [illegible] that he was a dead [illegible] let up running when almost at the bag. But Rothernel threw bad and Burrill had to leave the bag to get the ball. Burkett on seeing the bad throw hot-footed it for the base while Buster upon getting the ball made a stab for the bag just as Burkett reached it. It looked from a distance as though Burrill had tagged first but he hasn't tagged it yet, the umpire believing that he had called Burkett out. For a moment Jesse stood at the base speechless with wrath while the crowd soothed him with such remarks as "Why didn't you run it out, you mutt," and "I don't blame Jimmy Collins for getting rid of you." Then Burkett opened up and coming down the line with a full head of steam on he started in with tongue, hands and feet all going at once until it looked as though one of the star scholars at that celebrated Worcester state institution had broken loose for the holiday.

MORNING GAME.

WORCESTER, May 31.—Consecutive hitting in the ninth inning by Worcester tied the morning game with Lowell and again in the eleventh by the same trick Worcester won, 4 to 3. Up to the ninth inning the locals had got but one hit off Maroney, while Sline had been hit freely. Score:

BILLERICA

Memorial Day was observed in a very appropriate manner by the residents and veterans of Billerica yesterday. The veterans paraded and impressive ceremonies were held at the North cemetery. In addition to this exercises were held in the town hall where Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, of the Eliot Congregational church of Lowell, gave the oration of the day.

There were twenty-one Billerica veterans in the little procession which wended its way to the North cemetery.

Upon arriving at the cemetery a dirge was played by the Chelmsford brass band. Prayer was then offered by Rev. J. Harold Dale, pastor of the Congregational church, after which came the sounding of taps. At the conclusion of this, the procession slowly wended its way back to the town, where the same exercises were gone through on the common. At this place, the sons of veterans fired a salute. The procession was reformed, and about 20 members of the Asa John Patten circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., joined in line and with the men, marched into the hall.

Here Dr. Charles E. Hosmer, president of the local association, acted as master of ceremonies, and a brief program was given, which included several patriotic selections by the band, followed by a reading entitled "The Silent Bugle," by Grace Simonds; tenor solo, "Just Before the Battle, Mother," H. Hopkins; reading, "Kentucky Belle," Miss Etta Smith.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Chester H. Howe of North Billerica, and then followed the oration of the day by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow.

TRAINING SCHOOL

Annual Dinner of Alumnae Association

WORK OF SCHOOL PRAISED

By the After Dinner Speakers

The alumnae [illegible] of the Lowell Training School [illegible] Teachers, given at the New American House Tuesday evening [illegible] very happy and a very [illegible]. There was [illegible] and all else that [illegible] of such an event. [illegible] reception held in the [illegible] the teachers, [illegible] and invited guests [illegible] room where an [illegible] discussed while [illegible] were ever on [illegible]. About 175 were present [illegible] speakers did justice [illegible] occasion.

At [illegible] of the dinner Miss Gertrude [illegible] principal, called to order [illegible] introduced Mr. Frank K. Stearns [illegible]. A little later, however, Mr. Stearns was called away on [illegible] and his work was taken [illegible] Miss Edmund [illegible].

Mr. [illegible] referred to the difficulties [illegible] settlers, those who preceded the present generation [illegible] in their thirst for knowledge as compared with the splendid advantages of the present day. As to the [illegible] of public education in Lowell he paid a glowing tribute to Warren Colburn and Theodore Edson whose separate [illegible] and courage made educational landmarks of the Bartlett and Edson schools.

Mr. Lawrence Cummings was the first speaker introduced by Mr. Stearns. Mr. Cummings was in a position to review the work of the school having been a member of the school committee at the time the training school was established and he watched the fruit of the seeds that were sown. He favored the school from the first and today he is satisfied that it is a splendid and a profitable institution.

Hon. John J. Pickman was the next speaker. He found his inspiration in the text "By their fruits ye shall know them." Mr. Pickman was mayor of Lowell when the training school was born. He said that the training school had been in operation long enough to prove a success or a failure. It has been under the public eye for seventeen years. Mr. Pickman said the lower grades required the very best teaching material because he said the training of the children is in the lower grade schools.

Dr. Charles W. Taylor spoke on "The training school." Mr. Taylor said he strongly endorsed the work of the training school and he said the school would doubtless remain a part of the school system until some one suggests a better plan.

Mr. Lewis E. MacBrayne spoke of the wide field of influence that the teachers hold and of their duty toward the children.

Rev. R. A. Greene, D. D., said that since the establishment of the training school it has been a strong factor in the life of the schools of the city. "The city of Lowell," he said, "furnishes for its young women who aspire to be public school teachers, a first-class, up-to-date training school."

Mr. John H. Harrington of The Sun spoke on the importance of the training school as a branch of the public school system. He said he believed it to be the most important branch of all. "Count me on the side of the Lowell training school," said Mr. Harrington, "as long as it carries out its present principles and gives every girl a square deal."

Mr. Albert L. Bacheller said that he had had experience with teachers who began their work before the establishment of the training school, and teachers who came from that school and he said he never had a teacher come from that school who did not know what to do. Mr. Bacheller is principal of the Green school, and he said in the course of his remarks that he believed in Lowell girls for the Lowell schools.

Miss Kate Stevens, principal of the training school connected with the University of London, England, was one of the honored guests of the faculty. Miss Stevens spoke very enthusiastically of America and our educational system. "It has impressed me very much," she said, "the wonderful leaders that you have in education over here. We receive a great deal of our inspiration, on the other side, from American literature and American work. I am hoping to go back with new ideas, and full of suggestions for my fellow teachers; and to be able to practice much that I have learned over here. I hope, also, to leave behind me a friendly feeling toward English teachers."

Dr Katherine H. Law, a graduate of the training school, was introduced. Miss Law is now a practicing physician in Boston and she said the training she received in the Lowell training school assists her very materially in her present profession. She made the very important suggestion that teachers could do a great deal in the matter of health for the children in their schools. The only trouble, she said, is that too much is expected of the teacher and she advocated a medical inspector for the schools.

The hands of the big clock were creeping snail-like to the midnight hour when the last speaker, Mr. Dennis J. Murphy, an ex-member of the school committee, was introduced. Mr. Murphy spoke strongly in favor of the training school. He had served on the training school committee and he said that no one was ever admitted into that school that did not have the required rank. He said that the merit system was the reason for the school's existence.

Mr. A. G. Swapp was too ill to attend the dinner and at the request of Miss Edmund a rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Swapp to be delivered to him as an expression of appreciation of his loyalty to the school and its principle.

TWENTY INJURED

Two Trolley Cars Collided at Hopkinton

HOPKINTON, May 31.—Two trolley cars on the [illegible] Milford [illegible] Electric Railroad [illegible] in a head-on collision [illegible] a score of persons [illegible]. Most of the injuries [illegible] confined to severe bruises [illegible]. Mrs. Jennie Elliot of W[illegible] who [illegible] years old was [illegible] receiving a fracture [illegible] were nervous shock. She was taken to the Framingham hospital where it was feared that she could not [illegible]. Others injured were:

John F. McDonough [illegible] Hopkinton, motorman of the car [illegible] arm fractured, contusions [illegible].

Miss Priscilla Ellis, Hopkinton, bruised about body, cut [illegible].

Felix G. McKeon, [illegible] bruises.

Morgan Sweeney, Milford, face cut and body badly bruised.

Mrs. Jane Ware, Holliston, cuts and bruises.

Nearly all the twenty passengers on the two cars suffered some injury in [illegible] contusions or scratches but [illegible] exception of those mentioned [illegible] were very slight. Most [illegible] seriously injured were in [illegible] car.

[illegible] occurred at a depression [illegible] hills about one mile east [illegible].

[illegible] bound car, of which John McDonough was motorman, had just [illegible] a hill on the way from Hopkinton and had run over a short level [illegible] started up the other hill [illegible] bound car from Ashland [illegible] Motorman Long and Conductor [illegible] appeared at the top of [illegible] started down. Motorman McDonough immediately put on his [illegible] brakes, but his car, which was [illegible] of light construction, to a [illegible]. Motorman Long's car was [illegible] heavily built track affair, closed type [illegible] was apparently unable to check [illegible] progress down the grade. It struck [illegible] car a terrible blow, breaking [illegible] entire forward part of the latter car. Motorman McDonough, who bravely stuck to his post on the open car [illegible] though he had succeeded in stopping it was buried under the wreck of his car.

Motorman Long jumped when he saw that the collision was inevitable and escaped injury.

Physicians were sent to the scene from Hopkinton and Ashland and the injuries of the passengers were attended to, most of them being found able to return to their homes or go on their way.

In a statement made by Motorman Long and Conductor Smith to officials of the railroad company, they are said to have admitted frankly that their car should have waited at a switch for the Ashland bound car. They said they forgot to wait.

THE PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS

True it is that of late there has been considerable growth of federal power or rather the appearance of growth, as instanced in the railroad rate regulation bill, the pure food bill, the meat inspection bill and the national quarantine law. All these laws are necessary and they are criticized only because they are new by those who think that it is dangerous to take any new step except after a long period of agitation.

The president has forced these measures upon the attention of congress as necessary to restrain the corporate bodies that have been robbing the people. Some would say these matters should be left to the states, but while one, two or a larger number of states would deal properly with them the majority would not. Besides, all these laws are national in scope and it requires federal authority to enforce them.

The meat inspection law has been rushed through the United States senate in the interest of the beef packers because President Roosevelt threatened to give out certain results of an inspection of the meat packing business which might astonish the country.

The senators interested in the packers have decided that it is better to pass this law than have the facts made public.

It appears that the conditions in the Chicago packing houses are far from sanitary, far from what would be approved by the pure food experts of the agricultural department. The people have been eating poison-cured meat without knowing it and if the president is determined to stop this business we are not disposed to question the means he adopts for that purpose. It is useless to stand upon ceremony on the method of protecting the people from being robbed, deluded and poisoned. The meat supply of the country comes from Chicago and as it is sent all over the country it becomes an article of interstate commerce. On that ground alone congress has a right to deal with it in a proper manner at least to the extent of seeing that it contains no deleterious matter. If the president has any report exposing the beef packers, he should give it out. There is no reason why the beef trust should be immune or shielded even to this extent. The meat inspection law, we believe, will prevent the packers from imposing inferior stuff upon the country.

We are strongly in favor of any exercise of federal authority that will protect the people from the greed of the trusts, from the imposition of adulterated food, poisoned beef and the importation of the diseases that infest other parts of the globe. He deserves credit for urging such popular measures upon a trust controlled congress, even though he does overstep the lines of duty laid down by established precedent and the conventionalities of modern practice in such cases, and even though he be charged with assuming the functions of premier in addition to those usually exercised by the president. Our presidents in the past have been altogether too modest in such matters.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The exercises of Memorial Day afforded another illustration of the fact that no man is properly celebrated until after death.

Solon, the Grecian sage, was asked if Croesus was not the greatest man in Greece. Solon answered in the negative, saying that no man could be accounted great until he had ended his career by a life of noble deeds and self-sacrifice in some good cause. He then gave an illustration of what he considered true greatness, citing the case of a man who had lived to see his children's children die fighting for their country, and then sacrificed his own life on the altar of patriotism. Solon was right. It is not wealth or riches that make a man great but it is the patriotic sacrifices and the display of heroism such as was shown on all sides by the men of the Grand Army during the Civil war that constitute true greatness.

The veterans of the Grand Army are becoming more celebrated as the years pass by and as their ranks are thinned by the universal reaper.

Following this tendency to its logical conclusion we are led to believe that when the veterans shall all have passed to the great beyond, their deeds, their valor and their achievements will be more celebrated than ever. The observance of Memorial day that is now in the hands of the surviving veterans will be taken up by the masses of the people and made more general than ever before.

Here in Lowell as in other cities we have ample proof of this tendency to make Memorial day more sacred in its character and to recount the deeds of our heroes with greater reverence than heretofore. It is natural that as time passes we should place a greater estimate upon the sacrifices made by the Grand Army heroes because the magnitude of their achievements in saving the Union will increase from year to year so that in course of time these men who walk amongst us today will be celebrated to an extent far beyond their own or our conception at the present time. Their deeds when viewed through the long perspective of years will assume greater and grander proportions than when viewed as closely as we look upon them today.

Lowell has borne a noble part in the work of saving the Union. This was attested by the number of soldiers' graves strewn with flowers in the various cemeteries yesterday. The total number is between fourteen and fifteen hundred which with the surviving veterans would make the number who served in that supreme struggle considerably over two thousand. There is not a veteran alive today, however, decrepit from the effect of wounds or army life, who regrets the suffering he endured. There is not one of them who would not pass through the same ordeal again if necessary and if their years permitted, nay there is not one of them who would not give up his life for his country if called upon even in his fast declining years.

These men deserve all the favors shown them, and we are glad that in recent years there is such a marked tendency to show them more and more consideration on account of their glorious achievements and their noble sacrifices. Thus then those who enjoy the fruits of victory won by those terrible years of conflict may well join the veterans of the Grand Army in celebrating the memory of the martyred dead and the men who risked their lives for the Union cause. The Grand Army men deserve well at our hands, they deserve especially the veneration, the love and esteem of the rising generation and so far as can be judged the spirit of patriotism which the veterans have so well instilled in the minds and hearts of our youth will live when the veterans have passed away and if the occasion requires, will lead our young men to make patriotic sacrifices as noble and as lasting as those of the Grand Army veterans of the Civil war. This was evidenced during the Spanish war when our young men showed no lack of valor or of patriotism and as a result the Spanish war veterans a full generation younger marched yesterday side by side with the Grand Army men to decorate the graves of their young heroes who gave their lives for the flag.

SEEN AND HEARD

Now that the canoeing season is on we expect to hear of a great many narrow escapes in the harbor of matrimony.

A Lowell girl who has [illegible] to think she has an ear for music says that her two favorite songs are "The Holy City" and "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree."

"Bob" Farrelly was [illegible] sympathized [illegible] with the Lowell man who figured in the automobile accident in Bridgewater [illegible] through an old apple tree after being thrown [illegible] to Worcester [illegible] in his memory.

Another [illegible] to be all off with the [illegible]. He writes verses to the girl of his choice. The verses disclose his [illegible].

Don't stop a fellow in the middle of a story and tell him that you have heard it before. Listen as if you were interested and laugh as heartily as though you [illegible] spending the [illegible] and you [illegible] a friend forever.

Before seeking to have your name kept out of the reports of the courts think of the other fellow. Wouldn't it be up to him to wonder why it was that your name was omitted and his used?

Some very smart men are fools on the witness stand.

A certain man in Back Central street has been heard to say that for the sake of his neighbors no man who keeps hens in a city like Lowell, especially if he houses them upon the roof, should be allowed to maintain more than fourteen roosters.

"Billy" [illegible] says that whether you go out for a long walk or a ride in your automobile, in either case you may come home in the electric car, and "Doc" Allen said "amen."

There's no dodging the fact that the streets were very slippery in Bridgewater Sunday. The [illegible] all said so.

How foolish it is to worry over something that may happen next week. You may be dead then.

This is a very expensive time of the year for the young man who is really in love. Sweet things can be said in the city but it requires the blow of the apple blossom and the bursting of the wild wood bud to bring out the proper inspiration and a fellow doesn't want to tell a girl how beautiful she is and how closely the color of her cheeks resemble the blossoms when a crowd is around, in an electric car for instance, and in order that the poetry of his nature may have its proper flow he hires a carriage.

If there is one among you who hath not said an evil word of his neighbor let him be royally banqueted by the order of "Good Fellows."

The first time a woman gets married she may not pick her husband. After that she does.

The fellow who drinks to get merry and never gets drunk is a wonder as well as a bad example.

WON 16 POINTS

Dodge the Star at Athletic Meet

FINE EVENTS ON THE SO. COMMON

Were Witnessed by a Large Crowd

An athletic meet was held on the playground on the South Common yesterday under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. The sports were close and well contested and were witnessed by hundreds of people.

LICENSE TRANSFERS

Two Were Granted by the Board of Police

At an adjourned meeting of the police board Tuesday night Commissioner Wier continued his cross examination of petitioners and the majority of his questions were pointed and very searching.

The board made a tour of inspection Tuesday afternoon of places where the back door question is involved and other places for which transfers have been asked.

The board met for a few minutes in executive session [illegible] the public meeting opened.

Chairman Shea called to order at 8.10 o'clock. The first business presented by Clerk Smith was a petition from Walter A. Chase asking permission to operate a merry-go-round in Houghton street. The machine is already set up and the petitioner wanted to run it just long enough to pay for the expense of setting it up and repairing.

Four of Mr. Chase's neighbors appeared as remonstrants, declaring under oath, that the machine was a nuisance. The petitioner was given leave to withdraw.

A batch of junk dealers' licenses, new ones, came up for consideration. Superintendent Moffatt suggested that there was already an overflow of junk dealers and collectors and the new petitioners were given leave to withdraw. A great [illegible] licenses were acted upon [illegible].

In the course of a discussion relative to junk dealers Superintendent Moffatt said that the most of them kept books in Hebrew and he would make it mandatory that they keep books in English. He said it would be much easier to trace stolen property through the junk shops if the dealers kept books in English.

Clerk Smith said that a requirement of the license was that the licensee must keep all accounts in English. The board voted to force this requirement in the future.

Among the applicants for junk dealers' licenses who were turned down was George [illegible] and Superintendent Moffatt objected to him on the ground that he has a police court record.

A request was made that Israel Shapiro, dealer in second hand furniture in Middlesex street, be obliged to keep his books in English. The board decided that the request was a reasonable one.

A great raft of [illegible] cases came up [illegible] consideration and [illegible] Mr. Wier was [illegible] board [illegible] business [illegible] board had [illegible] licenses [illegible] motion [illegible] one week [illegible] question of [illegible] contract.

A [illegible] each applicant [illegible] wagon but [illegible]

[illegible] for one week [illegible] Supt. Moffatt [illegible] the influence of [illegible]

[illegible] Burke [illegible] Barrett & Bailey [illegible] The [illegible] appeared [illegible] Mr. [illegible]

[illegible] Kitchener's stock and fixtures and was seeking a transfer of his license to the Kitchener place. In compliance with Mr. Wier's suggestion Mr. Thornton went to the Kitchener store [illegible] the license from the wall [illegible] the license to the board. [illegible] license was [illegible] by a vote of the board and an order made out which was later signed by the mayor [illegible] the city [illegible] to pay back to Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] twelfths of the license fee.

Mr. Wier then [illegible] Mr. Thornton, as follows:

"What is your [illegible]"

[illegible]

"Have you ever [illegible] liquor license before?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"At the junction of [illegible] and [illegible] streets."

"For how long?"

"One year."

"Did you apply for a license this year?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"In upper Gorham street."

"Did you ever before this year have any experience in the [illegible]?"

"Yes, sir. I worked for [illegible] for 12 years."

"Who is he?"

"Owen Donohoe, who [illegible] of business in Gorham street."

"How did you [illegible] license this year?"

"Out of what I earned."

"Are you under any obligation to any person or any firm now in the liquor traffic?"

"No, sir."

"You are in no way financially or otherwise, connected with any other man in this business?"

"No, sir."

"Have you bought from Mr. Kitchener and paid him for what you purchased?"

"Yes, sir."

Mr. Hogan interrupted here to inform Mr. Wier that Mr. Thornton had paid to [illegible] for Mr. Kitchener, the money for the stock and fixtures.

Continuing, Mr. Wier asked Mr. Thornton if he had ever been convicted by the local police for any offence.

"No, sir," was the quick and decisive response.

"How old are you?"

"Thirty-eight years."

Mr. Wier asked Supt. Moffatt if Mr. Thornton had ever been convicted of any offence that he, the superintendent, knew of.

"No, sir," replied Mr. Moffatt. "I have known Mr. Thornton for about [illegible] years and I know him to be an honest straightforward young man."

The application of Gallagher & Burke for a transfer to Lakeview avenue was then taken up. This place was visited yesterday afternoon and the commissioners, at least Mr. Wier, found conditions there not quite to their liking.

Mr. Wier was insistent that a window be placed in one section of the building so that the officer on the beat might see into that part of the store now cut off from view from the street.

Then again Mr. Wier stated that he was informed that Mr. Burke was employed by the city at the present time and he wanted to know whether such a man could be thus employed and conduct [illegible].

Mr. Gallagher informed him that Mr. Burke was taken into the firm simply as a protector in case of death. Mr. Burke was not present and Mr. Wier thought that it would be best to have him in attendance, and accordingly Burke was sent for at his work, and later he put in an appearance. "It is a matter of principle," said Mr. Wier, "that all applicants should appear in person."

The question of a window was again taken up and Mr. Gallagher agreed to make the changes suggested by Mr. Wier.

Mr. Wier proceeded to cross question Mr. Burke upon the latter's arrival. The following questions were asked:

"How old are you, Mr. Burke?"

"Fifty-eight."

"What is your business?"

"Fireman."

"Where are you at present employed?"

"At the Lowell water works."

"Have you advanced any money to Mr. Gallagher in payment for the license fee?"

"No, sir."

"Are you engaged in any way financially with this business?"

"No, sir."

"It seems to me," said Mr. Wier, "that a license should not be granted to one who openly confesses that he or she does not have any interest, financially or otherwise in the business."

Mr. Gallagher then called attention to the fact that most applicants secure the services of their wives, sisters or brothers, simply as a protector to them in case of death.

Mr. Smith stated that this condition has existed since the death of Charles Cheney, whose death occurred several years ago, and whose business was declared void at his death.

"I can see the purpose," responded Mr. Wier. "Well I will favor the application of the petitioners if the changes be made as I desire."

Mr. Wier then brought up the Purcell petition for a transfer. He said that he thought that the matter should be dismissed. "This man," said Mr. Wier, "has gone ahead without lawful right in the matter. He had no right to, and I move that his petition be dismissed."

Commissioner McEvoy thought the petitioner should be given a chance to present his case. He was not prepared to vote on the question and action was deferred for one week. The cases of Holom and Poissant were continued for one week.

On motion of Mr. Wier the board went into executive session at 10.15.

WAR PAINTINGS

GRAND EXHIBITION AT THE ARMORY.

The Westford street armory yesterday afternoon and evening was the mecca of large throngs attracted by the lovers of art who had a golden opportunity to feast their eyes on famous war pictures which need to [illegible] to be fully appreciated. Gen. Grant is the central figure in the number of war paintings on exhibition during the next six days. Eight enormous canvases are strung along the armory walls, four on each side, lighted by numerous incandescents at the top of the paintings. The pictures are all the same size, [illegible] 18 feet, and for accuracy of detail and life and power in the execution they are remarkable. Messrs. Orr[illegible] and William C. Griffin are conducting the exhibition, the former now a resident of Lowell and the latter a singer on the opera stage, and at one time a resident of this city. Interesting anecdotes concerning each canvas are given by [illegible] S. Griffin, and the history of the engagements is given by him. The exhibition opened yesterday, appropriately, and will continue a week, the hours being from 1.30 to 10.30 p. m.

AFTER PARADE

The G. A. R. Comrades Enjoyed Supper

SPEAKERS AT DIFFERENT POSTS

Praised Fine Appearance of Vets

After the Memorial day parade had been dismissed yesterday afternoon the members of Post 42, G. A. R. marched to Memorial hall where supper was served by the ladies' auxiliary of the post. Present at the table were Mayor James B. Casey, Rev. W. George Mullin of St. Peter's church and Rev. George B. Dean.

At the conclusion of the supper Commander Earl A. Thissell in a short address complimentary to the members of the post, introduced Mayor Casey.

Mayor Casey spoke in part as follows:

"Mr. Commander, members of the Grand Army and women. It is a great pleasure for me to be with you here and offer my heartfelt thanks to you for what you have really done for me and all of the younger generation.

"This day recalls to my mind and to your own as well, the valiant deeds of those who fought and suffered that this great and free country of ours might be preserved. By your actions you have shown your interest in your country, the grandest the world has ever seen. You all did your duty in the past; you made this the best country of them all.

"Your campfires of long ago were much different than nowadays. Then you were in the ranks and ready to fight. Today, you gather to offer homage to your dead and departed companions. Today, in every city and town, a grateful nation is giving honor to your dead members and to you who live, as well.

Rev. George B. Dean was the next speaker and he said: "When I saw your ranks today I asked myself, 'Who will take their places in the future?' I am so glad that you men who fought for the existence of this glorious country are not to be forgotten. All nations respect us, and why? Because of your great deeds on the battlefield, which brought about the present conditions. It is you, then, who must be looked to and respected for what you did for us of a younger generation. Your dead cannot be obliterated, your names will forever remain alive. The glory of what you accomplished really thrills my mind. I am glad to speak of your great deeds. I am glad to be with you today and offer my humble homage to your members."

Rev. W. George Mullin, of St. Peter's church, spoke briefly. He called to mind the fact that there is still going on a battle in this world and that we must all fight for victory. He closed by complimenting the members on their appearance and for being given an opportunity to pay honor to them on Memorial day.

Rev. William H. I. Hayes spoke briefly and the singing of the hymn "America" brought the campfire to a close.

POST 120, G. A. R.

There was a crowded gathering at the hall of this post. The ladies of Garfield Relief Corps provided a most substantial supper of salads, cold meats, hot baked beans, rolls, cake, ice cream, pudding, fruit and coffee.

In the main hall, following the supper, there was an extended program with Commander E. A. Turner presiding. The opening number was a musical selection by Mrs. Daisy Ripley Duncan. There were patriotic speeches by the mayor, President Harry H. J. Read of the common council, Councilmen Cheney, Clough and J. J. Connors, Revs. George F. Kenngott, A. P. Gibson and George B. Dean and Sarah Dixon of Lowell, and Rev. A. M. Rice of Dunstable, Comrade Dexter Butterfield of Dunstable; song, "Stars and Stripes," by M. Gorman; solo, "Beyond the Gates of Paradise," Cora W. Stevens; duet, "Angels are Watching," Cora M. Stewart and Ruth Bowen; song, "Loyal Knight," M. Gorman, with Miss M. Joyce as accompanist. The concluding number was "The Star Spangled Banner," sung by Mrs. Duncan, with the audience joining in the chorus.

POST 185, G. A. R.

A fine supper was provided for the members of Post 185, G. A. R., by the relief corps. There were about 100 people present and at the conclusion of the supper the members and invited guests repaired to the meeting hall where stirring addresses were made.

Mayor James B. Casey spoke briefly. He was followed by Rev. C. T. Billings, James O'Sullivan, Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, Comrade Hovey and others. It was after 7 o'clock before the exercises were brought to a close.

SONS OF VETERANS.

Camp Farragut, 78, Sons of Veterans, closed the day's exercises by a banquet and brief speaking program at Grafton hall in Merrimack street.

There was a large attendance at the banquet which was served at about 5.30. The speeches were made by Past Division Colonel [illegible] A. C. Blaisdell, Rev. Nathan W. Matthews, Rev. E. R. Smith, Past Division President Hattie E. Whitney, Past Division Secretary Ida Howard, President May Mas[illegible].

The Sleeping Soldiers

A MEMORIAL DAY POEM

BY ARTHUR J. BURDICK

COPYRIGHT BY ARTHUR J. BURDICK

I

SOME sleep 'neath the soft summer sun of the south,
Where the flowers never fail and the vine ever springs;
Where the air bears perfume and the echoes repeat
The rapturous song that the mocking bird sings.

II

SOME rest mid the vales and the hills of the north,
Where the pine and the hemlock stretch sheltering arms;
Where the warring winds pipe in the treetops as loud
As the bugle once sounded its brazen alarms.

III

SOME wait the last trumpet 'neath pepper and palm;
Some lie in the lowlands and some on the hill;
Some sleep in the billowy arms of the sea,
And in far distant islands some lonely graves fill.

IV

WHEREVER they lie, north or south, east or west,
We have garlands today for these brave sons of ours.
Our hearts give them love, our lips offer praise,
And our hands strew their graves with beautiful flowers.

V

AH, rough were the roads that were yours in the march,
And fiery and bloody the paths that ye trod.
But peaceful and quiet and flowery the way
Henceforth till earth's heroes are summoned to God.

The Healing of the Wound—Veterans of a Common Flag

APRIL 21, 1861, General Robert E. Lee and his family bade farewell to their beautiful home at Arlington. For months they had been in a condition of great mental disquietude over the unhappy condition into which the Union was drifting so inevitably. They realized agonizingly that the moment was near at which a decision must be made. Their conception of duty was ideal, but it was waging bitter war against their inclinations.

The first interment made on the Arlington estate was that of the body of a Confederate soldier slain in battle. Within a short time there were no less than 377 graves of persons who had espoused the southern cause. These persons, some of them prisoners of war who had died in confinement, were given honorable burial and their graves were marked with marble headstones like those of the Union soldiers. After awhile some of the states began to remove their dead. In 1898 it was the general belief that all the Confederate dead in the District of Columbia had been taken to their respective states.

In that year some Confederate veterans made an investigation and found that there still remained at Arlington several scattered groups of southern dead. Nothing could be more illustrative of the rapid disappearance of sectional feeling and the reunited sentiment of the country than the appeal of the Confederate veterans to President McKinley to make provision for the reinterment of all Confederate soldiers resting in northern soil in the National cemetery at Arlington. The president's speech at Atlanta, made Dec. 14, 1898, had invited this expression of friendship and confidence. Mr. McKinley had said:

"And while when these graves were made we differed widely about the future of this government, these differences were long ago settled by the arbitrament of arms, and the time has now come when in the spirit of fraternity we should share with you in care of the graves of the Confederate soldiers."

Since that day the leaven has worked admirably. "Johnny Reb" and "Yank" have become only terms of endearment, and the blue and the gray, their differences all relegated to tradition, are veterans all—veterans of a united country and a common flag.

The Wedding of Alfonso XIII. and the Princess Ena

IT was fortunate for Spain that she possessed a distraction potent enough to dull the sting of being expelled forcibly from the world which she had discovered and which she had fallen into the habit of regarding as her own. It is true that the consolation prize was only a king who was fast becoming marriageable, but a nation with a king to marry off is not absolutely without something to do and is also of more or less importance among its fellows. In such a case "its fellows" are those who have marriageable princesses.

And at present there is a bountiful supply of royal maidens in the market. There are so many of them, indeed, that all the thrones in existence would have to be enlarged considerably before they could be accommodated even with standing room on the lower steps. Most of them will never know the joy of reigning. Many of them will settle down into sedate and economical life companions of princes who have royal blood, but not sufficient to make them participants in "the divine right." These royal and semiroyal ladies will have to make the most of the privilege of basking in the sunshine of royalty exemplified by others. As chatelaines of castles held by royal favor and guests of nations whose sovereigns they will never become they must make the best of the "your highness," which will never expand into "your majesty."

So for several years the hearts of royal males have "gone a-flutter." So have the hearts of the diplomats, who, after all, are most concerned in these royal marriages. Spain has long been the synonym of ill luck, and the eyes of all Europe have viewed her with more or less distrust, but she is a power for all that, and when her lawfully ordained sovereign is in search of a wife it becomes a matter of international moment. In this business of providing Alfonso of Spain with a wife all the statecraft of [illegible] has been called into requisition. The state offices of every power have taken a hand in it.

Departments of state, however, are not quite so influential in these matters as was formerly the case. Spain is a notable instance of a nation which has preserved almost intact the methods of past centuries, but the young sovereign of that ancient kingdom has imbibed some modern notions regarding the selection of a wife. Choosing a companion for life, he determined with a readiness that showed him to be a man of spirit, was not the equivalent of securing a queen for Spain. So he made up his mind, since marry he must, to take plenty of time.

The [illegible] and conservative [illegible] there are some of [illegible] left in the peninsula [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] expecting [illegible] of the king [illegible] a hand [illegible]. The [illegible], they [illegible], was [illegible] to suffer a further humiliation at the hands of an [illegible] boy. [illegible] reasoned judiciously, the marriage might be made the means of Spain's rehabilitation. It was the nation's opportunity, and it must not be neglected.

Some time in the coming ages it may be known how many conferences have been held in the secret recesses of the Escurial over the matrimonial prospects of Spain's young ruler. The Spanish state records are the most [illegible] of any nation in the world, and the story of Alfonso's [illegible] will be told with minute attention to detail. It is probable that the young [illegible] at some of these [illegible] within probability also that he [illegible] his judgment on almost every eligible royal girl in Europe. [illegible] of pictures for the delectation of coming generations! The grave and reverend councillors—perhaps in their robes of state, who knows to the contrary?—with severe and unsympathetic mien, the queen mother agonized and tearful, the young king intractable.

It would have pleased his mother if Alfonso had chosen his bride from among the princesses of her native land. She was practically alone in her ambition, for the Castilian grandees have no especial liking for the Austrians. It has taken long years of skillful maneuvering on the part of Queen Christina to win her way at Madrid. In a matter so momentous as the choosing of a Spanish queen her preference carried little weight. Nor was it more influential with the king. He has met the Austrian princesses whose names had been suggested in connection with the Spanish marriage and was ungallant enough to declare that he did not care for any of them.

Some of the leading men of the nation were in favor of a German alliance. The German imperial family had been a more or less ardent sympathizer with the Spaniards in their recent troubles, and it was thought that a closer union would be profitable to the country. At one time Alfonso seemed to be of this opinion. He actually took a good deal of time to investigate the merits of several proposed alliances with Teutonic princesses and even indulged in one or two royal flirtations. But he did not commit himself.

There is no reason to believe that the first suggestion of an English marriage came from Spanish sources. To the rank and file of the Spanish nation such an alliance would be little short of sacrilege. That a Spanish king should manifest a disposition to wed a woman from the ancient enemies of his race was scarcely more intelligible to the average Spaniard than would have been the toleration of his most Catholic majesty for the schism of Henry VIII.

There is abundant evidence that the Anglican alliance was conceived in England. The charming and gracious woman who has been such a moral and social leaven to the British court comes from a family of inveterate matchmakers. The Guelphs have a similar record. Princesses of the blood royal are plentiful in both families, and they are particularly fine women, every one of them worthy to be a queen. Kings cannot be secured for all of them, but it seems to be the established policy of both families that no available opportunity must be permitted to go to waste. Had it not been for the too close relationship and sundry other impediments it is not likely that the German crown prince would have been resigned so heroically to his Plattdeutsch bride.

An Anglo-Spanish matrimonial alliance is not a novel proposition in England. It has been under discussion for many years, probably since the birth of an heir to the Spanish throne was announced. For that matter, it may be asserted truthfully enough that all other heirs to European thrones are of like interest to the English fathers and mothers of royal maidens. The solicitude of Great Britain first became apparent when Patricia of Connaught was given a holiday on the continent and made the acquaintance, "quite incidentally, you know," of the young king.

The whole world—save the diplomatic section—regarded the matter as practically determined. The parties most concerned seemed to be perfectly satisfied, and everybody else tried to be. There were difficulties, it was admitted. The princess was a spirited girl, with a will of her own and a disregard for the material advantages of the alliance which was inexplicable to her elders. She confessed to her friends that she liked well enough the idea of becoming queen of Spain and that Alfonso really wasn't so bad, but—

The exact nature of the differences which put an end to the Spanish negotiations for the hand of the outspoken and jolly Patricia has not been made public. It is certain that the young Spaniard liked her immensely and that she discovered much to admire in him. There was a report at the time that the stumbling block was a matter of difference in creed. The princess is not a devotee, but it is said that she objected to changing her creed before marriage, preferring to delay the step until she should better be able to realize its significance, as did the czarina, who remained Lutheran until she could become Orthodox understandingly.

This, of course, would have been contrary to all Spanish precedent and could not be considered. If the English alliance was to be consummated some other princess must be substituted. The king resumed his flirtation with the daughters of German princelets, and Patricia went on her way merrily.

At this juncture it was proposed to offer the Spanish prize to the English king's athletic niece, Ena of Battenberg. A meeting was arranged, and both Alfonso and the princess fell in love immediately. Alfonso, who is rather fragile looking and weighs only 125 pounds, was delighted with the Juno-like charms of the fair Battenberg, who is almost six feet in height and weighs 150 pounds. Princess Ena, who is only half English, her father being German, her mother the youngest child of Queen Victoria, is not of purely royal lineage. The Battenbergs are not even an ancient family, being princes by courtesy and royal patent.

The princess had been brought up in the Protestant faith, but she was without prejudice and saw no difficulty in the way of accepting everything that was included in the bargain she had secured. So she became a diligent student of the catechism under the tutelage of an English ecclesiastic and in due time became eligible to the dignity of "her most Catholic majesty."

Happily Alfonso and Ena have many tastes in common. She is a clever actress and has a passion for theatricals which the king will share. They are both devoted to horses and motoring. The king is conceded to be one of the most intrepid motorists in Europe. The princess is an accomplished horsewoman, and Alfonso appears to best advantage when mounted. Youth, rank and opportunity are all their own, and their future will be what they make it.

Revival of the Silk Raising Industry In the United States

IT is a fact not generally realized that the United States has become the leading manufacturer of silk products in the world. Until 1859 France was entitled to preeminence in that respect, but since that year she must be relegated to second place among silk manufacturing nations. The most wonderful feature of the rise and progress of the silk industry in this country is that it is the outcome of only thirty-five years' effort, while France and Italy have been making this daintiest of fabrics for at least two centuries.

But the most amazing fact connected with the present state of the prosperous industry is that the raw material is not produced in this country to any appreciable extent and that about $75,000,000 is paid annually to foreign producers of raw silk. The extensive importation is [illegible] of the well authenticated fact that the United States is peculiarly adapted to the successful culture of the silkworm. To explain this apparently anomalous condition it may be stated that at present raw silk [illegible] free of duty. [illegible] mised, the Silk Association of America, composed of silk mill owners, importers and all other persons engaged in traffic in raw material, is satisfied with the present arrangement. No one who is in the business [illegible] would be disposed to advocate home production of the raw material.

The government, nevertheless, is fairly committed to the encouragement of silkworm culture. The various state departments of agriculture also have from time to time shown a commendable interest in the matter. During the [illegible] the secretary of agriculture will have at his disposal [illegible] with which [illegible] further experiments [illegible] in this country. [illegible] by the department [illegible] silk farming [illegible] adequately equipped [illegible] mulberry [illegible] grow. The appropriations have been so small that it has not been possible to make a fair test, but enough has been done to establish beyond question the fact that many of the [illegible] States [illegible] are peculiarly adapted to silk raising. At the present time many interesting experiments are in progress in several southern and western states, and the outlook is most promising. The secretary of agriculture recently sent out a circular letter announcing that he was prepared to distribute about a hundred ounces of silkworm eggs and 10,000 mulberry tree cuttings.

The secretary's circular aroused great interest in the experiment, and [illegible] applications [illegible] supply [illegible] apparent that several thousand persons were anxious to try their hand at silk culture. Recently several [illegible] of cocoons have been [illegible] the department from persons who had been furnished with eggs. [illegible] specimen was a package of cocoons weighing fifteen pounds sent from Alabama. A fifty pound package came from the farm of the late Rear Admiral Beardsley at Beaufort, S. C. [illegible] cocoons were grown under the supervision of a Japanese who was formerly steward to the admiral. The [illegible] product was the best in quality of any returned. The government paid for these cocoons the uniform price of $1 per pound, which is the European rate.

Since there is at present no open market for silk cocoons in this country, in order to encourage the industry the government is willing to become the purchaser of the necessarily limited [illegible]. The secretary has in operation [illegible] department a four basin reel of the most improved type. Two [illegible] have been brought over from Italy to operate the new machine and to teach the process to all those who are interested. It is the opinion of Secretary Wilson, as well as that of experimenters in the culture of silkworms, that at present it should be carried on profitably as an adjunct to other business. It could be employed advantageously in families where there are many children or by persons too old to engage in more exacting labor. In some parts of the country, however, there seems to have been an effort made to provide a regular market for cocoons. Three years ago Gerald McCarthy, biologist of the North Carolina department of agriculture, who is an enthusiast on the subject, began to import eggs from Italy and to distribute them among the farmers of the state. He agreed to find a market for all the cocoons raised and advised that they should be sent to him at Raleigh. It is a fact that silkworm culture was carried on in the Carolinas as early as 1750. It continued to flourish in a small way until the civil war. Thousands of mulberry trees planted prior to 1860 still remain in many parts of this region. During the depression incident to war times the business was practically wiped out of existence. Now it seems to show signs of reviving.

It is maintained by experts that any climate in which the peach will not winter kill is adapted to the raising of cocoons. The silkworm passes ten months of the year in the egg state, in which condition it will withstand considerable cold, certainly as much as is ever experienced in the southern half of this country. The best raw silk known to commerce comes from the northern provinces of Italy, which are swept by the icy winds from the Alps. The eggs of this species of worm are the ones that have been brought to America for trial. There are several other profitable species, most of them natives of India, which produce a coarse but valuable silk, very useful in the manufacture of plushes and carpets. These, being natives of a warmer country, would flourish in the extreme south. The natural food of the Italian silkworm is found in the leaves of the white mulberry. The Indian worms feed on many shrubs of the buckthorn family. There is one species which prefers the foliage of the castor bean.

KILLED BY HUSBAND

Worcester Man Murdered Wife and Committed Suicide

WORCESTER, May 31—John Rowland, a Lithuanian, shot his wife fatally and then killed himself yesterday afternoon at their home, [illegible] Endicott street. Family troubles in which jealousy played a prominent part are assigned by [illegible] as the cause of the tragedy. Rowland and his wife had been living apart for some time. Saturday he returned from [illegible] where he had worked as a laborer, and yesterday there was a quarrel. Adolph Laudelius, who was a boarder at the Rowland house, says he heard Rowland and his wife quarreling and immediately after two shots were fired. Laudelius fled from the house.

When Policeman Frank P. Haynes reached the scene the wife was lying unconscious on a bed and Rowland was stretched out dead on the threshold of the doorway with a 32-calibre revolver, having two chambers discharged, lying at his feet. Mrs. Rowland died on the way to the hospital.

She had been shot through the breast near the heart. The bullet which killed Rowland also passed close to his heart. Rowland was 40 years old and his wife was of about the same age. They have two children, Mary, aged 12, and Annie, a younger child.

THE MATHEWS

PRESENTED A VERY CLEVER MINSTREL OVERTURE.

A very successful minstrel show and social was held in the Mathews hall in [illegible] street on Tuesday night under the auspices of the Mathew Temperance Institute. The stage was occupied by a large chorus of young men and the chorus as well as the solo work was well carried out.

Mr. James Gannon rendered "Goodbye, Sweetheart, Goodbye," and Bert Ellis made a hit in "May be Day." The solo, "Starlight," by Mr. [illegible] Conley, and "Have You Seen My Henry Brown" by Charles White brought down the house.

Mr. Frank Connor sang "Sing Me to Sleep," and Charles Defoe rendered a ruthless, "When Mose with His Nose Lead the Band." Another sentimental singer who received much applause was Charles Fairbrother, who sang "Down Where the Morning Glories Twine."

Charles Slattery, endmen, sang one of the latest hits in Coontown, "I Don't Know Where I'm Goin', but I'm On My Way," and received several encores. The last number was the grand finale, by the entire company.

After the concert dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Music for the singing and dancing was furnished by the Calumet orchestra.

AMOS BARNES

WELL KNOWN HOTEL MAN IS DEAD.

BOSTON, May 31—Amos Barnes, one of the best known men in the country, and for many years proprietor of the Hotel Brunswick in the Back Bay district, died at that hotel yesterday after an illness of three weeks. Mr. Barnes was born in Lebanon, N. H., 71 years ago. His hotel career in Boston began in 1859 when he leased the United States hotel. In 1879 in partnership with John Dunklee he took a lease of the Hotel Brunswick. Mr. Barnes had also been interested in the Burnett house, Cincinnati, O.; Hotel Pemigewasset, Milford Spring, N. H., and the Hotel Victoria and the Hotel Vendome, in this city.

He is survived by a widow.

Continued

TUESDAY'S GAME

Lowell and Lawrence had at it Tuesday afternoon at Spalding park, it being the first appearance of the down river aggregation this season. The weather was not very favorable for baseball, but about 200 people braved the strong breeze that was blowing and enjoyed the game.

There were two new faces in Lowell uniform, Smythe, a pitcher, who did not play and [illegible] Carey of Wakefield, who was behind the bat for the local aggregation. Joe was as lively as a cricket and he showed a great throwing arm. Manager Lake was in uniform but did not play. Umpire Stafford called the game at 3 o'clock.

FIRST INNING

Lawrence scored two runs in the first inning while the home team failed to make a tally. Spooner sent a grounder to Shannon which the latter fumbled. Spooner went to second on a sacrifice by Billet. Page sent him to third with a single and then Page stole second. While Page was trying to steal the ball was sent to second but there was no one there to stop it and it went into the field while Spooner came home and Page went around to third. Briggs flied out to Fitzmaurice and Page went home. Wilson drew his base on balls. Weddidge hit in front of the plate and was thrown out at first.

For Lowell, Sheets flied out to Spooner and O'Neil hit to Page and went out at first. Shannon singled to left field but Burrill closed the inning by flying out to Connaughton.

Score—Lawrence 2, Lowell 0.

SECOND INNING

In the second inning Connaughton sent a grounder to O'Neil, but the latter fumbled. He went down to second on a sacrifice by Fulmer. Lee hit to O'Neil and was out at first. Spooner was flied out on a high foul fly to Carey, the latter making a pretty running catch.

Lowell got as far as third base in the second inning, but clever pitching by Lee kept the home team from scoring. Carey struck out. Sullivan hit to right field and Briggs letting the ball go through him gave Sully a phoney two-bagger. Fitzmaurice hit to Connaughton and was out at first while Sully went to third. Rothermel struck out.

Score—Lawrence 2, Lowell 0.

THIRD INNING.

Neither side scored in the third inning. Billet flied out to Sheets and Page hit to right field for two bases. Briggs, however struck out and Wilson flied out to Fitzmaurice.

In the latter half of the inning Murphy hit to Page and died at first. Sheets drew his base on balls, but died there, for O'Neil foul flied to Weddidge and Shannon struck out.

Score—Lawrence 2, Lowell 0.

FOURTH INNING.

The visitors scored three runs in the fourth inning. Weddidge the first man up flied out to Rothermel. Connaughton drew his base on balls and stole second. Fulmer was hit by a pitched ball and Lee bunted along the third base line for a single filling the bases. Spooner flied out to Shannon. Billet hit through Murphy for a single and Connaughton and Fulmer scored. Page hit to left field for two bases and Lee scored. Briggs hit to Murphy and died at first.

The home team went out in one, two, three order in the latter half of the inning. Burrill flied out to Page and Carey and Sullivan struck out.

Score—Lawrence 5, Lowell 0.

FIFTH INNING.

Lawrence scored one run in the fifth while Lowell failed to send a man across the plate. Wilson singled and Weddidge drew his base on balls. Connaughton hit to Rothermel and was out at first, the men on the bases advancing a base. Fulmer hit a hot grounder to Shannon who threw to Rothermel getting his man; but Wilson scored on the put out. Lee hit to O'Neil and died at first.

In Lowell's half Fitzmaurice singled to left field. Rothermel hit to Connaughton who threw to second getting Fitz and Page returned the ball to first for a double. Murphy was third out on a fly to Billet.

Score—Lawrence 6, Lowell 0.

SIXTH INNING.

In the sixth inning Spooner bunted along the third base line and O'Neil threw him out at first. Billet singled and Page flied out to Sheets. Briggs struck out.

Lowell failed to score in the latter half of the inning. Sheets drew his base on balls, but O'Neil and Shannon struck out. Burrill hit to Connaughton forcing Sheets out at second.

Score—Lawrence 6, Lowell 0.

SEVENTH INNING.

Wilson drew his base on balls. Weddidge bunted a fly to Murphy who threw to first for a double and Connaughton flied out to Fitzmaurice.

Carey and Sullivan struck out and Fitzmaurice flied out to Briggs.

Score—Lawrence 6, Lowell 0.

EIGHTH INNING.

Fulmer flied out to O'Neil. Lee struck out. Spooner flied out to Rothermel.

Rothermel got a single over second base. Murphy hit to Page and went out at first, Roth going to second. Sheets hit a hot one to Lee and died at first while Rothermel went down to third. O'Neil flied out to Spooner.

Score—Lawrence 6, Lowell 0.

NINTH INNING.

In the ninth inning Billet led out to Rothermel. Page hit to O'Neil and went out at first. Briggs hit to Shannon and died at first.

Shannon flied out to Spooner. Burrill did likewise and Lake went to bat for Carey. Lake flied out to Spooner.

Score—Lowell 0, Lawrence 6; hits—Lowell 4, Lawrence 7; errors—Lowell 3, Lawrence 0.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Lowell People

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Lowell residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. Its emphatic and convincing. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. Wm. A. Buckley, of [illegible] Chestnut st., Lowell, Mass., says: "Both my husband and myself are very strong advocates of Doan's Kidney Pills. Mr. Buckley took them some six years ago and was completely cured of kidney complaint and backache. He doctored and wore bandages and used liniments and other remedies but nothing did him any good until he got Doan's Kidney Pills at [illegible] & Co.'s drug store. The use of three boxes cured him and he regards it a pleasure to tell others of the great value of this medicine. Some time after he was cured I was taken with backache and other noticeable symptoms of kidney complaint. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and they soon banished the backache and corrected all other difficulties. I take a few when I feel that the kidneys are sluggish and they always tone me up and make me feel better in every way."

DIAMOND NOTES.

Manchester today.

It was a good old-time game and a good old time crowd.

If the team would play all the time as it did yesterday, Manager Lake would soon be wealthy.

Rothermel appears to have come out of it.

Those two double plays were as fine as one could get in the major league.

We think we're wise to Mr. Burkett. He's dreaming—that protest of his in the ninth inning was too theatrical to be real.

Young Mr. Knox, the Worcester catcher, has a fine whip and is a pretty good catcher but his poor head is way up.

Everything goes along like clockwork with Lake behind the bat.

O'Neil is playing an A1 fielding game at third.

Sully's throw home from right field, getting his man at the plate, alone was worth the price of admission. Sully has a great whip and they do say he once threw a ball from Marine park to Thompson's Island.

Of the three hits off Abbott only one was a clean single. He pitched a grand game.

"Old Sport" abandoned the press box yesterday for the more delightful environment of the ladies' grand stand.

Fitzmaurice is coming along finely in the field while he is a top notch batter.

Burkett would make a great sideshow barker.

Little Jack-in-the-box Hickman made a hit with the fans. He was in the game all the time and yet Burkett handed him a call down when he got out at second.

Bucket-Shop Must Go

The Bucket-Shopper is the jackal-thief who sneaks along the trail of the larger beasts of prey—the Frenzied Financiers—picking up what they disdain to touch.

By letting his victims make a little money at the start, he lures them on to stake all their savings, to borrowing on their homes, even to stealing, and finally to their ruin.

Merrill A. Teague, who led a vigorous and successful fight last summer against a pack of these unclean creatures in Philadelphia, is telling the readers of Everybody's what a Bucket-Shop is, who the thieves are, where they are, and how they operate.

Teague's fact-series on Bucket-Shopping begins in Everybody's for June.

A LARGE CHORUS

Female Minstrels a Grand Success

A female minstrel show was held in Associate hall last night under the auspices of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum of St. Patrick's church. The attendance was very large and the affair proved to be as successful as it was novel.

Young women friends of the members made up the chorus and the solos were sustained by them. There were only five males in the performance. They were James Callahan (Miss Flossie Abbott), Frank Higgins (Miss Gladys Harvey), John Keegan (Miss Marion Cleveland), Andrew Smith (Miss Sophie Mason), John Carroll (Miss Clara Proctor.)

The end women were Miss Clara Proctor, Miss Flossie Abbott, Miss Inez George, Miss Annie Gormley, Miss Sophie Mason and Miss Gladys Harvey. Miss Katherine McDonough was interlocutor. Miss Alice Donnelly was the accompanist. Mr. Timothy Rohan musical director, and Mr. John J. Carroll stage manager. The program follows:

Grand Opening Chorus
By Entire Company.
Solo—"In Dreamland,"
Miss Harriet Moran.
Solo—"After They Harvest the Hay,"
Miss Ellen Donahue.

Letter to J. J. McMANMON, Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir: Why, do you think, can Devoe sell pure paint as low as others sell adulterated paint?

There are 30 or 40 or 50 different makers of paint, that rank, in a way, as "first class"; they have their regions; one's region is large, another's is small; everyone is "first-class" in its region.

Of these 30 or 40 or 50, one is best, another next, and so on down; but the prices are all the same or about the same; you can buy one for less than another though, a personal matter sometimes.

But how, do you think, can Devoe sell the best for no more than the rest? The answer is: it costs less to sell it, more to make, less to sell. Reputation helps sell it. Its 150 years help sell it.

Go by the name.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & CO.

GRAND PARADE

MARTIN L. BASSETT, CHIEF MARSHAL.

G. A. R. Posts, Militia and High School Regiment in Line

Another Memorial day has come and gone and the graves of dead heroes are bearing on their green sod today beautiful flowers placed there by loving hands and in many instances bedewed with tears. The martial tread of the old soldier was heard upon our streets yesterday and as the death worn ranks passed by the younger generation felt the touch of reverence and love for the men whose age has carried them to the other side of the mountain where the sun is slowly sinking, the love-linked survivors of the civil war.

"Where sleep our soldier boys 'neath northern pine
Or whispering southern palm and tangled vine;
Above the sod where they in spirit tread,
Kept ever green by dews from Heaven shed;
Each year in May, we place our garlands there,
The laurel wreath entwined with flowers fair."

The weather yesterday was perfect. It was an ideal day for marching and the contrast between the grizzled veterans and the High school regiment and the Sons of Veterans was such as to inspire one with thoughts of the present and memories of the past. The soldiers of our latest war shared honors with the civil war veterans and all hats were off to the marchers, young and old.

Posts 42 and 185 formed on John street at 1.15, where they were joined by Post 120 on its return from Tyngsboro, this post pausing at the School street cemetery to decorate graves. The three posts headed by the American band then took cars for the Lowell and Gorham street cemeteries, where the graves were decorated. Camp Farragut, S. of V., with disabled veterans in carriages went to the Hildreth cemetery where the grave of Gen. Butler and other veterans were decorated. In all [illegible] graves were honored.

At 3.45 the various commands assembled on the South common and the line being formed, moved through Thorndike, Appleton, Central and Merrimack streets to the Ladd and Whitney monument.

The order of parade was the same as published in The Sun on Tuesday.

On arrival at the monument the column came to a rest while prayer was offered by Rev. W. George Mullin of St. Peter's church. Rev. Michael Ronan was unable to be present, but he sent a handsome floral wreath for the monument decorations.

From the monument the column moved through Tremont and Merrimack streets, being dismissed at Dutton street after review at city hall by the mayor, city council and chief marshal.

After the parade refreshments were served at all the post halls and there were literary and musical programs interspersed with speech making.

The G. A. R. posts visited all of the cemeteries in the city and the cemetery in East Chelmsford. The cemeteries were also visited by the Sons of Veterans and Spanish War Veterans.

The three posts arrived at the Lowell cemetery shortly after two o'clock. The exercises were in charge of Post 120. The ritual of memorial was read by Chaplain Pliny M. Goddard.

Edson cemetery was next visited where Post 185 had charge of the services. Chaplain Charles F. [illegible] read the ritual of the dead. The post also held services in the old burial ground in Gorham street. Post 42 had charge at St. Patrick's cemetery. Rev. W. George Mullin officiated there. The National band accompanied the veterans to the various cemeteries.

The Spanish War Veterans visited the graves of their dead during the morning, leaving Memorial hall at 9 o'clock.

The march was up Gorham street to the Edson cemetery, where services were held over the grave of Joseph San[illegible]. A quartet sang "One By One" and "The Vacant Chair," and "taps" was blown. Rev. A. P. Wedge addressed the comrades assembled. Then followed exercises in St. Patrick's cemetery, over the grave of Thomas Connors. Rev. W. George Mullin spoke there. At St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. Fr. Lamothe, O. M. I. officiated. After leaving the cemetery the command marched to the cemetery in East Chelmsford.

The Spanish War Veterans marched back to the city and to the armory, in Westford street, where refreshments were served about 1 o'clock.

The Sons of Veterans went to the Hildreth burial ground, in Centralville in the afternoon. The exercises were held about the Butler monument. Rev. Edwin R. Smith of the Pawtucket Congregational church, offered prayer and delivered an address. Albert C. Blaisdell, a member of the camp also spoke. The firing squad of the camp fired a salute over the grave of Gen Butler.

AT TYNGSBORO.

Memorial day was fittingly observed in Tyngsboro yesterday. Services were conducted in the town hall and the local cemetery by Post 120 of Lowell. Rev. George W. Bicknell, D. D., of Cambridge made a fine address on the significance of the day. After the exercises the veterans and school children were served an excellent dinner in the dining room connected with the town hall. The G. A. R. veterans returned to Lowell shortly before 12 o'clock.

AT CHELMSFORD.

Memorial day was observed at Chelmsford Centre under the auspices of the Chelmsford Veterans' association, Commander A. J. Boles. Graves were decorated by the following committee from the various sections of the town: A. J. Boles, James P. Emerson, William A. Ingham, George H. Smith, H. H. Emerson, A. G. Parkhurst.

The procession was formed at 9 a. m. at the town hall led by the Chelmsford band and with James P. Emerson as chief marshal. The line included the Chelmsford veterans, the two squads of Troop F cavalry, teachers and pupils of the High and grammar schools. At Forefathers' cemetery, the ritual was read by Commander Boles and Past Commander J. Adams Bartlett of Post 185, G. A. R.

Then the procession marched to the common where the revolutionary monument had been decorated by the ladies of the Central Baptist church, headed by Mrs. N. M. Parker. After a salute to the monument the line moved to the town hall, where the exercises were held.

There was an oration by Rev. C. E. Fisher of the First Universalist church of Lowell; address by Major Samuel E. Dutton, U. S. A.; singing by the school children, directed by Miss Mary P. Baxter, music by the band and other features.

AT WESTFORD.

At Westford yesterday fully 600 people attended the exercises at the hall in the forenoon, as well as at the band concert held on the common in the afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock. The speaker of the day was Rev. Benjamin H. Bailey who was in Washington at the time President Lincoln was assassinated, and gave a very simple and able address. Rev. Fr. Schofield of North Chelmsford interested the large audience.

In the early morning a force left the centre of the town and met the band at West Graniteville and then proceeded to all the cemeteries and decorated comrades' graves. The veterans assembled at the hall at 10 o'clock and formed a line of march, headed by Marshal Capt. C. H. Fletcher, Squad F, Troop F cavalry, Lieutenant E. Fisher commander, Nashua Military band, Westford veterans followed by barges containing the school children.

The exercises at the hall commenced at 11.30, and the program contained the following numbers: Call to order and word of welcome, Wesley O. Hawkes, president of Westford Veterans' association; prayer, Rev. C. P. Marshall; reading, Miss Abbie May Dyne of Boston; remarks, Rev. Fr. Schofield; song, "Soldier's Rest," Mrs. Charles Stebbins, South Deerfield, Mass.; oration, Rev. Benjamin H. Bailey; songs by Mr. John Craig. After the exercises a fine collation was served to all. The Nashua Military band gave a concert program on the common from 2 until 4.

At a meeting of the veterans, after the exercises at the hall yesterday, W. O. Hawkes was elected commander; J. E. Woods, secretary; S. G. Hunniston, treasurer.

OUT AT TEWKSBURY.

The observance of Memorial day at Tewksbury was under the direction of a committee consisting of John S. Chandler, W. H. Plummer, A. C. Blaisdell and Edward Marshall.

Following a concert by the Lowell Military band there were memorial exercises at the cemetery by a delegation of 35 from Post 185, G. A. R., Lowell, using the post ritual. Comrade George Wiggin was among those in attendance.

At Vestry hall Solon W. Stevens delivered the oration, substituting for John C. Burke, who was called to Vermont because of the serious illness of his brother.

The rest of the program was as follows:

Music, "American Republic"
Lowell Military Band.
Prayer ....Rev. H. H. Bishop
Music, "The Blue and the Gray"
Band.
Address
A. C. Blaisdell, Chairman committee.
Music, "Gems of Stephen Foster"
"Recollections of the War"
Band.
Benediction .... Rev. E. W. Pride

Dinner was served by the Tewksbury ladies.

THE OLDEST VETERAN.

Jotham Goodell of 632 Westford street is 88 years of age, having been born in 1817. He served in Company A, Sixth Massachusetts, and also in the Second Heavy Artillery. He is the oldest veteran in Lowell and we regret that he has no photograph available at the present time. He is in fairly good health but bothered with deafness. He rode in the parade.

FRANK PEABODY, SECRETARY OF THE COMMITTEE.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

McGOVERN—The funeral of the late Thomas McGovern will take place tomorrow morning at 8.15 from the funeral chapel of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons. Mass of requiem at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, undertakers.

REV. DR. JOHNSON

Spoke Before Young People's Union

The 14th annual convention of the Merrimack River association, Baptist Young People's union, was held yesterday afternoon and evening in the First Baptist church, corner of George and Church streets, this city.

The convention was called to order at 2.30 o'clock with a praise and devotional service conducted by Rev. Harry Taylor, and a brief address of welcome to the association was made by Rev. O. S. C. Wallace, D. D.

Rev. George F. Green, pastor of the First church of Lawrence, opened the business session.

Reports of officers were next in order. The superintendent of junior work, Mrs. Earle of Lawrence, told of the work of junior societies in a number of churches, including the First church of Lowell, Mrs. H. C. Fuller, leader, and the Branch Street church, Lowell, Mrs. A. R. Dilts, leader. The First church juniors furnished at Thanksgiving, dinner for 100 families, and at Christmas they sent gifts to every child in each of the three hospitals, besides contributing to the missionary fund and to other branches of the church work.

During the session solos were sung by Mr. J. P. Estey, Mr. Hill at the organ.

Rev. Frederick B. Greul, D. D., pastor of the First church of Haverhill, spoke on "The Nation's Security in a High Type of Manhood."

"The Truth About the Congo Free State," was the subject of an address by Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, D. D., pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist church of Boston.

On adjournment of the afternoon session supper was served in the vestry by the local society.

The evening session was opened at 7 o'clock with a praise service. Reports of committees were in order and the committee on resolutions presented a resolution which was adopted by the convention to be forwarded to the secretary of state protesting against the policy of King Leopold in the Congo Free State and asking for intercession by the United States.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. Harry Taylor of the First Baptist church, Lowell; vice president, Mr. E. A. DeMars of Lawrence; secretary, Miss Nellie Otis of Lawrence; assistant secretary, Miss Minnie Booth of Lawrence; treasurer, Mr. Howard Webber of Haverhill; junior superintendent, Miss Clara Morse of Haverhill, with two assistants, Mrs. C. C. Earle of Lawrence and Mrs. A. R. Dilts of Lowell; executive committee, with the officers named, Rev. Mr. Fisher of Methuen and Rev. W. E. Lombard of Andover.

The report of the committee on credentials showed an attendance of 225 registered, representing churches in Lawrence, Haverhill, Methuen, Lowell, Chelmsford Centre, North Chelmsford, Dracut, North Billerica and North Tewksbury.

The prize banner, awarded to the society making the largest progress in membership during the year, was won by the society of the First church of Haverhill, that society having gained 6 per cent, in membership.

An address, with stereopticon, was given by Rev. Sumner R. Vinton, on "The Ko San Ye Movement," a successful missionary movement in Burmah, under the leadership of Ko San Ye, a native convert.

DEATHS

BELLROSE—The remains of Stanislas Bellerose were sent from his home, 207 Cheever street, last night, to Canada, for burial at St. Gabriel de Brandon. The body was escorted to the Middlesex street station by L'Union Samuel de Champlain, marching in a body. Undertaker Joseph Albert had charge.

DENNIS—The many friends of Mrs. Emily Dennis, wife of Edward P. Dennis, will be pained to hear of her death, which occurred at her late home, 50 Chelmsford street, yesterday morning, after an illness of a few months. The immediate cause of her death was pneumonia. Her husband is the only near relative left to mourn her loss. Mrs. Dennis was born in this city and was educated in the public schools of the city in which she had lived nearly all her life respected and beloved by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She had been a regular attendant of the Kirk street church for many years.

McCABE—Henry R. McCabe, a well known resident of North Chelmsford, died at his home in that village, yesterday. Besides his mother, he leaves one brother, James E., and six sisters, Mrs. Maurice O'Donnell, Mrs. Catherine E. McEnaney, Mrs. John P. Garvey, Mrs. William J. Quigley and Misses Angie and Josephine McCabe. The funeral will take place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from the house. Mass of requiem at St. John's church, North Chelmsford, at 9 o'clock. Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

DUGAN—Mrs. Elizabeth Dugan, a highly respected resident of St. Peter's parish, died at her home, 35 Wamesit street, Tuesday night, aged 65 years. She leaves two sons, Thomas and Joseph Dugan; and two daughters, Elizabeth and Ella.

The funeral will take place at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning from the house. Requiem mass at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Undertaker McDermott in charge.

WING—James M. Wing, aged 51 years, died at his residence, 476 Merrimack street, last night. DECORATING THE GRAVES OF THE FALLEN COMRADES OF THE PAST

ROYAL WEDDING

Continued.

WEDDING FETES

THEY ARE DIVIDED INTO THREE PARTS.

MADRID, May 31.—The fetes for the King's wedding have been prepared [illegible] of lavishness. They are divided into three parts, the first including the family fetes celebrated at the royal palace by the members of the royal family; second those offered to the visiting princes, envoys and high functionaries, and third the popular fetes organized for the people. These begin on the wedding day, lasting a week or more. The royal fetes include banquets, dinners and [illegible] to the representatives of royal houses having family alliances with Spain are bidden. The official fetes to foreign envoys and high functionaries include a reception and banquet at the royal palace, military review, gala performance at the royal theatre, reception and ball at the Hotel De Ville, and many other entertainments for the distinguished guests.

By far the most interesting fetes are those in which the people participate, including night illumination of the Prado and other public quarters, a Venetian fete at the Westpero, three bull fights, a luminous cortege, a battle of flowers and a procession of all the Spanish provinces in typical groups and figures, in order that the new queen may see the Spanish people from every quarter of the country.

The program of the luminous cortege gives an idea of the extent and splendor of the popular fetes. Its main features are: Two great decorative floats with the portraits of the king and queen, two artistic pyramids with figures representing the Spanish provinces supporting the arms of Spain and Battenburg; a beautiful gallery of ornamental flowers, transparent and luminous, liberty style; float containing 20 monster flambeaux, with the monograms of Alphonso and Ena, surmounted by royal crowns; three pyramids of flowers and colored lights (300 persons); flambeaux surrounding the portrait of the queen mother; a pyramid formed by ten galleries (100 persons); flambeaux with the portrait of King Edward with British banners and arms, twenty floats giving Spanish history in allegorical designs (300 persons), 50 floats with the arms of the principal Spanish towns; 16 floats bearing Spanish and British banners; seven large luminous letters spelling "Alfonso"; eight enormous luminous letters spelling "Victoria"; two great royal crowns of 20 feet diameter; eight great decorative floats each transported by 160 persons; a great float formed by the arms of Spain and Battenburg, surrounded by laurel.

Thousands of people form the personnel of these floats. Besides those mentioned there are many representing huge pansies, roses and lilies. The luminous inscriptions breathe welcome to the new queen and long life to the royal couple, "Vive la reine, Victoria Eugenia," "Glory to the British Navy," "Madrid and London," "Long Live Our King and Queen," "Glory to Shakespeare and Byron," and many other popular greetings for the English princess who becomes a Spanish queen.

ROYAL FAMILY

TOOK LEADING PART IN THE MARRIAGE.

MADRID, May 31.—Those taking the most important part in the marriage of the king are the members of the ministry, with whom the marriage is an affair of state as well as of the heart; representatives of Spanish nobility and Knights of the Golden Fleece; Cardinal Sancha, primate of Spain and archbishop of Toledo with a distinguished retinue of bishops and dignitaries of the church; officers of the army and navy, judges and high functionaries. The principal figures in this brilliant assemblage are as follows:

The royal family: The queen mother, Maria Christina; the king's sister, Maria Theresa, wife of Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria; the king's brother-in-law, Prince Carlos, widower of the princess of Asturias, whose little son, the Infant Alfonso, is the actual prince hereditary of Spain; the king's aunts, the Infantas Isabella Maria de la Paz, and Eulalie.

The cabinet: Premier Moret, leader of the liberal party; minister of foreign affairs, duke of Almodovar del Rio; under-secretary of foreign affairs, Senor Ojeda; minister of the interior, Count Romanones; minister of war, General Luque, prominent during the Spanish-American war; minister of marine, Captain Concas; minister of justice, Garcia Prieto; minister of agriculture, R. Gasset; minister of finance, Mones Salvador; minister of public instruction, Santa-maria de Paredes; Senor Maura, ex-premier and leader of the conservative party; the president of the senate, Marshall Lopez Dominguez. The president of the cortes, Don Jose Chaipjes y Mendes.

Knights of the Golden Fleece: The duke of Veragua, a descendant of Columbus; the Marquis de la Vega de Armijo; the count of Cheste; Senor Montero Rios; Senor Pidal.

Chiefs of the royal household: The duke of Sotomayor, chief of the royal palace; General Ibscaran, chief of the Royal Guard; General Pacheco, chief of the Royal Halberdeers; the Marquis de la Mina, chief of the royal hunt.

Church dignitaries: Cardinal Sancha, primate of Spain and archbishop of Toledo; the bishop of Zion, bishop for the army. The governor of Madrid, Senor Ruiz Gimenez; the mayor of Madrid, Senor Vincenti, the president of the high court, Field Marshal Martinez del Campo, Generals Weyler, Polavieja, and Primo de Rivera, and Admiral Cervera.

Among the leading literary and artistic figures for whom the court shows special attention, are the painters, Pradilla, Moreno Carbonera, Munoz Degrain, Sorolla, the latter director of the Prado gallery, the sculptors, Mariano Benlliure, Augustin Querol, Marceros and Blay, the musicians Breton and Chapi, and the men of letters, Jose Echegaray, Perez Galdos, Ramon y Cajal and Menendez Pelayo.

Everybody Likes Good Pie

There is no longer any excuse for poor pies on your table, as you should follow the lead of thousands and use D-Zerta Quick Pudding as a filling for pies. Try this recipe:

D-Zerta Chocolate Cream Pie.

Prepare a package of D-Zerta Chocolate Pudding according to directions on package, adding one-half cup of sugar. Put in crust which has been baked. Cover with meringue made with the whites of two eggs. This makes two large pies or three small ones.

All the five flavors—Lemon, Vanilla, Orange-Macaroon, Chocolate and Strawberry, can be used in the same way, and bananas, cocoanut, etc., added as desired. D-Zerta Quick Pudding is also used as a cake filling and for a pudding dessert. Simply add a quart of milk to contents of one package, bring to a boil, cool and serve with cream and sugar. Order from your grocer, 10 cts. per package.

THE TROUSSEAU

ALL THE ROBES WERE MADE IN LONDON.

MADRID, May 31.—Except the wedding dress and the bridal trousseau of robes, [illegible] evening and tea gowns, lingerie and underlinen, was made in London, where many of the dresses have been on exhibition. Some of the articles of this queenly trousseau are described as follows:

A dainty dress of white mousseline de soie flowered with miniature roses. A [illegible] gown of fine spotted lawn, over [illegible] lace, inset with Valenciennes lace. A beautiful princess robe in [illegible] lawn, made to wear over many different colored slips. A charming pale blue China silk Empire morning robe is fastened in front with blue rosettes and cords. Another morning gown is of white lawn over pale blue, inserted at equal distances with Valenciennes lace. A smart morning frock is composed entirely of English embroidery in a very openwork design.

Among the simple day gowns are many composed of linen. The bodices in many instances are made after the American blouse style, with touches of red and blue embroidery. One of the many dressing jackets is made of the palest [illegible] white Zenana edged with quaint silk embroidery. A handsome day dress is composed of ivory crepe de Chine, the bodice arranged with the finest Guipure lace and tucked squares of crepe de Chine, the centre of which are delicately embroidered with colored rosebuds and set together with insertions of Valenciennes lace. A simple frock is of the palest pink and white flowered voile, with Valenciennes lace. Another day dress is of pale pink and white satin foulard in a small design. Another beautiful visiting dress is of fine white Valenciennes lace and ivory-colored cloth.

Among the many tea gowns is a beautiful one of palest pink mousseline de soie made in the Empire style. Another is a pale yellow Empire gown veiled with white [illegible]. The large bell sleeves are entirely of frills of lace, and round the short waist are pale yellow ribbons threaded through embroidery. There is a handsome evening coat of pale biscuit-colored faced cloth, with a hood composed of Valenciennes lace, dyed to match the cloth. Among the evening gowns is a short-waisted one of pale maize mousseline. Another Empire evening gown is of white silk mousseline flowered all over with tiny clusters of pink roses.

The underlinen is made of the finest ninon trimmed with real Valenciennes lace and fine embroidery. The initials of the royal bride surmounted by the Spanish crown are worked on all the garments.

MOORISH CAMP

WHERE THE WEDDING FETES WERE HELD.

MADRID, May 31. One of the most unique spots prepared for the wedding fetes is the historic field on which the Moors camped, now transformed into gardens rivalling the famed gardens of Versailles. Recently 50,000 trees have been planted of various varieties, 1,000 palm trees, and 15,000 rose bushes of every known species.

The camp was first laid out as a garden by Philip II., and was for a time the resort of many celebrities such as Lope de Vega and Calderon. Although allowed to go to wrack and ruin in recent years, there still remains some fine statuary including the Triton fountain, subject of one of Velasquez's pictures. This is the first time any effort has been made to turn it to account as one of the notable adornments of Madrid.

THE HONEYMOON

WILL BE SPENT IN CASTLE LA GRANJA.

MADRID, May 31.—The castle which Alfonso and his queen have chosen for their honeymoon is the Spanish Versailles, known as La Granja. It is a quaint and quiet spot, far removed from the inquisitive throngs of the capital, and with all the picturesque and romantic surroundings suitable for a royal honeymoon.

The palace is situated at the foot of the imposing Pico de Penalara in the Guadarrama mountains, high above the sea level. The little village dates from ancient times, when Henry IV. built a chapel there and dedicated it to St. Ildefonso. Later, the friars of the Parral Monastery established here a farm (La Granja) which so much suited the fancy of the first Spanish Bourbon, Phillip V., that he bought the place and erected a magnificent palace with surrounding parks, in the style of his French native country. The fountains and water works then established and still running are not surpassed by any royal possession in Europe.

For years the Spanish kings used the palace and park as a pleasure resort, much as the French kings passed their days of pleasure at Versailles. Charles III. received here the Count Artois, when he marched to conquer Gibraltar. Godoy signed here the treaty which delivered Spain from France, and Ferdinand VII. here appointed the Infant Don Carlos to be prince hereditary. When his energetic sister-in-law heard of this intention, she hastened to La Granja, threw the courtiers out of the palace, gave to Premier Calomarde the famous box on the ear, about which, he said later that "white hands cannot offend"; tore to pieces the first Spanish Testament, and insured the throne to the king's little daughter Isabella events which caused the bloody civil war.

La Granja is at its best at this time of year, and the blossoms, the old trees, the myrtle lanes, the fountains, and the fresh mountain air, will all serve to make this royal honeymoon a delight. The castle overlooks the park, with its numerous cascades and lakes, supplied with water from huge reservoirs. These water-works are really the most remarkable feature of La Granja, and the effect of the fountains is much more grand than at Versailles. In the fountain of Perseus, who rescues Andromeda from the dragon, the latter throws a jet of 105 feet in the air. The basket fountain consists of numerous jets, 49 to 65 feet high, and the jet of the Fame fountain, 115 feet high, can be seen at Segovia.

The "Bath of Diana" is a chaos of water spouts and statues of goddesses and nymphs, glorifying the triumph of the loving woman, appearing in her whole beauty.

THE PEOPLE

HAD A CHANCE TO SEE NEW QUEEN.

MADRID, May 31.—The route of the wedding cortege has been designed to give Princess Ena a glimpse of all the [illegible] of Madrid [illegible] and going [illegible] church and at the same time to [illegible] the people an opportunity to see [illegible] new queen. [illegible] Puerta de [illegible] Carrera de San Jeronimo [illegible] Metwas [illegible] Sol [illegible] new [illegible] was one of [illegible] Prado [illegible] the Canon [illegible] IV. [illegible] on the old [illegible] new queen will [illegible] Puerta del [illegible] Academy [illegible] Cervantes [illegible] the Academy opposite bank of Spain on the way to the Prado. [illegible] in honor of the [illegible] war of Independence [illegible] exchange [illegible] Neptune [illegible] the Jeronimos [illegible] the marriage ceremony [illegible]. Practically the same [illegible] on the way back from [illegible] are so many [illegible] with the bride [illegible] with the queen mother [illegible] royal house [illegible] that all Madrid has an opportunity to see something of the spectacle.

HUNTED BY MOB

MAN ACCUSED OF ASSAULTING GIRL FOUND IN WOODS.

BRAINTREE, May 31.—After being pursued through the woods yesterday by a posse of citizens, headed by State Detective John N. Scott, a well-known man of this town, Richard S. S. Hollis was captured and locked up in the police station charged with assault.

It is alleged that Hollis met Miss Esther Wentworth, 25 years old, on Pearl street, in a secluded part of the town yesterday forenoon and, without warning, assaulted her brutally. The young woman screamed for assistance and when her 11-years-old brother George appeared, Hollis, it is claimed, fled to the woods. Miss Wentworth was in a pitiable condition. She had been knocked down, kicked about the head and body, her nose was broken and one of her teeth knocked out.

CLEVER BOXING

At Meeting of Spindle City Club

The best program and the largest attendance of members that the Spindle City Athletic club has had this [illegible] was given last evening at the [illegible] rooms in Middle street, when [illegible] turned out to see [illegible] Kenney of this city and Kid Pantz [illegible] go four rounds [illegible] two of the cleverest men of their weight in New England. Had the contest been for a decision it is safe Kenney would have received the decision as he clearly outpointed his rival from start to finish. Kenney was in fine form despite the fact that he had appeared in Thornton R. I. on Monday evening against Young Cr[illegible], the champion of South Africa. That Kenney is improving every day and will yet be the peer of the top notchers was evidenced by his work last evening. He was doing something all the time while his opponent showed a most exasperating disposition to hold on and waste time. Kenney introduced a few new ones to his Boston opponents, one of them being a sort of subway uppercut done in a clinch which invariably reached Pantz where he stows away the macaroni. Kenney kept both hands going all the time and it mattered not in what position he might be he could use them and Pantz was on the defensive about all the time. Pantz was some seven pounds heavier than Kenney but that didn't bother the Lowell boy in the least. He was right there with the [illegible] from start to finish and his fellow club members think better of him as a boxer than they ever did before. His exhibition last evening stamps him as one of the best in his class and he will make a worthy opponent for Chester Goodwin or Matty Baldwin.

Before the program opened Jimmy Gardner was introduced by Master of Ceremonies Martin Flaherty as the best 172-pound boxer in America, and it was a unanimous vote. Jimmy and Billy Gardner are about to make a tour of the middle west where Jimmy is matched with Young Black in Peoria, Ill., and Jack Thompson at Dayton, O. Billy, who is in fine form, has also been promised plenty of work on the trip.

For a curtain raiser Young Donahue and Bobby Keeler, two local men, went four rounds in a neat exhibition with honors even. Then Gus Ross of Boston and Young Clinton of this city entertained for six rounds. Clinton had the advantage of several pounds weight and likewise the advantage in the contest.

Tim Buckley of Nashua, who when last weighed, tipped the scales at 350 and is still going up, challenged any man of his weight in the club. The directors offered to appoint a committee of three whose combined weight would reach 350 to go six rounds with Tim, but the latter declined with thanks.

Decorate your home with our new and attractive wall papers. We will assist you with our advice to bring about charming results. Kittredge & Co., 208 Central street.

MICHAEL DAVITT

THE LATE MICHAEL DAVITT.

The Well Known Irish Leader is Dead

DUBLIN, May 31.--A notable career closed last night when, after a long and painful illness, Michael Davitt died peacefully and painlessly at 12 o'clock, in the presence of his oldest son, Michael, and his two daughters, who had devotedly attended him through his illness and of many of his most intimate friends, including John Dillon. Shortly before his death Father Hatton had been with him. Mrs. Davitt who had been in constant attendance on her husband, until a few days ago, when she herself was taken ill, lies prostrate in the same hospital, too weak to leave the room. She has not yet been informed of her husband's death.

The greatest sympathy has been displayed by all classes of society during Mr. Davitt's illness. Yesterday the hospital was besieged by anxious inquirers.

After a rally Tuesday night Mr. Davitt was able to speak to those at his bedside but soon showed that he was losing ground.

Mr. Davitt retired from the representation of South Mayo in parliament in 1899 but to the last took a keen interest in the politics of his country.

Death was due to blood poisoning, which followed two operations for necrosis of the jaw bone and spread so rapidly that all efforts to stay its course were unavailing. Mr. Davitt's illness began with an insidious attack of toothache.

For some time there were hopes for his recovery, but the state of his health, which was undermined by exertions at the recent general elections, greatly handicapped his progress.

ANNUAL REGATTA

BUCKLEY WAS DEFEATED BY MILLER.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The fortieth annual regatta of the Harlem Regatta association was held on the speedway course, Harlem river, yesterday afternoon. The races were one mile and a quarter straight away and there were sixteen events and two trial heats on the program. The weather conditions were perfect and the races, as a rule, warmly contested.

John P. Buckley of Portland, Me., who was looked upon as a sure winner in the veteran senior event, was beaten quite handily by Miller of the Nassau Boat club of New York.

Senior doubles was the best event of the day from the standpoint of finished oarsmanship. It was a bruising contest all the way, Vasely and Budre, of the First Bohemian Boat club, New York managing to win by a narrow margin from the Staten Island crew.

IRISH LEAGUE

TO HAVE NOTED SPEAKERS NEXT MONDAY EVENING.

The executive committee of the United Irish League met Tuesday evening and announced a change in the meeting nights. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, June 4, at A. O. H. hall and not on Sunday. For some time past President Lee has been endeavoring to get John O'Callaghan, the national secretary, to address the league and at the meeting on Tuesday evening he announced that Mr. O'Callaghan would certainly be here on next Monday evening. He also announced that the national treasurer, Hon. Thomas B. Fitzpatrick of Boston, would accompany Mr. O'Callaghan to Lowell and address the league. It is intended to make this meeting a rouser as it will be the last before the hot weather season. A fine musical program will be presented and a large attendance is expected. Pres. Lee will make an important announcement relative to the Ho for the Beach picnic.

RECEIVED DIPLOMA

MISS IDA McLAUGHLIN A GRADUATE NURSE.

Miss Ida McLaughlin, a nurse at St. John's hospital, was graduated Tuesday evening from the nurses' training school at that institution, receiving the much-coveted diploma, gold medal and black-banded cap. They were given by Sister Agnes in the presence of the sisters and pupil nurses. All adjourned to the nurses' house where light refreshments were served and a pleasant evening was passed as many of the pupils are accomplished musicians as well as devoted to the sick and suffering. A number of the former graduates were invited to attend, as usual.

Miss McLaughlin will practice in this city, and bids fair to have marked success here in her chosen profession.

George Mulligan of Wilmington is much concerned that somebody arrested for drunkenness gave his name. George does not seem to realize that some names are duplicated.

C.T.A.U. MEETING

John McKenna Elected First Vice President

LIVELY CONTEST FOR DELEGATES

To National Convention at Providence

About 100 delegates, who represented upward of 60 separate temperance societies in the archdiocese, attended the annual convention of the C. T. A. U. held in Dorchester, yesterday. Substantial gains in membership during the year were reported by nearly all the affiliated societies, and several new organizations were heard from.

The exercises opened with mass in St. Leo's church. The Holy Family Temperance league of the parish was present as a body. The Rev. Dr. John T. Mullen, rector of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, officiated, assisted by Frs. John V. Cronin and Reardon. Fr. Francis J. Butler, rector of St. Leo's and president of the union was master of ceremonies.

The Rev. George V. Leahy of the faculty of St. John's Ecclesiastical seminary, Brighton, preached.

The delegates were welcomed by the Rev. Fr. Butler. The committees were announced as follows:

Constitution and by-laws—Thomas F. Phalen, Roxbury, chairman; C. E. Callahan, Norwood; Charles H. Farrell, Maurice Dineen, Malden; Frank L. Burns, Lynn; M. J. Carroll, Brookline; Bernard Pettee, Brockton.

Credentials: Dan. J. Kelley, Brighton, chairman; Neil J. Doherty, Woburn; William T. Cassell, Boston.

Organization: The Rev. Michael J. Doody, Cambridgeport, chairman; Lawrence E. Murphy, Boston; E. E. Gagan, East Cambridge; Edward F. Slattery, Lowell.

Resolutions: The Rev. Dr. John T. Mullen, Boston, chairman; Maj. John J. Leonard, Dorchester; Dennis A. McCarthy, Cambridge; Hugh Molloy, Lowell.

The gathering denounced the practice of drinking at public gatherings, meetings of political clubs and social and fraternal organizations. The movement to restrict the sale of liquor to women aims at checking sales even for home use.

It was announced that the recent raise in the per capita tax had proved beneficial financially. The increase of about 700 new members during the year was attributed largely to the efforts of the Rev. Fr. Butler. The election results were as follows:

President, the Rev. Francis J. Butler; vice presidents, John A. McKenna, Lowell, and Mrs. Katherine Tillotson, Roxbury; treasurer, the Rev. M. J. Doody, Cambridgeport; general secretary, Otho T. O'Leary, Dorchester; financial secretary, Maurice Dineen, Malden; corresponding secretary, Frank L. Burns, Lynn.

Not the least interesting part of the convention was the scholarly paper on "Alcohol and its effect as a stimulant," prepared and read by Dr. John F. Connolly, a Harvard graduate, and he held the closest attention of the large audience. He contended in his paper that alcohol does not act as a stimulant on the system when used in cases of sickness, but rather as a narcotic, that gives a depressing effect.

The election of delegates to the national body in August at Providence, R. I. was spirited, not less than fourteen candidates for the three places having been named; the result was made known shortly before adjournment, and it was found that Rev. M. J. Doody, Cambridge, Maurice Dineen, Malden, and Mrs. Mary Murphy, Boston, were the lucky ones.

The alternates selected were John V. Donoghue, Lowell, Thomas F. Phelan, Boston, Mrs. Anna C. Graves, Roxbury.

The election of John A. McKenna as vice president was received with joy by the delegates with whom Mr. McKenna is deservedly popular. The latter made brief but eloquent remarks, emphasizing the necessity of active work in the union.

The report of the treasurer showed several hundred dollars in the coffers of the organization, and Secretary O'Leary's report, replete with many suggestions, showed a gain of three societies.

Representing the Mathews at the convention were eight delegates, namely, Secretary Charles Sullivan, John Coughlin, Edward Slattery, Charles Defoe, John Sharkey, John A. McKenna, John J. Coyne and J. V. Donoghue.

Pres. John E. Harrington and Stephen F. Ward of North Chelmsford attended the convention and Mr. Ward was chairman of the balloting committee.

Neat badges were worn by the delegates and everyone was provided with a new constitution nicely bound.

AUCTION SALE

22 House Lots and 3 Houses in Centralville. Saturday, June 2, at 3 p.m.

This property is situated on Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets in a most attractive, rapidly growing section of Centralville.

The house lots contain from 4000 to 5000 square feet each. The land being high and dry is most desirable for building purposes.

One two-tenement house, numbered 78 Seventeenth street, contains 12 rooms, two bath rooms, and cemented cellars, all in first class repair. Also going with this house is a fine barn for two horses and 3000 square feet of land. The property is rented and brings in $18 a month.

Two seven-room cottage houses, numbered 70 Seventeenth street and 171 Eighteenth street. Both houses are in fine condition, having all modern improvements. The lots contain 5000 square feet each and the houses rent for $12 each.

This is an excellent opportunity for the man of moderate means to secure a nice home.

DEAD IN A TRUNK

Three Little Children Were Suffocated

CHICAGO, May 31.—A despatch to the Tribune from Kankakee, Ill., says: At the close of a four-hour search for her three youngest children, Mrs. Adelord Van Slette found them last night dead in a trunk in an upper chamber.

All three were little girls, the youngest a mere baby. One dead body was sitting upright; the others lay huddled together upon a pillow. The lid of the trunk was tightly closed upon them.

It is supposed they had crawled into the trunk during their play and that the cover fell and latched and that they were suffocated. The tray of the trunk had been lifted out and lay upon a bed.

With their six boys and four girls the Van Slettes moved here from a farm at Beaverville a year ago. Van Slette is a teamster and is in good circumstances. The whole family occupies a five-room house. The younger children of the family had been playing out of doors much of the day, listening to music and watching martial display. Late in the afternoon the three youngest, Ida, eight years old, Rosella, aged 6 and Pearl aged 2, left the others going into the house to continue their romping.

Supper time came and Mrs. Van Slette's calls through the house and yard failed to bring any response.

After supper was over Mrs. Van Slette according to the story later told by the family turned her attention to the house. She had gone through the rooms a dozen times and thought she had searched every nook and corner.

At last the mother, in a sleeping room where was a large old fashioned rounding top trunk of the "Saratoga" variety, observed something she had overlooked before. The light tray had been taken from the trunk and was lying on the bed.

Mrs. Van Slette lifted the lid of the closed trunk and saw her two babies lying on a pillow in the bottom of the trunk. Ida, the oldest of the three girls, was sitting upright, her head drooping on her breast. The children were so still that Mrs. Van Slette stood in sympathetic stillness for an instant. Then she put forth her hand and touched Ida and spoke.

Contact with the girl's head and the lack of response froze the woman with horror. The children were dead. The trunk is not self-locking, but it has clasps that easily might snap and hold it shut against the strength of the children. An inquest will be held today.

GUESTS SCARED

Fire in a Hotel in Chicago

CHICAGO, May 31.—Fire starting in a clothes closet on the second floor of the Windsor-Clifton hotel, Monroe street and Wabash avenue, shortly before 3 o'clock this morning spread between the walls to the fourth floor. The fire was discovered when smoke penetrated the room of a guest on the third floor who notified the night clerk. A general panic among the guests followed and many fled half clad into the office of the hotel. Others even less clad ran to the fire escapes and prepared to leave if the fire spread. The fire did not spread beyond the fourth floor and the damage was limited to $2000.

JAPANESE

ARE TAKING THE PLACES OF RUSSIANS.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The rapidity with which Japanese have supplanted not only Russian soldiers but merchants of that nationality in Manchuria as a result of the late war, is clearly exhibited by the report of the commissioner of customs at Nieuchwang, the new principal port of the province. He states that in 1895 the total number of foreigners residing there was 222, of whom 11 were Japanese with no Russians; in 1900 the number of foreigners was 1954 of whom 35 were Japanese and 1769 Russians, while in 1905, after the war, the number of foreigners was 7699, of whom 7408 were Japanese and only one Russian.

GOLF SWEEPSTAKES.

Eighteen players took part in the golf sweepstakes tournament at the Vesper-Country club yesterday. The winners were C. S. Weston, whose net total was 79, with scores of 43 and 47, and handicap of 11; C. S. Proctor, net total 78. His scores were 50 and 52, and his handicap was 26; and Joseph Peabody, total 80, scores 49 and 46, handicap 15.

CONVICTS DEAD

They Drank Some Wood Alcohol

RAWLINS, Wyo., May 31.—Two convicts died at the state penitentiary here yesterday from the effects of drinking wood alcohol. They were workers in the broom factory, where shellac varnish is used in finishing the handles. They allowed the shellac to settle and drank the wood alcohol which is used to cut the shellac. Both died in horrible convulsions, having become totally blind from the effects of the drug. At death the surface of the body was black as shoe leather. Two other convicts drank the alcohol also but as they had indulged less freely were saved.

DIPLOMAS

GIRLS ARE QUALIFIED TO "KEEP HOUSE."

CHICAGO, May 31.—Diplomas certifying that the recipients are qualified to "keep house" for husbands receiving $10 a week, were given yesterday to several young women at Chicago commons. The graduates, all of whom are to be married soon, were members of a class in economical housekeeping and cooking.

CANNING PLANTS

ONLY TWO OF THEM MAY BE WORKED.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—It is estimated that 300,000 cases of goods were burned in the factories and warehouses of the various packers during the big fire in addition to such stock as was in the hands of the wholesale and retail grocery trade. In the disaster the majority of the local canners were burned out and of those who remain it would appear that only two and perhaps three will be operated this season. For this reason, it is likely that the pack will be materially shortened.

WAGE QUESTION

MAY BE SETTLED WITHIN 24 HOURS.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Unless unforeseen changes develop in the elevated road situation, the chances are good for a settlement of the wage question within the next 24 hours. Efforts of the road presidents and the union committee to arrive at an amicable understanding were partly successful yesterday and the men will vote on the acceptance of the terms today or tomorrow.

In the interest of peace the managers of the "loop" decided to make some additional concessions as to wage increases. The committee representing the men on the other hand agreed to waive their demand for a colsed shop.

MAN KILLED

HE WAS THROWN FROM HIS BICYCLE.

WORCESTER, May 31.—George W. Witt of Warren, aged 47, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by being thrown from his bicycle on the Holland road, half a mile from Fiskdale. Mr. Witt was interested in mineralogy and was on his way to the lead mine in Sturbridge. He leaves a widow and one son.

TELEPHONE CO.

Will be Given a Hearing June 11

A hearing on the petition of the directors of the Merrimack Valley Independent Telephone company will be given before the board of aldermen at a special meeting to be held Monday, June 11.

The new company has not as yet submitted the plans for conduits and pole locations, but City Clerk Dodman, his assistants, Edwards, Cheney, employes of the assessors office and engineers office, have been busily engaged in looking up the property owners along the streets where the company has petitioned to lay conduits and erect poles, as it is the duty of the city clerk to notify the abutters that a hearing will be given at which time and place they may remonstrate.

It is estimated that between four and five thousand abutters will be notified.

The new telephone company is preparing to give the members of the board of aldermen another little outing before the hearing is held, but it is hoped that it will not result as disastrously as did the one, under the same auspices, last Sunday.

One thing has been settled on and that is that the board will either go by trolley or train as the members have no desire to risk the automobiles.

CEREBRO SPINAL.

Another cerebro spinal meningitis case has been reported, the latest patient being William Ryan, aged 19 years of 121 Moore street.

A NEW DIRECTORY.

City Messenger Pattee was busily engaged today in preparing a new directory for the city hall. The two large marble slabs on either side of the main entrance to city hall give the numbers and names of the different offices in the building, but as the directory has not been changed for many years many of the names and numbers are wrong and has been an inconvenience rather than a convenience to people unfamiliar with the location of offices. In a few days however the slabs will be washed of their paint and corrected.

PAYING WATER BILLS.

There is a big rush to pay water bills at the office of the city treasurer today, this being the last day to pay in order to secure the rebate of ten per cent.

FOR UNPAID TAXES.

City Treasurer Stiles will advertise the real estate for unpaid taxes on Monday next and the sale will take place during the latter part of June in the city treasurer's office.

AFTER CORPORATIONS.

The principal assessors are now busily engaged in looking over the small corporations in this city, and expect to start on the big ones next week.

CITY COUNCIL OUTING.

A movement is now under way among the members of the city council to hold an outing during the latter end of June in order to entertain the members of the Salem city council. If the project goes through the Salem city fathers will entertain the local members of the council at a later date.

DEEP GASH

WILLIAM A. HOGAN MET WITH PAINFUL INJURY.

William A. Hogan, employed by the Eastern Bridge and Structural company of Worcester, while at work on the new Colonial building, corner of Merrimack and Central streets, today, met with a painful accident.

He was assisting in unloading some heavy iron beams from a dray when one of the beams slipped and one end of the beam struck him on the jaw, inflicting a deep gash.

The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to St. John's hospital where his injury was attended to.

PERSONALS

Mr. Samuel Worth has accepted a position as overseer in the Boott cotton mills.

Miss Minnie T. Riley of Third street, the well known teacher of pianoforte, has discontinued teaching and has gone to the country for a month's rest.

About 30 members of the Y. W. C. A. enjoyed a day's outing at Canobie Lake yesterday. They provided themselves with basket lunches and enjoyed the day and its pleasures very much.

Mr. Thomas McCarthy, the well known piccolo player and teacher, has returned home after completing an engagement at Lakewood, N. J. Mr. McCarthy has several summer engagements to select from.

MICHAEL DAVITT

WILL BE BURIED IN HIS BIRTHPLACE.

DUBLIN, May 31.—The funeral of Michael Davitt, who died at midnight, has been fixed for June 2 and will be as private as possible, in accordance with the expressed wishes of the dead man. His body will be buried at Straide, county Mayo, Davitt's birthplace. Messages of sympathy are arriving from all parts of the world.

JOSEPH JENNINGS

JOSEPH JENNINGS, THE NEW POLICE COMMISSIONER TO SUCCEED JOHN R. SHEA.

Appointed Police Commissioner by Mayor

Capt. Joseph Jennings of hose 11 of the Lowell fire department, was today appointed police commissioner for six years to succeed Commissioner John R. Shea. Mr. Jennings will be the chairman of the board.

The following letter of appointment was delivered to Mr. Jennings this morning:

"Lowell, Mass., May 31, 1906.

Mr. Joseph Jennings, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I hereby appoint you as a member of the board of police of the city of Lowell for the term of six years beginning the first Monday of June, 1906.

I hereby designate and appoint you as chairman of the said board of police of the city of Lowell.

Truly yours,

JAMES B. CASEY, Mayor.

Prior to the receipt of his appointment Mr. Jennings tendered his resignation as a member of the fire department to Assistant Chief James F. Norton, in the absence of Chief Hosmer.

Mr. Jennings came to Lowell 38 years ago and was appointed a call fireman on engine 1 in Gorham street and in 1885 was appointed a lieutenant of the same company. In 1889 he was made a permanent man and January 1, [illegible], was transferred from engine 1 to hose 11 and made captain of the latter company, which position he has filled in an efficient manner until this morning when he tendered his resignation. He is 48 years of age and unmarried.

In conversation with a representative of The Sun this morning Mr. Jennings said: "I will insist on a thorough enforcement of the law and will endeavor to win the confidence and good will of my fellow citizens by my official acts."

He will be sworn into office Monday morning.

It is understood that John R. Shea will be appointed clerk of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Joseph Smith.

BURNING MONEY

MARIA RICHARDSON WAS PLACED UNDER ARREST.

Maria Richardson had money to burn; it belonged to a peddler. Officer Peter Bagley saw her throw it in the stove and he placed her under arrest. At the police station she allowed that she had a perfect right to burn money if she wanted to. It happened, however, that there wasn't any fire in the stove.

John Jacobs, a peddler called at the house and was showing his goods. When he reached the street he found that he was minus $15 in bills and some change. He registered a great big kick. He hollered for the police and Officer Bagley was Johnnie on the spot. The officer heard the story, telephoned to the police station and Inspector Maher went to the scene of the trouble. Maria will be arraigned in police court tomorrow charged with larceny.

Officer Bagley caught her in the act of putting a $5 bill in the stove but that was all of the money that the police succeeded in recovering.

IMMENSE LOSS CAUSED BY THE FLOOD.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 31.—A despatch to the Oregonian from Pendleton, Ore., says that the total damage in Umatilla county alone from the floods of the past two days may reach one million dollars.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 31.—Governor Higgins today directed Sheriff Erlanger of New York county to enforce the law prohibiting prize fighting in the territory under his jurisdiction.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

MARLBORO, Mass., May 31—William H. Bell, a farmer 50 years old, committed suicide today by drinking carbolic acid. Members of the Bell family say Mr. Bell was insane when he ended his life.

LOWELL WON

GOT HIGH SCORE AT LAWRENCE SHOOT.

The Lawrence Gun club held their annual Memorial day shoot at Wingate's grove yesterday. The contests were exciting and were in doubt till the close of the match. Climax of Lowell was high gun, Dean getting second, while Edwards also of Lowell also secured third. In the local shoot, Parkhurst got first, Piper second, Upham third, Hamel fourth. The prizes consisted of gun cases, cigar cases and watch fobs. The scores:

QUIT WORK

SIXTY-FIVE LASTERS LEFT THEIR JOBS.

BROCKTON, Mass., May 31.—Sixty-five consolidated hand method lasting machine operators employed by the W. L. Douglas Shoe company quit their places this morning, owing to a disagreement with the firm relative to a proposed change in system of work. The firm employs over 200 lasters in all and the others remained in. Those out were to meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock for a conference. The firm alleges a violation of its contract with the Boot and Shoe Workers' union in the action of those who left its factories. The men state they acted independently of the union. The firm has notified them to return to their places this afternoon or forfeit their positions.

BOMB WAS THROWN

Attempt to Kill King and Queen of Spain

LONDON, May 31—7.20 p.m.—A despatch to a news agency from Madrid says that a bomb was thrown at King Alfonso and Queen Victoria this afternoon and that both escaped unhurt.

The news agency's despatch adds that an equerry was wounded and that a child and two horses were killed by the explosion. A fourteen-year-old boy was arrested.

It is further stated that the king and queen behaved with the greatest calmness and that after the delay caused by the confusion they proceeded to the palace.

FIVE LIVES LOST

Steamer Erin Was Cut in Two

DETROIT, Mich., May 31.—The steamer Erin, up bound, towing the schooner Danforth, was run into and cut in two by the Steamer Cowle in the St. Claire river, just below St. Claire early today and five members of the Erin's crew were drowned.

The dead:

CHIEF ENGINEER PATRICK W. QUINN, Port Dalhousie, Ont.

FIREMAN "BANG" HILL, St. Catherines, Ont.

MRS. MARY REED, Spanish River, Ont.

WATCHMAN, shipped from Detroit, home in Amherstburg, Ont.

Woman cook, MRS. HUBERT of Cleveland.

The Erin was owned by Thomas Conlon, of Thorold, Ont., and the Cowle by the United States Transportation Co. of Cleveland. The collision occurred during a fog. The Cowle is a modern steel freighter and is not thought to have been much damaged while the Erin was a wooden vessel of the old type.

HAND INJURED

YOUNG MAN CUT IT WITH A BUTCHER KNIFE.

Two Firemen Overcome at This Morning's Blaze

Assistant Engineer Charles Stickpole and Captain Daniel W. Hillard of truck 2 in Westford street had narrow escapes from being suffocated at a fire in a tenement house on Liberty street, the property of the Jonathan Hope estate, early this morning. They were overcome by the smoke and the heat and were in such a condition that it was necessary to remove them to their homes and physicians were called to attend them.

The fire, which had been burning for some time before being discovered, did considerable damage.

When the department arrived the flames were shooting through the roof of the house and the roof. The fire was the hottest for several hours in the rear of the house and at [illegible] the [illegible] and owing to the fact that the roof was slated and there were no [illegible] the heat in the attic was intense.

The fire started in a [illegible] closet, and before it was discovered it worked its way up through a partition into the blind attic.

While fighting the flames in the attic Engineer Stackpole and Captain Hillard were overcome and the former was taken to his home at [illegible] Liberty street by Harry [illegible]. Captain Hillard was taken to his home [illegible] under the care of his doctor.

None of the occupants of the house was [illegible].

DR. WILLIAM BASS

Honored by the Physicians of Lowell

The physicians of Lowell to the number of 31, representing practically every school of medicine practised in this city, assembled at the New American house last evening, to do honor around the festive board to Dr. William Bass, upon the occasion of the 50th anniversary of his entrance into the practice of medicine. During the evening Dr. Bass was presented a handsome antique hall clock by the Middlesex North Medical society.

Dr. George H. Pillsbury presided and acted as toastmaster and speeches were made by Drs. J. B. Field, Leonard Huntress, Joe V. Meigs, John H. Nichols, Moses G. Parker, Herman J. Smith, T. F. Harrington, Owen F. Porter, T. B. Smith, T. G. McGannon and J. C. Irish.

Dr. Bass was the last speaker and he said in part:

"If I should undertake to answer all that has been said here tonight, we should not go home until morning. I am very grateful to you all for your words, your gift and your presence here. It shows you have no quarrel with me. We have got along together very well so far.

"I have been here practically 50 years. For five years I was away, but I returned and I have been plodding away, standing the wear and tear better than anyone has expected I could or than I myself thought.

"The timepiece is very good, but your friendship is better. I want to thank God for all He has done for me."

He concluded by offering a brief prayer that all present might be spared and blessed.

HAD TWO NAMES

Man Known as Sullivan and Hayes

Today's police court session was a long drawn out affair but of no very great importance. The greater portion of the court's time was taken up with an assault and battery case of a minor nature.

HAD TWO NAMES.

John Sullivan pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with drunkenness. "This man was here under the name of John Hayes a few days ago," said Deputy Welch to the court.

"What is your right name?" asked the court.

"John Hayes," replied the defendant.

A suspended sentence was hanging over Hayes' alias Sullivan's head. The suspension was revoked and he was sentenced to the state farm.

OTHER DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Charles Gagnon, a parole man, was ordered in $50 to tomorrow morning. John P. Coughlin and George Lowery were fined $6 each. The first offenders were fined $2 each.

FOR INDECENT ASSAULT.

The case of Edward J. Allen for alleged indecent assault was continued for one week. The complainant is a 10 year old girl.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Marshal S. St. John, an East Merrimack street shoe dealer, was charged with assault and battery on Thomas Boikin, a small boy. The boy claimed that Mr. St. John choked him until his throat was injured to such an extent that he swallowed and talked with difficulty.

The defendant said that the boys had annoyed him many times and that on the day in question the complainant struck him in the face with a rotten potato. Mr. St. John said he grabbed the boy to hold him for the police, but that the boy got away from him. The defendant's testimony was corroborated by other witnesses.

The boy said he did not hit Mr. St. John with the potato and that the assault was unprovoked. Other boys who were with the complainant corroborated his testimony.

Included in the witnesses for the defence was Patrolman [illegible] who said he had been called on two occasions to the [illegible] home because of complaints made against the complainant. John H. O'Donnell appeared for the commonwealth and William A. Hogan for the defendant. Mr. St. John was found not guilty.

How's Your Hair?

Falls & Burkinshaw Announce That They Have at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Lowell that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years. We refer to the prescription of Sir Erasmus Wilson, M.D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was knighted for his many successes in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson, this prescription was secured by American chemists and is now offered to the public under the name Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow hair on bald heads even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornelia Stevens, 6 Smith avenue, Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff scales or any scalp troubles, try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. Sold by Falls & Burkinshaw, 418 Middlesex street, Lowell, Mass. Price 50c.

STATE HIGHWAY

Commissioners Grant No. Chelmsford $5000

FOR EXTENSION OF BOULEVARD

The Lowell & Fitchburg Road Opened Today

Selectman James E. Dunnigan of Chelmsford is the happiest man in the [illegible] village today for this morning [illegible] of the board of selectmen received notice from the state highway commission to the effect that [illegible] had appropriated $5000 for the construction of the state highway on the Fitchburg boulevard across the [illegible] of North Chelmsford to the Tyngsboro line. Selectman Dunnigan has been at work to get this concession since he became selectman over [illegible] years ago and had appeared three times before the state highway commission in behalf of the project.

NEW LINE OPENED.

The new Lowell & Fitchburg street railway opened its line between North Chelmsford and Fitchburg, the first car leaving Ayer at 6 o'clock. The cars make the trip between North Chelmsford and Ayer in about 45 minutes. As yet the cars are not coming into Lowell but in a few days they will run from Merrimack square to Ayer Junction without change. The new company has agreed to build a branch line between North Chelmsford, West Chelmsford, Brookside and Westford post office, and must have the line as far as West Chelmsford in operation by August 1.

The new electric lights in Middlesex street, North Chelmsford, will be installed tomorrow. The lights will be operated between sunset and 1 o'clock a. m.

An adjourned meeting of the North village water district will be held at the town hall tonight to elect their water commissioners. A committee consisting of C. Frank Butterfield, Paxton L. Pigott and John E. Hosgen will prepare a ballot. The terms of the commissioners will be one, two and three years. The meeting will also vote upon the question of authorizing the chairman and treasurer of the water commissioners to issue bonds, notes or certificates of debt to pay all expenses legally incurred in installing the plant.

UNVEILED MONUMENT

President Also Delivered Memorial Day Address

PORTSMOUTH, Va., May 31.—Under the auspices of the Army and Navy union, the organization of the officers and enlisted men of the regular army and navy, President Roosevelt yesterday delivered the Memorial day address here to an audience of several thousands.

Following the address the President unveiled a monument in the naval cemetery by the Army and Navy union to the memory of [illegible].

President Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, his sister, Mrs. W. S. Cowles, and two of his children, Miss Ethel and Master Quentin, made the trip from Washington to Portsmouth on the cruiser Mayflower, which anchored off Portsmouth at [illegible] o'clock yesterday morning.

The exercises took place in the grove of woods of the naval hospital grounds. A temporary stand had been erected for the president and other official guests. Around this the organizations which participated in the parade formed a hollow square. Several thousand citizens and invited guests witnessed the ceremonies.

At 11 o'clock the exercises were opened with prayer by Bishop Van de Vyver of the Catholic diocese of Richmond. After music by a military band, President Roosevelt was introduced by Col. J. Edwin Brown, national commander of the Army and Navy union.

The president spoke as follows:

"This day is hallowed and sacred in our history, for on this day throughout the land we meet to pay homage to the memory of the valiant dead who fell in the great civil war. No other men deserve so well of this country as those to whom we owe it that we now have a country. Moreover, the men to whose valor we owe it that the union was preserved have left us a country reunited in fact as well as in name. They have left us the memory of the great deeds and self-devotion alike of the men who wore the blue and of the men who wore the gray in the contest where brother fought brother with equal courage, with equal sincerity of conviction, with equal fidelity to a high ideal, as it was given to each to see that ideal.

Moreover, it is a peculiar pleasure to speak today under the auspices of the Army and Navy Union, of the union which is meant to include the officers and enlisted men of the regular forces of the United States. Exactly as there is no other body of men to whom in the past we have owed so much as to the veterans of the civil war, so there is no other body of men among all of our citizens of today who as a whole deserve quite as well of the country as the officers and enlisted men of the army and navy of the United States. Every man who has served well and faithfully, afloat or ashore, in the service of the United States, has shown that he possesses certain qualities which entitle him in a peculiar degree to the respect of all his fellow-citizens, while every man who is now in the service can not but feel himself uplifted by the thought that in any time of future crisis it may be that the honor of the whole nation will depend upon his bearing. There is to be upon each of you a tremendous burden of responsibility, and therefore to you belongs the proud privilege of bearing that load of responsibility well.

This audience is composed largely of veterans of the civil war, largely of men who have served in or are serving in the army and the navy of the United States. They are concerned not only with the duties of the soldier and the sailor, but with the duties of the civilian, with all matters affecting the plain, everyday citizen as he does his everyday duties. For we must always remember that in our country our army and navy are an army and navy made up of volunteers; not our free [illegible] volunteers; our regulars, afloat and ashore, are merely our fellow citizens who of their own free will have taken up this particular task. The task once through they return to the body of our citizenship; and exactly as the efficiency of our military service depends chiefly upon the efficiency of the average enlisted man, so the efficiency of the nation as a whole depends chiefly upon the way in which the average man performs his plain, everyday duties.

MUST BEAR BURDEN.

This does not mean that the leader, whether in military or civil life, can escape bearing a peculiar burden of responsibility. To him has been given much and from him much will be demanded. It is right and proper that the man in a high position, whether his position be that of a high civilian official in time of peace or of a high military or naval officer in time of war, should receive a marked degree of credit if he performs his difficult, delicate, and responsible task well, and should, on the other hand, be held to an especially sharp accountability for any shortcomings. In any time of crisis the man in high office in civil life, the man in high command in military or naval affairs, if he be weak or incompetent, paralyze the actions of a multitude of brave and able men who serve under him. On the other hand, if he is intellectually and above all in character, he is able to rise level to the need of the moment, he may so combine and direct the actions of the many under him as to make their joint effort irresistible. The first duty of a leader, civil or military, is to lead; and he must lead well. Exactly as the people must demand the highest grade of integrity and efficiency from their leaders in civil affairs, so in military affairs they must insist upon every officer devoting all the best that there is in him to fitting himself in the duties of his profession, to caring for and drilling and training those under him, so that alike in point of personnel and in point of material the Army and Navy of the United States may reach as high a point of perfection as is humanly possible. This is the work that only the leaders can do; and if they shirk it their shame is unspeakable.

MUST HAVE GOOD MEN.

Nevertheless it remains true that no leader can accomplish very much unless he has the right kind of men to lead. Unless the enlisted man has the right stuff in him it stands to reason that no officer can get it out of him, because it is not there to get out. So in civil life, if all our leaders were Washingtons and Lincolns they could, nevertheless, make no permanent improvement in our citizenship unless the average citizen had in him the capacity for such improvement. In the last analysis it is the man behind the ballot box who counts most in civil life, just as it is the man behind the gun that counts most in military life.

We can not too highly honor the leaders of the leaders in the civil war; of Grant and Lee, of Sherman and Johnston, of Stonewall Jackson and Sheridan, of Farragut and of the captains who fought under and against him. But after all the man upon whom the chief credit must rest was the plain man in the ranks, the man in blue or in gray who went in to see the war through and who did see it through. He had the courage to stand still unflinching the blistering of the [illegible] and the hammering of the great fights, he had the steadfast endurance to bear with uncomplaining resolution the hunger and the heat and the cold, the scorching days and the freezing nights, the grinding, heartbreaking fatigue of the marches, the [illegible] monotony of the camps, and the slow suffering of the field hospitals. So in the Army and the Navy today, in the last analysis we must depend upon having the right stuff in the enlisted man and then upon having that stuff put into proper shape. So again in our Republic as a whole it is just as true in peace now as it was forty-five years ago in war that it is the character of the average man that must be the determining factor in achieving national success or going down to national disaster.

NEED OF LEADERSHIP.

Leadership is necessary in order that we may get really good results out of a high average of individual character, but without the high character in the average individual the leadership by itself can avail but little.

Now it is easy to say this in words which shall imply merely flattery of the average voter or of the average enlisted man. I certainly do not intend my words to be so taken. It is a sure sign of weakness in any man if he is always wanting to be flattered, and especially if he lets his head be turned by flattery. The average voter needs to learn and to keep steadily in mind the fact that if in the last resort the real power is his, so in the last resort the real responsibility is his. He can not cast off on anyone else the responsibility for our governmental shortcomings. Nothing is cheaper than to say that the people are all right but that the politicians are all wrong. As a matter of fact politics, and therefore politicians, will in the long run represent faithfully either the wishes or the indifference of the people; and if the people are indifferent the results are just about as bad as if they deliberately chose to go wrong. So it is with the enlisted man. When I call attention to the high place he holds, and must ever hold in the esteem of every sensible man, I do it less with the intention of emphasizing the respect due [illegible] outsiders than with the intention of making him realize the burden of honorable obligation resting upon his shoulders. By unwearied effort he must learn to do his duty, whether that duty lies afloat or ashore, whether it lies in the cavalry or the infantry, in the gun turret or in the engine room. He must be able to handle himself and to handle the formidable and delicate machinery intrusted to his care in such manner that if ever it becomes his fortune to take part in battle for the flag another page shall be added to the many which go to make up the best honor roll of American history.

In closing I ask your attention to the fact that our soldiers and sailors are able to do their duty in great emergencies even other than those of war. Recently the most appalling disaster that has ever befallen any city in our country, the most appalling disaster that has befallen any city of the same size for a century past, befell the great and beautiful city of San Francisco. In the midst of their horror and pity and sympathy the rest of our people were rendered proud and glad by the courage, the self-reliance, the self-command shown by the men and women of San Francisco themselves under the sudden and awful calamity which had befallen them. We had yet another source of pride in the fact that the first Americans outside the city who were able to extend relief and help were the officers and enlisted men of the garrison and the ships in the immediate neighborhood of San Francisco. The alertness, the instant response to the demand made upon them, the mixture of self-reliant initiative with orderly obedience and coherence of action, the high personal valor and the steady endurance and strength shown by the soldiers and sailors of the Regular Army and Navy in coping with this disaster, were as great as if shown in time of battle. Such a record should make every true American proud of the Army and the Navy and should make every true American resolute to see that through our national authorities at Washington we make such provision by law for the maintenance, the support and the training of the Army and the Navy that they shall ever stand in the forefront of their respective professions.

CANOBIE LAKE

RECORD CROWD WENT THERE YESTERDAY.

Notwithstanding the cold weather the New Hampshire electric railways had a record crowd at Canobie Lake Park yesterday. Beginning in the early part of the afternoon the company ran cars every fifteen minutes from Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill with a half hour service from Nashua, and even then it seemed almost impossible to handle the crowd. It is estimated that 12,000 visited the park during the day.

Canobie Lake Park never looked more attractive than now. The recent rain served to put the finishing touch in the landscape gardening and horticultural effects, and of all the natural situations which the Merrimack Valley presents for the recreation of humanity, none possesses more attractions than this resort. Here are to be found in full swing all the adjuncts of an up-to-date summer [illegible].

The scenic roller coaster and the rough [illegible] did their full duty, being taxed to their utmost capacity. Every foot of the dance hall was occupied and many [illegible] waited in vain. As soon as [illegible] at the roller skating rink was [illegible] another crowd took the floor and the same was true with the other attractions. The lake was full of pleasure launches, canoes and row boats. A great change has taken place at the park in the way of attractions, additional features having been added. The newest creation of delight is the Laughing Mirrors. The price of admission is only ten cents and it is certainly worth half a dollar to go in and laugh not with yourself but with the crowd from the time you enter until you leave, in fact you laugh for some time after. There are ten mirrors; in one you appear like a [illegible], in another you are top heavy. In the "Goo-Goo-Eyes" mirror you appear with four heads with but one body, and so on down the line. Although it did not open until nearly 4 o'clock it has already made a reputation as the greatest fun making department at the park. On account of the rainy weather the new electric swing was not completed in season but will be by Saturday. This will be a great attraction more particularly at night when it will be illuminated by 750 incandescent lights.

All the benches, swings and rustic seats through the shady retreats were never vacant, and there was a constant stream of humanity strolling leisurely along the broad walks that are laid out through carefully trimmed lawns. President Belden and General Manager Woodman were at the administration building during the entire afternoon and evening. They were much pleased with the manner in which the large crowd was handled. If yesterday's crowd is a criterion Canobie Lake will be more popular this season than ever.

If you are in doubt as to the quality of our goods, give us a trial order and we will convince you of their superior quality. Our bargains for Friday and Saturday are a record-breaker in the history of groserydom.

BOARD OF TRADE OPPOSED TO TELEPHONE COMPETITION.

The directors of the board of trade at a well attended meeting Tuesday evening went on record as opposed to a competing telephone company in this city and instructed a committee to request the board of aldermen to give a public hearing on the matter before taking any action. President Walsh, Secretary McKenna, Jesse H. Shepard, Charles H. Conant, Henry A. Smith were appointed a committee to look into the matter further.

Secretary McKenna reported on the matter of new freight sheds on Maple street and Henry A. Smith on behalf of the committee that has in charge the organization of the business men against unprofitable advertising schemes, reported that the committee was diligently at work and was meeting with the greatest success among the business men who regarded the movement to be in the right direction. He also reported that the committee had decided on a small placard which will be distributed among the signers of the agreement for display in their place of business.

J. A. McEvoy and T. A. D. Sullivan were admitted to membership in the board.

The 'Allenburys' Foods
For Infant Feeding

The 'ALLENBURYS' Milk Food No. 1 — For infants from birth to three months of age. This food is the nearest approach to human milk that it is possible to produce, and has been found to be as easily digested and assimilated. It can therefore be used alone, or alternately with the breast without fear of upsetting the child's stomach.

The 'ALLENBURYS' Milk Food No. 2 — For infants from three to six months of age. Comprises the same elements as the "No. 1 Food" with the addition of certain other properties which experience proves to be required at this period of development—not only to supply the increasing demands of the child, but also to give a needed stimulus to the powers of assimilation.

The 'ALLENBURYS' Malted Food No. 3 — For use after six months of age. Unlike "No. 1" and "No. 2" which, being milk foods, require the addition of water only; this is a partially predigested farinaceous food needing the addition of fresh cow's milk in preparing it for use, and is provided to meet the still further requirements of the child at this age.

This "series" of three foods is so graded that each affords the maximum amount of nourishment, which, at the period for which it is intended, the organs of the child can digest and assimilate with perfect ease. The great success attending the use of these "Foods" is due, not only to the close resemblance of the "Milk Foods" to human milk, but also in a large measure to the fact that 'The Allenburys' Series of Foods change like the mother's milk—according to the growing needs and requirements of the child.

The 'Allenburys' Foods are sold by all druggists—ask your dealer for book on "Infant Feeding and Management." If he cannot supply you write us and we will mail you a copy free.

ROYAL MARRIAGE

Scene of Rare Brilliancy in Madrid

MADRID, May 31.--The city awoke today under a cloudless sky with dazzling sunshine adding its glories to the bewildering maze of color in which the streets were enveloped. From an early hour the centers presented an aspect of extreme animation. The entire night had been passed amid the din of fireworks, singing and dancing and thousands of provincials unable to secure shelter spent the night in cafes and in the streets. At 8 o'clock crowds densely packed the main thoroughfares and the troops took up their positions, stopping all traffic, and the whole city took an air of feverish expectancy. The Esplanade, fronting the royal palace was occupied by regiments of the royal guards in full gala uniforms with glittering breast plates and helmets. They formed semi-circles guarding the approaches to the palace from the crowds eager to gain points of vantage.

The massive outlines of the palace were without decorations save the royal standard floating above. Detachments of halberdiers with quaint cockades stood with halberts crossed at the prince's gate leading to the palace court yard. All along the route of cortege hurried preparations were going on. Troops lined both sides of the streets in solid ranks for miles.

BRILLIANT SCENE.

The scene from the Puerto Del Sol to the Pardo palace was one of striking brilliancy. All the buildings were resplendent with the yellow and red colors of Spain woven into sunbursts, huge rosettes and graceful streamers looped from roof to roof and arches of roses from which were suspended enormous flower baskets and trailing vines. Under this dazzling canopy of flags and flowers surged dense masses of humanity in festival attire, the women wearing white mantillas and bunches of bright flowers in their black hair and with bright colored fans whipping the air. The population of Madrid had turned out in a body and was augmented to twice its usual size by visitors from the country and neighboring towns.

ESCORTED BY REGIMENT.

Princess Victoria came from the Pardo palace to Madrid early in the morning, accompanied by her mother Princess Henry of Battenberg, and her ladies of honor and escorted by a regiment of the royal guards. The bride's party was installed in the ministry of marine which had been sumptuously prepared for her. The princess put on her wedding dress and Queen Christina greeted the bride after which the ladies breakfasted together in the blue salon of the ministry.

The wedding cortege started from the royal palace at 9.30 a.m. amid the ringing of church bells, the firing of artillery salutes and the clamorous enthusiasm of the crowds massed along the route.

Ahead rode trumpeters in crimson velvet suits of the time of Philip II, sounding the approach of the royal party. Following them came the personnel of the royal household; the heralds mounted on stallions from the royal stud and caparisoned in Oriental style, each led by a cadet of the royal riding academy and the equerries and grooms from the royal stables leading the king's favorite horses with gold embroidered saddle cloths and colored plumes, accompanied by pages and riding masters and all the bewildering equipment of a luxurious court.

NOBILITY OF SPAIN.

Next came a long line of gala coaches of the Spanish grandees, each of a distinctive color with panels richly painted, gilded and jeweled and drawn by magnificent horses in silver harness, adorned by tall plumes matching the livery. Within rode the nobility of Spain; the men with their breasts covered with orders and the women in wedding attire.

But the brilliancy of this part of the cortege was far surpassed when the famous royal gala coaches came into view, each drawn by eight white horses with golden and silver harnesses and lofty colored plumage, looking like the coaches depicted on some illuminated page of a fairy book.

These coaches formed one of the most striking features of the wedding cortege. They were marvels of luxury, some of tortoise shell others of mahogany, sets with panels painted by famous artists, all ornamented with precious metals and emblazoned with the royal insignia. They were relics of by-gone days when kings and queens rode in golden vehicles but they had been renovated in all their original splendor for this occasion.

The most interesting coaches were the Amaranth coach for the court ladies; the Cypher coach for the lords in waiting; the coach of the ducal crown for the infantas, and the shell coach for the queen mother.

All the trappings and surroundings of these magnificent vehicles were in keeping. They were drawn by teams of six and eight white horses, well matched and of the finest breeds.

About these glittering vehicles circled retinues of grooms, pages, heralds and others in the showy uniforms of Louis XIV.

The coaches of the Spanish grandees were hardly less remarkable than those of royalty, the main difference being that they were drawn by only two horses, according to rigid rule.

Some of the most notable of these coaches were as follows:

The Duke of Albas' coach of yellow with red wheels, the plumage of the horses and the livery of the lackeyes being of the same color; that of the Marquis of Viana, a 17th century coach with paintings by Vicente Lopez; that of the Marquis De Mieses [illegible] distinguished by its white [illegible] of the [illegible] harnesses [illegible] being with those of the Duke of Sotomayor [illegible] the Marquis De [illegible] coach of [illegible] with red wheels [illegible] plumage of the same colors, that of the Duke of Tamames, brown, [illegible] the Count of Heredia, green. There were some 25 of these historic [illegible] of the grandees, each having its own peculiar brilliancy, and all forming a dazzling pageant.

Following the coaches of the Spanish princes and infantas were those of the visiting princes [illegible] the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Archduke and Archduchess Francis Ferdinand, of Austria, the [illegible] Duke and Grand Duchess Vladimir [illegible] Prince Albrecht of Prussia [illegible] Prince Albert of Belgium and representatives of all the royal houses of Europe.

KING ALFONSO.

Closing this dazzling array of princes appeared a coach bearing the royal crown in which was seated King Alfonso, his [illegible] Prince Carlos and his majesty's [illegible] nephew Prince Alfonso, the actual heir to the throne of Spain.

As the king's coach appeared it was greeted by a great roar, while the multitude wildly waved handkerchiefs, fans and parasols. His majesty was smiling and bowing to the popular greetings. He wore the uniform of a field marshal, his hat surmounted by a sweeping white plume. Around his coach was a cavalcade of royal guards, [illegible] and pages holding back the enthusiastic populace.

Immediately following the royal coach came the bride's party, forming another glittering array of gala coaches bearing the lords and ladies in waiting and the princes and princesses of the house of Battenberg and finally came the famed mahogany coach with the radiant bride, Princess Victoria, attended by her mother and Queen Maria Christina.

BRIDE CHEERED.

The appearance of the princess, who was about to become their queen, aroused the people to the highest pitch of emotion; men and women cheered and shouted friendly salutations, while others from the balconies of the houses along the route showered flowers on the princess and let loose hundreds of pigeons carrying long bright streamers. The bride looked most charming and graciously acknowledged the continual ovations.

As the cortege entered the Puerto Del Sol the picture presented was strikingly beautiful, with the buildings ablaze with color, the streets densely packed, the balconies crowded with people, the swarming windows, housetops and trees and in contrast the stately royal cavalcade defiling slowly amid the enthusiastic clamor of the populace.

On reaching the chamber of deputies the cortege came in sight of the church of St. Jeronimo El Real, which was magnificently adorned for the ceremony. Over the entrance was suspended an immense canopy of red and yellow velvet, embroidered with Spanish escutcheons and supported on gold tipped lances. Awaiting the bridal party stood lines of halberdiers and palace guards.

The massed bands played the Spanish national anthem as the bridal couple passed within the church which presented a scene of rare beauty. The great arches and naves were lighted up by thousands of electric lights which lined the cornices and framed the marble altar with an aureole of light. At the left of the altar arose a throne upon a raised dais, over which hung a majestic canopy of light silk, wrought with gold embroideries. At the back of the throne flames the arms of Spain. Two richly gilded arm chairs occupied the dais on which also rested two silken cushions upon which the bridal couple knelt. Immediately facing the throne, were gilded divans on which were seated Queen Christina, Princess Henry of Battenberg, the infantas, the princes and the members of the Battenberg, and other royal families. Beside them were the foreign princes, archdukes and grand dukes in court uniforms with the princesses and duchesses in court gowns, with trains four yards long, corsages and hair blazing with jewels and with filmy white mantillas floating lightly over the head and shoulders, mantilla being rigidly required.

Mr. Whitridge, the American special envoy, and Minister Collier were conspicuous owing to the fact that they did not wear uniforms.

PROCESSIONAL MARCH.

As the royal couple entered the assemblage arose and two hundred choristers entoned a processional march. Across the breast of the king's field marshal's uniform was the blue and white sash of the order of Charles III and on his breast sparkled the order of the Garter and of the Golden Fleece.

The bride entered with her mother, brother and Queen Christina. The silvered embroidery of her wedding dress was reflected by the myriad of lights until the bride seemed to be robed in jewels. Her veil slightly drawn aside, revealed her clear, fine features with cheeks full of youthful color.

The king advanced to meet the bride and they stood together as the marriage service began. The ceremony was performed with all the impressiveness of the Roman ritual, Cardinal Sancha, archbishop of Toledo, robed in crimson silk, officiating assisted by a special nuncio of the pope and the highest dignitaries of the church with scores of acolytes and incense bearers. The ceremony which lasted nearly an hour terminated with the nuncio pronouncing the pope's benediction on the newly married couple and the chanting of the Te Deum.

CANNON BOOMED.

As the king and Princess Victoria were pronounced man and wife the news was signalled to the waiting crowds and all Madrid broke into frantic demonstrations of joy while cannon boomed and church bells chimed.

Entering the royal coach the king and queen of Spain returned to the palace amid scenes of the wildest enthusiasm, the throng shouting "Long live Queen Victoria."

NUPTIAL MASS

WAS CELEBRATED IN CHURCH OF SAN JERONIMO EL REAL.

MADRID, May 31.--The church of San Jeronimo el Real, where the nuptial mass was celebrated and the marriage benediction pronounced is a quaint old structure which has passed through some strange vicissitudes. This is not the first royal marriage celebrated there, for the wedding of Isabella II took place with great pomp within its walls. But more recently the church was abandoned to a carpenter's shop and planing mill and the whir of saws took the place of the solemn measures of the mass.

The origin of the church was one of the strange whims of the old King of Castile, Henry IV. He had set up a magnificent tournament on the Pardo road, to celebrate the arrival of a new British ambassador. The tournament was notable for the courage displayed by the king's favorite Beltran de la Cueva who not only unhorsed four knights, but also, single handed and on horseback, with a small javelin, conquered and killed an infuriated bull which had torn to pieces the greatest toreadors of Spain. The king to commemorate this event founded a monastery, which the Jeronimo friars inaugurated. Later Isabella the Catholic, shifted the site of the monastery to its present place. Here it became the royal chapel and during the gay era of Philip IV all the royal alliances and ceremonies took place there. At another time the cortes met there.

After the expulsion of the friars the edifice became an artillery magazine and later a carpenter establishment. Thus it remained a workshop until in 1880 the government resolved to restore the building to its original object as a royal chapel. The saw mills were then removed, and extensive renovating and repairing gave it back some of its ancient glory.

The style of the church is gothic, with two small towers, and a large gothic portico with rich stone carvings. The interior has the form of a cross, with a rose window throwing a soft light across the altar. There are few artistic treasures within, and the scant light from the musty stained glass windows makes the interior rather dark.

Moreover it is essentially a chapel rather than a magnificent cathedral, and it lacks that splendid perspective fitting a state ceremony. However, its dark walls are now hung with magnificent tapestries, while thousands of plants and flowers and burning candles give a setting worthy of this solemn act.

San Jeronimo is the only church in Spain where mass can be celebrated after mid-day. This results from an indulgence granted for a fortune bequeathed to the church a century ago by a rich dowager in favor of the soul of her maid servant. The dowager's precious jewels disappeared one day, and the servant being accused she was tortured and executed with all the horrors of inquisitorial days. Later the jewels were discovered in the adjoining park, in a nest of magpies. The grief of the dowager was boundless and she gave her whole fortune for requiems, the indulgence for afternoon masses following some years after.

WONDERLAND

BOSTON & NORTHERN TO RUN EXCURSIONS.

The Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. plans to inaugurate its series of special excursions for this year by giving the people of this district an opportunity to visit the famous Revere beach and see the wonders of Wonderland, the new, great, million dollar amusement enterprise which has just been opened to the public.

The trip by trolley to Revere from Lowell is one of great interest in itself, while the attractions at the beach are many and varied. Wonderland itself has a multitude of startling novelties including the marvellous "Fighting the Flames." This show in itself employs 350 people and cost about $75,000 to install. Then there is a wild animal show, a mammoth chute, scenic railway, Japanese village, wild west show and innumerable other attractions to say nothing of the wonderful lighting display.

These excursions afford a chance to see these attractions and the others of the great beach before the heavy rush of summer business, as they will start this coming Saturday and Sunday. The cars will be run through to Revere without change in quick time and everyone who goes upon them will be assured of a seat as only tickets enough will be sold for each car to permit of the filling of that car.

The first excursion will be started Saturday and the cars will leave Merrimack square at 9.15 a.m. and 1.15 p.m. They will run direct through to Revere and will give the passengers an abundance of time to spend among the interesting scenes of the beach and Wonderland, leaving the beach on the return trip at 8 p.m.

The cost of the round trip will be but 50 cents. Tickets may be secured at the office of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. in advance or from the starter just before the cars leave.

The Sunday excursion will leave Merrimack square at 8.45 a.m. and return leaving the beach at 5.30 p.m.

POSTAL CLERKS

Annual Convention Held in Lawrence

The sixth annual convention of the Massachusetts State Association of Postoffice Clerks was held at Caledonian hall, Lawrence, Memorial Day afternoon.

The meeting was called to order at 2.15 o'clock by State President John Farrell of Lowell. The roll call of officers was then read and each and every officer responded. The total number present was 85.

Corresponding Secretary James F. Gildea read communications from various state organizations throughout the country, and from the national president and secretary. Resolutions were then drawn up and are to be forwarded to the San Francisco clerks. On motion of one of the members the entire delegation stood with bowed heads for one minute in memory of departed friends at Brockton. The convention then endorsed the candidacy of John F. McDermott of Worcester, for the next national president.

The matter of holding the convention in towns where the greatest enthusiasm was displayed was fully discussed. The majority of the members present thought it advisable to hold it in cities where the enthusiasm was not so strong, thereby encouraging the dilatory members. The question as to where the next convention would be held was left entirely in the hands of the president.

The national convention for this year will be held at Savannah, Ga., in September. Joseph M. Sherry of Worcester was elected as delegate to this convention from the Massachusetts organization.

The following officers were elected: Joseph M. Sherry of Worcester, president; Joseph M. Levy of Boston, first vice-president; Frank H. Kelley of Haverhill, second vice-president; Wilfred B. Littlefield of Brockton, secretary; John E. Burns of Lowell, treasurer; Charles P. Casey of Salem, chairman of grievance committee. The officers above constitute the executive committee. After a lengthy session the convention adjourned at 6.25 o'clock.

In the evening a banquet was enjoyed at the Franklin house. The banquet opened at 7.20 o'clock sharp. James E. Gildea, president of the Lawrence organization, called the banquet to order.

Mr. Gildea introduced John H. Farrell of Lowell as toastmaster of the evening. Mr. Farrell first called upon Postmaster Byron Truell for an address. F. K. Foster then spoke briefly. Ex-Mayor James F. Leonard gave an interesting talk which was heartily received. The speech of the evening was made by Senator Louis S. Cox. When Senator Cox finished speaking round after round of applause followed and the local clerks certainly showed their friendship toward their next postmaster.

The guests of the evening were Joseph M. Levy of Boston, Postmaster Byron Truell, Assistant Postmaster Edgar S. Rideout, Representative F. K. Foster of Boston, Senator Louis S. Cox, ex-Mayor James F. Leonard, Mayor John P. Kane, ex-Alderman Simeon Viger, Louis K. Siegel and Postmaster A. G. Thompson of Lowell.

TRAINING SCHOOL

EXAMINATION OF CANDIDATES TO BE HELD SOON.

As will be seen by notice elsewhere the examination of candidates for admission to the Lowell Training school for teachers will be given this year on June 11 and 12. Candidates must be graduates of a college of the first class or of a normal school.

The examination will be of the same general character as in the last three years. It will consist of a written theme or exercise in English composition, a written test in mathematics (arithmetic and algebra) an oral examination in reading, and a last test consisting of the giving of a lesson to a class of children. In the past candidates have been allowed to choose their subjects and the grade of children to whom they wished to give a lesson. The same course will probably be followed this year, though it is not promised.

The number of candidates to be accepted has not been stated, and may not be decided until after the examination. It is intended to be such as shall keep the primary and grammar schools supplied with teachers, and to have an occasional teacher left over for the High school. The number in the past has usually been 15, of whom about one-third have been from colleges and the rest from normal schools.

The training school consists of 13 rooms with children of all the grades from the primary to the high school. It is supervised by a principal and four unassigned, or critic teachers, and taught by the same and seven regular teachers, and the varying number of young ladies who are admitted annually and who comprise the so-called "practice class." As far as is possible these latter teachers are each given the full charge of a room, in turn at least, for their term of service, which is one year.

At the year's end they are, therefore, teachers of one year's experience, a qualification so necessary in securing good positions anywhere. If they stay in Lowell they are promised positions as regular elected teachers as fast as vacancies occur or new places open, and the only uncomfortable feature of the condition is that there are not vacancies enough to give places to all at once and so, even after graduation there is likely to come a longer or shorter time of waiting with only temporary positions with which to fill up time. The prestige of the school is such, however, that no difficulty is ever found in getting positions elsewhere while waiting for one to open at home. For the year's service as teachers in the school the members of the practice class are paid $50.

DEATHS

HIGGINS—Mrs. Mary Higgins, wife of Patrick Higgins died Tuesday evening at St. John's hospital. She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mary and Annie, five sons, Frank, James, William, Thomas and Roderick, two sisters, Mrs. Frederick Valley of Lowell and Mrs. J. F. Feren of Glasgow, Scotland, and two brothers, James and Frank Murphy of this city. The remains were removed to the home of the deceased in Church street, North Billerica, from which place the funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 8.30 o'clock. Mass of requiem will be sung at St. Andrew's church at 9 o'clock. Undertaker John J. Higgins in charge.

MOONEY—Miss Catharine Mooney, aged 50 years, died yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. John C. Conroy, 67 West Fifth avenue, Pawtucketville. The deceased had been a resident of Belvidere for over 25 years and a devout member of the Immaculate Conception parish. She was taken ill a few days ago while in a visit to the home of her sister. Beside Mrs. Conroy she is survived by another sister, Mrs. David McNulty and a brother, Philip Mooney. The funeral will take place from 67 West Fifth avenue tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and solemn high mass of requiem will be sung at the Immaculate Conception church at 10 o'clock. Undertakers C. H. Molloy & Sons in charge.

McGOVERN—Thomas McGovern, aged 41 years, died Tuesday at 9 at St. John's hospital. He is survived by two daughters, the Misses Nan and Agnes McGovern and two sisters, Mrs. Ellen McNiff of Somerville and Mrs. Rose McNiff of Harvard, Mass. The remains were taken to the chapel of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

BRAVE LITTLE GIRL

RESCUED WOMAN WHO TRIED TO THROW HERSELF INTO THE CANAL

Mrs. Marguerite Ayotte, of 37 Chever street attempted suicide by trying to jump into the canal in Little Canada yesterday morning. She was rescued by a little girl who grabbed and held the demented woman who had already vaulted the guard. The little girl screamed for help and there were those in the vicinity who went to her assistance. The brave little girl went away without giving her name. Mrs. Ayotte is about 59 years old and it is said that her mind has been affected by brooding over family trouble. Arrangements are being made to remove her to the asylum for the insane at Danvers.

FUNERALS

McBRIDE—The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret McBride took place yesterday morning at 8.15 o'clock from the home of her son, William F. McBride, 50 Broadway. High mass of requiem was sung at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church, by Rev. Fr. Carney. The choir under the direction of Thomas F. Rodgers rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory Mr. Rodgers sang Leybach's "Pie Jesu." At the conclusion of the service Miss Nano M. Gallagher rendered "The Sweetly Solemn Thought" and as the remains were leaving the church "De Profundis." The bearers were Messrs. Francis and William Powers, George Noonan and Albert Wilby. Rev. Fr. Carney officiated at the grave in St. Patrick's cemetery and the interment was in charge of C. H. Molloy & Sons.

McOSKER—The funeral of the late Nellie A. McOsker took place from St. John's hospital, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, some being present from Boston, Peabody and Lynn. The funeral cortege proceeded to the Immaculate Conception church where at 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Dorgan, O. M. I. The choir sang the Gregorian mass. At the conclusion of the mass Edward Shea sang "Beyond the Gates of Paradise." The bearers were James McOsker, Thomas McCourt, Thomas F. Garity and Peter Tully. At the grave Rev. Fr. Dorgan read the committal service. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery in charge of Peter Davey.

RILEY—The remains of the late Pauline Riley, the victim of illuminating gas poisoning, were sent to Taunton, Mass., yesterday by Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Robert Breen of Boston and Miss Mary A. Wood of this city, were united in marriage at the parochial residence of St. Peter's church, yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Rev. W. George Mullin performed the ceremony. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sullivan of Boston. After the ceremony there was a brief reception at the home of the bride, 532 Central street. Mr. and Mrs. Breen left on their honeymoon trip during the late afternoon. They will reside in Boston.

Tucker Will be Taken to Prison

BOSTON, May 31.—Charles L. Tucker, condemned to death for the murder of Miss Mabel Page, will probably be removed secretly from the East Cambridge jail to the state prison at Charlestown tonight or tomorrow night.

Under the law the sheriff must convey the prisoner to the state prison within 10 days prior to the first day of the week fixed for the execution, and Tucker has been sentenced to be electrocuted during the week beginning June 10.

Tonight is the first opportunity under the law Sheriff Fairbairn has to deliver the condemned man to Warden Bridges of the state prison. As the sheriff is anxious to be relieved of the responsibility for the custody and care of Tucker as early as possible, it is expected that he will take advantage of the first chance he has to turn the prisoner over to the warden of the state prison.

Sheriff Fairbairn is the only person who knows when Tucker will say good-by to the jail which has been his home for two years and nearly two months.

FOURTH OF JULY

City Council Voted to Appropriate $3000

Both branches of the city [illegible] met Tuesday night in [illegible] and passed an order [illegible] of $3,000 for the observance of the Fourth of July. The order [illegible] Councilman Leighton [illegible] in the lower board [illegible] was introduced in the upper [illegible] It went through both [illegible] with flying colors.

THE ALDERMEN

It was five minutes before nine o'clock when Chairman Wood called the board of aldermen to order and all were present but Alderman Foster, who is confined to his [illegible]

The order to borrow $3,500 for improvements for the fire department was voted. Of the sum mentioned $1[illegible] is for the Dahill company [illegible] apparatus for the Fish [illegible] $[illegible] for five life nets and $[illegible] for four new fire alarm boxes.

At this point an intermission of ten minutes was voted but the ten minutes stretched to thirty [illegible] the board reconvened and [illegible] Alderman Crosby introduced an order to borrow $[illegible] for the observance of July 4. The order provided for a committee consisting of three aldermen, five councilmen and the mayor.

The order for a loan of $[illegible] for the lands and buildings department was read and adopted. The money is to be used for the [illegible] city stables, fire [illegible] and the Dracut rifle range.

[illegible] motion of Alderman Allen it was voted to give a hearing to the Merrimack Valley Independent Telephone company on Monday, June 11.

The joint order to borrow $[illegible] for a contagious hospital was read and referred to the committee on lands and buildings.

Prior to the adjournment of the meeting Alderman Cosgrove spoke of the amount of time that was wasted in getting the meetings started, the recesses and caucuses. He felt that all caucusing should be done prior to the calling of the meeting.

Adjourned at 10.20 o'clock.

COMMON COUNCIL

When President Harry H. J. Read called the council together at 8.20 o'clock, 24 members answered to their names.

Councilman Mahoney moved that the order relating to the fire department loan of $[illegible] be taken from the table and it was so voted. Councilman [illegible] asked for information relative to three men losing their positions in the fire department if the new Dahill appropriation was voted. Councilman Hogan stated that such would not be the fact, but it would mean the making of the central station truck company a permanent one and the transferring of the call men of that company to another.

An invitation to review the St. John's day parade was read and accepted.

The joint order for a joint convention to elect a commissioner for the Huntington hall board, was read and adopted.

A joint order to borrow $2000 for the observance of July 4, introduced by Councilman Cheney, was read. It provided also for a committee of five from the council and three from the aldermen together with the mayor.

Councilman Leighton expressed the belief that Lowell people generally wanted an observance and he thought that such observance would mean thousands of dollars to merchants. The letting of lots on the South common would bring about $1200, meaning that the loan order would involve only $1800.

The vote was then taken and seventeen voted in favor and seven against, there being one vote shy of the two-thirds and the order was declared lost.

Councilman Carr moved for immediate reconsideration. A second vote on the question of adopting the order showed the same result, 17 to 7. Councilman Cheney, who fathered a previous order, and who was anxious to have the money appropriated for a celebration, was absent.

The textile school loan order amounting to $5000, was adopted in concurrence.

The order transferring the care of the city hall grounds from the city messenger's department to the park commission came up and was adopted in concurrence.

Councilman Curtin's joint order for a loan of $1500 for a contagious hospital, was read. Councilman Curtin said the city had needed a hospital for the treatment of contagious diseases for many years and he called attention to an act on the part of the legislature making it obligatory for a city to establish and maintain a contagious hospital.

On motion of Councilman Carr it was voted to refer the matter to the committee on lands and buildings.

A recess was voted at this time, word having been received that a July 4 order was coming from the board of aldermen.

Upon reconvening, the July 4 order was read by Councilman Cheney, who was in the chair in place of President Read. The order was passed by a vote of 19 to 5, Councilman Cheney being included in this count.

WILD WEST

COLONEL CUMMINS' SHOW COMING TO LOWELL

A distinct novelty—something original, as well as entertaining and instructive, will be the Cummins' Greater Wild West, Indian Congress and Wild Beast Exhibition, which comes to Lowell, Monday June 11. These three shows in one combination are under the management and direction of that famous showman, Walter L. Main. This is a guarantee that the attraction will be first-class in every particular and possess acts and features out of the ordinary and of the highest degree of merit.

COLONEL CUMMINS.

The Fire and Flames Exhibit, the same as performed at Coney Island—Possesses real firemen of seasoned experience; genuine fire horses, buildings and engines, and is an admirable albeit thrilling and realistic replica of the great Baltimore conflagration.

Powers' celebrated trained elephants, which gave a year's delight to patrons of the New York Hippodrome, are engaged with the Main shows, and will daily astonish those who are reluctant to acknowledge that elephants are really "in the know."

Colonel Cummins has in charge 200 Indians from the west, graciously granted him by the government. Every one of these red men have a tragic history, and their hands have more than scores of times been dipped in the blood of their hereditary enemies. A representation of Custer's Last Stand will be given, led by Curley, the scout, the sole living survivor of that bloody battle. It is probable that this will be the last appearance of the Indian in a public exhibition, as the government has other plans for their conduct, and they will be retired to their reservations to work out the destiny of a race that is doomed to annihilation, like the buffalo.

A large and complete menagerie, comprising every curious and strange animal, wild as well as tame; a den of fierce Numidian lions entered by Mlle De Raney, who, with whip and a bold front, subdues at risk of life and limb these savage denizens of the desert and plain. Colonel Kelly's Lady Zouaves, will drill in military manoeuvres, scale walls and perform feats of daring not excelled by their rivals the regulars. There are also strange, curious and outre peoples from every known country, who will add to the general interest and entertainment by dances and ceremonies from their native heaths, barbarous, or otherwise.

Differing in opinion from his rivals in the circus business, there will be a gorgeous parade on the morning of show day through the principal streets.

SMOKE NUISANCE

Somo Facts From Other Cities

Following are some extracts from a pamphlet on the smoke nuisance:

Sir Henry De La Beche and Dr. Lyon Playfair reported to Lord Canning in 1846: "It cannot for a moment be questioned that the continued emission of smoke is an unnecessary consequence of the combustion of fuel."

William M. Barr, the noted engineer, in his text book says: "In the ordinary boiler furnace with flat grates a nearly smokeless fire can be maintained by breaking up the coal and banking it immediately inside the fire door so that the gases may distill from the coal slowly."

A. B. Mest, member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Society of Chemical Industry and American Chemical Society, in commenting on the smoke nuisance says in part: "Feed small coal, feed it even, and at regular intervals to prevent smoke."

Mr. Bangs, of Bangs & Wells, real estate, says: "By practical experience we find that it is possible to do away with the smoke, as all the buildings for which we are agents are equipped with smoke consumers, for instance the Old South building, the Jewellers' building, the Winthrop building, and several other large buildings in Boston and vicinity, from which we have never received any complaint from neighboring buildings. Ten million dollars worth of real estate is represented by this concern, and we feel that it is of a great advantage to real estate dealers and property owners to do all possible for the abatement of this nuisance."

J. Richard Carter, president of Carter, Rice Co., says: "In my mind this nuisance can be abolished by other than mechanical appliances, namely careful firing, and I am heartily in favor of any legislation which will do away with the smoke nuisance, and I think the necessary laws are contained in a petition which has been presented to the legislature by Mr. C. R. Warren."

Mr. Phineas Pierce, president of The National Bank of Redemption and president of The Reversible Collar company, Cambridge, has the following to say in regard to the smoke nuisance: "This matter of smoke nuisance is entirely a case of intelligence in firing. At our factory in Cambridge, where we consume thousands of tons of soft coal annually, we have no trouble whatever with the smoke, and we use no smoke consumers. Our firemen and engineers treat the fires in such a manner that the smoke is all consumed by the fire itself. If this is possible in one plant, why not in all others? If this evil is not soon remedied, Boston will soon be in the class of Pittsburg and other dirty cities, made so by the smoke nuisance. The air of Boston and suburbs is very foul, and a walk in the parks will demonstrate that fact by the particles of black soot which falls on one's clothing in a very short time."

John Clancey, engineer at Keith's Theatre, says: "We have two boilers of 165-horse power each, and burn about ten tons a day, seven parts soft and ten parts screenings. We find the mixture the cheapest. Soft coal could be burned without smoke that would be a nuisance if the firemen kept a little closer to their fires. Let it coke in front, and push it back. Spread it even and fire often."

George A. Lufkin, engineer of the Telephone building, 119 and 125 Milk street, says: "We use soft coal, and seldom make smoke which amounts to a nuisance. A simple smoke-consuming device which we have introduced saves us about $150 a year. There are many other devices which will do the same thing. A good fireman, if he handles his coal properly, even without a consuming device, at least calculations can do away with 70 per cent. of the smoke. We have four boilers of 160-horse power each.

Angus Sinclair, a locomotive engineer, whose text-book on "Firing Locomotives" is the recognized authority on the subject, says: "It is fair to assume with ordinary firemen that smokeless firing is economical firing. An immense waste of money results from the work of the careless fireman whose best efforts are directed to converting coal into smoke." He tells of two test runs of a little less than two hours each, the first with a bad fireman, who made smoke, the second with a good fireman, who made none. The first burned 8000 pounds, the second 5500 pounds, at $3 a ton. The "no smoke" firing saved $3.25 in two hours.

Walter M. Lowney, chocolate bonbons, 447 Commercial street, says: "In our boilers which we maintain here we burn soft coal, but without any black smoke, because our furnaces are properly constructed."

E. Stanley Abbott, formerly assistant superintendent of the city hospital, and now connected with the McLean hospital at Waverley, says, in a letter of Feb. 24: "At the power house of the Boston city hospital a smoke consumer has been in operation four or five years, which enables the hospital to use a soft, smoky coal, with production of almost no smoke. The apparatus is not expensive, nor does it require frequent repairs."

Prof. S. Homer Woodbridge of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was called in as an expert to give his opinion upon the plans for a great central power station for the government buildings in Washington said in his report, dated Jan. 7, 1905:

"Objection to the selected location would be reasonable on the ground of smoke nuisance if a smokeless operation of the plant were not assured, for, wherever the plant may be located, the prevailing winds of winter and summer will carry the chimney products eastward, with a trend to north in summer and to south in winter. Smoke may be prevented with certainty, however, and constancy by suitable methods of feeding and burning, and by an avoidance of irregularity in firing. The low cost of bituminous coal and the high thermal value which it possesses justify both the initial expense of providing proper furnaces and appliances, and also the continuous but remunerative expenses of intelligence, faithfulness, and skill on the part of attendants in charge of the firing. From a plant burning 30,000 tons per year the money cost of unburned fuel in smoke might easily reach $700 per annum. Smoke should not be allowed, and may be almost wholly excluded from chimney discharges. With suitable boilers and furnaces and draft, and by easy and regular rather than by forced and unequal firing, smoke may be so eliminated as to become negligible. The attention and discipline of attendants required to supplement the operation of devices for preventing smoke will be far better secured under the strict regime of a well-organized and managed central station than in a score of boiler rooms scattered over the territory of a square mile."

The report of the smoke abatement committee of London, 1882, states that Messrs. Minton's great potteries and porcelain works are being conducted practically without smoke at a saving of 40 per cent., a careful account of about 5000 firings under the new system showing saving of about 20,000 tons of coal, or $50,000, and in addition a saving in wages and a better production of ware.

Following is the report of chief smoke inspector, Thomas F. Kelley, for the year ending June 30, 1897:

"If smoke could be abated only by entailing an added expense, it would no doubt be found difficult to enforce the law; but a device used for suppression of smoke not only abates the smoke nuisance, but invariably shows an absolute economy of fuel, as it promotes combustion, and prevents before they can be utilized the escape of valuable gases for heating purposes to produce steam. Even the emission of a small quantity of smoke, due to various causes, destroys for the time very valuable property. When owners of steam plants fully realize that the maintenance of a smoke nuisance entails an actual money loss, then and only then, will suggestions from those in charge be considered. Smoke and soot are destroying goods the value of which would aggregate many thousands of dollars."

Justin Ohage, M. D., commissioner, office of the department of health, St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 31, 1905: "The city is virtually smokeless. The enforcement of the smoke ordinance has in no way caused any injury to commercial or manufacturing interests. To the contrary, in every instance where smoke has been done away with by the installation of smoke-consuming devices, of which there are quite a number of good ones in the market, it has been done with a large saving of fuel."

Boardman, Dever & Boardman, lawyers, 537, 538, 539 Andrus building, Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 6, 1905: "I have had occasion, in trying to get at the real merit of smoke-consuming devices, to examine a great many furnaces and boilers in the cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and I state, without qualification, that smoke can be stopped under all circumstances if the owners and firemen really want it stopped. Even those people who are hostile to the cleaning up movement, as far as the smoke nuisance goes, admit, when closely questioned, that smoke-consuming furnaces and devices take no more fuel at least than the old smoking furnaces; and firemen and engineers, without exception, agree that the same amount of fuel with the smoke-consuming furnace will generate more and steadier boiler horse power, no matter what fuel is used. I would further state that careful firing will do away with a great deal of unnecessary smoke, but this cannot be depended upon, as firemen will be careless. As an illustration of what can be done, we had an engineer of the General Electric company here arrested for allowing his chimney to smoke. The company appeared in court and paid his fine, and asked for a reasonable time in which to attach some smoke-consuming device to their furnace. This, of course, we gladly granted, for we are not trying to persecute anybody, but only to prevent a nuisance, the abatement of which will be a great benefit to every man, woman and child in the city. In about a week the electric company had steam jets applied to their furnaces, and now scarcely a wisp of smoke is visible from their chimney, which formerly belched forth great black clouds. What little smoke does appear now is light colored, and almost free from soot. After they are made to do it, they are practically all friendly to the movement and agree that they save fuel thereby. In regard to the bill you sent me, if anything, I would say it was a trifle too lenient with the smokers, as you want to treat them fairly, but very firmly."

COMMUNICATION

Editor Sun:—It is now intimated that the Ennel street schoolhouse will not be finished in time for occupancy at the opening of the next school term, in September. Surely a year and a half is time enough for the construction and fitting up of such a school! It is a signal illustration of the incompetency attendant on about all work done for the municipality. Is it the building or the school department that is responsible for such incapacity in this instance?

SCHOOL BOARD

School Teachers Want More Pay

STURTEVANT GETS $200 INCREASE

Private School for the Polish Children

The regular meeting of the school committee was held Tuesday night. The principal business before the committee was action on a petition of one hundred and seven school teachers in the primary and grammar grades of the local schools asking for an increase in pay. The resignation of two teachers was received and reports from several committees referred.

President Duncan called to order at 9.20 o'clock. The reading of the records of the previous meeting was dispensed with and the committee reports were then in order.

Mr. Swapp, for the committee on teachers, recommended that the list of teachers for the Riverside school in Wigginville be the same as before that part of the town was annexed to Lowell. He also recommended that George F. Sturtevant have charge of the janitors with an additional salary of $200 per annum. The recommendations were adopted.

Mr. Swapp, of the janitorial committee, recommended that the wages of janitors be the same as previous to May 1, and that all new appointees receive the wage of $2.25 a day. Accepted.

Supt. A. K. Whitcomb then offered suggestions relative to school work. He referred to a petition signed by the citizens of Wigginville in which they prayed for the retention of the teachers in the Riverside school there. Placed on file.

A letter was read from Dr. Schafer, president of the National Educational Association, relative to the gathering of money from school children, to rebuild the schools of San Francisco. This letter did not exactly ask for money; it said the money would be welcome. Another communication on the same subject, from the superintendent of schools in San Francisco was also read.

On motion of Mr Swapp it was voted to allow subscriptions to be taken, but that each pupil be limited to contributing five cents.

A communication from Charles H. Conant, representing Rev. Alexander Ogonowski, pastor of the Polish church in High street, stated that the pastor had instituted a private school for children of the Polish race. About 25 scholars attended it and the teachers are Mary F. Walker and Thomas Crvanik. Teaching is in the English language.

It was voted to approve the school after Supt. Whitcomb had made a thorough examination of it.

Leave of absence from May 25 to Oct. 18 was granted Miss Mary E. O'Connor of the High school.

The resignation of Miss Helen E. Gookin was accepted and a vote of thanks tendered her for faithful and efficient service. The resignation of Miss Georgia Harnden was also accepted.

Mr. Johnson was named as a member of the subcommittee for the Riverside school in Wigginville. The petition for the increase of pay signed by 107 teachers of the primary and grammar grades was received and read by Supt. Whitcomb. No action was taken on this matter and it was referred to the committee on teachers and salaries. Supt. Whitcomb spoke favorably of the increase.

The board adjourned at 9.45 o'clock.

GREAT BALL PLAYING

Lowells Played Like Big Leaguers Yesterday

And Delighted a Big Gathering of Fans — Two A1 Double Plays—Burkett Does His Little Kicking Act

The biggest gathering of the season went out to Spalding Park yesterday afternoon and saw a ball game that they will talk about for days to come. They couldn't have seen a better game in the big league. Every player was on his mettle and brilliant plays were frequent. A new pitcher named Smythe started in but he had no more speed than a steam roller and Manager Lake who was out to win took him out and put in Abbott in the first inning. The crowd at first were disposed to resent Lake's haste in removing the youngster but in a few innings they became aware of the wisdom of Grandpa's move and gave him due credit. It was a pitcher's battle from start to finish and the score was 0 to 0 for seven innings and had not Bushey got something up around his neck in the eighth they'd be going yet in all probability. In the eighth Bushey gave three bases on balls and then made a wild pitch and Lowell landed a run followed by another one a moment later. It looked rather bad for Lowell for a moment in the first inning and the crowd handed out all sorts of criticisms. Chadbourne got his bases on balls and went to second on a sacrifice by Lord. Then he stole third while Smythe was getting himself together. Zacher drew his base on balls and Lake took Smythe out and put in Abbott. Zacher stole second. Burkett hit out a fly to deep right field which Sullivan caught. Chadbourne started for home when the fly was caught but Sully upon catching the ball drove it home like an arrow and Chadbourne was called at the plate in as pretty a double play as will be seen this season. In the seventh Lowell made another pretty double play. Hickman got first on a scratch hit and was forced at second on Bradley's grounder to O'Neil. Bradley stole second. Knotts put up a high foul fly way back to the grandstand. Lake made a great run for it and caught the ball only a few inches off the boards. Bradley made for third on the put-out but Lake by a quick and accurate throw nailed him at third. Lowell scored two runs in the eighth on three bases on balls, a wild pitch and a single by old reliable. Buster Burrill.

Burkett gave his little performance in the ninth. With one man gone Jesse hit the ball to Rothermel and Jesse thinking that he was a dead sure out let up running when almost at the base. But Rothermel threw bad and Burrill had to leave the bag to get the ball. Burkett on seeing the bad throw hot-footed for the base while Buster upon getting the ball made a stab for the bag just as Burkett reached it. It looked from a distance as though Burrill had tagged first but he hasn't tagged it yet, the umpire believing that he had called Burkett out. For a moment Jesse stood at the base speechless with wrath while the crowd soothed him with such remarks as "Why didn't you run it out, you mutt," and "I don't blame Jimmy Collins for getting rid of you." Then Burkett opened up and coming down the line with a full head of steam on he started in with tongue, hands and feet all going at once until it looked as though one of the star scholars at that celebrated Worcester state institution had broken loose for the holiday.

BILLERICA

Memorial Day was observed in a very appropriate manner by the residents and veterans of Billerica yesterday. The veterans paraded and impressive ceremonies were held at the North cemetery. In addition to this exercises were held in the town hall where Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, of the Eliot Congregational church of Lowell, gave the oration of the day.

There were twenty-one Billerica veterans in the little procession which wended its way to the North cemetery.

Upon arriving at the cemetery a dirge was played by the Chelmsford brass band. Prayer was then offered by Rev. J. Harold Dale, pastor of the Congregational church, after which came the sounding of taps. At the conclusion of this, the procession slowly wended its way back to the town, where the same exercises were gone through on the common. At this place, the sons of veterans fired a salute. The procession was reformed, and about 30 members of the Asa John Patten circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., joined in line and with the men, marched into the hall.

Here Dr. Charles E. Hosmer, president of the local association, acted as master of ceremonies, and a brief program was given, which included several patriotic selections by the band, followed by a reading entitled "The Silent Bugle," by Grace Simonds; tenor solo, "Just Before the Battle, Mother," H. Hopkins; reading, "Kentucky Belle," Miss Etta Smith.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Chester H. Howe of North Billerica, and then followed the oration of the day by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow.

TRAINING SCHOOL

Annual Dinner of Alumnae Association

WORK OF SCHOOL PRAISED

By the After Dinner Speakers

The [illegible] dinner of the Lowell Training School for Teachers, given at the New American house, Tuesday evening, was a very happy and a very brilliant function. There was grace, wit, beauty, enthusiasm and all else that goes to make a success of such an event. Following a reception held in the parlors upstairs the teachers, other alumnae and invited guests marched to the dining room where an elaborate menu was discussed while sociability and good cheer were ever on the increase. About 135 were present and the after dinner speakers did justice to the occasion.

At the close of the dinner Miss Gertrude Edmund, the principal, called to order and introduced Mr. Frank K. Stearns as toastmaster. A little later, however, Mr. Stearns was called away on matters of business and his work was taken up by Miss Edmund herself.

Mr. Stearns referred to the difficulties the earlier settlers, those who preceded the present generation encountered in their thirst for knowledge as compared with the splendid advantages of the present day. As to the cause of public education in Lowell he paid a glowing tribute to Warren Colburn and Theodore Edson whose squareness, fairness and courage made educational landmarks of the Bartlett and Edson schools.

Mr. Lawrence Cummings was the first speaker introduced by Mr. Stearns. Mr. Cummings was in a position to review the work of the school having been a member of the school committee at the time the training school was established and he watched the front of the seeds that were sown. He favored the school from the first and today he is satisfied that it is a splendid and a profitable institution.

Hon. John J. Pickman was the next speaker. He found his inspiration in the text "By their fruits ye shall know them." Mr. Pickman was mayor of Lowell when the training school was born. He said that the training school had been in operation long enough to prove a success or a failure. It has been under the public eye for seventeen years. Mr. Pickman said the lower grades required the very best teaching material because he said the training of the children is in the lower grade schools.

Dr. Charles W. Taylor spoke on "The training school." Mr. Taylor said he strongly endorsed the work of the training school and he said the school would doubtless remain a part of the school system until some one suggests a better plan.

Mr. Lewis E. MacBrayne spoke of the wide field of influence that the teachers hold and of their duty toward the children.

Rev. R. A. Greene, D. D., said that since the establishment of the training school it has been a strong factor in the life of the schools of the city. "The city of Lowell," he said, "furnishes for its young women who aspire to be public school teachers, a first-class, up-to-date training school."

Mr. John H. Harrington of The Sun spoke on the importance of the training school as a branch of the public school system. He said he believed it to be the most important branch of all. "Count me on the side of the Lowell training school," said Mr. Harrington, "as long as it carries out its present principles and gives every girl a square deal."

Mr. Albert L. Bacheller said that he had had experience with teachers who began their work before the establishment of the training school, and teachers who came from that school and he said he never had a teacher come from that school who did not know what to do. Mr. Bacheller is principal of the Green school, and he said in the course of his remarks that he believed in Lowell girls for the Lowell schools.

Miss Kate Stevens, principal of the training school connected with the University of London, England, was one of the honored guests of the faculty. Miss Stevens spoke very enthusiastically of America and our educational system. "It has impressed me very much," she said, "the wonderful leaders that you have in education over here. We receive a great deal of our inspiration, on the other side, from American literature and American work. I am hoping to go back with new ideas, and full of suggestions for my fellow teachers; and to be able to practice much that I have learned over here. I hope, also, to leave behind me a friendly feeling toward English teachers."

Dr. Katherine H. Law, a graduate of the training school, was introduced. Miss Law is now a practicing physician in Boston and she said the training she received in the Lowell training school assists her very materially in her present profession. She made the very important suggestion that teachers could do a great deal in the matter of health for the children in their schools. The only trouble, she said, is that too much is expected of the teacher and she advocated a medical inspector for the schools.

The hands on the big clock were creeping snail-like to the midnight hour when the last speaker, Mr. Dennis J. Murphy, an ex-member of the school committee, was introduced. Mr. Murphy spoke strongly in favor of the training school. He had served on the training school committee and he said that no one was ever admitted into that school that did not have the required rank. He said that the merit system was the reason for the school's existence.

Mr. A. G. Swapp was too ill to attend the dinner and at the request of Miss Edmund a rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Swapp to be delivered to him as an expression of appreciation of his loyalty to the school and its principles.

TWENTY INJURED

Two Trolley Cars Collided at Hopkinton

HOPKINTON, May 31.—Two trolley cars on the [illegible] Electric Railroad came together in a head on collision yesterday and nearly a score of passengers were injured, most of the injuries, however, being confined to severe bruises and cuts. Mrs. Jennie Elliot of [illegible], who is 70 years old, was most severely hurt, receiving a fractured skull and a severe nervous shock. She was taken to the Framingham hospital where it was feared that she could not recover. Others injured were:

John F. McDonough of Hopkinton, motorman of the east bound car, left arm fractured, contusion of body.

Miss Priscilla Etta Hopkinson, bruised about body, and face cut.

Felix G. McKeon, severe bruises.

Morgan Sweeney, Milford, face cut and body badly bruised.

Mrs. Jane Ware, Holliston, cut and bruises.

Nearly all the twenty passengers on the two cars suffered some injury in the way of contusions or scratches, but with the exception of those mentioned the injuries were very slight. Most of the most seriously injured were in the east bound car.

The collision occurred at a depression between two hills about one mile east of Hopkinton.

The east bound car of which John F. McDonough was motorman, had just come down a hill on its way from Hopkinton and had run over a short level stretch and started up the other hill when the west bound car from Ashland in charge of Motorman Long and Conductor Smith, appeared at the top of the hill and started down. Motorman McDonough immediately put on his brakes and brought his car, which was an open one of light construction, to a standstill. Motorman Long's car was a heavy double truck affair, closed type, and he was apparently unable to check its progress down the grade. It struck the open car a terrible blow, breaking the entire forward part of the latter car. Motorman McDonough who had stuck to his post on the open car, although he had succeeded in stopping it was buried under the wreck of his car.

Motorman Long jumped when he saw that the collision was inevitable and escaped injury.

Physicians were sent to the scene from Hopkinton and Ashland and the injuries of the passengers were attended to most of them being found able to return to their homes or go on their way.

In a statement made by Motorman Long and Conductor Smith to officials of the railroad company, they are said to have admitted frankly that their car should have waited at a switch for the Ashland bound car. They said they forgot to wait.

THE PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS.

True it is that of late there has been considerable growth of federal power or rather the appearance of growth, as instanced in the railroad rate regulation bill, the pure food bill, the meat inspection bill and the national quarantine law. All these laws are necessary and they are criticized only because they are new by those who think that it is dangerous to take any new step except after a long period of agitation.

The president has forced these measures upon the attention of congress as necessary to restrain the corporate bodies that have been robbing the people. Some would say these matters should be left to the states, but while one, two or a larger number of states would deal properly with them the majority would not. Besides all these laws are national in scope and it requires federal authority to enforce them.

The meat inspection law has been rushed through the United States senate in the interest of the beef packers because President Roosevelt threatened to give out certain results of an inspection of the meat packing business which might astonish the country.

The senators interested in the packers have decided that it is better to pass this law than have the facts made public.

It appears that the conditions in the Chicago packing houses are far from sanitary, far from what would be approved by the pure food experts of the agricultural department. The people have been eating poison-cured meat without knowing it and if the president is determined to stop this business we are not disposed to question the means he adopts for that purpose. It is useless to stand upon ceremony on the method of protecting the people from being robbed, deluded and poisoned. The meat supply of the country comes from Chicago and as it is sent all over the country, it becomes an article of interstate commerce. On that ground alone congress has a right to deal with it in a proper manner at least to the extent of seeing that it contains no deleterious matter. If the president has any report exposing the beef packers, he should give it out. There is no reason why the beef trust should be immune or shielded even to this extent. The meat inspection law, we believe, will prevent the packers from imposing inferior stuff upon the country.

We are strongly in favor of any exercise of federal authority that will protect the people from the greed of the trusts, from the imposition of adulterated food, poisoned beef and the importation of the diseases that infest other parts of the globe. He deserves credit for urging such popular measures upon a trust controlled congress, even though he does overstep the lines of duty laid down by established precedent and the conventionalities of modern practice in such cases, and even though he be charged with assuming the functions of premier in addition to those usually exercised by the president. Our presidents in the past have been altogether too modest in such matters.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The exercises of Memorial Day afforded another illustration of the fact that no man is properly celebrated until after death.

Solon, the Grecian sage, was asked if Croesus was not the greatest man in Greece. Solon answered in the negative, saying that no man could be accounted great until he had ended his career by a life of noble deeds and self-sacrifice in some good cause. He then gave an illustration of what he considered true greatness citing the case of a man who had lived to see his children's children die fighting for their country, and then sacrificed his own life on the altar of patriotism. Solon was right. It is not wealth or riches that make a man great but it is the patriotic sacrifices and the display of heroism such as was shown on all sides by the men of the Grand Army during the Civil war that constitute true greatness.

The veterans of the Grand Army are becoming more celebrated as the years pass by and as their ranks are thinned by the universal reaper.

Following this tendency to its logical conclusion we are led to believe that when the veterans shall all have passed to the great beyond, their deeds, their valor and their achievements will be more celebrated than ever. The observance of Memorial day that is now in the hands of the surviving veterans will be taken up by the masses of the people and made more general than ever before.

Here in Lowell as in other cities we have ample proof of this tendency to make Memorial day more sacred in its character and to recount the deeds of our heroes with greater reverence than heretofore. It is natural that as time passes we should place a greater estimate upon the sacrifices made by the Grand Army heroes because the magnitude of their achievements in saving the Union will increase from year to year so that in course of time these men who walk amongst us today will be celebrated to an extent far beyond their own or our conception at the present time. Their deeds when viewed through the long perspective of years will assume greater and grander proportions than when viewed as closely as we look upon them today.

Lowell has borne a noble part in the work of saving the Union. This was attested by the number of soldiers' graves strewn with flowers in the various cemeteries yesterday. The total number is between fourteen and fifteen hundred which with the surviving veterans would make the number who served in that supreme struggle considerably over two thousand. There is not a veteran alive today, however, decrepit from the effect of wounds or army life, who regrets the suffering he endured. There is not one of them who would not pass through the same ordeal again if necessary and if their years permitted, nay there is not one of them who would not give up his life for his country if called upon even in his fast declining years.

These men deserve all the favors shown them, and we are glad that in recent years there is such a marked tendency to show them more and more consideration on account of their glorious achievements and their noble sacrifices. Thus then those who enjoy the fruits of victory won by those terrible years of conflict may well join the veterans of the Grand Army in celebrating the memory of the martyred dead and the men who risked their lives for the Union cause. The Grand Army men deserve well at our hands, they deserve especially the veneration, the love and esteem of the rising generation and so far as can be judged the spirit of patriotism which the veterans have so well instilled in the minds and hearts of our youth will live when the veterans have passed away and if the occasion requires, will lead our young men to make patriotic sacrifices as noble and as lasting as those of the Grand Army veterans of the Civil war. This was evidenced during the Spanish war when our young men showed no lack of valor or of patriotism and as a result the Spanish war veterans a full generation younger marched yesterday side by side with the Grand Army men to decorate the graves of their young heroes who gave their lives for the flag.

SEEN AND HEARD

Now that the canoeing season is on we expect to hear of a great many narrow escapes in the harbor of matrimony.

A Lowell girl who likes to flirt, [illegible] says that her two favorite hymns are "The Holy City" and "In the shade of the old Apple Tree."

Some very smart men are fools on the witness stand.

A certain man in Back Central street [illegible] heard to say that for the sake of his neighbors no man who keeps hens in a city like Lowell especially if he lowers them upon the roof, should be allowed to maintain more than fourteen roosters.

"Billy" Dodge says that whether you go out for a long walk or a ride in an automobile, in either case you may come home in the electric car, and "Doc" Allen said "amen."

There's no dodging the fact that the streets were very slippery in Bridgewater Sunday. The Dailys all said so.

How foolish it is to worry over something that may happen next week. You may be dead then.

This is a very expensive time of the year for the young man who is really in love. Sweet things can be said in the city, but it requires the blow of the apple blossom and the bursting of the wild wood buds to hand out the proper inspiration and a fellow doesn't want to tell a girl how beautiful she is and how closely the color of her cheeks resemble the blossoms when a crowd is around, in an electric car for instance, and in order that the poetry of his nature may have its proper flow he hires a carriage.

If there is one among you who hath not said an evil word of his neighbor let him be royally banqueted by the order of "Good Fellows."

The first time a woman gets married she may not pick her husband. After that she does.

The fellow who drinks to get merry and never gets drunk is a wonder as well as a bad example.

LICENSE TRANSFERS

Two Were Granted by the Board of Police

At an adjourned meeting of the police board Tuesday night Commissioner Wier continued his cross examination of petitioners and the majority of his questions were pointed and very searching.

The board made a tour of inspection Tuesday afternoon of places where the back door question is involved and other places for which transfers have been asked.

The board met for a few minutes in executive session before the public meeting opened.

Chairman Shea called to order at 8.10 o'clock. The first business presented by Clerk Smith was a petition from Walter A. Chase asking permission to operate a merry-go-round in Houghton street. The machine is already set up and the petitioner wanted to run it just long enough to pay for the expense of setting it up and repairing.

Four of Mr. Chase's neighbors appeared as remonstrants, declaring under oath, that the machine was a nuisance. The petitioner was given leave to withdraw.

A batch of junk dealers' licenses, new ones, came up for consideration. Superintendent Moffatt suggested that there was already an overflow of junk dealers and collectors and the new petitioners were given leave to withdraw. A grist of old licenses were acted upon favorably.

In the course of a discussion relative to junk dealers, Superintendent Moffatt said that the most of them kept books in Hebrew and he would make it mandatory that they keep books in English. He said it would be much easier to trace stolen property through the junk-dealers if the dealers kept books in English.

Clerk Smith said that a requirement of the license was that the licensee must keep all records in English. The board voted to force this requirement in the future.

Among the applicants for junk dealers' licenses who were turned down was George Orr, and Superintendent Moffatt objected to him on the ground that he has a police court record.

A request was made that [illegible] Shapiro, dealer in second hand furniture in Middlesex street, be obliged to keep his books in English. The board decided that the request was a reasonable one.

A great raft of [illegible] victuallers' [illegible] came up [illegible] included [illegible] [illegible] contract.

Action [illegible] and [illegible] application [illegible] "The petitioner [illegible] wagon but [illegible]"

[illegible] Moffatt [illegible] licenses [illegible] Bailey [illegible] circus [illegible] of the show [illegible] favorably.

Lawyer W. [illegible] A. Hosmer appeared before [illegible] Kitchener [illegible] Thornton had purchased M. Kitchener's stock and fixtures and was seeking a transfer of his license to the Kitchener place. In compliance with Mr. Wier's suggestion Mr. Thornton went to the Kitchener saloon, took the license from the wall, [illegible] and carried the license to the police board.

The license was [illegible] by a vote of the board and an order made out, which was later signed by the mayor, [illegible] the city treasurer to pay back to Mr. and Mrs. Kitchener [illegible] twelfths of the license fee.

Mr. Wier then cross examined Mr. Thornton as follows:

"What is your business?"

"[illegible]"

"Have you ever been in the liquor business before?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"At the junction of [illegible] and [illegible] streets."

"For how long?"

"One year."

"Did you apply for a license this year?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"In upper Gorham street."

"Did you ever, before last year, have any experience in the business?"

"Yes, sir. I worked for my cousin for [illegible] years."

"Who is he?"

"Owen Donahoe, whose place of business is in Gorham street."

"How did you pay for your license this year?"

"Out of what I earned."

"Are you under any obligation to any person or any firm now in the liquor business?"

"No sir."

"You are in no way financially or otherwise, connected with any other man in this business?"

"No sir."

"Have you bought from Mr. Kitchener and paid him for what you purchased?"

"Yes sir."

Mr. Hosmer interrupted here to inform Mr. Wier that Mr. Thornton had paid [illegible] for Mr. Kitchener, the money for the stock and fixtures.

Continuing Mr. Wier asked Mr. Thornton if he had ever been convicted by the local police for any offence.

"No sir," was the quick and decisive response.

"How old are you?"

"Thirty-eight years."

Mr. Wier asked Supt. Moffatt if Mr. Thornton had ever been convicted of any offense that he, the superintendent, knew of.

"No sir," replied Mr. Moffatt. "I have known Mr. Thornton for about 15 years and I know him to be an honest straightforward young man."

The application of Gallagher & Burke for a transfer to Lakeview avenue was then taken up. This place was visited yesterday afternoon and the commissioners, at least Mr. Wier, found conditions there not quite to their liking.

Mr. Wier was insistent that a window be placed in one section of the building so that the officer on the beat might see into that part of the store now cut off from view from the street.

Then again Mr. Wier stated that he was informed that Mr. Burke was employed by the city at the present time, and he wanted to know whether such a man could be thus employed and conduct a liquor business.

Mr. Gallagher informed him that Mr. Burke was taken into the firm simply as a protector in case of death. Mr. Burke was not present and Mr. Wier thought that it would be best to have him in attendance, and accordingly Burke was sent for at his work, and later he put in an appearance. "It is a matter of principle," said Mr. Wier, "that all applicants should appear in person."

The question of a window was again taken up and Mr. Gallagher agreed to make the changes suggested by Mr. Wier.

Mr. Wier proceeded to cross question Mr. Burke upon the latter's arrival. The following questions were asked:

"How old are you, Mr. Burke?"

"Fifty-eight."

"What is your business?"

"Fireman."

"Where are you at present employed?"

"At the Lowell water works."

"Have you advanced any money to Mr. Gallagher in payment for the license fee?"

"No, sir."

"Are you engaged in any way financially with this business?"

"No, sir."

"It seems to me," said Mr. Wier, "that a license should not be granted to one who openly confesses that he or she does not have any interest, financially or otherwise in the business."

Mr. Gallagher then called attention to the fact that most applicants secure the services of their wives, sisters or brothers, simply as a protector to them in case of death.

Mr. Smith stated that this condition has existed since the death of Charles Cheney, whose death occurred several years ago, and whose business was declared void at his death.

"I can see the purpose," responded Mr. Wier. "Well, I will favor the application of the petitioners if the changes be made as I desire."

Mr. Wier then brought up the Purcell petition for a transfer. He said that he thought that the matter should be dismissed. "This man," said Mr. Wier, "has gone ahead without lawful right in the matter. He had no right to, and I move that his petition be dismissed."

Commissioner McEvoy thought the petitioner should be given a chance to present his case. He was not prepared to vote on the question and action was deferred for one week. The cases of Hobson and Poissant were continued for one week.

On motion of Mr. Wier the board went into executive session at 10.15.

WAR PAINTINGS

GRAND EXHIBITION AT THE ARMORY

The Westford street armory yesterday afternoon and evening was the mecca of large throngs attracted by the lovers of art who had a golden opportunity to feast their eyes on famous war pictures which must be seen to be fully appreciated. Gen. Grant is the central figure in the majority of paintings on exhibition during the next six days. Eight enormous canvases are strung along the armory room, four on each side, lighted by numerous [illegible] lights at the top of the paintings. The pictures are all the same size, [illegible] feet, and for accuracy of detail, life and power in the execution are remarkable. Messrs. Grant E. and William C. Griffin are conducting the exhibition, the former now a resident of [illegible]well and the latter a singer on the [illegible] stage, and at one time a resident of this city. Interesting anecdotes concerning each canvas are given by [illegible] S. Griffin, and the history of the [illegible] is given by him. The exhibition opened yesterday, appropriately [illegible] and will continue a week, the hours being from 1.30 to 10.30 p. m.

AFTER PARADE

The G. A. R. Comrades Enjoyed Supper

SPEAKERS AT DIFFERENT POSTS

Praised Fine Appearance of Vets

After the Memorial day parade had been dismissed yesterday afternoon the members of Post 42, G. A. R. marched to Memorial hall where supper was served by the ladies' auxiliary of the post. Present at the table were Mayor James B. Casey, Rev. W. George Mullin of St. Peter's church and Rev. George B. Dean.

At the conclusion of the supper Commander Earl A. Thissell in a short address complimentary to the members of the post, introduced Mayor Casey.

Mayor Casey spoke in part as follows:

"Mr. Commander, members of the Grand Army and women: It is a great pleasure for me to be with you here and offer my heartfelt thanks to you for what you have really done for me and all of the younger generation.

"This day recalls to my mind and to your own as well, the valiant deeds of those who fought and suffered that this great and free country of ours might be preserved. By your actions you have shown your interest in your country, the grandest the world has ever seen. You all did your duty in the past; you made this the best country of them all.

"Your campfires of long ago were much different than nowadays. Then you were in the ranks and ready to fight. Today, you gather to offer homage to your dead and departed companions. Today, in every city and town, a grateful nation is giving honor to your dead members and to you who live, as well.

Rev. George B. Dean was the next speaker and he said: "When I saw your ranks today I asked myself, 'Who will take their places in the future?' I am so glad that you men who fought for the existence of this glorious country are not to be forgotten. All nations respect us, and why? Because of your great deeds on the battlefield, which brought about the present conditions. It is you, then, who must be looked to and respected for what you did for us of a younger generation. Your dead cannot be obliterated, your names will forever remain alive. The glory of what you accomplished really thrills my mind. I am glad to speak of your great deeds. I am glad to be with you today and offer my humble homage to your members."

Rev. W. George Mullin, of St. Peter's church, spoke briefly. He called to mind the fact that there is still going on a battle in this world and that we must all fight for victory. He closed by complimenting the members on their appearance and for being given an opportunity to pay honor to them on Memorial day.

Rep. William H. I. Hayes spoke briefly and the singing of the hymn "America" brought the campfire to a close.

POST 120, G. A. R.

There was a crowded gathering at the hall of this post. The ladies of Garfield Relief Corps provided a most substantial supper of salads, cold meats, hot baked beans, rolls, cake, ice cream, pudding, fruit and coffee.

In the main hall, following the supper, there was an extended program with Commander E. A. Turner presiding. The opening number was a musical selection by Mrs. Daisy Ripley Duncan. There were patriotic speeches by the mayor, President Harry H. J. Read of the common council, Councilmen Cheney, Clough and J. J. Connors, Revs. George F. Kengott, A. P. Gibson and George B. Dean and Sarah Dixon of Lowell, and Rev. A. M. Rice of Dunstable, Comrade Dexter Butterfield of Dunstable; song, "Stars and Stripes," by M. Gorman, solo, "Beyond the Gates of Paradise," Cora W. Stevens; duet, "Angels are Watching," Cora M. Stewart and Ruth Bowen; song, "Loyal Knight," M. Gorman, with Miss M. Joyce as accompanist. The concluding number was "The Star Spangled Banner," sung by Mrs. Duncan, with the audience joining in the chorus.

POST 185, G. A. R.

A fine supper was provided for the members of Post 185, G. A. R., by the relief corps. There were about 100 people present and at the conclusion of the supper the members and invited guests repaired to the meeting hall where stirring addresses were made.

Mayor James B. Casey spoke briefly. He was followed by Rev. C. T. Billings, James O'Sullivan, Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, Comrade Hovey and others. It was after 7 o'clock before the exercises were brought to a close.

SONS OF VETERANS.

Camp Farragut, 75, Sons of Veterans, closed the day's exercises by a banquet and brief speaking program at Grafton hall in Merrimack street. There was a large attendance at the banquet which was served at about 5.30. The speeches were made by Past Division Colonel A. C. Blaisdell, Rev. Nathan W. Matthews, Rev. E. R. Smith, Past Division President Hallie E. Whitney, Past Division Secretary Ida Howard, President May Mason.

The Sleeping Soldiers

A MEMORIAL DAY POEM

BY ARTHUR J. BURDICK

COPYRIGHT BY ARTHUR J. BURDICK

I

SOME sleep 'neath the soft summer sun of the south,
Where the flowers never fail and the vine ever springs;
Where the air bears perfume and the echoes repeat
The rapturous song that the mocking bird sings.

II

SOME rest mid the vales and the hills of the north,
Where the pine and the hemlock stretch sheltering arms;
Where the warring winds pipe in the treetops as loud
As the bugle once sounded its brazen alarms.

III

SOME wait the last trumpet 'neath pepper and palm;
Some lie in the lowlands and some on the hill;
Some sleep in the billowy arms of the sea,
And in far distant islands some lonely graves fill.

IV

WHEREVER they lie, north or south, east or west,
We have garlands today for these brave sons of ours.
Our hearts give them love, our lips offer praise,
And our hands strew their graves with beautiful flowers.

V

AH, rough were the roads that were yours in the march,
And fiery and bloody the paths that ye trod,
But peaceful and quiet and flowery the way
Henceforth till earth's heroes are summoned to God.

The Healing of the Wound—Veterans of a Common Flag

APRIL 21, 1861, General Robert E. Lee and his family bade farewell to their beautiful home of Arlington. For months they had been in a condition of great mental disquietude over the unhappy condition into which the Union was drifting so inevitably. They realized agonizingly that the moment was near when a decision must be made. Their conception of duty was ideal, but it was waging bitter war against their inclinations.

The first interment made on the Arlington estate was that of the body of a Confederate soldier slain in battle. Within a short time there were no less than 377 graves of persons who had espoused the southern cause. These persons, some of them prisoners of war who had died in confinement, were given honorable burial, and their graves were marked with marble headstones like those of the Union soldiers. After awhile some of the states began to remove their dead. In 1895 it was the general belief that all the Confederate dead in the District of Columbia had been taken to their respective states.

In that year some Confederate veterans made an investigation and found that there still remained at Arlington several scattered groups of southern dead. Nothing could be more illustrative of the rapid disappearance of sectional feeling and the reunited sentiment of the country than the appeal of the Confederate veterans to President McKinley to make provision for the re-interment of all Confederate soldiers resting in northern soil in the National cemetery at Arlington. The president's speech at Atlanta, made Dec. 14, 1898, had invited this expression of friendship and confidence. Mr. McKinley had said:

"And while when these graves were made we differed widely about the future of this government, these differences were long ago settled by the arbitrament of arms, and the time has now come when in the spirit of fraternity we should share with you in care of the graves of the Confederate soldiers."

Since that day the leaven has worked admirably. "Johnny Reb" and "Yank" have become only terms of endearment, and the blue and the gray, their differences all relegated to tradition, are veterans all—veterans of a united country and a common flag.

The Wedding of Alfonso XIII. and the Princess Ena

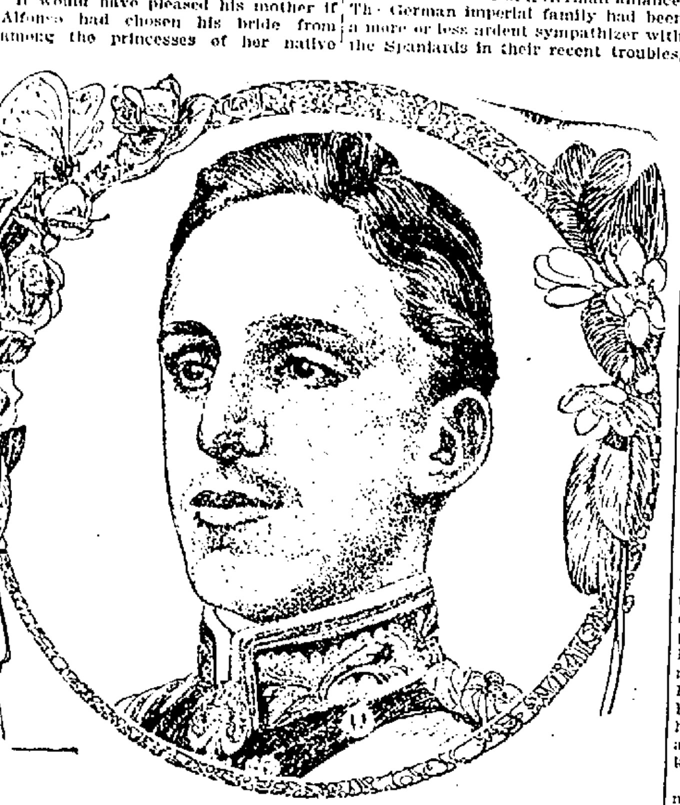
IT was fortunate for Spain that she possessed a distraction potent enough to dull the sting of being expelled forcibly from the world which she had discovered and which she had fallen into the habit of regarding as her own. It is true that the consolation prize was only a king who was fast becoming marriageable, but a nation with a king to marry off is not absolutely without something to do and is also of more or less importance among its fellows. In such a case "its fellows" are those who have marriageable princesses.

And at present there is a bountiful supply of royal maidens in the market. There are so many of them, indeed, that all the thrones in existence would have to be enlarged considerably before they could be accommodated even with standing room on the lower steps. Most of them will never know the joy of reigning. Many of them will settle down into sedate and economical life companions of princes who have royal blood, but not sufficient to make them participants in "the divine right." These royal and semiroyal ladies will have to make the most of the privilege of basking in the sunshine of royalty exemplified by others. As chatelaines of castles held by royal favor and guests of nations whose sovereigns they will never become they must make the best of the "your highness," which will never expand into "your majesty."

So for several years the hearts of royal maids have "gone a-flutter." So have the hearts of the diplomats, who, after all, are most concerned in these royal marriages. Spain has long been the synonym of ill luck, and the eyes of all Europe have viewed her with more or less distrust, but she is a power for all that, and when her lawfully ordained sovereign is in search of a wife it becomes a matter of international moment. In this business of providing Alfonso of Spain with a wife all the statecraft of modern Europe has been called into requisition. The state offices of every power have taken a hand in it.

Departments of state, however, are not quite so influential in these matters as was formerly the case. Spain is a notable instance of a nation which has preserved almost intact the methods of past centuries, but the young sovereign of that ancient kingdom has imbibed some modern notions respecting the selection of a wife. Choosing a companion for life, he determined with a readiness that showed him to be a man of spirit, was not the equivalent of securing a queen for Spain. So he made up his mind, since marry he must, to take plenty of time.

PRINCESS ENA OF BATTENBERG.



ALFONSO XIII. OF SPAIN.

The haughty and conservative grandees—there are some of that kind left in the peninsula in spite of rumors to the contrary—shook their heads and sighed deeply. Wedded to tradition and punctilio, they saw no good in the inclination of the king to take a hand in the business. The nation, they argued, was too manifestly in need of repair to suffer a further humiliation at the hands of an immature boy. If managed judiciously, this marriage might be made the means of Spain's regeneration. It was the nation's opportunity, and it must not be neglected.

Some time in the coming ages it may be known how many conferences have been held in the secret recesses of the Escurial over the matrimonial prospects of Spain's young ruler. The Spanish state records are the most complete of any nation in the world, and the story of Alfonso's marriage will be told with minute attention to detail. It is probable that the young man has been present at some of these important gatherings, and it is quite within probability also that he has passed in judgment on about every eligible royal girl in Europe. What a series of pictures for the delectation of coming generations! The grave and reverend councillors—perhaps in their robes of state, who knows to the contrary?—with severe and unsympathetic mien, the queen mother agonized and tearful, the young king intractable.

It would have pleased his mother if Alfonso had chosen his bride from among the princesses of her native land. She was practically alone in her ambition, for the Castilian grandees have no especial liking for the Austrians. It has taken long years of skillful maneuvering on the part of Queen Christina to win her way at Madrid. In a matter so momentous as the choosing of a Spanish queen her preference carried little weight. Nor was it more influential with the king. He had met the Austrian princesses whose names had been suggested in connection with the Spanish marriage and was ungallant enough to declare that he did not care for any of them.

Some of the leading men of the nation were in favor of a German alliance. The German imperial family had been a more or less ardent sympathizer with the Spaniards in their recent troubles, and it was thought that a closer union would be profitable to the country. At one time Alfonso seemed to be of this opinion. He actually took a good deal of time to investigate the merits of several proposed alliances with Teutonic princesses and even indulged in one or two royal flirtations. But he did not commit himself.

There is no reason to believe that the first suggestion of an English marriage came from Spanish sources. To the rank and file of the Spanish nation such an alliance would be little short of sacrilege. That a Spanish king should manifest a disposition to wed a woman from the ancient enemies of his race was scarcely more intelligible to the average Spaniard than would have been the toleration of his most Catholic majesty for the schism of Henry VIII.

There is abundant evidence that the Anglican alliance was conceived in England. The charming and gracious woman who has been such a moral and social leaven to the British court comes from a family of inveterate matchmakers. The Guelphs have a similar record. Princesses of the blood royal are plentiful in both families, and they are particularly fine women, every one of them worthy to be a queen. Kings cannot be secured for all of them, but it seems to be the established policy of both families that no available opportunity must be permitted to go to waste. Had it not been for the too close relationship and sundry other impediments it is not likely that the German crown prince would have been resigned so heroically to his Plattdeutsch bride.

An Anglo-Spanish matrimonial alliance is not a novel proposition in England. It has been under discussion for many years, probably since the birth of an heir to the Spanish throne was announced. For that matter, it may be asserted truthfully enough that all other heirs to European thrones are of like interest to the English fathers and mothers of royal maidens. The solicitude of Great Britain first became apparent when Patricia of Connaught was given a holiday on the continent and made the acquaintance, "quite incidentally, you know," of the young king.

The whole world—save the diplomatic section—regarded the matter as practically determined. The parties most concerned seemed to be perfectly satisfied, and everybody else tried to be. There were difficulties, it was admitted. The princess was a spirited girl, with a will of her own and a disregard for the material advantages of the alliance which was inexplicable to her elders. She confessed to her friends that she liked well enough the idea of becoming queen of Spain and that Alfonso really wasn't so bad, but—

The exact nature of the differences which put an end to the Spanish negotiations for the hand of the outspoken and jolly Patricia has not been made public. It is certain that the young Spaniard liked her immensely and that she discovered much to admire in him. There was a report at the time that the stumbling block was a matter of difference in creed. The princess is not a devotee, but it is said that she objected to changing her creed before marriage, preferring to delay the step until she should better be able to realize its significance, as did the czarina, who remained Lutheran until she could become Orthodox understandingly.

This, of course, would have been contrary to all Spanish precedent and could not be considered. If the English alliance was to be consummated some other princess must be substituted. The king resumed his flirtation with the daughters of German princelets, and Patricia went on her way merrily.

At this juncture it was proposed to offer the Spanish prize to the English king's athletic niece, Ena of Battenberg. A meeting was arranged, and both Alfonso and the princess fell in love immediately. Alfonso, who is rather fragile looking and weighs only 125 pounds, was delighted with the Juno-like charms of the fair Battenberg, who is almost six feet in height and weighs 150 pounds. Princess Ena, who is only half English, her father being German, her mother the youngest child of Queen Victoria, is not of purely royal lineage. The Battenbergs are not even an ancient family, being princes by courtesy and royal patent.

The princess had been brought up in the Protestant faith, but she was without prejudice and saw no difficulty in the way of accepting everything that was included in the bargain she had secured. So she became a diligent student of the catechism under the tutelage of an English ecclesiastic and in due time became eligible to the dignity of "her most Catholic majesty."

Happily Alfonso and Ena have many tastes in common. She is a clever actress and has a passion for theatricals which the king will share. They are both devoted to horses and motoring. The king is conceded to be one of the most intrepid motorists in Europe. The princess is an accomplished horsewoman, and Alfonso appears to best advantage when mounted. Youth, rank and opportunity are all their own, and their future will be what they make it.

GEORGE H. PICARD.

Revival of the Silk Raising Industry In the United States

IT is a fact not generally realized that the United States has become the leading manufacturer of silk products in the world. Until 1905 France was entitled to pre-eminence in that respect, but since that year she must be relegated to second place among silk manufacturing nations. The most wonderful feature of the rise and progress of the silk industry in this country is that it is the outcome of only thirty-five years' effort, while France and Italy have been making this daintiest of fabrics for at least two centuries.

But the most amazing fact connected with the present state of the prosperous industry is that the raw material is not produced in this country to any appreciable extent and that about $75,000,000 is paid annually to foreign producers of raw silk. This extensive importation, too, is in the face of the well authenticated fact that the United States is peculiarly adapted to the successful culture of the silkworm. To explain this apparently anomalous condition it will be sufficient to state that at present raw silk in any quantity may be brought to this country free of duty. As easily may be surmised, the Silk Association of America, composed of silk mill owners, importers and all other persons engaged in traffic in raw material, is satisfied with the present arrangements. No one who is in the business for profit would be disposed to advocate home production of the raw material.

The government, nevertheless, is fairly committed to the encouragement of silkworm culture. The various state departments of agriculture also have from time to time shown a commendable interest in the matter. During the present fiscal year the secretary of agriculture will have at his disposal an appropriation of $10,000 with which to make further experiments in the silk growing industry in this country. Since 1875 there have been intermittent efforts put forth by the department to stimulate silk farming in all parts of the United States where the climate is sufficiently equable and mulberry trees will grow. The appropriations have been so small that it has not been possible to make a fair test, but enough has been done to establish beyond question the fact that many of the states of the Union are peculiarly adapted to silk raising. At the present time many interesting experiments are in progress in several southern and western states, and the outlook is most promising. The secretary of agriculture recently sent out a circular letter announcing that he was prepared to distribute about a hundred ounces of silkworm eggs and 10,000 mulberry tree cuttings.

The secretary's circular aroused much interest in the experiment, and more than enough applications were filed to exhaust the entire supply. It was made apparent that several thousand persons were anxious to try their hand at silk culture. Recently several shipments of cocoons have been received by the department from persons who had been furnished with eggs. The best specimen was a package of cocoons weighing fifteen pounds sent from Alabama. A fifty pound package came from the farm of the late Rear Admiral Beardsley at Beaufort, S. C. The latter cocoons were grown under the direction of a Japanese who was formerly steward to the admiral. The Alabama product was the best in quality of any returned. The government paid for these cocoons the uniform price of $1 per pound, which is the European rate.

Since there is at present no open market for silk cocoons in this country, in order to encourage the industry the government is willing to become the purchaser of the necessarily limited supply. The secretary has in operation at the department a four basin reel of the most improved type. Two expert silk reelers have been brought over from Belgium to operate the new machine and to teach the process to all those who are interested. It is the opinion of Secretary Wilson, as well as that of most experimenters in the culture of silkworms, that at present it could not be carried on profitably as an independent business. It could be employed advantageously in families where there are many children or by persons too old to engage in more exacting labor. In some parts of the country, however, there seems to have been an effort made to provide a regular market for cocoons. Three years ago Gerald McCarthy, biologist of the North Carolina department of agriculture, who is an enthusiast on the subject, began to import eggs from Italy and to distribute them among the farmers of the state. He agreed to find a market for all the cocoons raised and advised that they should be sent to him at Raleigh. It is a fact that silkworm culture was carried on in the Carolinas as early as 1780. It continued to flourish in a small way until the civil war. Thousands of mulberry trees planted prior to 1860 still remain in many parts of this region. During the depression incident to war times the business was practically wiped out of existence. Now it seems to show signs of reviving.

It is maintained by experts that any climate in which the peach will not winter kill is adapted to the raising of cocoons. The silkworm passes ten months of the year in the egg state, in which condition it will withstand considerable cold, certainly as much as is ever experienced in the southern half of this country. The best raw silk known to commerce comes from the northern provinces of Italy, which are swept by the icy winds from the Alps. The eggs of this species of worm are the ones that have been brought to America for trial. There are several other profitable species, most of them natives of India, which produce a coarse but valuable silk, very useful in the manufacture of plushes and carpets. These, being natives of a warmer country, would flourish in the extreme south. The natural food of the Italian silkworm is found in the leaves of the white mulberry. The Indian worms feed on many shrubs of the buckthorn family. There is one species which prefers the foliage of the castor bean.

KILLED BY HUSBAND

Worcester Man Murdered Wife and Committed Suicide

WORCESTER, May 31.—John Rowland, a Lithuanian, shot his wife fatally and then killed himself yesterday afternoon at their home, 18 Endicott street. The troubles in which jealousy played a prominent part are assigned by acquaintances of the Rowlands as the cause of the tragedy. Rowland and his wife had been living apart for some time. Saturday he returned here from Brockton where he had worked as a laborer, and yesterday there was a quarrel. Adolph Londkas who was a boarder at the Rowland house, says he heard Rowland and his wife quarreling and immediately after two shots were fired. Londkas fled from the house.

When Policeman Frank F. Hayes reached the scene the woman lay unconscious on a bed and Rowland was stretched out dead on the threshold of the doorway with a 32-calibre revolver having two chambers discharged, lying at his feet. Mrs. Rowland died on the way to the hospital.

She had been shot through the breast near the heart. The bullet which killed Rowland also passed close to his heart. Rowland was 40 years old and his wife was of about the same age. They leave two children, Mary, aged 12, and Annie, a younger child.

THE MATHEWS

PRESENTED A VERY CLEVER MINSTREL OVERTURE

A very successful minstrel show and social was held in the Mathews hall in Dutton street on Tuesday night under the auspices of the Mathew Temperance Institute. The stage was occupied by a large chorus of young men and the chorus as well as the solo work was well carried out.

Mr. James Gannon rendered "Goodbye, Sweetheart, Goodbye," and Bert Ellis made a hit in "Moving Day." The solo, "Starlight," by Master Conley, and "Have You Seen My Henry Brown," by Charles White brought down the house.

Mr. Frank Connor sang "Sing Me to Sleep," and Charles Defoe rendered a ragtime, "When Mose with His Nose Lead the Band." Another sentimental singer who received much applause was Charles Fairbrother, who sang "Down Where the Morning Glories Twine."

Charles Slattery, of Dracut, sang one of the latest hits in Coontown, "I Don't Know Where I'm Goin', but I'm on My Way," and received several encores. The last number was the grand finale, by the entire company.

After the concert dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Music for the singing and dancing was furnished by the Calumet orchestra.

AMOS BARNES

WELL KNOWN HOTEL MAN IS DEAD.

BOSTON, May 31.—Amos Barnes, one of the best known men in the country, and for many years proprietor of the Hotel Brunswick in the Back Bay district, died at that hotel yesterday after an illness of three weeks. Mr. Barnes was born in Lebanon, N. H., 71 years ago. His hotel career in Boston began in 1869 when he leased the United States hotel. In 1879 in partnership with John Dunklee he took a lease of the Hotel Brunswick. Mr. Barnes had also been interested in the Burnett house, Cincinnati, O.; Hotel Pemenah, Milford Spring, N. H., and the Hotel Victoria and the Hotel Vendome, in this city.

He is survived by a widow.

TUESDAY'S GAME

Lowell and Lawrence had at it Tuesday afternoon at Spalding park, it being the first appearance of the down river aggregation this season. The weather was not very favorable for baseball, but about 1200 people braved the strong breeze that was blowing and enjoyed the game.

There were two new faces in Lowell uniforms, Shannon [illegible], who did not play, and [illegible] of Wakefield who went to the bat for the local aggregation. Joe was as lively as a cricket and he showed a great throwing arm. Manager Lake was in uniform but did not play. Umpire Stafford called the game at 3 o'clock.

FIRST INNING

Lawrence scored two runs in the first inning while the home team failed to make a tally. Spooner sent a grounder to Shannon which the latter fumbled. Spooner went to second on a sacrifice by Billet. Page [illegible] to third with a single and then Page stole second. While Page was trying to steal the ball was sent to second but there was no one there to stop it and it went into the field while Spooner came home and Page went around to third. Briggs flied out to Fitzmaurice and Page went home. Wilson drew his base on balls. Weddidge hit in front of the plate and was thrown out at first.

For Lowell Sheets flied out to Spooner and O'Neil hit to Page and went out at first. Shannon singled to left field but Burrill closed the inning by flying out to Connaughton.

Score: Lawrence 2, Lowell 0.

SECOND INNING

In the second inning Connaughton sent a grounder to O'Neil but the latter fumbled. He went down to second on a sacrifice by Fulmer. Lee hit to O'Neil and was out at first. Spooner was then out on a high foul fly to Carey, the latter making a pretty running catch.

Lowell got as far as third base in the second inning, but clever pitching by Lee kept the home team from scoring. Carey struck out. Sullivan hit to right field and Briggs letting the ball go through him gave Sully a phoney two-bagger. Fitzmaurice hit to Connaughton and was out at first while Sully went to third. Rothermel struck out.

Score: Lawrence 2, Lowell 0.

THIRD INNING.

Neither side scored in the third inning. Billet flied out to Sheets and Page hit to right field for two bases. Briggs, however struck out and Wilson flied out to Fitzmaurice.

In the latter half of the inning Murphy hit to Page and died at first. Sheets drew his base on balls, but died there, for O'Neil foul flied to Weddidge and Shannon struck out.

Score: Lawrence 2, Lowell 0.

FOURTH INNING.

The visitors scored three runs in the fourth inning. Weddidge the first man up flied out to Rothermel. Connaughton drew his base on balls and stole second. Fulmer was hit by a pitched ball and Lee bunted along the third base line for a single filling the bases. Spooner flied out to Shannon. Billet hit through Murphy for a single and Connaughton and Fulmer scored. Page hit to left field for two bases and Lee scored. Briggs hit to Murphy and died at first.

The home team went out in one, two, three order in the latter half of the inning. Burrill flied out to Page and Carey and Sullivan struck out.

Score—Lawrence 5, Lowell 0.

FIFTH INNING.

Lawrence scored one run in the fifth while Lowell failed to send a man across the plate. Wilson singled and Weddidge drew his base on balls. Connaughton hit to Rothermel and was out at first, the men on the bases advancing a base. Fulmer hit a hot grounder to Shannon who threw to Rothermel getting his man; but Wilson scored on the put out. Lee hit to O'Neil and died at first.

In Lowell's half Fitzmaurice singled to left field. Rothermel hit to Connaughton who threw to second getting Fitz and Page returned the ball to first for a double. Murphy was third out on a fly to Billet.

Score—Lawrence 6, Lowell 0.

SIXTH INNING.

In the sixth inning Spooner bunted along the third base line and O'Neil threw him out at first. Billet singled and Page flied out to Sheets. Briggs struck out.

Lowell failed to score in the latter half of the inning. Sheets drew his base on balls, but O'Neil and Shannon struck out. Burrill hit to Connaughton forcing Sheets out at second.

Score—Lawrence 6, Lowell 0.

SEVENTH INNING.

Wilson drew his base on balls. Weddidge bunted a fly to Murphy who threw to first for a double and Connaughton flied out to Fitzmaurice.

Carey and Sullivan struck out and Fitzmaurice flied out to Briggs.

Score—Lawrence 6, Lowell 0.

EIGHTH INNING.

Fulmer flied out to O'Neil. Lee struck out. Spooner flied out to Rothermel.

Rothermel got a single over second base. Murphy hit to Page and went out at first. Roth going to second. Sheets hit a hot one to Lee and died at first while Rothermel went down to third. O'Neil flied out to Spooner.

Score—Lawrence 6, Lowell 0.

NINTH INNING.

In the ninth inning Billet fed out to Rothermel. Page hit to O'Neil and went out at first. Briggs hit to Shannon and died at first.

Shannon flied out to Spooner. Burrill did likewise and Lake went to bat for Carey. Lake flied out to Spooner.

Score—Lowell 0, Lawrence 6; hits—Lowell 4, Lawrence 7; errors—Lowell 3, Lawrence 0.

REAPING BENEFIT

From the Experience of Lowell People

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public expression of Lowell residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. Its emphatic and convincing. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. Wm. A. Buckley, of [illegible] Lowell, Mass., says: "My husband and myself are very strong in our praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. My husband took them some six years ago and was completely cured of kidney complaint and backache. He doctored and wore plasters and used liniments and other remedies but nothing did him any good until he got Doan's Kidney Pills at F. [illegible] & Co.'s drug store. The use of five boxes cured him and he regards it a pleasure to tell others of the great value of this medicine. Soon after he was cured I was taken with backache and other noticeable symptoms of kidney complaint. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and they soon banished the backache and corrected all other difficulties. I take a few when I feel that the kidneys are sluggish and they always tone me up and make me feel better in every way."

Bucket-Shop Must Go

The Bucket-Shopper is the jackal-thief who sneaks along the trail of the larger beasts of prey—the Frenzied Financiers—picking up what they disdain to touch.

By letting his victims make a little money at the start, he lures them on to stake all their savings, to borrowing on their homes, even to stealing, and finally to their ruin.

Merrill A. Teague, who led a vigorous and successful fight last summer against a pack of these unclean creatures in Philadelphia, is telling the readers of Everybody's what a Bucket-Shop is, who the thieves are, where they are, and how they operate.

Teague's fact-series on Bucket-Shopping begins in Everybody's for June.

DIAMOND NOTES.

Manchester today.

It was a good old time game and a good old time crowd.

If the teams would play all the time like that yesterday Manager Lake would soon be wealthy.

Rothermel appears to have come out of it.

Those two double plays were as fine as one could get in the major league.

We think we're wise to Mr. Burkett. He's an actor. That protest of his in the ninth inning was too theatrical to be real.

Young Mr. Knox, the Worcester catcher, has a fine whip and is a pretty good catcher but his poor head [illegible].

Everything went along like clockwork with Lake behind the bat.

O'Neil is playing an A1 fielding game at third.

Sully's throw home from right field, getting his man at the plate, alone was worth the price of admission. Sully has a great whip and they do say he once threw a ball from Marino park to Thompson's Island.

Of the three hits off Abbott only one was a clean single. He pitched a grand game.

"Old Sport" abandoned the press box yesterday for the more delightful environment of the ladies' grand stand.

Fitzmaurice is coming along finely in the field while he is a top notch batter.

Burkett would make a great sideshow barker.

Little Jack-in-the-box Hickman made a hit with the fans. He was in the game all the time and yet Burkett handed him a call down when he got out at second.

A LARGE CHORUS

Female Minstrels a Grand Success

A female minstrel show was held in Associate hall last night under the auspices of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum of St. Patrick's church. The attendance was very large and the affair proved to be as successful as it was novel.

Young women friends of the members made up the chorus and the solos were sustained by them. There were only five males in the performance. They were James Callahan (Miss Flossie Abbott), Frank Higgins (Miss Gladys Harvey), John Keegan (Miss Marion Cleveland), Andrew Smith (Miss Sophie Mason), John Carroll (Miss Clara Proctor.)

The end women were Miss Clara Proctor, Miss Flossie Abbott, Miss Inez George, Miss Annie Gormley, Miss Sophie Mason and Miss Gladys Harvey. Miss Katherine McDonough was interlocutor. Miss Alice Donnelly was the accompanist. Mr. Timothy Rohan musical director, and Mr. John J. Carroll stage manager. The program follows:

Grand Opening Chorus
By Entire Company.
Solo—"In Dreamland,"
Miss Harriet Moran.
Solo—"After They Harvest the Hay,"
Miss Ellen Donahue.
End Song "My Dusky Rose,"
Miss Annie Gormley.
Solo—"Take Me to Your Heart Again,"
Miss Katherine Fay.
Solo—"Waiting,"
Miss Mabel Lee.
End Song "I Love You All the Time,"
Miss Sophie Mason.
Solo—"Someone Thinks of Someone,"
Babe Curry.
Solo—"When the Whip-poor-will Sings 'Marguerite,'"
Miss Mabel Mullen.
End Song "I Don't Know Where I'm Going, But I'm on the Way,"
Miss Inez George.

Letter to J. J. McMANMON, Lowell, Mass.:

Dear Sir: Why, do you think, can Devoe sell pure paint as low as others sell adulterated paint?

There are 30 or 40 or 50 different makers of paint, that rank, in a way, as "first class"; they have their regions: one's region is large, another's is small; everyone is "first-class" in its region.

Of these 30 or 40 or 50, one is best, another next, and so on down; but the prices are all the same or about the same; you can buy one for less than another though, a personal matter sometimes.

But how, do you think, can Devoe sell the best for no more than the rest? The answer is: it costs less to sell it; more to make, less to sell. Reputation helps sell it. Its 150 years help sell it.

Go by the name.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.

GRAND PARADE

MARTIN L. BASSETT, CHIEF MARSHAL.

G. A. R. Posts, Militia and High School Regiment in Line

Another Memorial day has come and gone and the graves of dead heroes are bearing on their green today beautiful flowers placed there by loving hands and in many instances bedewed with tears. The martial tread of the old soldiers was heard upon our streets yesterday and as the depleted ranks passed by the younger generation felt the touch of reverence and love for the men whose age has carried them to the other side of the mountain where the sun is slowly sinking, the love linked survivors of the civil war.

"Where sleep our soldier boys 'neath northern pine,
Or where the southern palm and tangled vine,
Above the sod where they in spirit tread,
Kept ever green by dews from Heaven shed;
Each year in May, we place our garlands there,
The laurel wreath entwined with flowers fair."

The weather yesterday was perfect. It was an ideal day for marching and the contrast between the grizzled veterans and the High school regiment and the Sons of Veterans was such as to inspire one with thoughts of the present and memories of the past. The soldiers of our latest war clasped hands with the civil war veterans and all hats were off to the marchers, young and old.

Posts 42 and 185 formed on John street at 1.35, where they were joined by Post 120 on its return from Tyngsboro, this post pausing at the School street cemetery to decorate graves. The three posts headed by the American band then took cars for the Lowell and Gorham street cemeteries, where the graves were decorated. Camp Farragut, S. of V., with disabled veterans in carriages went to the Hildreth cemetery where the grave of Gen. Butler and other veterans were decorated. In all [illegible] graves were honored.

At 2.15 the various commands assembled on the South common and the line being formed, moved through Thorndike, Appleton, Central and Merrimack streets to the Ladd and Whitney monument.

The order of parade was the same as published in The Sun on Tuesday.

On arrival at the monument the column came to a rest while prayer was offered by Rev. W. George Mullin of St. Peter's church. Rev. Michael Ronan was unable to be present, but he sent a handsome floral wreath for the monument decorations.

From the monument the column moved through Tremont and Merrimack streets, being dismissed at Dutton street after review at city hall by the mayor, city council and chief marshal.

After the parade refreshments were served at all the post halls and there were literary and musical programs interspersed with speech making.

The G. A. R. posts visited all of the cemeteries in this city and the cemetery in East Chelmsford. The cemeteries were also visited by the Sons of Veterans and Spanish War Veterans.

The three posts arrived at the Lowell cemetery shortly after two o'clock. The exercises were in charge of Post 120. The ritual of memorial was read by Chaplain Pliny M. Goddard.

Edson cemetery was next visited where Post 185 had charge of the services, Chaplain Charles F. Taplin read the ritual of the dead. This post also held services in the old burial ground in Gorham street. Post 42 had charge at St. Patrick's cemetery. Rev. W. George Mullin officiated there. The National band accompanied the veterans to the various cemeteries.

The Spanish War Veterans visited the graves of their dead during the morning, leaving Memorial hall at 9 o'clock.

The march was up Gorham street to the Edson cemetery, where services were held over the grave of Joseph Sansom. A quartet sang "One By One" and "The Vacant Chair," and "taps" was blown. Rev. A. P. Wedge addressed the comrades assembled. Then followed exercises in St. Patrick's cemetery, over the grave of Thomas Connor. Rev. W. George Mullin spoke there. At St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. Fr. Lamothe, O. M. I., officiated. After leaving this cemetery the command marched to the cemetery in East Chelmsford.

The Spanish War Veterans marched back to the city and to the armory, in Westford street, where refreshments were served about 1 o'clock.

The Sons of Veterans went to the Hildreth burial ground, in Centralville in the afternoon. The exercises were held about the Butler monument. Rev. Edwin R. Smith, of the Pawtucket Congregational church, offered prayer and delivered an address. Albert C. Blaisdell, a member of the camp also spoke. The firing squad of the camp fired a salute over the grave of Gen Butler.

AT TYNGSBORO.

Memorial day was fittingly observed in Tyngsboro yesterday. Services were conducted in the town hall and the local cemetery by Post 120 of Lowell. Rev. George W. Bicknell, D. D., of Cambridge, made a fine address on the significance of the day. After the exercises the veterans and school children were served an excellent dinner in the dining room connected with the town hall. The G. A. R. veterans returned to Lowell shortly before 12 o'clock.

AT CHELMSFORD.

Memorial day was observed at Chelmsford Centre under the auspices of the Chelmsford Veterans' association, Commander A. J. Boles. Graves were decorated by the following committee from the various sections of the town: A. J. Boles, James P. Emerson, William A. Ingham, George H. Smith, H. H. Emerson, A. G. Parkhurst.

The procession was formed at 9 a. m. at the town hall, led by the Chelmsford band, and with James P. Emerson as chief marshal. The line included the Chelmsford veterans, the two squads of Troop F Cavalry, teachers and pupils of the High and grammar schools. At forefathers' cemetery, the ritual was read by Commander Boles and Past Commander J. Adams Bartlett of Post 185, G. A. R.

Then the procession marched to the common where the revolutionary monument had been decorated by the ladies of the Central Baptist church, headed by Mrs. N. M. Parker. After a salute to the monument the line moved to the town hall, where the exercises were held.

There was an oration by Rev. C. E. Fisher of the First Universalist church of Lowell; address by Major Samuel E. Dutton, U. S. A.; singing by the school children, directed by Miss Mary B. Haynes, music by the band and other features.

AT WESTFORD.

At Westford yesterday fully 400 people attended the exercises at the hall in the forenoon, and 500 at the band concert held on the common in the afternoon, from 2 until 4 o'clock. The speaker of the day was Rev. Benjamin H. Bailey, who was in Washington at the time President Lincoln was assassinated, and gave a very deep and able address. Rev. Fr. Schofield of North Chelmsford interested his large audience.

In the early morning a barge left the centre of the town and met the band at West Graniteville and then proceeded to all the cemeteries and decorated comrades' graves. The veterans assembled at the hall at 10 o'clock and formed a line of march, headed by Marshal Captain S. H. Fletcher, Squad 1, Troop F cavalry, Lieutenant E. Fisher commander, Nashua Military band, Westford veterans, followed by barges containing the school children.

The exercises at the hall commenced at 11.20, and the program contained the following numbers: Call to order and word of welcome, Wesley O. Hawkes, president of Westford Veterans' association; prayer, Rev. C. P. Marshall; reading, Miss Abbie May Evans of Boston; tenor solo, Rev. Fr. Schofield; song, "Soldier's Rest," Mrs. Charles Stebbins, South Deerfield, Mass.; oration, Rev. Benjamin H. Bailey; songs by Mr. John Greig. After the exercises a fine collation was served to all. The Nashua Military band gave a concert program on the common from 2 until 4.

At a meeting of the veterans after the exercises at the hall yesterday, W. O. Hawkes was elected commander; J. H. Woods, secretary; S. G. Hunniston, treasurer.

OUT AT TEWKSBURY.

The observance of Memorial day at Tewksbury was under the direction of a committee consisting of John S. Chandler, W. B. Plummer, A. C. Blaisdell and Edward Marshall.

Following a concert by the Lowell Military band there were memorial exercises at the cemetery by a delegation of 35 from Post 185, G. A. R., Lowell, using the post ritual. Comrade George Wiggin was among those in attendance.

At Vestry hall Solon W. Stevens delivered the oration substituting for John C. Burke, who was called to Vermont because of the serious illness of his brother.

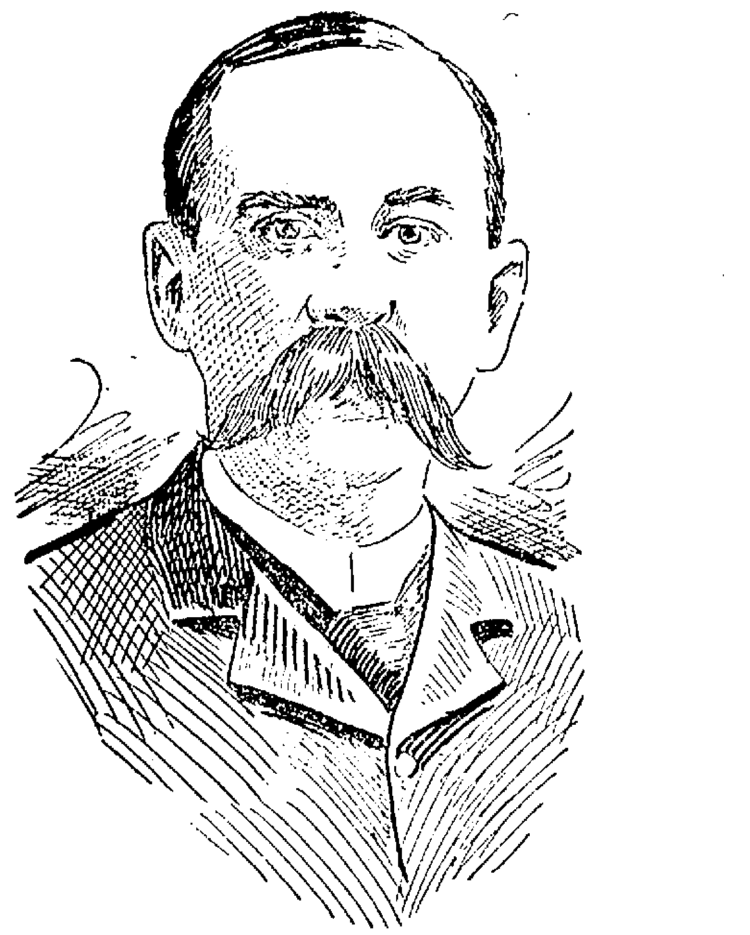
The rest of the program was as follows:

Music, "American Republic"
Lowell Military Band.
Prayer .... Rev. H. H. Bishop
Music, "The Blue and the Gray"
Band.
Address
A. C. Blaisdell, Chairman committee.
Music, "Gems of Stephen Foster"
"Recollections of the War"
Band.
Benediction .... Rev. E. W. Pride

Dinner was served by the Tewksbury ladies.

THE OLDEST VETERAN.

Jotham Goodell of 622 Westford street is 88 years of age, having been born in 1817. He served in Company A, Sixth Massachusetts, and also in the Second Heavy Artillery. He is the oldest veteran in Lowell and we regret that he has no photograph available at the present time. He is in fairly good health but bothered with deafness. He rode in the parade.



FRANK PEABODY, SECRETARY OF THE COMMITTEE.

GEORGE E. WORTHEN, CHIEF OF STAFF.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

McGOVERN—The funeral of the late Thomas McGovern will take place tomorrow morning at 8.15 from the funeral chapel of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons. Mass of requiem at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, undertakers.

REV. DR. JOHNSON

Spoke Before Young People's Union

The 14th annual convention of the Merrimack River association, Baptist Young People's union, was held yesterday afternoon and evening in the First Baptist church, corner of George and Church streets, this city.

The convention was called to order at 2.30 o'clock with a praise and devotional service conducted by Rev. Harry Taylor, and a brief address of welcome to the association was made by Rev. O. S. C. Wallace, D. D.

Rev. George E. Green, pastor of the First church of Lawrence, opened the business session.

Reports of officers were next in order. The superintendent of junior work, Mrs. Earle of Lawrence, told of the work of junior societies in a number of churches, including the First church of Lowell, Mrs. H. C. Fuller, leader, and the Branch Street church, Lowell, Mrs. A. R. Dilts, leader. The First church juniors furnished at Thanksgiving, dinner for 100 families, and at Christmas they sent gifts to every child in each of the three hospitals, besides contributing to the missionary fund and to other branches of the church work.

During the session solos were sung by Mr. J. P. Estey, Mr. Hill at the organ.

Rev. Frederick B. Greul, D. D., pastor of the First church of Haverhill, spoke on "The Nation's Security in a High Type of Manhood."

"The Truth About the Congo Free State," was the subject of an address by Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, D. D., pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist church of Boston.

On adjournment of the afternoon session supper was served in the vestry by the local society.

The evening session was opened at 7 o'clock with a praise service. Reports of committees were in order and the committee on resolutions presented a resolution which was adopted by the convention to be forwarded to the secretary of state protesting against the policy of King Leopold in the Congo Free State and asking for intercession by the United States.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. Harry Taylor of the First Baptist church, Lowell; vice president, Mr. E. A. DeMars of Lawrence; secretary, Miss Nellie Otis of Lawrence, assistant secretary, Miss Minnie Booth of Lawrence; treasurer, Mr. Howard Webber of Haverhill; junior superintendent, Miss Clara Morse of Haverhill, with two assistants, Mrs. C. C. Earle of Lawrence and Mrs. A. R. Dilts of Lowell; executive committee, with the officers named, Rev. Mr. Fisher of Methuen and Rev. W. E. Lombard of Andover.

The report of the committee on credentials showed an attendance of 225 registered, representing churches in Lawrence, Haverhill, Methuen, Lowell, Chelmsford Centre, North Chelmsford, Dracut, North Billerica and North Tewksbury.

The prize banner, awarded to the society making the largest progress in membership during the year, was won by the society of the First church of Haverhill, that society having gained 6 per cent. in membership.

An address, with stereopticon, was given by Rev. Sumner R. Vinton, on "The Ko San Ye Movement," a successful missionary movement in Burmah, under the leadership of Ko San Ye, a native convert.

DEATHS

BELLROSE—The remains of Stanislas Bellerose were sent from his home, 207 Cheever street last night, to Canada, for burial at St. Gabriel de Brandon. The body was escorted to the Middlesex street station by L'Union Samuel de Champlain, marching in a body. Undertaker Joseph Albert had charge.

DENNIS—The many friends of Mrs. Emily Dennis, wife of Edward P. Dennis, will be pained to hear of her death, which occurred at her late home, 50 Chelmsford street, yesterday morning, after an illness of a few months. The immediate cause of her death was pneumonia. Her husband is the only near relative left to mourn her loss. Mrs. Dennis was born in this city and was educated in the public schools of the city in which she had lived nearly all her life respected and beloved by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She had been a regular attendant of the Kirk street church for many years.

McCABE—Henry R. McCabe, a well known resident of North Chelmsford, died at his home in that village, yesterday. Besides his mother, he leaves one brother, James E., and six sisters, Mrs. Maurice O'Donnell, Mrs. Catherine E. McEnaney, Mrs. John P. Garvey, Mrs. William J. Quigley and Misses Angie and Josephine McCabe. The funeral will take place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from the house. Mass of requiem at St. John's church, North Chelmsford, at 9 o'clock. Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

DUGAN—Mrs. Elizabeth Dugan, a highly respected resident of St. Peter's parish, died at her home, 39 Wamesit street, Tuesday night, aged 65 years. She leaves two sons, Thomas and Joseph Dugan; and two daughters, Elizabeth and Ella.

The funeral will take place at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning from the house. Requiem mass at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Undertaker McDermott in charge.

WING—James M. Wing, aged 51 years, died at his residence, 476 Merrimack street, last night. Besides a wife he leaves three daughters, Alice M., Edith R., and Cora N.; one brother, Charles H. of this city; and three sisters, Mrs. Curtis of this city, Mrs. Melvin Lapoint of Stetson, Me., and Mrs. Alexander Adams of California.

FUNERALS

RYDLE—The funeral of Mrs. Richard Rydle took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Peter's church, Rev. Fr. Heffernan officiating. The bearers were Messrs. Shea, Donohue, Gorman, Coniss, McNamara and Dunlavey. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery, C. H. Molloy & Sons in charge.

NORMANDIE—The funeral of Josephine Irene Normandie took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of her parents, 423 Broadway. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, under the direction of C. H. Molloy & Sons.

DECORATING THE GRAVES OF THE FALLEN COMRADES OF THE PAST

ROYAL WEDDING

Continued.

WEDDING FETES

THEY ARE DIVIDED INTO THREE PARTS

MADRID, May [illegible] The fetes for the Alfonso [illegible] have been prepared [illegible]. The [illegible] into three parts, the first [illegible] the family fetes celebrated at the royal palace by the members of the royal family; second, the [illegible] to the visiting princes, envoys and [illegible]; and third, the popular fetes organized for the people. They begin on the wedding day, lasting a week or more. The royal fetes include banquets, dinners and a grand ball [illegible]. Only the representatives of royal houses having family alliances with Spain are bidden. The official fetes to foreign envoys and high functionaries include reception and banquet at the royal palace, military review, gala performance at the royal theatre, reception and ball at the Hotel de Ville and many other entertainments for the distinguished guests.

By far the most interesting fetes are those in which the people participate, including night illuminations of the Prado and other public quarters, a Venetian fete at the Westparo, three bull fights, a luminous cortege, a battle of flowers and a procession of all the Spanish provinces in typical groups and figures, in order that the new queen may see the Spanish people from every quarter of the country.

"The program of the luminous cortege gives an idea of the extent and splendor of the popular fetes. Its main features are: Two great decorative floats with the portraits of the king and queen, two artistic pyramids with figures representing the Spanish provinces supporting the arms of Spain and Battenburg; a beautiful gallery of orange flowers, transparent and luminous, liberty style; a float containing 20 monster flambeaus, with the monograms of Alphonso and Ena, surmounted by royal crowns; three pyramids of flowers and colored lights (150 persons); Emblem surrounding the portrait of the queen mother; a pyramid formed by ten galleries (150 persons), flambeaus with the portrait of King Edward with British banners and arms; twenty floats giving Spanish history in allegorical scenes (250 persons); 50 floats with the arms of the principal Spanish towns; 26 floats bearing Spanish and British banners; seven large luminous letters spelling "Alfonso", eight enormous luminous letters spelling "Victoria"; two great royal crowns of 20 feet diameter; eight great decorative floats each transported by 100 persons; a great float formed by the arms of Spain and Battenburg, surrounded by laurel.

Thousands of people form the personnel of these floats. Besides those mentioned there are many representing huge pansies, roses, and lilies. The luminous inscriptions invite the welcome to the new queen and long life to the royal couple, "Vive la reine, Victoria Eugenia," "Glory to the British Navy," "Madrid and London," "Long Live Our King and Queen," "Glory to Shakespeare and Byron," and many other popular greetings for the English princess who becomes a Spanish queen.

ROYAL FAMILY

TOOK LEADING PART IN THE MARRIAGE.

MADRID, May 31. Those taking the most important part in the marriage of the king are the members of the ministry, with whom the marriage is an affair of state as well as of the heart; representatives of Spanish nobility and Knights of the Golden Fleece; Cardinal Sancha, primate of Spain and archbishop of Toledo with a distinguished retinue of bishops and dignitaries of the church; officers of the army and navy, judges and high functionaries. The principal figures in this brilliant assemblage are as follows:

The royal family: The queen mother, Maria Christina; the king's sister, Maria Theresa, wife of Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria; the king's brother-in-law, Prince Carlos, widower of the princess of Asturias, whose little son, the infant Alfonso, is the actual prince hereditary of Spain; the king's aunts, the infantas Isabella Maria de la Paz, and Eulalie.

The cabinet: Premier Moret, leader of the liberal party; minister of foreign affairs, duke of Almodovar del Rio; under-secretary of foreign affairs, Senor Ojeda; minister of the interior, Count Romanones; minister of war, General Luque, prominent during the Spanish-American war; minister of marine, Captain Concas; minister of justice, Garcia Prieto; minister of agriculture, R. Gasset; minister of finance, Mesa Salvador; minister of public instruction, Santamaria de Paredes; Senor Maura, ex-premier and leader of the conservative party; the president of the senate, Marshall Lopez Dominguez. The president of the cortes, Don Jose Chalajes y Mendes.

Knights of the Golden Fleece: The duke of Veragua, a descendant of Columbus; the Marquis de la Vega de Armijo; the count of Cheste; Senor Montero Rios; Senor Pidal.

Chiefs of the royal household: The duke of Sotomayor, chief of the royal palace; General Bescaran, chief of the Royal Guard; General Pacheco, chief of the Royal Halberdeers; the Marquis de la Mina, chief of the royal hunt.

Church dignitaries: Cardinal Sancha, primate of Spain and archbishop of Toledo; the bishop of Zion, bishop for the army. The governor of Madrid, Senor Ruiz Giminez; the mayor of Madrid, Senor Vicenti, the president of the high court, Field Marshal Martinez del Campo, Generals Weyler, Polavieja, and Primo de Rivera, and Admiral Cervera.

Among the leading literary and artistic figures for whom the court shows special attention, are the painters, Pradilla, Moreno Carbonera, Munoz Degrain, Sorolla, the latter director of the Prado gallery; the sculptors, Mariano Benlliure, Augustin Querol, Marinas and Blay; the musicians, Breton and Chapi, and the men of letters Jose Echegaray, Perez Galdos, Ramon y Cajal and Menendez Pelayo.

Everybody Likes Good Pie

There is no longer any excuse for poor pies on your table, as you should follow the lead of thousands and use D-Zerta Quick Pudding as a filling for pies. Try this recipe:

D-Zerta Chocolate Cream Pie.

Prepare a package of D-Zerta Chocolate Pudding according to directions on package, adding one-half cup of sugar. Put in crust which has been baked. Cover with meringue made with the whites of two eggs. This makes two large pies or three small ones.

All the five flavors—Lemon-Tapioca, Vanilla, Orange-Macaroon, Chocolate and Strawberry, can be used in the same way, and bananas, cocoanut, etc., added as desired. D-Zerta Quick Pudding is also used as a cake filling and for a pudding dessert. Simply add a quart of milk to contents of one package, bring to a boil, cool and serve with cream and sugar. Order from your grocer, 10 cts. per package.

THE TROUSSEAU

ALL THE ROBES WERE MADE IN LONDON.

MADRID, May 31. Except the wedding dress, all the bridal trousseau of robes, frocks, evening and tea gowns, petticoats and underlinen, was made in London where many of the dresses have been on exhibition. Some of the articles of this specially trousseau are described as follows.

A dainty dress of white mousseline de soie flowered with miniature roses. A morning gown is of fine spotted lawn over palest blue, inset with Valenciennes lace. A beautiful princess robe is a spotted lawn, made to wear over many different colored slips. A charming pale blue China silk Empire morning robe is fastened in front with blue rosettes and ends. Another morning gown is of white lawn over pale blue, inserted at equal distances with Valenciennes lace. A smart morning gown is composed entirely of English embroidery in a very openwork design.

Among the simple day gowns are many composed of linen. The bodices in many instances are made after the American blouse style, with touches of red and blue embroidery. One of the many ~~dressing~~ jackets is made of the palest blue and white Zenana edged with quaint silk embroidery. A handsome day dress is composed of ivory crepe de Chine, the bodice arranged with the finest Guipure lace and tucked squares of crepe de Chine, the centres of which are delicately embroidered with colored rosebuds and set together with insertions of Valenciennes lace. A simple frock is of the palest pink and white flowered voile, with Valenciennes lace. Another day dress is of pale pink and white satin foulard in a small design. Another beautiful visiting dress is of fine white Valenciennes lace and ivory-colored cloth.

Among the many tea gowns is a beautiful one of palest pink mousseline de soie made in the Empire style. Another is a pale yellow Empire gown velvet with white linen-de-soie. The large bell sleeves are entirely of frills of lace, and round the short waist are pale yellow ribbons threaded through embroidery. There is a handsome evening coat of pale biscuit-colored faced cloth, with a hood composed of Valenciennes lace, dyed to match the cloth. Among the evening gowns is a short-waisted one of pale maize mousseline. Another Empire evening gown is of white silk mousseline, flowered all over with tiny clusters of pink roses.

The underlinen is made of the finest ninon trimmed with real Valenciennes lace and fine embroidery. The initials of the royal bride surmounted by the Spanish crown are worked on all the garments.

MOORISH CAMP

WHERE THE WEDDING FETES WERE HELD.

MADRID, May 31. One of the most unique spots prepared for the wedding fetes is the historic field on which the Moors camped, now transformed into gardens rivalling the famed gardens of Versailles. Recently 50,000 trees have been planted of various varieties, 1,000 palm trees, and 15,000 rose bushes of every known species.

The camp was first laid out as a garden by Philip II., and was for a time the resort of many celebrities such as Lope de Vega and Calderon. Although allowed to go to wrack and ruin in recent years, there still remains some fine statuary including the Triton fountain, subject of one of Velasquez's pictures. This is the first time any effort has been made to turn it to account as one of the notable adornments of Madrid.

THE HONEYMOON

WILL BE SPENT IN CASTLE LA GRANJA.

MADRID, May 31. The castle which Alfonso and his queen have chosen for their honeymoon is the Spanish Versailles, known as La Granja. It is a quaint and quiet spot, far removed from the inquisitive throngs of the capital, and with all the picturesque and romantic surroundings suitable for a royal honeymoon.

The palace is situated at the foot of the imposing Pico de Penalara in the Guadarrama mountains, high above the sea level. The little village dates from ancient times, when Henry IV. built a chapel there and dedicated it to St. Ildefonso. Later, the friars of the Parral Monastery established here a farm (La Granja) which so much suited the fancy of the first Spanish Bourbon, Phillip V., that he bought the place and erected a magnificent palace with surrounding parks, in the style of his French native country. The fountains and water works then established and still remain are not surpassed by any royal possession in Europe.

For years the Spanish kings used this palace and park as a pleasure resort, much as the French kings passed their days of pleasure at Versailles. Charles III. received here the Count Artois, when he marched to conquer Gibraltar. Godoy signed here the treaty which delivered Spain from France, and Ferdinand VII. here appointed the Infant Don Carlos to be prince hereditary. When his energetic sister-in-law heard of this intention, she hastened to La Granja, threw the courtiers out of the palace, gave to Premier Calomarde the famous box on the ear, about which he said later that "white hands cannot offend"; tore to pieces the first Spanish Testament, and insured the throne to the king's little daughter Isabella—events which caused the bloody civil war.

La Granja is at its best at this time of year, and the blossoms, the old trees, the myrtle lanes, the fountains, and the fresh mountain air, will all serve to make this royal honeymoon a delight. The castle overlooks the park, with its numerous cascades and lakes, supplied with water from huge reservoirs. These water-works are really the most remarkable feature of La Granja, and the effect of the fountains is much more grand than at Versailles. In the fountain of Perseus, who rescued Andromeda from the dragon, the latter throws a jet of 100 feet in the air. The basket fountain consists of numerous jets, 40 to 65 feet high, and the jet of the Fama fountain, 115 feet high, can be seen at Segovia.

The "Bath of Diana" is a chaos of water spouts and statues of goddesses and nymphs, glorifying the triumph of the loving woman, appearing in her whole beauty.

THE PEOPLE

HAD A CHANCE TO SEE NEW QUEEN.

MADRID, May 31.—The route of the wedding cortege has been designed to give Princess Ena a glimpse of all that is best of Madrid, in coming and going to the church, and at the same time to give the people an opportunity to see the new queen. [illegible] the very heart of the city. [illegible] Puerta del Sol [illegible] [illegible] Calle de Alcala [illegible] Carrera de San Jeronimo [illegible] broad, [illegible] lined with [illegible] Mayor [illegible] [illegible] Madrid [illegible] some of [illegible] Prado [illegible]. [illegible] Carlos IV. Practically the same [illegible] on the way back from [illegible] there are so many [illegible] with the [illegible] with the queen mother [illegible] of the royal house [illegible] innumerable scores of [illegible] all Madrid has an opportunity [illegible] something of the spectacle.

HUNTED BY MOB

MAN ACCUSED OF ASSAULTING GIRL FOUND IN WOODS.

BRAINTREE, May 31.—After being pursued through the woods yesterday by a posse of citizens, headed by State Detective John N. Scott, a well-known man of this town, Richard S. S. Hollis was captured and locked up in the police station charged with assault.

It is alleged that Hollis met Miss Esther Wentworth, 20 years old, on Pearl street, in a secluded part of the town yesterday forenoon and, without warning, assaulted her brutally. The young woman screamed for assistance and when her 11-year-old brother George appeared, Hollis, it is claimed, fled to the woods. Miss Wentworth was in a pitiable condition. She had been knocked down, kicked about the head and body, her nose was broken and one of her teeth knocked out.

CLEVER BOXING

At Meeting of Spindle City Club

The best program and the largest attendance of any show that the Spindle City Athletic club has had thus far was that given last evening at the gymnasium in Middle street, when several hundred members turned out to see Frank Kenney of this city and Kid Pantz of Boston in a glove contest, the pair being two of the cleverest men of their weight in New England. Had the contest been for a decision on points Kenney would have received the decision as he clearly outpointed his rival from start to finish. Kenney was in fine form despite the fact that he had appeared in Thornton, R. I., on Monday evening against Young Unholz, the champion of South Africa. That Kenney is improving every day and will yet be the peer of the top notchers was evidenced by his work last evening. He was doing something all the time while his opponent showed a most exasperating disposition to hold on and waste time. Kenney introduced a few new ones to his Boston opponents, one of them being a sort of subway uppercut done in a clinch which invariably reached Pantz where he stows away the macaroni. Kenney kept both hands going all the time and it mattered not in what position he might be he could use them and Pantz was on the defensive about all the time. Pantz was some seven pounds heavier than Kenney but that didn't bother the Lowell boy in the least. He was right there with the cherries from start to finish and his fellow club members think better of him as a boxer than they ever did before. His exhibition last evening stamps him as one of the best in his class and he will make a worthy opponent for Chester Goodwin or Matty Baldwin.

Before the program opened Jimmy Gardner was introduced by Master of Ceremonies Martin Flaherty as the best 125-pound boxer in America, and it was a unanimous vote. Jimmy and Billy Gardner are about to make a tour of the middle west where Jimmy is matched with Young Black in Peoria, Ill., and Jack Thompson at Dayton, O. Billy, who is in fine form, has also been promised plenty of work on the trip.

For a curtain raiser Young Donahue and Bobby Keeler, two local men, went four rounds in a neat exhibition with honors even. Then Gus Ross of Boston and Young Clinton of this city entertained for six rounds. Clinton had the advantage of several pounds weight and likewise the advantage in the contest.

Tim Buckley of Nashua, who when last weighed, tipped the scales at 350 and is still going up, challenged any man of his weight in the club. The directors offered to appoint a committee of three whose combined weight would reach 350 to go six rounds with Tim, but the latter declined with thanks.

Decorate your home with our new and attractive wall papers. We will assist you with our advice to bring about charming results. Kittredge & Co., 208 Central street.

MICHAEL DAVITT

THE LATE MICHAEL DAVITT.

The Well Known Irish Leader is Dead

DUBLIN, May 31.—A notable career closed last night when, after a long and painful illness, Michael Davitt died peacefully and painlessly at 12 o'clock, in the presence of his oldest son, Michael, and his two daughters, who had devotedly attended him through his illness and of many of his most intimate friends, including John Dillon. Shortly before his death Father Hatton had been with him. Mrs Davitt who had been in constant attendance on her husband, until a few days ago, when she herself was taken ill, lies prostrate in the same hospital, too weak to leave the room. She has not yet been informed of her husband's death.

The greatest sympathy has been displayed by all classes of society during Mr. Davitt's illness. Yesterday the hospital was besieged by anxious inquirers.

After a rally Tuesday night Mr. Davitt was able to speak to those at his bedside but soon showed that he was losing ground.

Mr. Davitt retired from the representation of South Mayo in parliament in 1899 but to the last took a keen interest in the politics of his country.

Death was due to blood poisoning, which followed two operations for necrosis of the jaw bone and spread so rapidly that all efforts to stay its course were unavailing. Mr. Davitt's illness began with an insidious attack of toothache.

For some time there were hopes for his recovery, but the state of his health, which was undermined by exertions at the recent general elections, greatly handicapped his progress.

ANNUAL REGATTA

BUCKLEY WAS DEFEATED BY MILLER.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The fortieth annual regatta of the Harlem Regatta association was held on the speedway course, Harlem river, yesterday afternoon. The races were one mile and a quarter straight away and there were sixteen events and two trial heats on the program. The weather conditions were perfect and the races, as a rule, warmly contested.

John P. Buckley of Portland, Me., who was looked upon as a sure winner in the veteran senior event, was beaten quite handily by Miller of the Nassau Boat club of New York.

Senior doubles was the best event of the day from the standpoint of finished oarsmanship. It was a bruising contest all the way, Vasely and Hudre, of the First Bohemian Boat club, New York managing to win by a narrow margin from the Staten Island crew.

IRISH LEAGUE

TO HAVE NOTED SPEAKERS NEXT MONDAY EVENING.

The executive committee of the United Irish League met Tuesday evening and announced a change in the meeting nights. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, June 4, at A. O. H. hall and not on Sunday. For some time past President Lee has been endeavoring to get John O'Callaghan, the national secretary, to address the league and at the meeting on Tuesday evening he announced that Mr. O'Callaghan would certainly be here on next Monday evening. He also announced that the national treasurer, Hon. Thomas B. Fitzpatrick of Boston, would accompany Mr. O'Callaghan to Lowell and address the league. It is intended to make this meeting a rouser as it will be the last before the hot weather season. A fine musical program will be presented and a large attendance is expected. Pres. Lee will make an important announcement relative to the Ho for the Beach picnic.

RECEIVED DIPLOMA

MISS IDA McLAUGHLIN A GRADUATE NURSE.

Miss Ida McLaughlin, a nurse at St. John's hospital, was graduated Tuesday evening from the nurses' training school at that institution, receiving the much-coveted diploma, gold medal and black-banded cap. They were given by Sister Agnes in the presence of the sisters and pupil nurses. All adjourned to the nurses' house where light refreshments were served and a pleasant evening was passed as many of the pupils are accomplished musicians as well as devoted to the sick and suffering. A number of the former graduates were invited to attend, as usual.

Miss McLaughlin will practice in this city, and bids fair to have marked success here in her chosen profession.

George Mulligan of Wilmington is much concerned that somebody arrested for drunkenness gave his name. George does not seem to realize that some names are duplicated.

C.T.A.U. MEETING

John McKenna Elected First Vice President

LIVELY CONTEST FOR DELEGATES

To National Convention at Providence

About 400 delegates, who represented upward of 60 separate temperance societies in the archdiocese, attended the annual convention of the C. T. A. U. held in Dorchester, yesterday. Substantial gains in membership during the year were reported by nearly all the affiliated societies, and several new organizations were heard from.

The exercises opened with mass in St. Leo's church. The Holy Family Temperance league of the parish was present as a body. The Rev. Dr. John T. Mullen, rector of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, officiated, assisted by Frs. John V. Cronin and Reardon. Fr. Francis J. Butler, rector of St. Leo's and president of the union was master of ceremonies.

The Rev. George V. Leahy of the faculty of St. John's Ecclesiastical seminary, Brighton, preached.

The delegates were welcomed by the Rev. Fr. Butler. The committees were announced as follows:

Constitution and by-laws—Thomas F. Phalen, Roxbury, chairman; C. E. Callahan, Norwood; Charles H. Farrell, Maurice Dineen, Malden; Frank L. Burns, Lynn; M. J. Carroll, Brookline; Bernard Pettee, Brockton.

Credentials—Dan. J. Kelley, Brighton, chairman; Neil J. Doherty, Woburn; William T. Cassell, Boston.

Organization—The Rev. Michael J. Doody, Cambridgeport, chairman; Lawrence E. Murphy, Boston; E. E. Gagan, East Cambridge; Edward F. Slattery, Lowell.

Resolutions—The Rev. Dr. John T. Mullen, Boston, chairman; Maj. John J. Leonard, Dorchester; Dennis A. McCarthy, Cambridge; Hugh Molloy, Lowell.

The gathering denounced the practice of drinking at public gatherings, meetings of political clubs and social and fraternal organizations. The movement to restrict the sale of liquor to women aims at checking sales even for home use.

It was announced that the recent raise in the per capita tax had proved beneficial financially. The increase of about 200 new members during the year was attributed largely to the efforts of the Rev. Fr. Butler. The election results were as follows:

President, the Rev. Francis J. Butler; vice presidents, John A. McKenna, Lowell, and Mrs. Katherine Tillotson, Roxbury; treasurer, the Rev. M. J. Doody, Cambridgeport; general secretary, Otho T. O'Leary, Dorchester; financial secretary, Maurice Dineen, Malden; corresponding secretary, Frank L. Burns, Lynn.

Not the least interesting part of the convention was the scholarly paper on "Alcohol and its effect as a stimulant," prepared and read by Dr. John F. Connolly, a Harvard graduate, and he held the closet attention of the large audience. He contended in his paper that alcohol does not act as a stimulant on the system when used in cases of sickness, but rather as a narcotic, that gives a depressing effect.

The election of delegates to the national body in August at Providence, R. I., was spirited, not less than fourteen candidates for the three places having been named the result was made known shortly before adjournment, and it was found that Rev. M. J. Doody, Cambridge, Maurice Dineen, Malden, and Mrs. Mary Murphy, Boston, were the lucky ones.

The alternates selected were: John V. Donoghue, Lowell, Thomas F. Phelan, Boston, Miss Annie C. Graves, Roxbury.

The election of John A. McKenna as vice president was received with joy by the delegates with whom Mr. McKenna is deservedly popular. The latter made brief but eloquent remarks, emphasizing the necessity of active work in the union.

The report of the treasurer showed several hundred dollars in the coffers of the organization, and Secretary O'Leary's report, replete with many suggestions, showed a gain of three societies.

Representing the Mathews at the convention were eight delegates, namely, Secretary Charles Sullivan, John Conklin, Edward Slattery, Charles Defoe, John Sharkey, John A. McKenna, John J. Coyne and J. V. Donoghue.

Pres. John E. Harrington and Stephen F. Ward of North Chelmsford attended the convention and Mr. Ward was chairman of the balloting committee.

Neat badges were worn by the delegates and everyone was provided with a new constitution nicely bound.

JOSEPH JENNINGS

JOSEPH JENNINGS, THE NEW POLICE COMMISSIONER, TO SUCCEED JOHN R. SHEA.

Appointed Police Commissioner by Mayor

Capt. Joseph Jennings of hose 11 of the Lowell fire department, was today appointed police commissioner for six years to succeed Commissioner John R. Shea. Mr. Jennings will be the chairman of the board.

The following letter of appointment was delivered to Mr. Jennings this morning:

Lowell, Mass., May 31, 1906.

Mr. Joseph Jennings, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I hereby appoint you as a member of the board of police of the city of Lowell for the term of six years beginning the first Monday of June, 1906.

I hereby designate and appoint you as chairman of the said board of police of the city of Lowell.

Truly yours,
JAMES B. CASEY, Mayor

Prior to the receipt of his appointment Mr. Jennings tendered his resignation as a member of the fire department to Assistant Chief James F. Norton, in the absence of Chief Hosmer.

Mr. Jennings came to Lowell 38 years ago and was appointed a call fireman on engine 1 in Gorham street and in 1885 was appointed a lieutenant of the same company. In 1888 he was made a permanent man and January 1, 1893, was transferred from engine 1 to hose 11 and made captain of the latter company, which position he has filled in an efficient manner until this morning when he tendered his resignation. He is 48 years of age and unmarried.

In conversation with a representative of The Sun this morning Mr. Jennings said: "I will insist on a thorough enforcement of the law and will endeavor to win the confidence and good will of my fellow citizens by my official acts."

He will be sworn into office Monday morning.

It is understood that John R. Shea will be appointed clerk of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Joseph Smith.

Today's Ball Game at Spalding Park

Innings	- 1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	Total
Lowell - - -	0	0	0	2	0	0	4	3	x	-- 9
Manchester	1	0	1	0	0	2	0	2	2	-- 8

About 300 fans went out to Spalding park this afternoon to see the game between Lowell and Manchester. Murphy was put in to do the slab work for the local team, while Lewis, a new man, did similar duty for the visitors. Umpire Jack O'Brien official and called time at 3 o'clock, the batting order of the teams being as follows:

LOWELL.	MANCHESTER.
Sheets lf	rf Phelan
O'Neil 3b	1b Eaton
Shannon ss	cf Pleiss
Burrill 1b	3b Murch
Lake c	2b Mauch
Sullivan rf	lf Kane
Fitzmaurice cf	c McDaniels
Rothermel 2b	ss McLaughlin
Murphy p	p Lewis

FIRST INNING.

Manchester scored one run in the first inning, but the home team failed to send a man over the home plate. Phelan hit in front of the plate and was out at first. Eaton followed with a hit to the left field fence which counted for two bases. Pleiss hit to Burrill and was retired at first, while Eaton went to third. Murch hit to left centre field for two bases, but he reached third and was safe on a close decision, Eaton having scored in the meantime. Mauch was third out, hitting to Shannon and dying at first.

Sheets foul-flied to McDaniels, O'Neil struck out and Shannon drew his base on balls, but Burrill closed the inning by flying out to Pleiss.

Score—Manchester 1, Lowell 0.

SECOND INNING.

In the first half of the second inning the visitors failed to score. Kane hit to Shannon and was out at first, while McDaniels flied out to Fitzmaurice, McLaughlin hit to O'Neil and was out at first.

The home team went out in quick order in the second inning. Lake flied out to Mauch and Sullivan struck out, while Fitzmaurice sent a hot one to Lewis which the latter knocked down and sent to first in time to catch the runner.

Score—Manchester 1, Lowell 0.

THIRD INNING.

The visitors scored another run in the third inning. Lewis opened with a single over second base and he went down to third on a single made by Phelan. Phelan tried to steal second but was nailed. Eaton singled and Lewis scored. Pleiss hit to Shannon who threw Eaton out at second and Rothermel sent the ball to first for a double.

Rothermel flied out to deep right field, Phelan making a pretty running catch. Murphy struck out and Sheets sent a grounder to McLaughlin and was out at first.

Score—Manchester 2, Lowell 0.

FOURTH INNING.

"Buster" Burrill made a home run in the fourth inning and tied the score, much to the delight of the fans. Murch opened for Manchester with a single. Mauch sent him to second with a sacrifice. Kane hit to Rothermel and died at first while Mauch went to third, but he died there for McDaniels struck out.

In Lowell's half O'Neil drew his base on balls and Shannon flied out to Eaton. Burrill then went to the bat and sent the ball over the left field fence for a home run, scoring O'Neil and himself. Lake flied out to Pleiss and Sullivan hit to McLaughlin and died at first.

Score—Lowell 2, Manchester 2.

FIFTH INNING.

Neither side scored in the fifth inning. For Manchester, McLaughlin flied out to Sheets and Lewis hit to Burrill and never reached first. Phelan drew his base on balls, but Eaton fanned.

For Lowell, Fitzmaurice hit through Murch's legs and reached first. Rothermel sacrificed and Fitz tried to make third but he was nailed. Murphy was given his base on balls, but Sheets hit to Lewis and was out at first.

Score—Lowell 2, Manchester 2.

SIXTH INNING.

In the sixth inning Umpire O'Brien made one of the rankest decisions ever given on the home grounds and as a result two runs were scored by the visitors. It was really the first rank decision made by O'Brien this season, even "Long John" Welch claiming that the decision was a bad one. The decision was productive of shouts of "You're rotten," "Get out of the game" and many harder names.

Pleiss, the first man up, drew his base on balls and Murch singled to right field while Pleiss went down to second. Mauch singled and Pleiss ran from third base intending to run home, but Sheets threw the ball in quickly from left field and O'Neil caught Mauch off the base. Kane struck out. McDaniels then came to the bat and had two strikes and he offered at the third and as he did Lake caught the ball and pulling off his mask threw it on the ground and walked away. O'Brien in the meantime called the strike a ball and both Murch and Mauch scored. McLaughlin flied out to Sheets.

In the latter half of the inning O'Neil flied out to Mauch and Shannon flied out to Pleiss. Burrill struck out.

Score—Manchester 4, Lowell 2.

SEVENTH INNING.

Lewis struck out, while Phelan and Eaton sent grounders to Shannon and were retired at first.

The home team went into the game with a vengeance during the latter half of the inning and hammered Lewis which together with the assistance of several errors scored four runs. Lake got to first on a fumble by McLaughlin. Sullivan landed out a two-bagger and Lake went to third. Fitzmaurice singled and Lake scored. Rothermel singled to left field by Kane and Rothermel went to second on the play while Sullivan and Fitzmaurice scored. Murphy hit to the pitcher who threw to third to get Rothermel, but the runner arrived at the base first. Sheets bunted in front of the plate and McDaniels threw to first getting the batter, but Rothermel came home on the put out. O'Neil flied out to Eaton and Murphy tried to get home on the put out and was nailed.

Score—Lowell 6, Manchester 4.

EIGHTH INNING.

In the eighth inning Pleiss hit to Murphy and Rothermel fielded the ball to first in time to get the runner. Murch made his fourth single and Mauch made a Texas leaguer to left field. Kane hit to right field for a two bagger but he ran over the base and Sullivan slammed the ball in to Burrill and the latter hit the ball to Shannon in time to get Kane, but Murch scored on the put out. McDaniels flied out to Sheets, but the latter dropped the ball and Mauch scored. McLaughlin then sent a high fly to Sheets and this time the local left fielder got the ball.

Shannon opened up the latter half of the inning by getting a single over second base. Burrill followed with another one and Shannon went down to second. Lake bunted to Murch who threw to third base to get Shannon but Murch dropped the ball and the bases were filled with none out. Rothermel was on the coach line at this point and for some unknown reason the umpire sent him to the bench. Sullivan hit a hot grounder which bounded bad and hit Eaton below the belt and the runner was safe while Shannon scored. Eaton at this point retired from the game and Beard took his place. Fitzmaurice hit to Lewis who threw home forcing Burrill out at the plate. McDaniels threw the ball to first to get Rothermel, but the ball hit him in the back and he was safe while Lake scored.

Rothermel hit to Beard and Beard threw home to get Sullivan, but Sullivan got in ahead of the ball. Rothermel and Fitzmaurice tried to make a double steal, Rothermel making the base but Fitz got nailed. Murphy closed the inning by flying out to Kane.

Score—Lowell 9, Manchester 6.

NINTH INNING.

Lewis opened the ninth with a base on balls. Phelan hit to right field for a single. Beard hit to left field for a single and Lewis scored. Pleiss drew his base on balls filling the bases. Murch flied out to Fitzmaurice and Phelan scored. Mauch hit to Shannon and was out at first. Kane flied out to Rothermel.

Score—Lowell 9, Manchester 8.

Hits—Lowell 8, Manchester 13. Errors—Lowell 1, Manchester 6.

EXETER WON

SCORED TWO POINTS MORE THAN ANDOVER.

EXETER, N. H., May 31.—The closest of record-breaking dual meets was held yesterday afternoon, Exeter scoring 49 points to Andover's 47. The 100 yards and the high hurdles gave Andover a lead of 10 points, which Exeter overcame in the next two events. The teams were then alternately tied or leading by a narrow margin and came to the 11th event, the half-mile, tied at 40.

Exeter took six points in the half and was assured of victory when three of her entrants qualified for the pole vault to Andover's one. That one, Pierce, was a star, clearing 11ft. 1⅝in. Fredemus negotiated 10ft. 10½in. and all but cleared the greater height. Both broke the dual record of 10ft. 7½in. The record of the hammer was literally shattered by all the place winners. It was 117ft. 2½in. Cooney raised it by 27ft. 7½in. while Andrus threw 158ft. 9½in. and Hyde 151ft. 4in. In the high hurdles Kilpatrick clipped a fifth of a second from Walter Hersey's record of seven years' standing. F. C. Richmond raised the broad jump record by two inches and Bartholomew tied Schick's in the 100 yards. Four records were thus broken and one tied.

WON DERBY

DANNY MAHER LANDED HIS MOUNT IN FIRST PLACE.

EPSOM, Eng., May 31.—Spearmint, owned by Sir Tatton Sykes and driven by Danny Maher, the American jockey, won the Derby yesterday. Picton was second, and Troutbeck, guided by "Skeets" Martin, another American, was third.

The great race of the day presented a perplexing problem, and the most rockribbed experts found themselves at a loss to select the probable winner, with 22 runners, a dozen of which were equally fancied by their respective stables.

The betting was 6 to 1 on Spearmint, 100 to 6 on Picton and 33 to 1 on Troutbeck.

This was Maher's third Derby. His previous wins were on Rock Sand and Cicero. Maher, who is a great favorite in England, received an ovation on returning to the scale.

King Edward's entry, Nulli Secundus, made a poor showing.

The race was for the Derby stake, 6500 sovereigns, for entire colts and fillies foaled in 1903, about one mile and a half.

BOMB WAS THROWN

Attempt to Kill King and Queen of Spain

LONDON, May 31.—7.20 p.m.—A despatch to a news agency from Madrid says that a bomb was thrown at King Alfonso and Queen Victoria this afternoon and that both escaped unhurt.

The news agency's despatch adds that an equerry was wounded and that a child and two horses were killed by the explosion. A fourteen-year-old boy was arrested.

It is further stated that the king and queen behaved with the greatest calmness and that after the delay caused by the confusion they proceeded to the palace.

FIVE LIVES LOST

Steamer Erin Was Cut in Two

DETROIT, Mich., May 31.—The steamer Erin, up bound, towing the schooner Danforth, was run into and cut in two by the steamer Cowle in the St. Claire river, just below St. Claire early today and five members of the Erin's crew were drowned.

The dead:

CHIEF ENGINEER PATRICK W. QUINN, Port Dalhousie, Ont.

FIREMAN "BANG" HILL, St. Catherines, Ont.

MRS. MARY REED, Spanish River, Ont.

WATCHMAN, shipped from Detroit, home in Amherstburg, Ont.

Woman cook, MRS. HUBERT of Cleveland.

The Erin was owned by Thomas Conlon of Thorold, Ont., and the Cowle by the United States Transportation Co. of Cleveland. The collision occurred during a fog. The Sowle is a modern steel freighter and is not thought to have been much damaged while the Erin was a wooden vessel of the old type.

MAN KILLED

HE WAS THROWN FROM HIS BICYCLE.

WORCESTER, May 31.—George W. Witt of Warren, aged 47, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon by being thrown from his bicycle on the Holland road, half a mile from Fiskdale. Mr. Witt was interested in mineralogy and was on his way to the lead mine in Sturbridge. He leaves a widow and one son.

$1,000,000

IMMENSE LOSS CAUSED BY THE FLOOD.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 31.—A despatch to the Oregonian from Pendleton, Ore., says that the total damage in Umatilla county alone from the floods of the past two days may reach one million dollars.

HAND INJURED

YOUNG MAN CUT IT WITH A BUTCHER KNIFE.

Arthur Ardisais, 22 years old and living at 24 John street, sustained a severe incised wound of the left hand while using a butcher knife today. He was treated at the Emergency hospital.

BADLY INJURED.

Alphonse Ledeau, 11, sustained a laceration, confused wound and fracture of the index finger of the right hand while at work on a spinning frame today. He was treated at the Emergency hospital. He lives in Aiken street.

CAUGHT IN FRAME

YOUTH HAD HIS FINGERS BADLY CRUSHED.

Nordicus Sinstop caught his left hand in a spinning frame while at work in the print works of the Hamilton mills this forenoon and crushed four of his fingers very badly. Sinstop is 16 years old and he lives in Middlesex street. He was removed in the ambulance to the Corporation hospital. It was stated at the hospital that he would not lose his fingers.

15 LIVES LOST

STEAMER CAPSIZED OFF THE PIER.

RIGA, Livonia, May 31.—The excursion steamer Vima capsized off her pier last evening from overloading. Fifteen are believed to have perished. Eleven bodies were recovered. The Vima had just started for Dubbeln, a neighboring watering place, when she heeled over.

THE WEATHER

Two Firemen Overcome at This Morning's Blaze

Assistant Engineer Charles Stackpole and Captain Daniel W. Hilliard of truck 2 in Westford street, had narrow escapes from being suffocated at a fire in a tenement house in Liberty street, the property of the Jonathan Hope estate, early this morning. They were overcome by the smoke and the heat and were in such a condition that it was necessary to remove them to their homes and secure doctors to attend them.

The fire, which had been burning for some time before being discovered, did considerable damage.

When the department arrived the flames were shooting through the rear of the house and the roof. The fire was the hottest in several chambers in the rear of the house and a blind attic and owing to the fact that the roof was slated and there were no [illegible] the heat in the attic was intense.

The fire started in a large clothes closet, and before it was discovered worked its way up through a partition into the blind attic.

While fighting the flames in the attic Engineer Stackpole and Captain Hilliard were overcome and the former was taken to his home at St. [illegible] street by Harry Sanders, Chief Hosmer's driver, and Captain Hilliard was taken to his home in Osgood street by the driver of his truck.

None of the occupants of the house seemed to know how the fire started, nor does Chief Hosmer.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building.

DR. WILLIAM BASS

Honored by the Physicians of Lowell

The physicians of Lowell to the number of 51, representing practically every school of medicine practised in this city, assembled at the New American house last evening to do honor around the festive board to Dr. William Bass, upon the occasion of the 50th anniversary of his entrance into the practice of medicine. During the evening Dr. Bass was presented a handsome antique hall clock by the Middlesex North Medical society.

Dr. George H. Pillsbury presided and acted as toastmaster and speeches were made by Drs. J. B. Field, Leonard Huntress, Joe V. Meigs, John H. Nichols, Moses G. Parker, Herman J. Smith, T. F. Harrington, Owen P. Porter, T. B. Smith, T. G. McGannon and J. C. Irish.

Dr. Bass was the last speaker and he said in part:

"If I should undertake to answer all that has been said here tonight, we should not go home until morning. I am very grateful to you all for your words, your gift and your presence here. It shows you have no quarrel with me. We have got along together very well so far.

"I have been here practically 50 years. For two years I was away, but I returned and I have been plodding away, standing the wear and tear better than anyone has expected I could or than I myself thought.

"The timepiece is very good, but your friendship is better. I want to thank God for all He has done for me."

He concluded by offering a brief prayer that all present might be spared and blessed.

HAD TWO NAMES

Man Known as Sullivan and Hayes

Today's police court session was a long drawn out affair but of not very great importance. The greater portion of the court's time was taken up with an assault and battery case of a minor nature.

HAD TWO NAMES

John Sullivan pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with drunkenness. "This man was here under the name of John Hayes a few days ago," said Deputy Welch to the court.

"What is your right name?" asked the court.

"John Hayes," replied the defendant.

A suspended sentence was hanging over Hayes' alias Sullivan's head. The suspension was revoked and he was sentenced to the state farm.

OTHER DRUNKEN OFFENDERS.

Charles Gagnon, a [illegible] man, was ordered in $50 to tomorrow morning. John P. Corcoran and George Lowrey were fined $6 each. The first offenders were fined $2 each.

FOR INDECENT ASSAULT

The case of Edward J. Allen for alleged indecent assault was continued for one week. The complainant is a [illegible] old girl.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY

Marshal S. St. John, an East Merrimack street shoe dealer, was charged with assault and battery on Thomas Bodkin, a small boy. The boy claimed that Mr. St. John choked him until his throat was lamed to such an extent that he swallowed and talked with difficulty.

The defendant said that the boys had annoyed him many times and that on the day in question the complainant struck him in the face with a rotten potato. Mr. St. John said he grabbed the boy to hold him for the police, but that the boy got away from him. The defendant's testimony was corroborated by other witnesses.

The boy said he did not hit Mr. St. John with the potato and that the assault was unprovoked. Other boys who were with the complainant corroborated his testimony.

Included in the witnesses for the defendant was Patrolman Kelley who said he had been called on two occasions to the Bodkin home because of complaints made against the complainant. James E. O'Donnell appeared for the commonwealth and William A. Hogan for the defendant. Mr. St. John was found not guilty.

How's Your Hair?

Falls & Burkinshaw Announce That They Have at Last Secured a Cure for Hair Troubles.

We beg to announce to the people of Lowell that we have secured the agency for one of the greatest discoveries of recent years. We refer to the prescription of Sir Erasmus Wilson, M.D., England's most successful specialist in diseases of the scalp, who was [illegible] for his [illegible] in the treatment of skin and scalp. Upon the death of Dr. Wilson the prescription was secured by [illegible] a chemist and is now offered to the public under the name Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair. This preparation will grow hair on bald heads even after all else fails. Unlike other hair preparations it is not sticky or greasy, but gives a live and glossy appearance to the hair. Miss Cornelia Stevens, 6 Smith avenue, Boston, Mass., says: "Dr. Wilson's English Life to the Hair grew a magnificent head of hair for me after I was told that I was becoming hopelessly bald. My hair now reaches nearly to my waist and is heavy and glossy. I cannot too highly recommend it." If you are growing bald, troubled with eruptions, dandruff scales or any scalp troubles, try Dr. Wilson's Life to the Hair. Albert Chemical Co., Boston, Mass., proprietors. STATE HIGHWAY

Commissioners Grant No. Chelmsford $5000

FOR EXTENSION OF BOULEVARD

The Lowell & Fitchburg Road Opened Today

Selectman James E. Dunnigan of Chelmsford is the happiest man in the North village today for this morning the chairman of the board of selectmen received notice from the state highway commission to the effect that that body had appropriated $5000 for a continuation of the state highway from the Princeton boulevard across the village of North Chelmsford to the Tyngsboro line. Selectman Dunnigan has been at work to get this concession since he became a selectman over [illegible] years ago and had appeared three times before the state highway commission in behalf of the project.

NEW LINE OPENED.

The new Lowell & Fitchburg street railroad opened its line between North Chelmsford and Fitchburg, the first car leaving Ayer at 6 o'clock. The cars made the trip between North Chelmsford and Ayer in about 45 minutes. As yet the cars are not coming into Lowell but in a few days they will run from Merrimack square to Ayer Junction without change. The new company has agreed to build a branch line between North Chelmsford, West Chelmsford, Brookside and Westford post office, and must have the line as far as West Chelmsford in operation by August 1.

The new electric lights in Middlesex street, North Chelmsford, will be installed tomorrow. The lights will be operated between sunset and 1 o'clock a. m.

An adjourned meeting of the North village water district will be held at the town hall tonight to elect their water commissioners. A committee consisting of C. Frank Butterfield, Preston L. Puggett and John E. Hogan will prepare a ballot. The terms of the commissioners will be one, two and three years. The meeting will also vote upon the question of authorizing the chairman and treasurer of the water commissioners to issue bonds, notes or certificates of debt to pay all expenses legally incurred in installing the plant.

UNVEILED MONUMENT

President Also Delivered Memorial Day Address

PORTSMOUTH, Va., May 30.—Under the auspices of the Army and Navy union, the organization of the officers and enlisted men of the U. S. army and navy, President Roosevelt yesterday delivered the Memorial day address here to an audience numbering thousands.

Following the address the President unveiled a monument erected in the naval cemetery by the Army and Navy union to the memory of its dead comrades.

President Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, his [illegible], Mrs. Carew, and two of his children, Miss Ethel and Master Quentin, made the trip from Washington to Portsmouth on the cruiser Mayflower, which arrived off Portsmouth at 8.30 o'clock yesterday morning.

The exercises took place in the great woods of the naval hospital grounds. A temporary stand had been erected for the president and distinguished guests. Around this the organizations which participated in the parade formed a hollow square. Several thousand citizens and invited guests attended the ceremonies.

At 11 o'clock the exercises were opened with prayer by Bishop Van de Vyver of the Catholic diocese of Richmond. After music by a military band, President Roosevelt was introduced by Col. J. Edwin Brown, national commander of the Army and Navy union.

The president spoke as follows:

"This day is hallowed and sacred in our history, for on this day throughout the land we meet to pay homage to the memory of the valiant dead who fell in the great civil war. No other men deserve so well of this country as those to whom we owe it that we now have a country. Moreover, the men to whose valor we owe it that the union was preserved have left us a country reunited in fact as well as in name. They have left us the memory of the great deeds and self-devotion alike of the men who wore the blue and of the men who wore the gray in the contest where brother fought brother with equal courage, with equal sincerity of conviction, with equal fidelity to a high ideal, as it was given to each to see that ideal.

Moreover, it is a peculiar pleasure to speak today under the auspices of the Army and Navy Union, of the union which is meant to include the officers and enlisted men of the regular forces of the United States. Exactly as there is no other body of men to whom in the past we have owed so much as to the veterans of the civil war, so there is no other body of men among all of our citizens of today who as a whole deserve quite as well of the country as the officers and enlisted men of the army and navy of the United States. Every man who has served well and faithfully, afloat or ashore, in the service of the United States, has shown that he possesses certain qualities which entitle him in a peculiar degree to the respect of all his fellow-citizens, while every man who is now in the service can not but feel himself uplifted by the thought that in any time of future crisis it may be that the honor of the whole nation will depend upon his bearing. There rests upon each of you a tremendous burden of responsibility, and therefore to you belongs the proud privilege of bearing that load of responsibility well.

This audience is composed largely of veterans of the civil war, largely of men who have served in or are serving in the army and the navy of the United States. They are concerned not only with the duties of the soldier and the sailor, but with the duties of the civilian, with all matters affecting the plain, every day citizen as he does his everyday duties. For we must always remember that in our country our army and navy are an army and navy made up of volunteers; all our forces are volunteers; our regulars, afloat and ashore, are merely our fellow-citizens who of their own free will have taken up this particular task. The task once through they return to the body of our citizenship; and exactly as the efficiency of our military service depends chiefly upon the efficiency of the average enlisted man, so the efficiency of the nation as a whole depends chiefly upon the way in which the average man performs his plain, everyday duties.

MUST BEAR BURDEN.

This does not mean that the leader, whether in military or civil life, can escape bearing a peculiar burden of responsibility. To him has been given much and from him much will be demanded. It is right and proper that the man in a high position, whether his position be that of a high civilian official in time of peace or of a high military or naval officer in time of war, should receive a marked degree of credit if he performs his difficult, delicate and responsible task well, and should, on the other hand, be held to an especially sharp accountability for any shortcomings. In any time of crisis the man in high office in civil life, the man in high command in military or naval life, can, if he be weak or incompetent, paralyze the actions of a multitude of brave and able men who are under him. On the other hand, if in intellect, and above all, in character, he is able to rise level to the need of the moment, he may so combine and direct the actions of the many under him as to make their joint effort irresistible. The first duty of the leader, civil or military, is to lead; and he must lead well. Exactly as the people must demand the highest grade of integrity and efficiency from their leaders in civil affairs, so in military affairs they must insist upon every officer devoting all the best that there is in him to fitting himself in the duties of his profession, to caring for and drilling and training those under him, so that alike in point of personnel and in point of material the Army and Navy of the United States may reach as high a point of perfection as is humanly possible. This is the work that only the leaders can do; and if they shirk it their shame is unspeakable.

MUST HAVE GOOD MEN.

Nevertheless it remains true that no leader can accomplish very much unless he has the right kind of men to lead. Unless the enlisted man has the right stuff in him it stands to reason that no officer can get it out of him, because it is not there to get out. So in civil life, if all our leaders were Washingtons and Lincolns they could, nevertheless, make no permanent improvement in our citizenship unless the average citizen had in him the capacity for such improvement. In the last analysis it is the man behind the ballot who counts most in civil life, just as it is the man behind the gun that counts most in military life.

We can not too highly honor the memory of the leaders in the Civil war—of Grant and Lee, of Sherman and Johnston, of Stonewall Jackson and Sheridan, of Farragut and of the captains who fought under and against him. But after all the man upon whom the chief credit must rest was the plain man in the ranks, the man in blue or in gray who went in to see the war through, and who did see it through. He had the courage to stand without flinching the bickering of the skirmishes and the hammering of the great fights; he had the steadfast endurance to bear with uncomplaining resolution the hunger and the heat and the cold, the scorching days and the freezing nights, the grinding, heart-breaking fatigue of the marches, the wearisome monotony of the camps, and the slow suffering of the field hospitals. So in the Army and the Navy today, in the last analysis we must depend upon having the right stuff in the enlisted man and then upon having that stuff put into proper shape. So again in our Republic as a whole it is just as true in peace now as it was forty-five years ago in war that it is the character of the average man that must be the determining factor in achieving national success or going down to national disaster.

NEED OF LEADERSHIP.

Leadership is necessary in order that we may get really good results out of a high average of individual character; but without the high character in the average individual the leadership by itself can avail but little.

Now it is easy to say this in words which shall imply merely flattery of the average voter or of the average enlisted man. I certainly do not intend my words to be so taken. It is a sure sign of weakness in any man if he is always wanting to be flattered, and especially if he lets his head be turned by flattery. The average voter needs to learn and to keep steadily in mind the fact that if in the last resort the real power is his, so in the last resort the real responsibility is his. He can not cast off on anyone else the responsibility for our governmental shortcomings. Nothing is cheaper than to say that the people are all right but that the politicians are all wrong. As a matter of fact politics, and therefore politicians, will in the long run represent faithfully either the wishes or the indifference of the people; and if the people are indifferent the results are just about as bad as if they deliberately choose to go wrong. So it is with the enlisted man. When I call attention to the high place he holds, and must ever hold in the esteem of every sensible man, I do it less with the intention of emphasizing the respect due him by outsiders than with the intention of making him realize the burden of honorable obligation resting upon his shoulders. By unwearied effort he must learn to do his duty, whether that duty lies afloat or ashore, whether it lies in the cavalry or the infantry, in the gun turret or in the engine room. He must be able to handle himself and to handle the formidable and delicate mechanism intrusted to his care in such manner that if ever it becomes his fortune to take part in battle for the flag another page shall be added to the many which go to make up the long honor roll of American history.

In closing I ask your attention to the fact that our soldiers and sailors are able to do their duty in great emergencies even other than those of war. Recently the most appalling disaster that has ever befallen any city in our country, the most appalling disaster that has befallen any city of the same size for a century past, befell the great and beautiful city of San Francisco. In the midst of their horror and pity and sympathy the rest of our people were rendered proud and glad by the courage, the self-reliance, the self-command shown by the men and women of San Francisco themselves under the sudden and awful calamity which had befallen them. We had yet another source of pride in the fact that the first Americans outside the city who were able to extend relief and help were the officers and enlisted men of the garrison and the ships in the immediate neighborhood of San Francisco. The alertness, the instant response to the demand made upon them, the mixture of self-reliant initiative with orderly obedience and coherence of action, the high personal valor and the steady endurance and strength shown by the soldiers and sailors of the Regular Army and Navy in coping with this disaster, were as great as if shown in time of battle. Such a record should make every true American proud of the Army and the Navy and should make every true American resolve to see that through our national authorities at Washington we make such provision by law for the maintenance, the support and the training of the Army and the Navy that they shall ever stand in the forefront of their respective professions.

CANOBIE LAKE

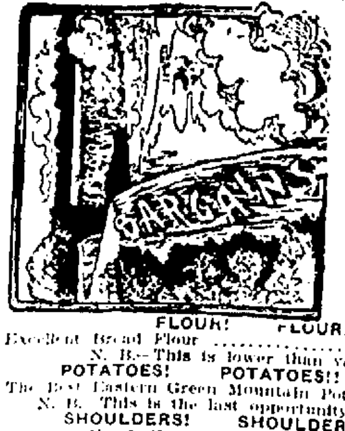
RECORD CROWD WENT THERE YESTERDAY.

Notwithstanding the cold weather the New Hampshire electric railways had a good crowd at Canobie Lake Park yesterday. Beginning in the early part of the afternoon the company ran cars every 15 minutes from Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill with a half hour service from Nashua, and even then it seemed almost impossible to handle the crowd. It is estimated that 12,000 visited the park during the day.

Canobie Lake Park never looked more attractive than now. The recent rain served to put the finishing touch to the landscape gardening and horticultural effects, and of all the natural situations which the Merrimac Valley presents for the consideration of humanity, none possess greater attractions than this resort. Here are to be found in full swing all the pleasures of an up-to-date summer resort.

The giant roller coaster and the rough riders did their full duty, being taxed to their utmost capacity. Every foot of the dance hall was occupied and many a couple waited in vain. As soon as one session at the roller skating rink was over another crowd took the floor and the same was true with the other attractions. The lake was full of pleasure launches, canoes and row boats. A great change has taken place at the park in the way of attractions, additional features having been added. The newest creation of delight is the Laughing Mirrors. The price of admission is only ten cents and it is certainly worth half a dollar to go in and laugh not with yourself but with the crowd from the time you enter until you leave, in fact you laugh for some time after. There are ten mirrors; in one you appear like a kangaroo, in another you are top heavy. In the "Goo-Goo-Eyes" mirror you appear with four heads with but one body, and so on down the line. Although it did not open until nearly 1 o'clock it has already made a reputation as the greatest fun making department at the park. On account of the rainy weather the new circular swing was not completed in season but will be by Saturday. This will be a great attraction more particularly at night when it will be illuminated by 200 incandescent lights.

All the benches, swings and rustic seats through the shady retreats were never vacant, and there was a constant stream of humanity strolling leisurely along the broad walks that are laid out through carefully trimmed lawns. President Belden and General Manager Woodman were at the administration building during the entire afternoon and evening. They were much pleased with the manner in which the large crowd was handled. If yesterday's crowd is a criterion Canobie Lake will be more popular this season than ever.



If you are in doubt as to the quality of our goods, give us a trial order and we will convince you of their superior quality. Our bargains for Friday and Saturday are a record-breaker in the history of grocerydom.

BOARD OF TRADE OPPOSED TO TELEPHONE COMPETITION.

The directors of the board of trade at a well attended meeting Tuesday evening went on record as opposed to a competing telephone company in this city and instructed a committee to request the board of aldermen to give a public hearing on the matter before taking any action. President Walsh, Secretary McKenna, Jesse H. Shepard, Charles H. Conant, Henry A. Smith were appointed a committee to look into the matter further.

Secretary McKenna reported on the matter of new freight sheds on Maple street and Henry A. Smith on behalf of the committee that has in charge the organization of the business men against unprofitable advertising schemes, reported that the committee was diligently at work and was meeting with the greatest success among the business men who regarded the movement to be in the right direction. He also reported that the committee had decided on a small placard which will be distributed among the signers of the agreement for display in their place of business.

J. A. McEvoy and T. A. D. Sullivan were admitted to membership in the board.

The "Allenburys" Malted Food
Allen & Hanburys Ltd. LONDON

The 'Allenburys' Foods
For Infant Feeding

The 'ALLENBURYS' Milk Food No. 1 — For infants from birth to three months of age. This food is the nearest approach to human milk that it is possible to produce, and has been found to be as easily digested and assimilated. It can therefore be used alone, or alternately with the breast without fear of upsetting the child's stomach.

The 'ALLENBURYS' Milk Food No. 2 — For infants from three to six months of age. Comprises the same elements as the "No. 1 Food" with the addition of certain other properties which experience proves to be required at this period of development—not only to supply the increasing demands of the child, but also to give a needed stimulus to the powers of assimilation.

The 'ALLENBURYS' Malted Food No. 3 — For use after six months of age. Unlike "No. 1" and "No. 2" which, being milk foods, require the addition of water only; this is a partially predigested farinaceous food needing the addition of fresh cow's milk in preparing it for use, and is provided to meet the still further requirements of the child at this age.

This "series" of these foods is so graded that each affords the maximum amount of nourishment which, at the period for which it is intended, the organs of the child can digest and assimilate with perfect ease. The great success attending the use of these "Foods" is due, not only to the close resemblance of the "Milk Foods" to human milk, but also in a large measure to the fact that 'The Allenburys' Series of Foods change like the mother's milk—according to the growing needs and requirements of the child.

The 'Allenburys' Foods are sold by all druggists—ask your dealer for book on "Infant Feeding and Management." If he cannot supply you write us and we will mail you a copy free.

ROYAL MARRIAGE

Scene of Rare Brilliancy in Madrid

MADRID, May 31.—The city awoke today under a cloudless sky with dazzling sunshine adding its glories to the bewildering maze of color in which the streets were enveloped. From an early hour the centers presented an aspect of extreme animation. The entire night had been passed amid the din of fireworks, singing and dancing and thousands of provincials, unable to secure shelter spent the night in cafes and in the streets. At 8 o'clock crowds densely packed the main thoroughfares and the troops took up their positions, stopping all traffic, and the whole city took an air of feverish expectancy. The esplanade, fronting the royal palace was occupied by regiments of the royal guards in full gala uniforms with glittering breast plates and helmets. They formed semi-circles guarding the approaches to the palace from the crowds eager to gain points of vantage.

The massive outlines of the palace were without decorations save the royal standard floating above. Detachments of halberdiers with quaint cockades stood with halberts crossed at the prince's gate leading to the palace court yard. All along the route of cortege hurried preparations were going on. Troops lined both sides of the streets in solid ranks for miles.

BRILLIANT SCENE.

The scene from the Puerto Del Sol to the Pardo palace was one of striking brilliancy. All the buildings were resplendent with the yellow and red colors of Spain woven into sunbursts, huge rosettes and graceful streamers looped from roof to roof and arches of roses from which were suspended enormous flower baskets and trailing vines. Under this dazzling canopy of flags and flowers surged dense masses of humanity in festival attire, the women wearing white mantillas and bunches of bright flowers in their black hair and with bright colored fans whipping the air. The population of Madrid had turned out in a body and was augmented to twice its usual size by visitors from the country and neighboring towns.

ESCORTED BY REGIMENT.

Princess Victoria came from the Pardo palace to Madrid early in the morning, accompanied by her mother, Princess Henry of Battenberg, and her ladies of honor and escorted by a regiment of the royal guards. The bride's party was installed in the ministry of marine which had been sumptuously prepared for her. The princess put on her wedding dress and Queen Christina greeted the bride after which the ladies breakfasted together in the blue salon of the ministry.

The wedding cortege started from the royal palace at 9.30 a.m. amid the ringing of church bells, the firing of artillery salutes and the clamorous enthusiasm of the crowds massed along the route.

Ahead rode trumpeters in crimson velvet suits of the time of Philip II., sounding the approach of the royal party. Following them came the personnel of the royal household; the heralds mounted on stallions from the royal stud and caparisoned in Oriental style, each led by a cadet of the royal riding academy and the equerries and grooms from the royal stables leading the king's favorite horses with gold embroidered saddle cloths and colored plumes, accompanied by pages and riding masters and all the bewildering equipment of a luxurious court.

NOBILITY OF SPAIN.

Next came a long line of gala coaches of the Spanish grandees, each of a distinctive color with panels richly painted, gilded and jeweled and drawn by magnificent horses in silver harness, adorned by tall plumes matching the livery. Within rode the nobility of Spain; the men with their breasts covered with orders and the women in wedding attire.

But the brilliancy of this part of the cortege was far surpassed when the famous royal gala coaches came into view, each drawn by eight white horses with golden and silver harnesses and lofty colored plumage, looking like the coaches depicted on some illuminated page of a fairy book.

These coaches formed one of the most striking features of the wedding cortege. They were marvels of luxury, some of tortoise shell others of mahogany, sets with panels painted by famous artists, all ornamented with precious metals and emblazoned with the royal insignia. They were relics of by-gone days when kings and queens rode in golden vehicles but they had been renovated in all their original splendor for this occasion.

The most interesting coaches were the Amaranth coach for the court ladies; the Cypher coach for the lords in waiting; the coach of the ducal crown for the Infantas, and the shell coach for the queen mother.

All the trappings and surroundings of these magnificent vehicles were in keeping. They were drawn by teams of six and eight white horses, well matched and of the finest breeds.

About these glittering vehicles circled retinues of grooms, pages, heralds and others in the showy uniforms of Louis XIV.

The coaches of the Spanish grandees were hardly less remarkable than those of royalty, the main difference being that they were drawn by only two horses, according to rigid rule.

Some of the most notable of these coaches were as follows:

The Duke of Albas' coach of yellow with red wheels, the plumage of the horses and the livery of the lackeys being of the same color; that of the Marquis of Viana, a 16th century coach with paintings by Vincente Lopez, that of the Marquis De Mi[illegible], distinguished by its wheels [illegible] all the [illegible] being white, those of the Duke of Sotomayor and the Marquis De Tovar, each of blue with red wheels and plumage of the same colors, that of the Duke of Tamames, brown and the Count of Heredia, green. There were some 25 of these historic coaches of the grandees, each having its own peculiar [illegible], and all forming a dazzling [illegible].

Following the [illegible] of the Spanish princes and infantas [illegible] of the visiting princes, [illegible] the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Archduke and Archduchess [illegible] Ferdinand of Austria, the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess Vladimir [illegible], Prince Albrecht of Prussia [illegible] Prince Albert of Belgium and representatives of all the royal houses of Europe.

KING ALFONSO.

Closing this dazzling array of princes appeared a coach bearing the royal crown in which were seated King Alfonso, his witness Prince Carlos and his majesty's little nephew, Prince Alfonso, the actual heir to the throne of Spain.

As the king's coach appeared it was greeted by a great roar, while the multitude wildly waved handkerchiefs, fans and parasols. His majesty was smiling and bowing to the popular greetings. He wore the uniform of a field marshal, his [illegible] surmounted by a sweeping white plume. Around his coach was a cavalcade of royal guards, heralds, equerries and pages holding back the enthusiastic populace.

Immediately following the royal coach came the bride's party, forming another glittering array of gala coaches bearing the lords and ladies in waiting and the princes and princesses of the house of Battenberg and finally came the famed mahogany coach with the radiant bride, Princess Victoria, attended by her mother and Queen Maria Christina.

BRIDE CHEERED.

The appearance of the princess, who was about to become their queen, aroused the people to the highest pitch of emotion; men and women cheered and showed friendly salutations, while others from the balconies of the houses along the route showered flowers on the princess and let loose hundreds of pigeons carrying long bright streamers. The bride looked most charming and graciously acknowledged the continued ovations.

As the cortege entered the Puerto Del Sol the picture presented was strikingly beautiful, with the buildings ablaze with color, the streets densely packed the balconies crowded with people, the swarming windows, housetops and trees and in contrast the stately royal cavalcade defiling slowly amid the enthusiastic clamor of the populace.

On reaching the chamber of deputies the cortege came in sight of the church of St. Jeronimo El Real, which was magnificently adorned for the ceremony. Over the entrance was suspended an immense canopy of red and yellow velvet, embroidered with Spanish escutcheons and supported on gold tipped lances. Awaiting the bridal party stood lines of halberdiers and palace guards.

The massed bands played the Spanish national anthem as the bridal couple passed within the church which presented a scene of rare beauty. The great arches and naves were lighted up by thousands of electric lights which lined the cornices and framed the marble altar with an aureole of light. At the left of the altar arose a throne upon a raised dais, over which hung a majestic canopy of light silk, wrought with gold embroideries. At the back of the throne flamed the arms of Spain. Two richly gilded arm chairs occupied the dais on which also rested two silken cushions upon which the bridal couple knelt. Immediately facing the throne, were gilded divans on which were seated Queen Christina, Princess Henry of Battenberg, the Infantas, the princes and the members of the Battenberg, and other royal families. Beside them were the foreign princes, archdukes and grand dukes in court uniforms with the princesses and duchesses in court gowns, with trains four yards long, corsages and hair blazing with jewels and with filmy white mantillas floating lightly over the head and shoulders, mantillas being rigidly required.

Mr. Whitridge, the American special envoy, and Minister Collier were conspicuous owing to the fact that they did not wear uniforms.

PROCESSIONAL MARCH.

As the royal couple entered the assemblage arose and two hundred choristers intoned a processional march. Across the breast of the king's field marshal's uniform was the blue and white sash of the order of Charles III. and on his breast sparkled the order of the Garter and of the Golden Fleece.

The bride entered with her mother, brother and Queen Christina. The silvered embroidery of her wedding dress was reflected by the myriad of lights until the bride seemed to be robed in jewels. Her veil slightly drawn aside, revealed her clear, fine features with cheeks full of youthful color.

The king advanced to meet the bride and they stood together as the marriage service began. The ceremony was performed with all the impressiveness of the Roman ritual, Cardinal Sancha, archbishop of Toledo, robed in crimson silk, officiating assisted by a special nuncio of the pope and the highest dignitaries of the church with scores of acolytes and incense burners. The ceremony which lasted nearly an hour terminated with the nuncio pronouncing the pope's benediction on the newly married couple and the chanting of the Te Deum.

CANNON BOOMED.

As the king and Princess Victoria were pronounced man and wife the news was signalled to the waiting crowds and all Madrid broke into frantic demonstrations of joy while cannon boomed and church bells chimed.

Entering the royal coach the king and queen of Spain returned to the palace amid scenes of the wildest enthusiasm, the throng shouting "Long live Queen Victoria."

NUPTIAL MASS

WAS CELEBRATED IN CHURCH OF SAN JERONIMO EL REAL.

MADRID, May 31.—The church of San Jeronimo el Real, where the nuptial mass was celebrated and the marriage benediction pronounced, is a quaint old structure which has passed through [illegible] strange vicissitudes. [illegible] not the first royal marriage celebrated there, for the wedding of Isabella II took place in great pomp within its walls. But more recently the church was abandoned to a carpenter's shop and planing mill, and the whir of saws took the place of the solemn measures of the mass.

The origin of the church was one of the strange whims of the old king of Castile, Henry IV. He had set up a magnificent tournament on the Pardo road, to celebrate the arrival of a new British ambassador. The tournament was notable for the courage displayed by the king's favorite, Beltran de la Cueva, who not only unhorsed four knights, but also, single handed and on horseback, with a small javelin, conquered and killed an infuriated bull which had torn to pieces the greatest toreadors of Spain. The king to commemorate this event founded a monastery, which the Jeronimo friars inaugurated. Later Isabella, the Catholic, shifted the site of the monastery to its present place. Here it became the royal chapel and during the gay era of Philip IV all the royal alliances and ceremonies took place there. At another time the cortes met there.

After the expulsion of the friars the edifice became an artillery magazine and later a carpenter establishment. Thus it remained a workshop until in 1880 the government resolved to restore the building to its original object as a royal chapel. The saw mills were then removed, and extensive renovating and repairing gave it back some of its ancient glory.

The style of the church is gothic, with two small towers, and a large gothic portico with rich stone carvings. The interior has the form of a cross, with a rose window throwing a soft light across the altar. There are few artistic treasures within, and the scant light from the musty stained glass windows makes the interior rather dark.

Moreover it is essentially a chapel rather than a magnificent cathedral, and it lacks that splendid perspective fitting a state ceremony. However, its dark walls are now hung with magnificent tapestries, while thousands of plants and flowers and burning candles give a setting worthy of this solemn act.

San Jeronimo is the only church in Spain where mass can be celebrated after mid-day. This results from an indulgence granted for a fortune bequeathed to the church a century ago by a rich dowager in favor of the soul of her maid servant. The dowager's precious jewels disappeared one day, and the servant being accused she was tortured and executed with all the horrors of inquisitorial days. Later the jewels were discovered in the adjoining park, in a nest of magpies. The grief of the dowager was boundless and she gave her whole fortune for requiems, the indulgence for afternoon masses following some years after.

WONDERLAND

BOSTON & NORTHERN TO RUN EXCURSIONS.

The Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. plans to inaugurate its series of special excursions for this year by giving the people of this district an opportunity to visit the famous Revere beach and see the wonders of Wonderland, the new, great, million dollar amusement enterprise which has just been opened to the public.

The trip by trolley to Revere from Lowell is one of great interest in itself, while the attractions at the beach are many and varied. Wonderland itself has a multitude of startling novelties including the marvellous "Fighting the Flames." This show in itself employs 350 people and cost about $75,000 to install. Then there is a wild animal show, a mammoth chute, scenic railway, Japanese village, wild west show and innumerable other attractions to say nothing of the wonderful lighting display.

These excursions afford a chance to see these attractions and the others of the great beach before the heavy rush of summer business, as they will start this coming Saturday and Sunday. The cars will be run through to Revere without change in quick time and everyone who goes upon them will be assured of a seat as only tickets enough will be sold for each car to permit of the filling of that car.

The first excursion will be started Saturday and the cars will leave Merrimack square at 9.15 a.m. and 1.15 p.m. They will run direct through to Revere and will give the passengers an abundance of time to spend among the interesting scenes of the beach and Wonderland, leaving the beach on the return trip at 8 p.m.

The cost of the round trip will be but 50 cents. Tickets may be secured at the office of the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. in advance or from the starter just before the cars leave.

The Sunday excursion will leave Merrimack square at 8.45 a.m. and return leaving the beach at 5.30 p.m.

POSTAL CLERKS

Annual Convention Held in Lawrence

The sixth annual convention of the Massachusetts State Association of Postoffice Clerks was held at Caledonian hall, Lawrence, Memorial Day afternoon.

The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock by State President John Farrell of Lowell. The roll-call of officers was then read and each and every officer responded. The total number present was 85.

Corresponding Secretary James E. Gildea read communications from various state organizations throughout the country, and from the national president and secretary. Resolutions were then drawn up and are to be forwarded to the San Francisco clerks. On motion of one of the members the entire delegation stood with bowed heads for one minute in memory of departed friends at Brockton. The convention then endorsed the candidacy of John F. McDermott of Worcester, for the next national president.

The matter of holding the convention in towns where the greatest enthusiasm was displayed was fully discussed. The majority of the members present thought it advisable to hold it in cities where the enthusiasm was not so strong, thereby encouraging the dilatory members. The question as to where the next convention would be held was left entirely in the hands of the president.

The national convention for this year will be held at Savannah, Ga., in September. Joseph M. Sherry of Worcester was elected as delegate to this convention from the Massachusetts organization.

The following officers were elected: Joseph M. Sherry of Worcester, president, Joseph M. Levy of Boston, first vice-president; Frank H. Kelley of Haverhill, second vice-president, Wilfred H. Littlefield of Brockton, secretary; John E. Burns of Lowell, treasurer; Charles P. Casey of Salem, chairman of grievance committee. The officers above constitute the executive committee. After a lengthy session the convention adjourned at 6.25 o'clock.

In the evening a banquet was enjoyed at the Franklin house. The banquet opened at 7.20 o'clock sharp, James E. Gildea, president of the Lawrence organization, called the banquet to order.

Mr. Gildea introduced John H. Farrell of Lowell as toastmaster of the evening. Mr. Farrell first called upon Postmaster Byron Truell for an address. F. K. Foster then spoke briefly. Ex-Mayor James P. Leonard gave an interesting talk which was heartily received. The speech of the evening was made by Senator Louis S. Cox. When Senator Cox finished speaking round after round of applause followed and the local clerks certainly showed their friendship toward their next postmaster.

The guests of the evening were Joseph M. Levy of Boston, Postmaster Byron Truell, Assistant Postmaster Edgar S. Hidcont, Representative F. K. Foster of Boston, Senator Louis S. Cox, ex-Mayor James P. Leonard, Mayor John P. Kane, ex-Alderman Simeon Vigor, Louis K. Siegel and Postmaster A. G. Thompson of Lowell.

TRAINING SCHOOL

EXAMINATION OF CANDIDATES TO BE HELD SOON.

As will be seen by notice elsewhere the examination of candidates for admission to the Lowell Training school for teachers will be given this year on June 11 and 12. Candidates must be graduates of a college of the first class or of a normal school.

The examination will be of the same general character as in the last three years. It will consist of a written theme or exercise in English composition, a written test in mathematics (arithmetic and algebra) an oral examination in reading, and a last test consisting of the giving of a lesson to a class of children. In the past candidates have been allowed to choose their subjects and the grade of children to whom they wished to give a lesson. The same course will probably be followed this year, though it is not promised.

The number of candidates to be accepted has not been stated, and may not be decided until after the examination. It is intended to be such as shall keep the primary and grammar schools supplied with teachers, and to have an occasional teacher left over for the High school. The number in the past has usually been 15, of whom about one-third have been from colleges and the rest from normal schools.

The training school consists of 12 rooms with children of all the grades from the primary to the high school. It is supervised by a principal and four unassigned, or critic teachers, and taught by the same and seven regular teachers, and the varying number of young ladies who are admitted annually and who comprise the so-called "practice class." As far as is possible these latter teachers are each given the full charge of a room, in turn at least, for their term of service, which is one year.

At the year's end they are, therefore, teachers of one year's experience, a qualification so necessary in securing good positions anywhere. If they stay in Lowell they are promised positions as regular elected teachers as fast as vacancies occur or new places open, and the only uncomfortable feature of the condition is that there are not vacancies enough to give places to all at once and so, even after graduation there is likely to come a longer or shorter time of waiting with only temporary positions with which to fill up time. The prestige of the school is such, however, that no difficulty is ever found in getting positions elsewhere while waiting for one to open at home. For the year's service as teachers in the school the members of the practice class are paid $200.

DEATHS

HIGGINS—Mrs. Mary Higgins, wife of Patrick Higgins died Tuesday evening at St. John's hospital. She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mary and Annie, five sons, Frank, James, William, Thomas and Roderick, two sisters, Mrs. Frederick Vallely of Lowell and Mrs. J. P. Feron of Glasgow, Scotland, and two brothers James and Frank Murphy of this city. The remains were removed to the home of the deceased in Church street, North Billerica from which place the funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 8.30 o'clock. Mass of requiem will be sung at St. Andrew's church, at 9 o'clock. Undertaker John J. Higgins in charge.

MOONEY—Miss Catharine Mooney, aged 50 years, died yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. John O'Conroy, 47 West Fifth avenue, Pawtucketville. The deceased had been a resident of Belvidere for over 25 years and a devout member of the Immaculate Conception parish. She was taken ill a few days ago while in a visit to the home of her sister. Beside Mrs. Conroy she is survived by another sister, Mrs. David McNulty and a brother, Philip Mooney. The funeral will take place from 47 West Fifth avenue tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and solemn high mass of requiem will be sung at the Immaculate Conception church at 10 o'clock. Undertakers C. H. Molloy & Sons in charge.

McGOVERN—Thomas McGovern, aged 49 years died Tuesday night at St. John's hospital. He is survived by two daughters, the Misses Annie and Agnes McGovern, and two sisters, Mrs. Ellen McNiff of Somerville and Mrs. Rose McNiff of Harvard, Mass. The remains were taken to the chapel of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

BRAVE LITTLE GIRL

RESCUED WOMAN WHO TRIED TO THROW HERSELF INTO THE CANAL.

Mrs. Marguerite Ayotte, of 77 Chever street attempted suicide by trying to jump into the canal in Little Canada yesterday morning. She was rescued by a little girl who grabbed and held the demented woman who had already vaulted the guard. The little girl screamed for help and there were those in the vicinity who went to her assistance. The brave little girl went away without giving her name. Mrs. Ayotte is about 50 years old and it is said that her mind has been affected by brooding over family troubles. Arrangements are being made to remove her to the asylum for the insane at Danvers.

FUNERALS

McBRIDE—The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret McBride took place yesterday morning at 8.15 o'clock from the home of her son, William F. McBride, 20 Broadway. High mass of requiem was sung at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church, by Rev. Fr. Carney. The choir under the direction of Thomas P. Bodger rendered the Gregorian chant. At the offertory Mr. Bodger sang Leybach's "Pie Jesu." At the conclusion of the service Miss Nano M. Gallagher rendered "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and as the remains were leaving the church "De Profundis." The bearers were Messrs. Francis and William Powers, George Noonan and Albert Willby. Rev. Fr. Carney officiated at the grave in St. Patrick's cemetery and the interment was in charge of C. H. Molloy & Sons.

McOSKER—The funeral of the late Nellie A. McOsker took place from St. John's hospital, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, some being present from Boston, Peabody and Lynn. The funeral cortege proceeded to the Immaculate Conception church where at 9 o'clock a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Dorgan, O. M. I. The choir sang the Gregorian mass. At the conclusion of the mass Edward Shea sang "Beyond the Gates of Paradise." The bearers were James McOsker, Thomas McConnell, Thomas B. Thrifty and Peter Tully. At the grave Rev. Fr. Dorgan read the committal service. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery in charge of Peter Davey.

RILEY—The remains of the late Pauline Riley, the victim of illuminating gas poisoning, were sent to Taunton, Mass., yesterday by Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Robert Breen of Boston and Miss Mary A. Wood of this city, were united in marriage at the parochial residence of St. Peter's church, yesterday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Rev. W. George Mullin performed the ceremony. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Sullivan of Boston. After the ceremony there was a brief reception at the home of the bride, 522 Central street. Mr. and Mrs. Breen left on their honeymoon trip during the late afternoon. They will reside in Boston.

DURING NIGHT

Tucker Will be Taken to Prison

BOSTON, May 31.—Charles L. Tucker, condemned to death for the murder of Miss Mabel Page, will probably be removed secretly from the East Cambridge jail to the state prison at Charlestown tonight or tomorrow night.

Under the law the sheriff must convey the prisoner to the state prison within 10 days prior to the first day of the week fixed for the execution, and Tucker has been sentenced to be electrocuted during the week beginning June 10.

Tonight is the first opportunity under the law Sheriff Fairbairn has to deliver the condemned man to Warden Bridges of the state prison. As the sheriff is anxious to be relieved of the responsibility for the custody and care of Tucker as early as possible, it is expected that he will take advantage of the first chance he has to turn the prisoner over to the warden of the state prison.

Sheriff Fairbairn is the only person who knows when Tucker will say goodby to the jail which has been his home for two years and nearly two months.

FOURTH OF JULY

City Council Voted to Appropriate $3000

Both branches of the city council met Tuesday night in special session and passed an order calling for a loan of $3,000 for the observance of Fourth of July. The order introduced by Councilman Leighton met a quick death in the lower board, but another order was introduced in the upper board and it went through both branches with flying colors.

THE ALDERMEN

It was five minutes before nine o'clock when Chairman Walker called the board of aldermen to order and all were present but Alderman Dodge, who is confined to his bed.

The order to borrow $2500 for improvements for the fire department was voted. Of the sum it allowed $2000 is for the Dahill compressed air apparatus for the Babcock truck, $300 for five life nets and $200 for four new fire alarm boxes.

At this point an intermission of ten minutes was voted but the ten minutes stretched to thirty before the board reconvened and when it did Alderman Crosby introduced an order to borrow $3,000 for the observance of July 4. The order provided for a committee consisting of three aldermen, five councilmen and the mayor.

The order for a loan of $6200 for the lands and buildings department was read and adopted. The money is to be used for the Ennell street school, city stables, fire escapes on high school and the Dracut rifle range.

On motion of Alderman Allen it was voted to give a hearing to the Merrimack Valley Independent Telephone company on Monday, June 11.

The joint order to borrow $6500 for a contagious hospital was read and referred to the committee on lands and buildings.

Prior to the adjournment of the meeting Alderman Cosgrove spoke of the amount of time that was wasted in getting the meetings started, the recesses and caucuses. He felt that all caucusing should be done prior to the calling of the meeting.

Adjourned at 10.20 o'clock.

COMMON COUNCIL

When President Harry R. J. Read called the council together at 8.30 o'clock 24 members answered to their names.

Councilman Mahoney moved that the order relating to the fire department loan of $2500 be taken from the table and it was so voted. Councilman Carr asked for information relative to three men losing their positions in the fire department if the new Dahill apparatus was voted. Councilman Hogan stated that such would not be the fact, but it would mean the making of the central station truck company a permanent one and the transferring of the call men of that company to another.

An invitation to review the St. John's day parade was read and accepted.

The joint order for a joint convention to elect a commissioner for the Huntington hall board, was read and adopted.

A joint order to borrow $3000 for the observance of July 4, introduced by Councilman Cheney, was read. It provided, also for a committee of five from the council and three from the aldermen together with the mayor.

Councilman Leighton expressed the belief that Lowell people generally wanted an observance, and he thought that such observance would mean thousands of dollars to merchants. The letting of lots on the South common would bring about $1200, meaning that the loan order would involve only $1800.

The vote was then taken and seventeen voted in favor and seven against, there being one vote shy of the two-thirds and the order was declared lost.

Councilman Carr moved for immediate reconsideration. A second vote on the question of adopting the order showed the same result, 17 to 7. Councilman Cheney, who fathered a previous order, and who was anxious to have the money appropriated for a celebration, was absent.

The textile school loan order amounting to $5000, was adopted in concurrence.

The order transferring the care of the city hall grounds from the city messenger's department to the park commission came up and was adopted in concurrence.

Councilman Curtin's joint order for a loan of $6500 for a contagious hospital was read. Councilman Curtin said the city had needed a hospital for the treatment of contagious diseases for many years and he called attention to an act on the part of the legislature making it obligatory for a city to establish and maintain a contagious hospital.

On motion of Councilman Carr it was voted to refer the matter to the committee on lands and buildings.

A recess was voted at this time, word having been received that a July 4 order was coming from the board of aldermen.

Upon reconvening, the July 4 order was read by Councilman Cheney, who was in the chair in place of President Read. The order was passed by a vote of 19 to 5, Councilman Cheney being included in this count.

WILD WEST

COLONEL CUMMINS' SHOW COMING TO LOWELL

A distinct novelty—something original, as well as entertaining and instructive, will be the Cummins' Greater Wild West, Indian Congress and Wild Beast Exhibition, which comes to Lowell, Monday June 11. These three shows in one combination are under the management and direction of that famous showman, Walter L. Main. This is a guarantee that the attraction will be first-class in every particular and possess acts and features out of the ordinary and of the highest degree of merit.

COLONEL CUMMINS.

The Fire and Flames Exhibit—the same as performed at Coney Island—Possesses real firemen of seasoned experience; genuine fire horses, buildings and engines, and is an admirable albeit thrilling and realistic replica of the great Baltimore conflagration.

Powers' celebrated trained elephants, which gave a year's delight to patrons of the New York Hippodrome, are engaged with the Main shows, and will daily astonish those who are reluctant to acknowledge that elephants are really "in the know."

Colonel Cummins has in charge 200 Indians from the west, graciously granted him by the government. Every one of these red men have a tragic history, and their hands have more than scores of times been dipped in the blood of their hereditary enemies. A representation of Custer's Last Stand will be given, led by Curley, the scout, the sole living survivor of that bloody battle. It is probable that this will be the last appearance of the Indian in a public exhibition, as the government has other plans for their conduct, and they will be retired to their reservations to work out the destiny of a race that is doomed to annihilation, like the buffalo.

A large and complete menagerie, comprising every curious and strange animal, wild as well as tame; a den of fierce Numidian lions entered by Mlle De Ranzy, who, with whip and a bold front, subdues at risk of life and limb these savage denizens of the desert and plain. SMOKE NUISANCE

Following are some extracts from a pamphlet on the smoke nuisance:

Sir Henry De La Beche and Dr. Lyon Playfair reported to Lord Canning in 1846: "It cannot for a moment be questioned that the continued emission of smoke is an unnecessary consequence of the combustion of fuel."

William M. Barr, mechanical engineer, in his text-book says: "In the ordinary boiler furnace with flat grates a nearly smokeless fire can be maintained by breaking up the coal and banking it immediately inside the fire door, so that the gases may distill from the coal slowly."

A. R. Ment, member of the American Institute of Mining Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Society of Chemical Industry and American Chemical Society, in commenting on the smoke nuisance, says in part: "Feed small coal, feed it even, and at regular intervals to prevent smoke."

Mr. Bangs, of Bangs & Wells, real estate, says: "By practical experience we find that it is possible to do away with the smoke, as all the buildings for which we are agents are equipped with smoke consumers, for instance, the Old South building, the Jewellers' building, the Winthrop building, and several other large buildings in Boston and vicinity, from which we have never received any complaint from neighboring buildings. Ten million dollars worth of real estate is represented by this concern, and we feel that it is of a great advantage to real estate dealers and property owners to do all possible for the abatement of this nuisance."

J. Richard Carter, president of Carter, Rice Co., says: "In my mind this nuisance can be abolished by other than mechanical appliances,—namely, careful firing; and I am heartily in favor of any legislation which will do away with the smoke nuisance, and I think the necessary laws are contained in a petition which has been presented to the legislature by Mr. E. H. Warren."

Mr. Phineas Pierce, president of The National Bank of Redemption and president of The Reversible Collar company, Cambridge, has the following to say in regard to the smoke nuisance: "This matter of smoke nuisance is entirely a case of intelligence in firing. At our factory in Cambridge, where we consume thousands of tons of soft coal annually, we have no trouble whatever with the smoke, and we use no smoke consumers. Our firemen and engineers treat the fires in such a manner that the smoke is all consumed by the fire itself. If this is possible in one plant, why not in all others? If this evil is not soon remedied, Boston will soon be in the class of Pittsburg and other dirty cities, made so by the smoke nuisance. The air of Boston and suburbs is very foul, and a walk in the parks will demonstrate that fact by the particles of black soot which falls on one's clothing in a very short time."

John Clancey, engineer at Keith's Theatre, says: "We have two boilers of 163-horse power each, and burn about ten tons a day, seven parts soft and ten parts screenings. We find the mixture the cheapest. Soft coal could be burned without smoke that would be a nuisance if the firemen kept a little closer to their fires. Let it coke in front, and push it back. Spread it even and fire often."

George A. Lufkin, engineer of the Telephone building, 119 and 125 Milk street, says: "We use soft coal, and seldom make smoke which amounts to a nuisance. A simple smoke-consuming device which we have introduced saves us about $150 a year. There are many other devices which will do the same thing. A good fireman, if he handles his coal properly, even without a consuming device, at least calculations can do away with 50 per cent. of the smoke. We have four boilers of 160-horse power each.

Angus Sinclair, a locomotive engineer, whose text-book on "Firing Locomotives" is the recognized authority on the subject, says: "It is fair to assume with ordinary firemen that smokeless firing is economical firing. An immense waste of money results from the work of the careless fireman whose best efforts are directed to converting coal into smoke." He tells of two test runs of a little less than two hours each, the first with a bad fireman, who made smoke, the second with a good fireman, who made none. The first burned 8000 pounds, the second 3500 pounds, at $3 a ton. The "no smoke" firing saved $5.25 in two hours.

Walter M. Lowney, chocolate bonbons, 447 Commericial street, says: "In our boilers which we maintain here we burn soft coal, but without any black smoke, because our furnaces are properly constructed."

E. Stanley Abbott, formerly assistant superintendent of the city hospital, and now connected with the McLean hospital at Waverley, says, in a letter of Feb. 24: "At the power house of the Boston city hospital a smoke consumer has been in operation four or five years, which enables the hospital to use a soft, smoky coal, with production of almost no smoke. The apparatus is not expensive, nor does it require frequent repairs."

Prof. S. Homer Woodbridge of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who was called in as an expert to give his opinion upon the plans for a great central power station for the government buildings in Washington said in his report, dated Jan. 7, 1905:

"Objection to the selected location would be reasonable on the ground of smoke nuisance if a smokeless operation of the plant were not assured, for, wherever the plant may be located, the prevailing winds of winter and summer will carry the chimney products eastward, with a trend to north in summer and to south in winter. Smoke may be prevented with certainty, however, and constancy by suitable methods of feeding and burning, and by an avoidance of irregularity in firing. The low cost of bituminous coal and the high thermal value which it possesses justify both the initial expense of providing proper furnaces and appliances, and also the continuous but remunerative expenses of intelligence, faithfulness, and skill on the part of attendants in charge of the firing. From a plant burning 30,000 tons per year the money cost of unburned fuel in smoke might easily reach $500 per annum. Smoke should not be allowed, and may be almost wholly excluded from chimney discharges. With suitable boilers and furnaces and draft, and by easy and regular rather than by forced and unequal firing, smoke may be so eliminated as to become negligible. The attention and discipline of attendants required to supplement the operation of devices for preventing smoke will be far better secured under the strict regime of a well-organized and managed central station than in a score of boiler rooms scattered over the territory of a square mile."

The report of the smoke abatement committee of London, 1882, states that Messrs. Minton's great potteries and porcelain works are being conducted practically without smoke at a saving of 40 per cent., a careful account of about 5000 firings under the new system showing saving of about 26,000 tons of coal, or $50,000, and in addition a saving in wages and a better production of ware.

Following is the report of chief smoke inspector, Thomas F. Kelley, for the year ending June 30, 1897:

"If smoke could be abated only by entailing an added expense, it would no doubt be found difficult to enforce the law; but a device used for suppression of smoke not only abates the smoke nuisance, but invariably shows an absolute economy of fuel, as it promotes combustion, and prevents before they can be utilized the escape of valuable gases for heating purposes to produce steam. Even the emission of a small quantity of smoke, due to various causes, destroys for the time very valuable property. When owners of steam plants fully realize that the maintenance of a smoke nuisance entails an actual money loss, then and only then, will suggestions from those in charge be considered. Smoke and soot are destroying goods the value of which would aggregate many thousands of dollars."

Justin Ohage, M. D., commissioner, office of the department of health, St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 31, 1905: "The city is virtually smokeless. The enforcement of the smoke ordinance has in no way caused any injury to commercial or manufacturing interests. To the contrary, in every instance where smoke has been done away with by the installation of smoke-consuming devices, of which there are quite a number of good ones in the market, it has been done with a large saving of fuel."

Boardman, Dever & Boardman, lawyers, 537, 538, 539 Andrus building, Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 6, 1905: "I have had occasion, in trying to get at the real merit of smoke-consuming devices, to examine a great many furnaces and boilers in the cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and I state, without qualification, that smoke can be stopped under all circumstances if the owners and firemen really want it stopped. Even those people who are hostile to the cleaning up movement, as far as the smoke nuisance goes, admit, when closely questioned, that smoke-consuming furnaces and devices take no more fuel at least than the old smoking furnaces; and firemen and engineers, without exception, agree that the same amount of fuel with the smoke-consuming furnace will generate more and steadier boiler horse power, no matter what fuel is used. I would further state that careful firing will do away with a great deal of unnecessary smoke, but this cannot be depended upon, as firemen will be careless. As an illustration of what can be done, we had an engineer of the General Electric company here arrested for allowing his chimney to smoke. The company appeared in court and paid his fine, and asked for a reasonable time in which to attach some smoke-consuming device to their furnace. This, of course, we gladly granted, for we are not trying to persecute anybody, but only to prevent a nuisance, the abatement of which will be a great benefit to every man, woman and child in the city. In about a week the electric company had steam jets applied to their furnaces, and now scarcely a wisp of smoke is visible from their chimney, which formerly belched forth great black clouds. What little smoke does appear now is light colored, and almost free from soot. After they are made to do it, they are practically all friendly to the movement and agree that they save fuel thereby. In regard to the bill you sent me, if anything, I would say it was a trifle too lenient with the smokers, as you want to treat them fairly, but very firmly."

COMMUNICATION

Editor Sun:—It is now intimated that the Ennel street schoolhouse will not be finished in time for occupancy at the opening of the next school term, in September. Surely a year and a half is time enough for the construction and fitting up of such a school! It is a signal illustration of the incompetency attendant on about all work done for the municipality. Is it the building or the school department that is responsible for such incapacity in this instance?

SCHOOL BOARD

School Teachers Want More Pay

STURTEVANT GETS $200 INCREASE

Private School for the Polish Children

The regular meeting of the school committee was held Tuesday night. The principal business before the committee was action on a petition of one hundred and seven school teachers in the primary and grammar grades of the local schools asking for an increase in pay. The resignation of two teachers was received and reports from several committees referred.

President Duncan called to order at 9.20 o'clock. The reading of the records of the previous meeting was dispensed with and the committee reports were then in order.

Mr. Swapp, for the committee on teachers, recommended that the list of teachers for the Riverside school in Wigginville be the same as before that part of the town was annexed to Lowell. He also recommended that George F. Sturtevant have charge of the janitors with an additional salary of $200 per annum. The recommendations were adopted.

Mr. Swapp, of the janitorial committee, recommended that the wages of janitors be the same as previous to May 1, and that all new appointees receive the wage of $2.25 a day. Accepted.

Supt. A. K. Whitcomb then offered suggestions relative to school work. He referred to a petition signed by the citizens of Wigginville in which they prayed for the retention of the teachers in the Riverside school there. Placed on file.

A letter was read from Dr. Schafer, president of the National Educational Association, relative to the gathering of money from school children, to rebuild the schools of San Francisco. This letter did not exactly ask for money; it said the money would be welcome. Another communication on the same subject, from the superintendent of schools in San Francisco was also read.

On motion of Mr. Swapp it was voted to allow subscriptions to be taken, but that each pupil be limited to contributing five cents.

A communication from Charles H. Conant, representing Rev. Alexander Ogonowski, pastor of the Polish church in High street, stated that the pastor had instituted a private school for children of the Polish race. About 35 scholars attended it and the teachers are Mary F. Walker and Thomas Urvanik. Teaching is in the English language.

It was voted to approve the school after Supt. Whitcomb had made a thorough examination of it.

Leave of absence from May 25 to Oct. 18 was granted Miss Mary E. O'Conner of the High school.

The resignation of Miss Helen E. Gookin was accepted and a vote of thanks tendered her for faithful and efficient service. The resignation of Miss Georgia Harnden was also accepted.

Mr. Johnson was named as a member of the sub-committee for the Riverside school in Wigginville. The petition for the increase of pay signed by 107 teachers of the primary and grammar grades was received and read by Supt. Whitcomb. No action was taken on this matter and it was referred to the committee on teachers and salaries. Supt. Whitcomb spoke favorably of the increase.

The board adjourned at 9.45 o'clock.

GREAT BALL PLAYING

Lowells Played Like Big Leaguers Yesterday

And Delighted a Big Gathering of Fans — Two A1 Double Plays—Burkett Does His Little Kicking Act

The biggest gathering of the season went out to Spalding Park yesterday afternoon and saw a ball game that they will talk about for days to come. They couldn't have seen a better game in the big league. Every player was on his mettle and brilliant plays were frequent. A new pitcher named Smythe started in but he had no more speed than a steam roller and Manager Lake who was out to win took him out and put in Abbott in the first inning. The crowd at first were disposed to resent Lake's haste in removing the youngster but in a few innings they became aware of the wisdom of Grandpa's move and gave him due credit. It was a pitcher's battle from start to finish and the score was 0 to 0 for seven innings and had not Bushey got something up around his neck in the eighth they'd be going yet in all probability. In the eighth Bushey gave three bases on balls and then made a wild pitch and Lowell landed a run followed by another one a moment later. It looked rather bad for Lowell for a moment in the first inning and the crowd handed out all sorts of criticisms. Chadbourne got his bases on balls and went to second on a sacrifice by Lord. Then he stole third while Smythe was getting himself together. Zacher drew his base on balls and Lake took Smythe out and put in Abbott. Zacher stole second. Burkett hit out a fly to deep right field which Sullivan caught. Chadbourne started for home when the fly was caught but Sully upon catching the ball drove it home like an arrow and Chadbourne was nailed at the plate in as pretty a double play as will be seen this season. In the seventh Lowell made another pretty double play. Hickman got first on a scratch hit and was forced at second on Bradley's grounder to O'Neil. Bradley stole second. Knotts put up a high foul fly way back to the grandstand. Lake made a great run for it and caught the ball only a few inches off the boards. Bradley made for third on the put-out but Lake by a quick and accurate throw nailed him at third. Lowell scored two runs in the eighth on three bases on balls, a wild pitch and a single by old reliable, Buster Burrill.

Burkett gave his little performance in the ninth. With one man gone Jess hit the ball to Rothermel and Jesse thinking that he was a dead sure out let up running when almost at the base. But Rothermel threw bad and Burrill had to leave the bag to get the ball. Burkett on seeing the bad throw hot-footed for the base while Buster upon getting the ball made a stab for the bag just as Burkett reached it. It looked from a distance as though Burrill had tagged first but he hasn't tagged it yet, the umpire believing that he had called Burkett out. For a moment Jesse stood at the base speechless with wrath while the crowd soothed him with such remarks as "Why didn't you run it out, you mutt," and "I don't blame Jimmy Collins for getting rid of you." Then Burkett opened up and coming down the line with a full head of steam on he started in with tongue, hands and feet all going at once until it looked as though one of the star scholars at that celebrated Worcester state institution had broken loose for the holiday.

BILLERICA

Memorial Day was observed in a very appropriate manner by the residents and veterans of Billerica yesterday. The veterans paraded and impressive ceremonies were held at the North cemetery. In addition to this exercises were held in the town hall where Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, of the Eliot Congregational church of Lowell, gave the oration of the day.

There were twenty-one Billerica veterans in the little procession which wended its way to the North cemetery.

Upon arriving at the cemetery a dirge was played by the Chelmsford brass band. Prayer was then offered by Rev. J. Harold Dale, pastor of the Congregational church, after which came the sounding of taps. At the conclusion of this, the procession slowly wended its way back to the town, where the same exercises were gone through on the common. At this place, the sons of veterans fired a salute. The procession was reformed, and about 30 members of the Asa John Patten circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., joined in line and with the men, marched into the hall.

Here Dr. Charles E. Hosmer, president of the local association, acted as master of ceremonies, and a brief program was given, which included several patriotic selections by the band, followed by a reading entitled "The Silent Bugle," by Grace Simonds; tenor solo, "Just Before the Battle, Mother," H. Hopkins; reading, "Kentucky Belle," Miss Etta Smith.

Prayer was offered by the Rev. Chester H. Howe of North Billerica, and then followed the oration of the day by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow.

TRAINING SCHOOL

Annual Dinner of Alumnae Association

WORK OF SCHOOL PRAISED

By the After Dinner Speakers

The alumnae dinner of the Lowell Training School for Teachers, given at the New American house, Tuesday evening was a very happy and a very brilliant function. There was grace, wit, beauty, enthusiasm and all else that goes for the success of such an event. A reception held in the parlors preceded; the teachers, other alumnae and invited guests marched to the dining room where an elaborate [illegible] was discussed while sociability and good cheer were ever on the increase. About 135 were present and the after dinner speakers did justice to the occasion.

At the close of the dinner Miss Gertrude Edmund, the principal, called to order and introduced Mr. Frank K. Stearns as toastmaster. A little later, however, Mr. Stearns was called away on urgent business and his work was taken up by Miss Edmund herself.

Mr. Stearns referred to the difficulties the earlier settlers, those who preceded the present generation, encountered in their thirst for knowledge as compared with the splendid advantages of the present day. As to the cause of public education in Lowell he paid a glowing tribute to Warren Colburn and Theodore Edson whose squareness, fairness and courage made educational landmarks of the Bartlett and Edson schools.

Mr. Lawrence Cummings was the first speaker introduced by Mr. Stearns. Mr. Cummings was in a position to review the work of the school having been a member of the school committee at the time the training school was established and he watched the fruit of the seeds that were sown. He favored the school from the first and today he is satisfied that it is a splendid and a profitable institution.

Hon. John J. Pickman was the next speaker. He found his inspiration in the text "By their fruits ye shall know them." Mr. Pickman was mayor of Lowell when the training school was born. He said that the training school had been in operation long enough to prove a success or a failure. It has been under the public eye for seventeen years. Mr. Pickman said the lower grades required the very best teaching material because he said the training of the children is in the lower grade schools.

Dr. Charles W. Taylor spoke on "The training school." Mr. Taylor said he strongly endorsed the work of the training school and he said the school would doubtless remain a part of the school system until some one suggests a better plan.

Mr. Lewis E. MacBrayne spoke of the wide field of influence that the teachers hold and of their duty toward the children.

Rev. R. A. Greene, D. D., said that since the establishment of the training school it has been a strong factor in the life of the schools of the city. "The city of Lowell," he said, "furnishes for its young women who aspire to be public school teachers, a first-class, up-to-date training school."

Mr. John H. Harrington of The Sun spoke on the importance of the training school as a branch of the public school system. He said he believed it to be the most important branch of all. "Count me on the side of the Lowell training school," said Mr. Harrington, "as long as it carries out its present principles and gives every girl a square deal."

Mr. Albert L. Bacheller said that he had had experience with teachers who began their work before the establishment of the training school, and teachers who came from that school and he said he never had a teacher come from that school who did not know what to do. Mr. Bacheller is principal of the Green school, and he said in the course of his remarks that he believed in Lowell girls for the Lowell schools.

Miss Kate Stevens, principal of the training school connected with the University of London, England, was one of the honored guests of the faculty. Miss Stevens spoke very enthusiastically of America and our educational system. "It has impressed me very much," she said, "the wonderful leaders that you have in education over here. We receive a great deal of our inspiration, on the other side, from American literature and American work. I am hoping to go back with new ideas, and full of suggestions for my fellow teachers; and to be able to practice much that I have learned over here. I hope, also, to leave behind me a friendly feeling toward English teachers."

Dr. Katherine H. Law, a graduate of the training school, was introduced. Miss Law is now a practicing physician in Boston and she said the training she received in the Lowell training school assists her very materially in her present profession. She made the very important suggestion that teachers could do a great deal in the matter of health for the children in their schools. The only trouble, she said, is that too much is expected of the teacher and she advocated a medical inspector for the schools.

The hands on the big clock were creeping snail-like to the midnight hour when the last speaker, Mr. Dennis J. Murphy, an ex-member of the school committee, was introduced. Mr. Murphy spoke strongly in favor of the training school. He had served on the training school committee and he said that no one was ever admitted into that school that did not have the required rank. He said that the merit system was the reason for the school's existence.

Mr. A. G. Swapp was too ill to attend the dinner and at the request of Miss Edmund a rising vote of thanks was given Mr. Swapp to be delivered to him as an expression of appreciation of his loyalty to the school and its principles.

TWENTY INJURED

Two Trolley Cars Collided at Hopkinton

HOPKINTON, Mass., May 31. Two trolley cars on the [illegible] Electric Railroad [illegible] together in a head-on collision yesterday and nearly a score of passengers were injured, most of the injuries however being confined to severe bruises and cuts. Mrs. Jennie Elliot of Westboro who is 70 years old, was most seriously hurt, receiving a fractured skull and a severe nervous shock. She was taken to the Framingham hospital where it was feared that she could not recover. The others injured were:

John P. McDonough of Milford, motorman of the east bound car, left arm fractured, contusion of body.

Miss Priscilla Etta Hopkinton, bruised about body, and face cut.

Felix G. McKeon, severe bruises.

Morgan Sweeney, Milford, face cut and body badly bruised.

Mrs. Jane Ware, Holliston, cut and bruises.

Nearly all the twenty passengers on the two cars suffered some injury in the way of contusions or scratches, but with the exception of those mentioned the injuries were very slight. Most of the most seriously injured were in the east bound car.

The collision occurred at a depression between two hills about one mile east of Hopkinton.

The east bound car of which John P. McDonough was motorman, had just come down a hill on its way from Hopkinton and had run over a short level [illegible] and started up the other hill [illegible] the west bound car from Ashland [illegible] of Motorman Long and Conductor [illegible], appeared at the top of the hill and started down. Motorman McDonough immediately put on his brakes and brought his car, which was an open one of light construction to a standstill. Motorman Long's car was a heavy double truck affair, closed type, and he was apparently unable to check its progress down the grade. It struck the open car a terrific blow, breaking the entire forward part of the latter car. Motorman McDonough who had stuck to his post on the open car, although he had succeeded in stopping it was buried under the wreck of his car.

Motorman Long jumped when he saw that the collision was inevitable and escaped injury.

Physicians were sent to the scene from Hopkinton and Ashland and the injuries of the passengers were attended to most of them being found able to return to their homes or go on their way.

In a statement made by Motorman Long and Conductor Smith to officials of the railroad company, they are said to have admitted frankly that their car should have waited at a switch for the Ashland bound car. They said they forgot to wait.

THE PRESIDENT AND CONGRESS.

True it is that of late there has been considerable growth of federal power or rather the appearance of growth, as instanced in the railroad rate regulation bill, the pure food bill, the meat inspection bill and the national quarantine law. All these laws are necessary and they are criticized only because they are new by those who think that it is dangerous to take any new step except after a long period of agitation.

The president has forced these measures upon the attention of congress as necessary to restrain the corporate bodies that have been robbing the people. Some would say these matters should be left to the states, but while one, two or a larger number of states would deal properly with them the majority would not. Besides, all these laws are national in scope and it requires federal authority to enforce them.

The meat inspection law has been rushed through the United States senate in the interest of the beef packers because President Roosevelt threatened to give out certain results of an inspection of the meat packing business which might astonish the country.

The senators interested in the packers have decided that it is better to pass this law than have the facts made public.

It appears that the conditions in the Chicago packing houses are far from sanitary, far from what would be approved by the pure food experts of the agricultural department. The people have been eating poison-cured meat without knowing it and if the president is determined to stop this business we are not disposed to question the means he adopts for that purpose. It is useless to stand upon ceremony on the method of protecting the people from being robbed, deluded and poisoned. The meat supply of the country comes from Chicago and as it is sent all over the country, it becomes an article of interstate commerce. On that ground alone congress has a right to deal with it in a proper manner at least to the extent of seeing that it contains no deleterious matter. If the president has any report exposing the beef packers, he should give it out. There is no reason why the beef trust should be immune or shielded even to this extent. The meat inspection law, we believe, will prevent the packers from imposing inferior stuff upon the country.

We are strongly in favor of any exercise of federal authority that will protect the people from the greed of the trusts, from the imposition of adulterated food, poisoned beef and the importation of the diseases that infest other parts of the globe. He deserves credit for urging such popular measures upon a trust controlled congress, even though he does overstep the lines of duty laid down by established precedent and the conventionalities of modern practice in such cases, and even though he be charged with assuming the functions of premier in addition to those usually exercised by the president. Our presidents in the past have been altogether too modest in such matters.

MEMORIAL DAY.

The exercises of Memorial Day afforded another illustration of the fact that no man is properly celebrated until after death.

Solon, the Grecian sage, was asked if Croesus was not the greatest man in Greece. Solon answered in the negative, saying that no man could be accounted great until he had ended his career by a life of noble deeds and self-sacrifice in some good cause. He then gave an illustration of what he considered true greatness, citing the case of a man who had lived to see his children's children die fighting for their country, and then sacrificed his own life on the altar of patriotism. Solon was right. It is not wealth or riches that make a man great, but it is the patriotic sacrifices and the display of heroism such as was shown on all sides by the men of the Grand Army during the Civil war that constitute true greatness.

The veterans of the Grand Army are becoming more celebrated as the years pass by and as their ranks are thinned by the universal reaper.

Following this tendency to its logical conclusion we are led to believe that when the veterans shall all have passed to the great beyond, their deeds, their valor and their achievements will be more celebrated than ever. The observance of Memorial day that is now in the hands of the surviving veterans will be taken up by the masses of the people and made more general than ever before.

Here in Lowell as in other cities we have ample proof of this tendency to make Memorial day more sacred in its character and to recount the deeds of our heroes with greater reverence than heretofore. It is natural that as time passes we should place a greater estimate upon the sacrifices made by the Grand Army heroes because the magnitude of their achievements in saving the Union will increase from year to year so that in course of time these men who walk amongst us today will be celebrated to an extent far beyond their own or our conception at the present time. Their deeds when viewed through the long perspective of years will assume greater and grander proportions than when viewed as closely as we look upon them today.

Lowell has borne a noble part in the work of saving the Union. This was attested by the number of soldiers' graves strewn with flowers in the various cemeteries yesterday. The total number is between fourteen and fifteen hundred which with the surviving veterans would make the number who served in that supreme struggle considerably over two thousand. There is not a veteran alive today, however, decrepit from the effect of wounds or army life, who regrets the suffering he endured. There is not one of them who would not pass through the same ordeal again if necessary and if their years permitted, nay there is not one of them who would not give up his life for his country if called upon even in his fast declining years.

These men deserve all the favors shown them, and we are glad that in recent years there is such a marked tendency to show them more and more consideration on account of their glorious achievements and their noble sacrifices. Thus then those who enjoy the fruits of victory won by those terrible years of conflict may well join the veterans of the Grand Army in celebrating the memory of the martyred dead and the men who risked their lives for the Union cause. The Grand Army men deserve well at our hands, they deserve especially the veneration, the love and esteem of the rising generation and so far as can be judged the spirit of patriotism which the veterans have so well instilled in the minds and hearts of our youth will live when the veterans have passed away and if the occasion requires, will lead our young men to make patriotic sacrifices as noble and as lasting as those of the Grand Army veterans of the Civil war. This was evidenced during the Spanish war when our young men showed no lack of valor or of patriotism and as a result the Spanish war veterans a full generation younger marched yesterday side by side with the Grand Army men to decorate the graves of their young heroes who gave their lives for the flag.

SEEN AND HEARD

Now that the canoeing season is on we expect to hear of a great many narrow escapes in the harbor of matrimony.

A Lowell girl who likes to think she has an ear for music says that her two favorite hymns are "The Holy City" and "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree."

"Bob" Paradis was one who sympathized sincerely with the Lowell men who figured in the automobile accident in Bridgewater. Bob's descension through an "old apple tree" after being thrown from an automobile on his way to Worcester is still fresh in his memory.

Sooner or later it is sure to be all off with the fellow who writes verses to the girl of his choice. The verses disclose his idiosyncracies.

Don't stop a fellow in the middle of a story and tell him that you have heard it before. Act as if you were interested, and laugh as heartily as though your boss was spinning the yarn, and you will make a friend forever.

Before asking to have your name kept out of the reports of the courts think of the other fellow. Wouldn't it be up to him to wonder why it was that your name was omitted and his wasn't?

Some very smart men are fools on the witness stand.

A certain man in Back Central street had been heard to say that for the sake of his neighbors no man who keeps hens in a city like Lowell especially if he houses them upon the roof, should be allowed to maintain more than fourteen roosters.

"Billy" Dodge says that whether you go out for a long walk or a ride in your automobile, in either case you may come home in the electric car, and "Doc" Allen said "amen."

There's no dodging the fact that the streets were very slippery in Bridgewater Sunday. The Dallys all said so.

How foolish it is to worry over something that may happen next week. You may be dead then.

This is a very expensive time of the year for the young man who is really in love. Sweet things can be said in the city, but it requires the blow of the apple blossom and the bursting of the wild wood buds to hand out the proper inspiration, and a fellow doesn't want to tell a girl how beautiful she is and how closely the color of her cheeks resemble the blossoms when a crowd is around, in an electric car for instance, and in order that the poetry of his nature may have its proper flow he hires a carriage.

If there is one among you who hath not said an evil word of his neighbor let him be royally banqueted by the order of "Good Fellows."

The first time a woman gets married she may not pick her husband. After that she does.

The fellow who drinks to get merry and never gets drunk is a wonder as well as a bad example.

WON 16 POINTS

Dodge the Star at Athletic Meet

LICENSE TRANSFERS

Two Were Granted by the Board of Police

At an adjourned meeting of the police board Tuesday night Commissioner Wier continued his cross examination of petitioners and the majority of his questions were pointed and very searching.

The board made a tour of inspection Tuesday afternoon of places where the back door question is involved and other places for which transfers have been asked.

The board met for a few minutes in executive session before the public meeting opened.

Chairman Shea called to order at 8.10 o'clock. The first business presented by Clerk Smith was a petition from Walter A. Chase asking permission to operate a merry-go-round in Houghton street. The machine is already set up and the petitioner wanted to run it just long enough to pay for the expense of setting it up and repairing.

Four of Mr. Chase's neighbors appeared as remonstrants, declaring under oath, that the machine was a nuisance. The petitioner was given leave to withdraw.

A batch of junk dealers' licenses, new ones, came up for consideration. Superintendent Moffatt suggested that there was already an overflow of junk dealers and collectors and the new petitioners were given leave to withdraw. A grist of old licenses were acted upon favorably.

In the course of a discussion relative to junk dealers, Superintendent Moffatt said that the most of them kept books in Hebrew and he would make it mandatory that they keep books in English. He said it would be much easier to trace stolen property through the junk shops of the dealers kept books in English.

Clerk Smith said that a requirement of the license was that the licensee must keep all records in English. The board voted to force this requirement in the future.

Among the applicants for junk dealers' licenses who were turned down was George Orr, and Superintendent Moffatt objected to him on the ground that he has a police court record.

A request was made that Israel Shapiro, dealer in second hand furniture in Middlesex street, be obliged to keep his books in English. The board decided that the request was a reasonable one.

A great raft of common victuallers' licenses came up [illegible] for action and the bunch [illegible] all licens[illegible]. Mr. Wier was [illegible] of the board [illegible] premises in [illegible] business. He was not [illegible] the board had the power to [illegible] cart licenses. A lunch cart [illegible] stationed, to a street [illegible] has motor[illegible]. It was voted [illegible] applications for lunch cart [illegible] for one week.

Lawyer William A. Hogan appeared [illegible] representing Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Kitchener to surrender and [illegible] the [illegible] liquor [illegible] close.

Mr. [illegible] said that [illegible] to surrender the license. The license [illegible] before the board. Mr. [illegible] Thornton had purchased Mr. Kitchener's stock and fixtures and was seeking a transfer of his license to the Kitchener place. In compliance with Mr. Wier's suggestion Mr. Thornton went to the Kitchener saloon, took the license from the wall, closed up shop and carried the license to the police board.

The license was canceled by a vote of the board and an order made out, which was later signed by the members, instructing the city treasurer to pay back to Mr. and Mrs. Kitchener eleven twelfths of the license fee.

Mr. Wier then cross examined Mr. Thornton, as follows:

"What is your full name?"

"Charles E. [illegible]"

"Have you ever been in the liquor business before?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"At the junction of Broadway and Fletcher streets."

"For how long?"

"One year."

"Did you apply for a license this year?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where?"

"In upper Gorham street."

"Did you ever, before last year, have any experience in the business?"

"Yes, sir, I work[illegible] for my cousin for 12 years."

"Who is he?"

"Owen Donahoe, whose place of business is in Gorham street."

"How did you pay for your license this year?"

"Out of what I earned."

"Are you under any obligation to any person or any man now in the liquor traffic?"

"No sir."

"You are in no way financially or otherwise, connected with any other man in this business?"

"No sir."

"Have you bought from Mr. Kitchener and paid him for what you purchased?"

"Yes sir."

Mr. Hogan interrupted here to inform Mr. Wier that Mr. Thornton had paid to him for Mr. Kitchener, the money for the stock and fixtures.

Continuing Mr. Wier asked Mr. Thornton if he had ever been convicted by the local police for any offence.

"No sir," was the quick and decisive response.

"How old are you?"

"Thirty eight years."

Mr. Wier asked Supt. Moffatt if Mr. Thornton had ever been convicted of any offence that he, the superintendent, knew of.

"No sir," replied Mr. Moffatt.

"I have known Mr. Thornton for about 15 years and I know him to be an honest, straightforward young man."

The application of Gallagher & Burke, for a transfer to Lakeview avenue was then taken up. This place was visited yesterday afternoon and the commissioners, at least Mr. Wier, found conditions there not quite to their liking.

Mr. Wier was insistent that a window be placed in one section of the building so that the officer on the beat might see into that part of the store now cut off from view from the street.

Then again, Mr. Wier stated that he was informed that Mr. Burke was employed by the city at the present time, and he wanted to know whether such a man could be thus employed and conduct a liquor business.

Mr. Gallagher informed him that Mr. Burke was taken into the firm simply as a protector in case of death. Mr. Burke was not present and Mr. Wier thought that it would be best to have him in attendance, and accordingly Burke was sent for at his work, and later he put in an appearance. "It is a matter of principle," said Mr. Wier, "that all applicants should appear in person."

The question of a window was again taken up and Mr. Gallagher agreed to make the changes suggested by Mr. Wier.

Mr. Wier proceeded to cross question Mr. Burke upon the latter's arrival. The following questions were asked:

"How old are you, Mr. Burke?"

"Fifty-eight."

"What is your business?"

"Fireman."

"Where are you at present employed?"

"At the Lowell water works."

"Have you advanced any money to Mr. Gallagher in payment for the license fee?"

"No, sir."

"Are you engaged in any way financially with this business?"

"No, sir."

"It seems to me," said Mr. Wier, "that a license should not be granted to one who openly confesses that he or she does not have any interest, financially or otherwise in the business."

Mr. Gallagher then called attention to the fact that most applicants secure the services of their wives, sisters or brothers, simply as a protector to them in case of death.

Mr. Smith stated that this condition has existed since the death of Charles Cheney, whose death occurred several years ago, and whose business was declared void at his death.

"I can see the purpose," responded Mr. Wier. "Well, I will favor the application of the petitioners if the changes be made as I desire."

Mr. Wier then brought up the Purcell petition for a transfer. He said that he thought that the matter should be dismissed. "This man," said Mr. Wier, "has gone ahead without lawful right in the matter. He had no right to, and I move that his petition be dismissed."

Commissioner McEvoy thought the petitioner should be given a chance to present his case. He was not prepared to vote on the question and action was deferred for one week. The cases of Holan and Poissant were continued for one week.

On motion of Mr. Wier the board went into executive session at 10.15.

WAR PAINTINGS

GRAND EXHIBITION AT THE ARMORY.

The Westford street armory yesterday afternoon and evening was the mecca of large throngs attracted by the lovers of art who had a golden opportunity to feast their eyes on famous war pictures which must be seen to be fully appreciated. Gen. Grant is the central figure in the many war paintings on exhibition during the next six days. Eight enormous canvases are strung along the armory room, four on each side, lighted by numerous incandescents at the top of the paintings. The pictures are all the same size, by 18 feet, and for accuracy of detail and life and power in the execution they are remarkable. Messrs. [illegible] and William C. Griffin are conducting the exhibition, the former now a resident of Lowell and the latter a singer on the opera stage, and at one time a resident of this city. Interesting anecdotes concerning each canvas are given by William S. Griffin, and the history of the engagements is given by him. The exhibition opened yesterday, appropriately enough and will continue a week, the hours being from 1.30 to 10.30 p. m.

AFTER PARADE

The G. A. R. Comrades Enjoyed Supper

SPEAKERS AT DIFFERENT POSTS

Praised Fine Appearance of Vets

After the Memorial day parade had been dismissed yesterday afternoon the members of Post 42, G. A. R. marched to Memorial hall where supper was served by the ladies' auxiliary of the post. Present at the table were Mayor James B. Casey, Rev. W. George Mullin of St. Peter's church and Rev. George B. Dean.

At the conclusion of the supper Commander Earl A. Thissell in a short address complimentary to the members of the post introduced Mayor Casey.

Mayor Casey spoke in part as follows:

"Mr. Commander, members of the Grand Army and women: It is a great pleasure for me to be with you here and offer my heartfelt thanks to you for what you have really done for me and all of the younger generation.

"This day recalls to my mind and to you own as well, the valiant deeds of those who fought and suffered that this great and free country of ours might be preserved. By your actions you have shown your interest in your country, the grandest the world has ever seen. You all did your duty in the past; you made this the best country of them all.

"Your campfires of long ago were much different than nowadays. Then you were in the ranks and ready to fight. Today, you gather to offer homage to your dead and departed companions. Today, in every city and town, a grateful nation is giving honor to your dead members and to you who live, as well.

Rev. George B. Dean was the next speaker and he said: "When I saw your ranks today I asked myself, 'Who will take their places in the future?' I am so glad that you men who fought for the existence of this glorious country are not to be forgotten. All nations respect us, and why? Because of your great deeds on the battlefield, which brought about the present conditions. It is you, then, who must be looked to and respected for what you did for us of a younger generation. Your dead cannot be obliterated, your names will forever remain alive. The glory of what you accomplished really thrills my mind. I am glad to speak of your great deeds. I am glad to be with you today and offer my humble homage to your members."

Rev. W. George Mullin, of St. Peter's church, spoke briefly. He called to mind the fact that there is still going on a battle in this world and that we must all fight for victory. He closed by complimenting the members on their appearance and for being given an opportunity to pay honor to them on Memorial day.

Rep. William H. I. Hayes spoke briefly and the singing of the hymn "America" brought the campfire to a close.

POST 120, G. A. R.

There was a crowded gathering at the hall of this post. The ladies of Garfield Relief Corps provided a most substantial supper of salads, cold meats, hot baked beans, rolls, cake, ice cream, pudding, fruit and coffee.

In the main hall, following the supper, there was an extended program with Commander E. A. Turner presiding. The opening number was a musical selection by Mrs. Daisy Ripley Duncan. There were patriotic speeches by the mayor, President Harry H. J. Read of the common council, Councilmen Cheney, Clough and J. J. Connors, Revs. George F. Kenngott, A. P. Gibson and George B. Dean and Sarah Dixon of Lowell, and Rev. A. M. Rice of Dunstable, Comrade Dexter Butterfield of Dunstable; song, "Stars and Stripes," by M. Gorman, solo, "Beyond the Gates of Paradise," Cora W. Stevens; duet, "Angels are Watching," Cora M. Stewart and Ruth Bowen; song, "Loyal Knight," M. Gorman, with Miss M. Joyce as accompanist. The concluding number was "The Star Spangled Banner," sung by Mrs. Duncan, with the audience joining in the chorus.

POST 185, G. A. R.

A fine supper was provided for the members of Post 185, G. A. R., by the relief corps. There were about 100 people present and at the conclusion of the supper the members and invited guests repaired to the meeting hall where stirring addresses were made.

Mayor James B. Casey spoke briefly. He was followed by Rev. C. T. Billings, James O'Sullivan, Rev. E. Victor Bigelow, Comrade Hovey and others. It was after 7 o'clock before the exercises were brought to a close.

SONS OF VETERANS.

Camp Farragut, 75, Sons of Veterans closed the day's exercises by a banquet and brief speaking program at Grafton hall in Merrimack street.

There was a large attendance at the banquet, which was served at about 5:30. The speeches were made by Past Division Colonel A. C. Hadsdell, Rev. Nathan W. Matthews, Rev. E. B. Smith, Past Division President Hallie E. Whitney, Past Division Secretary Ida Howard, President May Mascom.

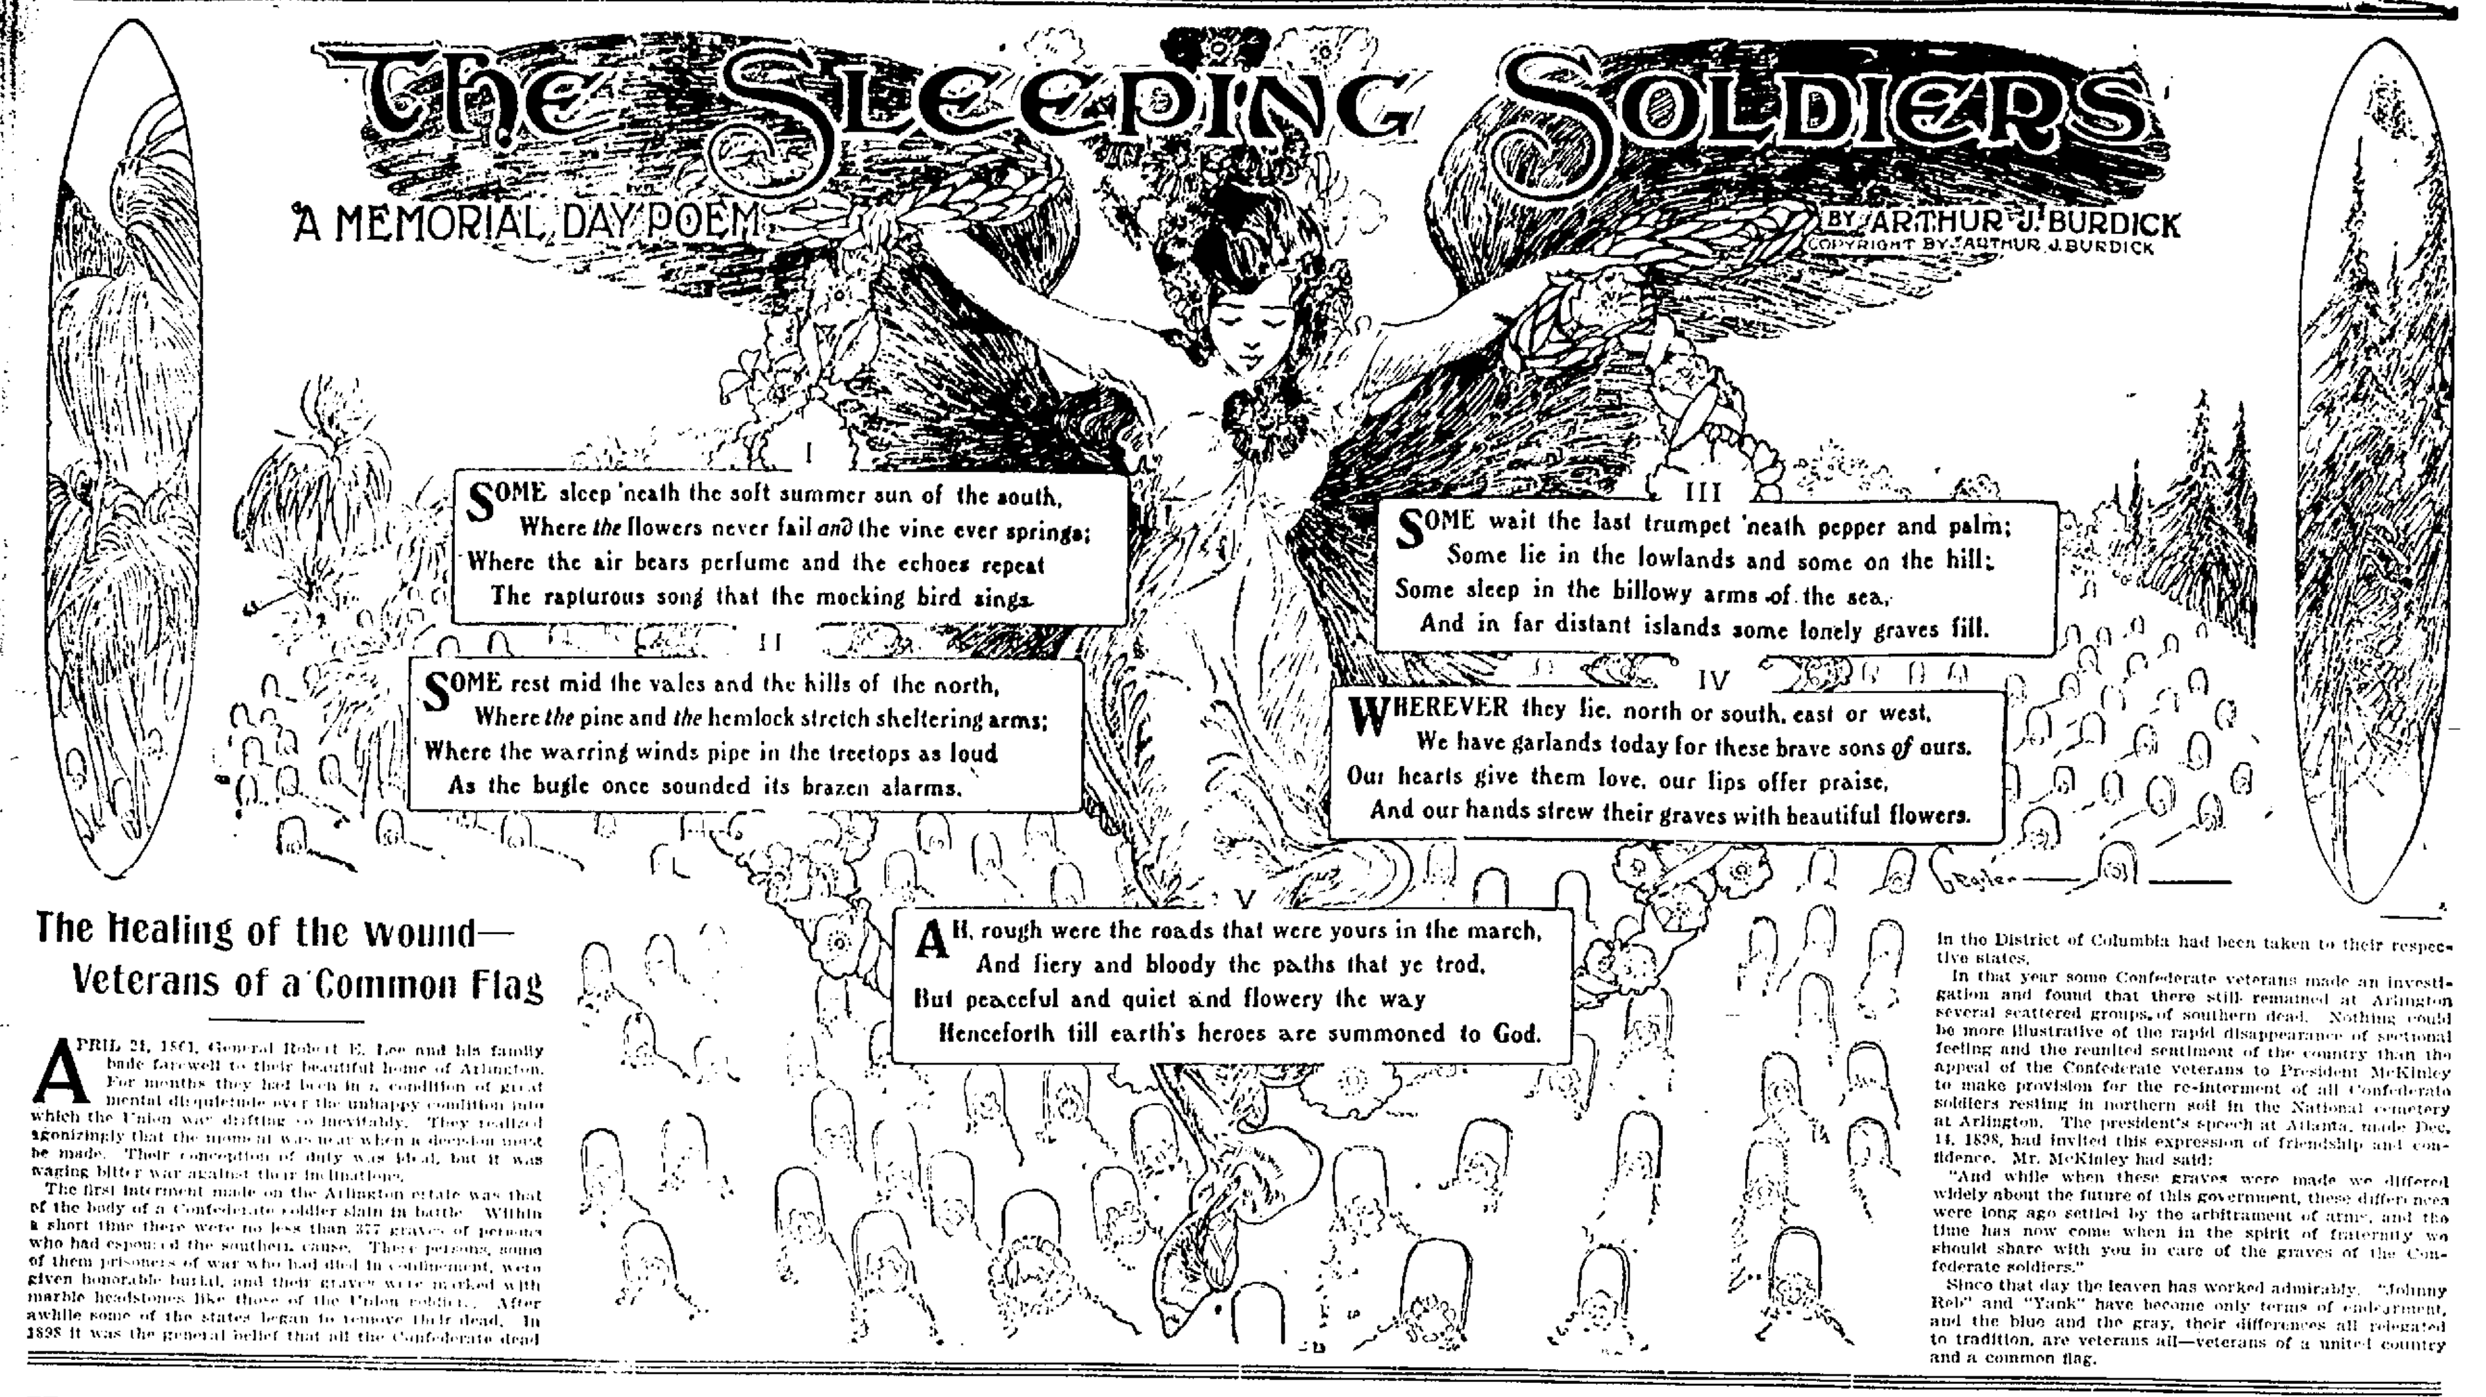
The Sleeping Soldiers

A MEMORIAL DAY POEM

BY ARTHUR J. BURDICK

COPYRIGHT BY ARTHUR J. BURDICK



I

SOME sleep 'neath the soft summer sun of the south,
Where the flowers never fail and the vine ever springs;
Where the air bears perfume and the echoes repeat
The rapturous song that the mocking bird sings.

II

SOME rest mid the vales and the hills of the north,
Where the pine and the hemlock stretch sheltering arms;
Where the warring winds pipe in the treetops as loud
As the bugle once sounded its brazen alarms.

III

SOME wait the last trumpet 'neath pepper and palm;
Some lie in the lowlands and some on the hill;
Some sleep in the billowy arms of the sea,
And in far distant islands some lonely graves fill.

IV

WHEREVER they lie, north or south, east or west,
We have garlands today for these brave sons of ours.
Our hearts give them love, our lips offer praise,
And our hands strew their graves with beautiful flowers.

V

AH, rough were the roads that were yours in the march,
And fiery and bloody the paths that ye trod,
But peaceful and quiet and flowery the way
Henceforth till earth's heroes are summoned to God.

The Healing of the Wound—Veterans of a Common Flag

APRIL 21, 1861, General Robert E. Lee and his family bade farewell to their beautiful home of Arlington. For months they had been in a condition of great mental disquietude over the unhappy condition into which the Union was drifting so inevitably. They realized agonizingly that the moment was near when a decision must be made. Their conception of duty was ideal, but it was waging bitter war against their inclinations.

The first interment made on the Arlington estate was that of the body of a Confederate soldier slain in battle. Within a short time there were no less than 377 graves of persons who had espoused the southern cause. These persons, some of them prisoners of war who had died in confinement, were given honorable burial, and their graves were marked with marble headstones like those of the Union soldiers. After awhile some of the states began to remove their dead. In 1898 it was the general belief that all the Confederate dead in the District of Columbia had been taken to their respective states.

In that year some Confederate veterans made an investigation and found that there still remained at Arlington several scattered groups of southern dead. Nothing could be more illustrative of the rapid disappearance of sectional feeling and the reunited sentiment of the country than the appeal of the Confederate veterans to President McKinley to make provision for the re-interment of all Confederate soldiers resting in northern soil in the National cemetery at Arlington. The president's speech at Atlanta, made Dec. 14, 1898, had invited this expression of friendship and confidence. Mr. McKinley had said:

"And while when these graves were made we differed widely about the future of this government, these differences were long ago settled by the arbitrament of arms, and the time has now come when in the spirit of fraternity we should share with you in care of the graves of the Confederate soldiers."

Since that day the leaven has worked admirably. "Johnny Reb" and "Yank" have become only terms of endearment, and the blue and the gray, their differences all relegated to tradition, are veterans all—veterans of a united country and a common flag.

The Wedding of Alfonso XIII. and the Princess Ena

IT was fortunate for Spain that she possessed a distraction potent enough to dull the sting of being expelled forcibly from the world which she had discovered and which she had fallen into the habit of regarding as her own. It is true that the consolation prize was only a king who was fast becoming marriageable, but a nation with a king to marry off is not absolutely without something to do and is also of more or less importance among its fellows. In such a case "its fellows" are those who have marriageable princesses.

And at present there is a bountiful supply of royal maidens in the market. There are so many of them, indeed, that all the thrones in existence would have to be enlarged considerably before they could be accommodated even with standing room on the lower steps. Most of them will never know the joy of reigning. Many of them will settle down into sedate and economical life companions of princes who have royal blood, but not sufficient to make them participants in "the divine right." These royal and semiroyal ladies will have to make the most of the privilege of basking in the sunshine of royalty exemplified by others. As chatelaines of castles held by royal favor and guests of nations whose sovereigns they will never become they must make the best of the "your highness," which will never expand into "your majesty."

So for several years the hearts of royal maids have "gone a-flutter." So have the hearts of the diplomats, who, after all, are most concerned in these royal marriages. Spain has long been the synonym of ill luck, and the eyes of all Europe have viewed her with more or less distrust, but she is a power for all that, and when her lawfully ordained sovereign is in search of a wife it becomes a matter of international moment. In this business of providing Alfonso of Spain with a wife all the statecraft of modern Europe has been called into requisition. The state offices of every power have taken a hand in it.

Departments of state, however, are not quite so influential in these matters as was formerly the case. Spain is a notable instance of a nation which has preserved almost intact the methods of past centuries, but the young sovereign of that ancient kingdom has imbibed some modern notions respecting the selection of a wife. Choosing a companion for life, he determined with a readiness that showed him to be a man of spirit, was not the equivalent of securing a queen for Spain. So he made up his mind, since marry he must, to take plenty of time.

The haughty and conservative grandees—there are some of that kind left in the peninsula in spite of rumors to the contrary—shook their heads and sighed deeply. Wedded to tradition and punctilio, they saw no good in the inclination of the king to take a hand in the business. The nation, they argued, was too manifestly in need of repair to suffer a further humiliation at the hands of an immature boy. If managed judiciously, this marriage might be made the means of Spain's regeneration. It was the nation's opportunity, and it must not be neglected.

Some time in the coming ages it may be known how many conferences have been held in the secret recesses of the Escurial over the matrimonial prospects of Spain's young ruler. The Spanish state records are the most complete of any nation in the world, and the story of Alfonso's marriage will be told with infinite attention to detail. It is probable that the young man has been present at some of these important gatherings, and it is quite within probability also that he has passed in judgment on about every eligible royal girl in Europe. What a series of pictures for the delectation of coming generations! The grave and reverend councillors—perhaps in their robes of state, who knows to the contrary?—with severe and unsympathetic mien, the queen mother agonized and tearful, the young king intractable.

It would have pleased his mother if Alfonso had chosen his bride from among the princesses of her native land. She was practically alone in her ambition, for the Castilian grandees have no especial liking for the Austrians. It has taken long years of skillful manoeuvering on the part of Queen Christina to win her way at Madrid. In a matter so momentous as the choosing of a Spanish queen her preference carried little weight. Nor was it more influential with the king. He had met the Austrian princesses whose names had been suggested in connection with the Spanish marriage and was ungallant enough to declare that he did not care for any of them.

Some of the leading men of the nation were in favor of a German alliance. The German imperial family had been a more or less ardent sympathizer with the Spaniards in their recent troubles, and it was thought that a closer union would be profitable to the country. At one time Alfonso seemed to be of this opinion. He actually took a good deal of time to investigate the merits of several proposed alliances with Teutonic princesses and even indulged in one or two royal flirtations. But he did not commit himself.

There is no reason to believe that the first suggestion of an English marriage came from Spanish sources. To the rank and file of the Spanish nation such an alliance would be little short of sacrilege. That a Spanish king should manifest a disposition to wed a woman from the ancient enemies of his race was scarcely more intelligible to the average Spaniard than would have been the toleration of his most Catholic majesty for the schism of Henry VIII.

There is abundant evidence that the Anglican alliance was conceived in England. The charming and gracious woman who has been such a moral and social leaven to the British court comes from a family of inveterate matchmakers. The Guelphs have a similar record. Princesses of the blood royal are plentiful in both families, and they are particularly fine women, every one of them worthy to be a queen. Kings cannot be secured for all of them, but it seems to be the established policy of both families that no available opportunity must be permitted to go to waste. Had it not been for the too close relationship and sundry other impediments it is not likely that the German crown prince would have been resigned so heroically to his Plattdeutsch bride.

An Anglo-Spanish matrimonial alliance is not a novel proposition in England. It has been under discussion for many years, probably since the birth of an heir to the Spanish throne was announced. For that matter, it may be asserted truthfully enough that all other heirs to European thrones are of like interest to the English fathers and mothers of royal maidens. The solicitude of Great Britain first became apparent when Patricia of Connaught was given a holiday on the continent and made the acquaintance, "quite incidentally, you know," of the young king.

The whole world—save the diplomatic section—regarded the matter as practically determined. The parties most concerned seemed to be perfectly satisfied, and everybody else tried to be. There were difficulties, it was admitted. The princess was a spirited girl, with a will of her own and a disregard for the material advantages of the alliance which was inexplicable to her elders. She confessed to her friends that she liked well enough the idea of becoming queen of Spain and that Alfonso really wasn't so bad, but—

The exact nature of the differences which put an end to the Spanish negotiations for the hand of the outspoken and jolly Patricia has not been made public. It is certain that the young Spaniard liked her immensely and that she discovered much to admire in him. There was a report at the time that the stumbling block was a matter of difference in creed. The princess is not a devotee, but it is said that she objected to changing her creed before marriage, preferring to delay the step until she should better be able to realize its significance, as did the czarina, who remained Lutheran until she could become Orthodox understandingly.

This, of course, would have been contrary to all Spanish precedent and could not be considered. If the English alliance was to be consummated some other princess must be substituted. The king resumed his flirtation with the daughters of German princelets, and Patricia went on her way merrily.

At this juncture it was proposed to offer the Spanish prize to the English king's athletic niece, Ena of Battenberg. A meeting was arranged, and both Alfonso and the princess fell in love immediately. Alfonso, who is rather fragile looking and weighs only 125 pounds, was delighted with the Juno-like charms of the fair Battenberg, who is almost six feet in height and weighs 180 pounds. Princess Ena, who is only half English, her father being German, her mother the youngest child of Queen Victoria, is not of purely royal lineage. The Battenbergs are not even an ancient family, being princes by courtesy and royal patent.

The princess had been brought up in the Protestant faith, but she was without prejudice and saw no difficulty in the way of accepting everything that was included in the bargain she had secured. So she became a diligent student of the catechism under the tutelage of an English ecclesiastic and in due time became eligible to the dignity of "her most Catholic majesty."

Happily Alfonso and Ena have many tastes in common. She is a clever actress and has a passion for theatricals which the king will share. They are both devoted to horses and motoring. The king is conceded to be one of the most intrepid motorists in Europe. The princess is an accomplished horsewoman, and Alfonso appears to best advantage when mounted. Youth, rank and opportunity are all their own, and their future will be what they make it.

Revival of the Silk Raising Industry In the United States

IT is a fact not generally realized that the United States has become the leading manufacturer of silk products in the world. Until 1869 France was entitled to preeminence in that respect, but since that year she must be relegated to second place among silk manufacturing nations. The most wonderful feature of the rise and progress of the silk industry in this country is that it is the outcome of only thirty-five years' effort, while France and Italy have been making this daintiest of fabrics for at least two centuries.

But the most amazing fact connected with the present state of the prosperous industry is that the raw material is not produced in this country to any appreciable extent and that about $75,000,000 is paid annually to foreign producers of raw silk. This extensive importation, too, is in the face of the well authenticated fact that the United States is peculiarly adapted to the successful culture of the silkworm. To explain this apparently anomalous condition it will be sufficient to state that at present raw silk in any quantity may be brought to this country free of duty. As easily may be surmised, the Silk Association of America, composed of silk mill owners, importers and all other persons engaged in traffic in raw material, is satisfied with the present arrangements. No one who is in the business for profit would be disposed to advocate home production of the raw material.

The government, nevertheless, is fairly committed to the encouragement of silkworm culture. The various state departments of agriculture also have from time to time shown a commendable interest in the matter. During the present fiscal year the secretary of agriculture will have at his disposal an appropriation of $10,000 with which to make further experiments in the silk growing industry in this country. Since 187[illegible] there have been intermittent efforts put forth by the department to stimulate silk farming in all parts of the United States where the climate is sufficiently equable and mulberry trees will grow. The appropriations have been so small that it has not been possible to make a fair test, but enough has been done to establish beyond question the fact that many of the states of the Union are peculiarly adapted to silk raising. At the present time many interesting experiments are in progress in several southern and western states, and the outlook is most promising. The secretary of agriculture recently sent out a circular letter announcing that he was prepared to distribute about a hundred ounces of silkworm eggs and 10,000 mulberry tree cuttings.

The secretary's circular aroused much interest in the experiment, and more than enough applications were filed to exhaust the entire supply. It was soon apparent that several thousand persons were anxious to try their hand at silk culture. Recently several shipments of cocoons have been received by the department from persons who had been furnished with eggs. The best specimen was a package of cocoons weighing fifteen pounds sent from Alabama. A fifty pound package came from the farm of the late Rear Admiral Beardsley at Beaufort, S. C. The latter cocoons were grown under the direction of a Japanese who was formerly steward to the admiral. The Alabama product was the best in quality of any returned. The government paid for these cocoons the uniform price of $1 per pound, which is the European rate.

Since there is at present no open market for silk cocoons in this country, in order to encourage the industry the government is willing to become the purchaser of the necessarily limited supply. The secretary has in operation at the department a four basin reel of the most improved type. Two expert silk reelers have been brought over from Belgium to operate the new machine and to teach the process to all those who are interested. It is the opinion of Secretary Wilson, as well as that of most experimenters in the culture of silkworms, that at present it could not be carried on profitably as an independent business. It could be employed advantageously in families where there are many children or by persons too old to engage in more exacting labor. In some parts of the country, however, there seems to have been an effort made to provide a regular market for cocoons. Three years ago Gerald McCarthy, biologist of the North Carolina department of agriculture, who is an enthusiast on the subject, began to import eggs from Italy and to distribute them among the farmers of the state. He agreed to find a market for all the cocoons raised and advised that they should be sent to him at Raleigh. It is a fact that silkworm culture was carried on in the Carolinas as early as 1750. It continued to flourish in a small way until the civil war. Thousands of mulberry trees planted prior to 1860 still remain in many parts of this region. During the depression incident to war times the business was practically wiped out of existence. Now it seems to show signs of reviving.

It is maintained by experts that any climate in which the peach will not winter kill is adapted to the raising of cocoons. The silkworm passes ten months of the year in the egg state, in which condition it will withstand considerable cold, certainly as much as is ever experienced in the southern half of this country. The best raw silk known to commerce comes from the northern provinces of Italy, which are swept by the icy winds from the Alps. The eggs of this species of worm are the ones that have been brought to America for trial. There are several other profitable species, most of them natives of India, which produce a coarse but valuable silk, very useful in the manufacture of plushes and carpets. These, being natives of a warmer country, would flourish in the extreme south. The natural food of the Italian silkworm is found in the leaves of the white mulberry. The Indian worms feed on many shrubs of the buckthorn family. There is one species which prefers the foliage of the castor bean.

DEAD IN A TRUNK

Three Little Children Were Suffocated

CHICAGO, May 31.—A despatch to the Tribune from Kankakee, Ill., says:

At the close of a four-hour search for her three youngest children, Mrs. Adelord Van Slette found them last night dead in a trunk in an upper chamber.

All three were little girls, the youngest a mere baby. One dead body was sitting upright, the others lay huddled together on a pillow. The lid of the trunk was tightly closed upon them.

It is supposed they had crawled into the trunk during their play and that the cover fell and latched and that they were suffocated. The tray of the trunk had been lifted out and lay upon a bed.

With their six boys and four girls the Van Slettes moved here from a farm at Beaverville a year ago. Van Slette is a teamster and is in good circumstances. The whole family occupies a five-room house. The younger children of the family had been playing out of doors much of the day, listening to music and watching martial display. Late in the afternoon the three youngest, Ida, eight years old, Rorella, aged 6 and Pearl aged 2, left the others going into the house to continue their romping.

Supper time came and Mrs. Van Slette's calls through the house and yard failed to bring any response.

After supper was over Mrs. Van Slette according to the story later told by the family turned her attention to the house. She had gone through the rooms a dozen times and thought she had searched every nook and corner.

At last the mother, in a sleeping room where was a large old fashioned rounding top trunk of the "Saratoga" variety, observed something she had overlooked before. The light tray had been taken from the trunk and was lying on the bed.

Mrs. Van Slette lifted the lid of the closed trunk and saw her two babies lying on a pillow in the bottom of the trunk. Ida, the oldest of the three girls, was sitting upright, her head drooping on her breast. The children were so still that Mrs. Van Slette stood in sympathetic stillness for an instant. Then she put forth her hand and touched Ida and spoke.

Contact with the girl's head and the lack of response from the woman with horror. The children were dead. The trunk is not self-locking, but it has clasps that readily might have held it shut against the strength of the children. An inquest will be held today.

BURNING MONEY

MARIA RICHARDSON WAS PLACED UNDER ARREST

Maria Richardson [illegible] money to burn; it belonged to a peddler. Officer Peter Bagley saw her throw it in the stove and he placed her under arrest. At the police station she allowed that she had a perfect right to burn money if she wanted to. It happened, however, that there wasn't any fire in the stove.

John Jacobs, a peddler, called at the house and was showing his goods. When he reached the street he found that he was minus $15 in bills and some change.

He registered a great big kick. He hollered for the police and Officer Bagley was Johnnie on the spot. The officer heard the story, telephoned to the police station and Inspector Maher went to the scene of the trouble. Maria will be arraigned in police court tomorrow charged with larceny.

Officer Bagley caught her in the act of putting a $5 bill in the stove but that was all of the money that the police succeeded in recovering.

The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to St. John's hospital where his injury was attended to.

JAPANESE

ARE TAKING THE PLACES OF RUSSIANS.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The rapidity with which Japanese have supplanted not only Russian soldiers but merchants of that nationality in Manchuria as a result of the late war, is clearly exhibited by the report of the commissioner of customs at Nieuchwang, the new principal port of the province. He states that in 1895 the total number of foreigners residing there was 222, of whom 11 were Japanese with no Russians; in 1900 the number of foreigners was 1954 of whom 35 were Japanese and 1760 Russians, while in 1905, after the war, the number of foreigners was 7699, of whom 7403 were Japanese and only one Russian.

WAGE QUESTION

MAY BE SETTLED WITHIN 24 HOURS.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Unless unforeseen changes develop in the elevated road situation, the chances are good for a settlement of the wage question within the next 24 hours. Efforts of the road presidents and the union committee to arrive at an amicable understanding were partly successful yesterday and the men will vote on the acceptance of the terms today or tomorrow.

In the interest of peace the managers of the "loop" decided to make some additional concessions as to wage increases. The committee representing the men on the other hand agreed to waive their demand for a closed shop.

Bucket-Shop Must Go

The Bucket-Shopper is the jackal-thief who sneaks along the trail of the larger beasts of prey—the Frenzied Financiers—picking up what they disdain to touch.

By letting his victims make a little money at the start, he lures them on to stake all their savings, to borrowing on their homes, even to stealing, and finally to their ruin.

Merrill A. Teague, who led a vigorous and successful fight last summer against a pack of these unclean creatures in Philadelphia, is telling the readers of Everybody's what a Bucket-Shop is, who the thieves are, where they are, and how they operate.

Teague's fact-series on Bucket-Shopping begins in Everybody's for June.

ONLY TWO OF THEM MAY BE WORKED.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—It is estimated that [illegible] cases of goods were burned in the factories and warehouses of the various packers during the big fire in addition to such stock as was in the hands of the wholesale and retail grocery trade. In the [illegible] the majority of the local canneries were burned out and of those which remain it would appear that only two and perhaps three will be operated this season. For this reason, it is likely that the pack will be materially shortened.

QUIT WORK

SIXTY FIVE LASTERS LEFT THEIR JOBS

BROCKTON, Mass., May 31.—Sixty-five consolidated hand method lasting machine operators employed by the W. L. Douglas Shoe company quit their places this morning, owing to a disagreement with the firm relative to a proposed change in system of work. The firm employs over 300 lasters in all and the others remained in. Those out were to meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock for a conference. The firm alleges a violation of its contract with the Boot and Shoe Workers' union in the action of those who left its factories. The men state they acted independently of the union. The firm has notified them to return to their places this afternoon or forfeit their positions.

GOLF SWEEPSTAKES

Eighteen players took part in the golf sweepstakes tournament at the Vesper Country club yesterday. The winners were C. S. Weston, whose net total was 79, with scores of 41 and 47, and handicap of 17; C. S. Proctor, net total 78. His scores were 50 and 52, and his handicap was 26, and Joseph Peabody, total 80, scores 49 and 46, handicap 15.

A LARGE CHORUS

Female Minstrels a Grand Success

A female minstrel show was held in Associate hall last night under the auspices of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum of St. Patrick's church. The attendance was very large and the affair proved to be as successful as it was novel.

Young women friends of the members made up the chorus and the solos were sustained by them. There were only five males in the performance. They were James Callahan (Miss Flossie Abbott), Frank Higgins (Miss Gladys Harvey), John Keegan (Miss Marion Cleveland), Andrew Smith (Miss Sophie Mason), John Carroll (Miss Clara Proctor).

The end women were Miss Clara Proctor, Miss Flossie Abbott, Miss Inez George, Miss Annie Gormley, Miss Sophie Mason and Miss Gladys Harvey. Miss Katherine McDonough was interlocutor. Miss Alice Donnelly was the accompanist, Mr. Timothy Rohan musical director, and Mr. John J. Carroll stage manager. The program follows:

Letter to J. J. McMANMON, Lowell, Mass.
Dear Sir: Why, do you think, can [illegible] sell pure paint as low as others sell adulterated paint?
There are 30 or 40 or 50 different makers of paint that rank, in a way, as "first class": they have their regions; one's region is large, another's is small: everyone is "first class" in its region.
Of these 30 or 40 or 50, one is best, another next, and so on down; but the prices are all the same or about the same: you can buy one for less than another though, a personal matter sometimes.
But how, do you think, can Devoe sell the best for no more than the rest? The answer is, it costs less to sell it, more to make, less to sell. Reputation helps sell it. Its 150 years help sell it.
Go by the name.
Yours truly,

MARTIN L. BASSETT, CHIEF MARSHAL.

G. A. R. Posts, Militia and High School Regiment in Line

Another Memorial day has come and gone and the graves of dead heroes are bearing on their green today beautiful flowers placed there by loving hands and in many instances bedewed with tears. The martial tread of the old soldiers was heard upon our streets yesterday and as the death worn ranks passed by the younger generation felt the touch of reverence and love for the men whose age has carried them to the other side of the mountain where the sun is slowly sinking, the love-linked survivors of the civil war.

"Where sleep our soldier boys 'neath northern pine,
Or whispering southern palm and tangled vine,
Above the sod, where they in spirit tread,
Kept ever green by dews from Heaven shed;
Each year in May, we place our garlands there,
The laurel wreath entwined with flowers fair."

The weather yesterday was perfect. It was an ideal day for marching and the contrast between the grizzled veterans and the High school regiment and the Sons of Veterans was such as to inspire one with thoughts of the present and memories of the past. The soldiers of our latest war shared honors with the civil war veterans and all hats were off to the marchers, young and old.

Posts 42 and 185 formed on John street at 1.15, where they were joined by Post 120 on its return from Tyngsboro, this post passing at the School street cemetery to decorate graves. The three posts headed by the American band then took cars for the Lowell and Gorham street cemeteries, where the graves were decorated. Camp Farragut, S. of V., with disabled veterans in carriages went to the Hildreth cemetery where the grave of Gen. Butler and other veterans were decorated. In all 183 graves were honored.

At 3.45 the various commands assembled on the South common and the line being formed, moved through Thorndike, Appleton, Central and Merrimack streets to the Ladd and Whitney monument.

The order of parade was the same as published in The Sun on Tuesday.

On arrival at the monument the column came to a rest while prayer was offered by Rev. W. George Mullin of St. Peter's church. Rev. Michael Ronan was unable to be present, but he sent a handsome floral wreath for the monument decorations.

From the monument the column moved through Tremont and Merrimack streets, being dismissed at Dutton street after review at city hall by the mayor, city council and chief marshal.

After the parade refreshments were served at all the post halls and there were literary and musical programs interspersed with speech making.

The G. A. R. posts visited all of the cemeteries in this city and the cemetery in East Chelmsford. The cemeteries were also visited by the Sons of Veterans and Spanish War Veterans.

The three posts arrived at the Lowell cemetery shortly after two o'clock. The exercises were in charge of Post 120. The ritual of memorial was read by Chaplain Pliny M. Goddard.

Edson cemetery was next visited where Post 185 had charge of the services. Chaplain Charles F. Taplin read the ritual of the dead. This post also held services in the old burial ground in Gorham street. Post 42 had charge at St. Patrick's cemetery. Rev. W. George Mullin officiated there. The National band accompanied the veterans to the various cemeteries.

The Spanish War Veterans visited the graves of their dead during the morning, leaving Memorial hall at 9 o'clock.

The march was up Gorham street to the Edson cemetery, where services were held over the grave of Joseph Sansom. A quartet sang "One By One" and "The Vacant Chair," and "taps" was blown. Rev. A. P. Wedge addressed the comrades assembled. Then followed exercises in St. Patrick's cemetery, over the grave of Thomas Connors. Rev. W. George Mullin spoke there. At St Joseph's cemetery, Rev. Fr. Lamothe, O. M. I., officiated. After leaving this cemetery the command marched to the cemetery in East Chelmsford.

The Spanish War Veterans marched back to the city and to the armory, in Westford street, where refreshments were served about 1 o'clock.

The Sons of Veterans went to the Hildreth burial ground, in Centralville in the afternoon. The exercises were held about the Butler monument. Rev. Edwin R. Smith, of the Pawtucket Congregational church, offered prayer and delivered an address. Albert C. Blaisdell, a member of the camp also spoke. The firing squad of the camp fired a salute over the grave of Gen. Butler.

AT TYNGSBORO

Memorial day was fittingly observed in Tyngsboro yesterday. Services were conducted in the town hall and the local cemetery by Post 120 of Lowell. Rev. George W. Bicknell, D. D., of Cambridge, made a fine address on the significance of the day. After the exercises the veterans and school children were served an excellent dinner in the dining room connected with the town hall. The G. A. R. veterans returned to Lowell shortly before 12 o'clock.

AT CHELMSFORD

Memorial day was observed at Chelmsford Centre under the auspices of the Chelmsford Veterans' association, Commander A. J. Boles. Graves were decorated by the following committee from the various sections of the town: A. J. Boles, James P. Emerson, William A. Ingham, George H. Smith, H. H. Emerson, A. G. Parkhurst.

The procession was formed at 9 a. m. at the town hall, led by the Chelmsford band, and with James P. Emerson as chief marshal. The line included the Chelmsford veterans, the two squads of Troop F Cavalry, teachers and pupils of the High and grammar schools. At forefathers' cemetery, the ritual was read by Commander Boles and Past Commander J. Adams Bartlett of Post 185, G. A. R.

Then the procession marched to the common where the revolutionary monument had been decorated by the ladies of the Central Baptist church, headed by Mrs. N. M. Parker. After a salute to the monument the line moved to the town hall, where the exercises were held.

There was an oration by Rev. C. E. Fisher of the First Universalist church of Lowell; address by Major Samuel E. Dutton, U. S. A.; singing by the school children, directed by Miss Mary H. Rayner, music by the band and other features.

AT WESTFORD

At Westford yesterday fully [illegible] people attended the exercises at the hall in the forenoon, and 700 at the band concert held on the common in the afternoon, from 2 until 4 o'clock. The speaker of the day was Rev. Benjamin H. Bailey, who was in Washington at the time President Lincoln was assassinated, and gave a very deep and able address. Rev. Fr. Schofield of North Chelmsford interested his large audience.

In the early morning a barge left the centre of the town and met the band at West Graniteville, and then proceeded to all the cemeteries and decorated comrades' graves. The veterans assembled at the hall at 10 o'clock and formed a line of march, headed by Marshal Captain S. H. Fletcher, Squad 1, Troop F cavalry, Lieutenant E. Fisher, commander, Nashua Military band, Westford veterans, followed by barges containing the school children.

The exercises at the hall commenced at 11.30, and the program contained the following numbers: Call to order and word of welcome, Wesley O. Hawkes, president of Westford Veterans' association; prayer, Rev. C. P. Marshall; reading, Miss Abbie May Evans of Boston; remarks Rev. Fr. Schofield, song, "Soldier's Rest," Mrs. Charles Stebbins, South Deerfield, Mass., oration, Rev. Benjamin H. Bailey; songs by Mr. John Craig. After the exercises a fine collation was served to all. The Nashua Military band gave a concert program on the common from 2 until 4.

At a meeting of the veterans, after the exercises at the hall yesterday, W. O. Hawkes was elected commander, J. E. Woods, secretary; S. G. Hunniston, treasurer.

OUT AT TEWKSBURY.

The observance of Memorial day at Tewksbury was under the direction of a committee consisting of John S. Chandler, W. B. Plummer, A. C. Blaisdell and Edward Marshall.

Following a concert by the Lowell Military band there were memorial exercises at the cemetery by a delegation of 25 from Post 185, G. A. R., Lowell, using the post ritual. Comrade George Wiggin was among those in attendance.

At Vestry hall Solon W. Stevens delivered the oration, substituting for John C. Burke, who was called to Vermont because of the serious illness of his brother.

The rest of the program was as follows:

Music, "American Republic"
Lowell Military Band.
Prayer .... Rev. H. H. Bishop
Music, "The Blue and the Gray"
Band.
Address
A. C. Blaisdell, Chairman committee.
Music, "Gems of Stephen Foster"
"Recollections of the War"
Band.
Benediction .... Rev. E. W. Pride

Dinner was served by the Tewksbury ladies.

THE OLDEST VETERAN.

Jotham Goodell of 652 Westford street is 88 years of age, having been born in 1817. He served in Company A, Sixth Massachusetts, and also in the Second Heavy Artillery. He is the oldest veteran in Lowell and we regret that he has no photograph available at the present time. He is in fairly good health but bothered with deafness. He rode in the parade.

FRANK PEABODY, SECRETARY OF THE COMMITTEE.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

McGOVERN—The funeral of the late Thomas McGovern will take place tomorrow morning at 8.15 from the funeral chapel of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons. Mass of requiem at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock. J. F. O'Donnell & Sons, undertakers.

GEORGE E. WORTHEN, CHIEF OF STAFF.

REV. DR. JOHNSON

Spoke Before Young People's Union

The 14th annual convention of the Merrimack River association, Baptist Young People's union, was held yesterday afternoon and evening in the First Baptist church, corner of George and Church streets, this city.

The convention was called to order at 2.30 o'clock with a praise and devotional service conducted by Rev. Harry Taylor, and a brief address of welcome to the association was made by Rev. O. S. C. Wallace, D. D.

Rev. George F. Green, pastor of the First church of Lawrence, opened the business session.

Reports of officers were next in order. The superintendent of junior work, Mrs. Earle of Lawrence, told of the work of junior societies in a number of churches, including the First church of Lowell, Mrs. H. C. Fuller, leader, and the Branch Street church, Lowell, Mrs. A. R. Dilts, leader. The First church juniors furnished at Thanksgiving, dinner for 100 families, and at Christmas they sent gifts to every child in each of the three hospitals, besides contributing to the missionary fund and to other branches of the church work.

During the session solos were sung by Mr. J. P. Estey, Mr. Hill at the organ.

Rev. Frederick B. Greul, D. D., pastor of the First church of Haverhill, spoke on "The Nation's Security in a High Type of Manhood."

"The Truth About the Congo Free State," was the subject of an address by Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, D. D., pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist church of Boston.

On adjournment of the afternoon session supper was served in the vestry by the local society.

The evening session was opened at 7 o'clock with a praise service. Reports of committees were in order and the committee on resolutions presented a resolution which was adopted by the convention to be forwarded to the secretary of state protesting against the policy of King Leopold in the Congo Free State and asking for intercession by the United States.

The following officers were elected: President, Rev. Harry Taylor of the First Baptist church, Lowell; vice president, Mr. E. A. DeMars of Lawrence; secretary, Miss Nellie Otis of Lawrence; assistant secretary, Miss Minnie Booth of Lawrence; treasurer, Mr. Howard Webber of Haverhill; junior superintendent, Miss Clara Morse of Haverhill, with two assistants, Mrs. C. C. Earle of Lawrence and Mrs. A. R. Dilts of Lowell; executive committee, with the officers named, Rev. Mr. Fisher of Methuen and Rev. W. E. Lombard of Andover.

The report of the committee on credentials showed an attendance of 225 registered, representing churches in Lawrence, Haverhill, Methuen, Lowell, Chelmsford Centre, North Chelmsford, Dracut, North Billerica and North Tewksbury.

The prize banner, awarded to the society making the largest progress in membership during the year, was won by the society of the First church of Haverhill, that society having gained 6 per cent. in membership.

An address, with stereopticon, was given by Rev. Sumner R. Vinton, on "The Ko San Ye Movement," a successful missionary movement in Burmah, under the leadership of Ko San Ye, a native convert.

DEATHS

BELLROSE—The remains of Stanislas Bellerose were sent from his home, 207 Cheever street, last night, to Canada, for burial at St. Gabriel de Brandon. The body was escorted to the Middlesex street station by L'Union Samuel de Champlain, marching in a body. Undertaker Joseph Albert had charge.

DENNIS—The many friends of Mrs. Emily Dennis, wife of Edward P. Dennis, will be pained to hear of her death, which occurred at her late home, 59 Chelmsford street, yesterday morning, after an illness of a few months. The immediate cause of her death was pneumonia. Her husband is the only near relative left to mourn her loss. Mrs. Dennis was born in this city and was educated in the public schools of the city in which she had lived nearly all her life respected and beloved by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She had been a constant attendant of the Kirk street church for many years.

McCABE—Henry R. McCabe, a well known resident of North Chelmsford, died at his home in that village, yesterday. Besides his mother, he leaves one brother, James E., and six sisters, Mrs. Maurice O'Donnell, Mrs. Catherine E. McEnaney, Mrs. John P. Garvey, Mrs. William J. Quigley and Misses Angie and Josephine McCabe. The funeral will take place Saturday morning at 8 o'clock from the house. Mass of requiem at St. John's church, North Chelmsford, at 9 o'clock. Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons.

DUGAN—Mrs. Elizabeth Dugan, a highly respected resident of St. Peter's parish, died at her home, 39 Wamesit street, Tuesday night, aged 65 years. She leaves two sons, Thomas and Joseph Dugan; and two daughters, Elizabeth and Ella.

The funeral will take place at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning from the house. Requiem mass at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Undertaker McDermott in charge.

WING—James M. Wing, aged 54 years, died at his residence, 476 Merrimack street, last night. Besides a wife he leaves three daughters, Alice M., Edith R., and Cora N.; one brother, Charles H. of this city; and three sisters, Mrs. Curtis of this city, Mrs. Melvin Lapoint of Stetson, Me., and Mrs. Alexander Adams of California.

FUNERALS

RYDLE—The funeral of Mrs. Richard Rydle took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Peter's church, Rev. Fr. Heffernan officiating. The bearers were Messrs. Shea, Donohue, Gorman, Conlss, McNamara and Dunlevey. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery, C. H. Molloy & Sons in charge.

NORMANDIE—The funeral of Josephine Irene Normandie took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of her parents, 423 Broadway. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, under the direction of C. H. Molloy & Sons.

DECORATING THE GRAVES OF THE FALLEN COMRADES OF THE PAST

ROYAL WEDDING

Continued.

WEDDING FETES

THEY ARE DIVIDED INTO THREE PARTS.

MADRID, May 31.—The fetes for the king's wedding have been prepared on an unusual scale of lavishness. They are divided into three parts, the first including the family fetes celebrated at the royal palace by the members of the royal family; second, the fetes offered to the visiting princes, envoys and high functionaries, and third, the popular fetes organized for the people. These begin on the wedding day, lasting a week or more. The royal fetes include banquets, dinners and a grand ball to which only the representatives of royal houses having family alliances with Spain are bidden. The official fetes to foreign envoys and high functionaries include reception and banquet at the royal palace; military review, gala performance at the royal theatre, reception and ball at the Hotel De Ville, and many other entertainments for the distinguished guests.

By far the most interesting fetes are those in which the people participate, including night illuminations of the Prado and other public quarters, a Venetian feast at the Westparo, three bull fights, a luminous cortege, a battle of flowers and a procession of all the Spanish provinces in typical groups and figures, in order that the new queen may see the Spanish people from every quarter of the country.

The program of the luminous cortege gives an idea of the extent and splendor of the popular fetes. Its main features are: Two great decorative floats with the portraits of the king and queen; two artistic pyramids with figures representing the Spanish provinces supporting the arms of Spain and Battenburg; a beautiful gallery of orange flowers, transparent and luminous, liberty style; a float containing 20 monster flambeaus, with the monograms of Alphonso and Ena, surmounted by royal crowns; three pyramids of flowers and colored lights (150 persons); flambeau surrounding the portrait of the queen mother; a pyramid formed by ten galleries (100 persons); flambeaus with the portrait of King Edward with British banners and arms; twenty floats giving Spanish history in allegorical designs (100 persons); 50 floats with the arms of the principal Spanish towns, 16 floats bearing Spanish and British banners; seven large luminous letters spelling "Alfonso"; eight enormous luminous letters spelling "Victoria"; two great royal crowns of 20 feet diameter; eight great decorative floats (each transported by 100 persons); a great float formed by the arms of Spain and Battenburg, surrounded by laurel.

Thousands of people form the personnel of these floats. Besides those mentioned there are many representing huge pansies, roses, and lilies. The luminous inscriptions breathe welcome to the new queen and long life to the royal couple, "Vive la reine, Victoria Eugenia," "Glory to the British Navy," "Madrid and London," "Long Live Our King and Queen," "Glory to Shakespeare and Byron," and many other popular greetings for the English princess who becomes a Spanish queen.

ROYAL FAMILY

TOOK LEADING PART IN THE MARRIAGE.

MADRID, May 31.—Those taking the most important part in the marriage of the king are the members of the ministry, with whom the marriage is an affair of state as well as of the heart; representatives of Spanish nobility and Knights of the Golden Fleece; Cardinal Sancha, primate of Spain and archbishop of Toledo with a distinguished retinue of bishops and dignitaries of the church; officers of the army and navy, judges and high functionaries. The principal figures in this brilliant assemblage are as follows:

The royal family: The queen mother, Maria Christina; the king's sister, Maria Theresa, wife of Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria; the king's brother-in-law, Prince Carlos, widower of the princess of Asturias, whose little son, the infant Alfonso, is the actual prince hereditary of Spain; the king's aunts, the Infantas Isabella Maria de la Paz, and Eulalie.

The cabinet: Premier Moret, leader of the liberal party; minister of foreign affairs, duke of Almodovar del Rio; under-secretary of foreign affairs, Senor Ojeda; minister of the interior, Count Romanones; minister of war, General Luque, prominent during the Spanish-American war; minister of marine, Captain Concas; minister of justice, Garcia Prieto; minister of agriculture, R. Gasset; minister of finance, Meras Salvador; minister of public instruction, Santa-maria de Paredes; Senor Maura, ex-premier and leader of the conservative party; the president of the senate, Marshall Lopez Dominguez. The president of the cortes, Don Jose Chalajes y Mendez.

Knights of the Golden Fleece: The duke of Veragua, a descendant of Columbus; the Marquis de la Vega de Armijo; the count of Cheste; Senor Montero Rios; Senor Pidal.

Chiefs of the royal household: The duke of Sotomayor, chief of the royal palace; General Bescaran, chief of the Royal Guard; General Pecheco, chief of the Royal Halberdiers; the Marquis de la Mina, chief of the royal hunt.

Church dignitaries: Cardinal Sancha, primate of Spain and archbishop of Toledo; the bishop of Sion, bishop for the army. The governor of Madrid, Senor Ruiz Jimenez; the mayor of Madrid, Senor Vincenti; the president of the high court, Field Marshal Marquis del Campo, Generals Weyler, Polavieja, and Primo de Rivera, and Admiral Cervera.

Among the leading literary and artistic figures for whom the court shows special attention, are the painters, Pradilla, Moreno Carbenera, Munoz Degrain, Solorila, the latter director of the Prado gallery; the sculptors, Mariano Benlliure, Augustin Querol, Marinas and Blay; the musicians, Bretan and Chapi, and the men of letters, Jose Echegaray, Perez Galdos, Ramon y Cajal and Menendez Pelayo.

Everybody Likes Good Pie

There is no longer any excuse for poor pies on your table, as you should follow the lead of thousands and use D-Zerta Quick Pudding as a filling for pies. Try this recipe:

D-Zerta Chocolate Cream Pie.

Prepare a package of D-Zerta Chocolate Pudding according to directions on package, adding one-half cup of sugar. Put in crust which has been baked. Cover with meringue made with the whites of two eggs. This makes two large pies or three small ones.

All the five flavors—Lemon-Tapioca, Vanilla, Orange-Macaroon, Chocolate and Strawberry, can be used in the same way, and bananas, cocoanut, etc., added as desired. D-Zerta Quick Pudding is also used as a cake filling and for a pudding dessert. Simply add a quart of milk to contents of one package, bring to a boil, cool and serve with cream and sugar. Order from your grocer, 10 cts. per package.

THE TROUSSEAU

ALL THE ROBES WERE MADE IN LONDON.

MADRID, May 31.—Except the wedding dress, all the bridal trousseau of robes, cloaks, evening and tea gowns, petticoats and underlinen, was made in London where many of the dresses have been on exhibition. Some of the articles of this queenly trousseau are described as follows:

A dainty dress of white mousseline de-sole flowered with miniature roses. A morning gown is of fine spotted lawn over palest blue, inset with Valenciennes lace. A beautiful princess robe is in spotted lawn, made to wear over many different colored slips. A charming pale blue China silk Empire morning robe is fastened in front with blue rosettes and cords. Another morning gown is of white lawn over pale blue, inserted at equal distances with Valenciennes lace. A smart morning gown is composed entirely of English embroidery in a very openwork design.

Among the simple day gowns are many composed of linen. The bodices in many instances are made after the American blouse style, with touches of red and blue embroidery. One of the many dressing jackets is made of the palest blue and white Zenana cloth with quaint silk embroidery. A handsome day dress is composed of ivory crepe de Chine, the bodice arranged with the finest Guipure lace and tucked squares of crepe de Chine, the centres of which are delicately embroidered with colored rosebuds and set together with insertions of Valenciennes lace. A simple frock is of the palest pink and white flowered voile, with Valenciennes lace. Another day dress is of pale pink and white satin foulard in a small design. Another beautiful visiting dress is of fine white Valenciennes lace and ivory-colored cloth.

Among the many tea gowns is a beautiful one of palest pink mousseline de sole made in the Empire style. Another is a pale yellow Empire gown veiled with white linen-de-sole. The large bell sleeves are entirely of frills of lace, and round the short waist are pale yellow ribbons threaded through embroidery. There is a handsome evening coat of pale biscuit-colored faced cloth, with a hood composed of Valenciennes lace, dyed to match the cloth. Among the evening gowns is a short-waisted one of pale maize mousseline. Another Empire evening gown is of white silk mousseline, flowered all over with tiny clusters of pink roses.

The underlinen is made of the finest linon trimmed with real Valenciennes lace and fine embroidery. The initials of the royal bride surmounted by the Spanish crown are worked on all the garments.

MOORISH CAMP

WHERE THE WEDDING FETES WERE HELD.

MADRID, May 31.—One of the most unique spots prepared for the wedding fetes is the historic field on which the Moors camped, now transformed into gardens rivalling the famed gardens of Versailles. Recently 50,000 trees have been planted of various varieties, 1,000 palm trees, and 15,000 rose bushes of every known species.

The camp was first laid out as a garden by Philip II., and was for a time the resort of many celebrities such as Lope de Vega and Calderon. Although allowed to go to wrack and ruin in recent years, there still remains some fine statuary including the Triton fountain, subject of one of Velasquez's pictures. This is the first time any effort has been made to turn it to account as one of the notable adornments of Madrid.

THE HONEYMOON

WILL BE SPENT IN CASTLE LA GRANJA.

MADRID, May 31.—The castle which Alfonso and his queen have chosen for their honeymoon is the Spanish Versailles, known as La Granja. It is a quaint and quiet spot, far removed from the inquisitive throngs of the capital, and with all the picturesque and romantic surroundings suitable for a royal honeymoon.

The palace is situated at the foot of the imposing Pico de Penalara in the Guadarrama mountains, high above the sea level. The little village dates from ancient times, when Henry IV. built a chapel there and dedicated it to St. Ildefonso. Later, the friars of the Parral Monastery established here a farm (La Granja) which so much suited the fancy of the first Spanish Bourbon, Phillip V., that he bought the place and erected a magnificent palace with surrounding parks, in the style of his French native country. The fountains and water works then established and still running are not surpassed by any royal possession in Europe.

For years the Spanish kings used this palace and park as a pleasure resort, much as the French kings passed their days of pleasure at Versailles. Charles III. received here the Count Artois, when he marched to conquer Gibraltar, Godoy signed here the treaty which delivered Spain from France, and Ferdinand VII. here appointed the Infant Don Carlos to be prince hereditary. When his energetic sister-in-law heard of this intention, she hastened to La Granja, threw the courtiers out of the palace, gave to Premier Calomarde the famous box on the ear, about which he said later that "white hands cannot offend"; tore to pieces the first Spanish Testament, and insured the throne to the king's little daughter Isabella—events which caused the bloody civil war.

La Granja is at its best at this time of year, and the blossoms, the old trees, the myrtle lanes, the fountains, and the fresh mountain air, will all serve to make this royal honeymoon a delight. The castle overlooks the park, with its numerous cascades and lakes, supplied with water from huge reservoirs. These water-works are really the most remarkable feature of La Granja, and the effect of the fountains is much more grand than at Versailles. In the fountain of Perseus, who rescues Andromeda from the dragon, the latter throws a jet of 100 feet in the air. The basket fountain consists of numerous jets, 40 to 65 feet high, and the jet of the Fauna fountain, 115 feet high, can be seen at Segovia.

The "Bath of Diana" is a chaos of water spouts and statues of goddesses and nymphs, glorifying the triumph of the loving woman, appearing in her whole beauty.

THE PEOPLE

HAD A CHANCE TO SEE NEW QUEEN.

MADRID, May 31.—The route of the wedding cortege has been designed to give Princess Ena a glimpse of all that is best of Madrid in coming and going to the church, and at the same time to give the people an opportunity to see their new queen. LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Middlesex, ss. [illegible] Court. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of John Brown, late of Lowell, in said county, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for Probate, by [illegible] Brown, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to [illegible] therein named, without giving a surety on her official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at [illegible] in said County of Middlesex, on the [illegible] day of June A. D. [illegible], at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing post-paid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this [illegible] day of May, in the year one thousand nine hundred and six.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

MAN ACCUSED OF ASSAULTING GIRL FOUND IN WOODS.

BRAINTREE, May 31.—After being pursued through the woods yesterday by a posse of citizens, headed by State Detective John N. Scott, a well-known man of this town, Richard S. S. Hollis was captured and locked up in the police station charged with assault.

It is alleged that Hollis met Miss Esther Wentworth, 20 years old, on Pearl street, in a secluded part of the town yesterday forenoon and, without warning, assaulted her brutally. The young woman screamed for assistance and when her 14-year-old brother George appeared, Hollis, it is claimed, fled to the woods. Miss Wentworth was in a pitiable condition. She had been knocked down, kicked about the head and body, her nose was broken and one of her teeth knocked out.

CLEVER BOXING

At Meeting of Spindle City Club

The best program and the largest attendance of members that the Spindle City Athletic club has had thus far was that given last evening at the exhibition in Middle street, when several hundred members turned out to see Frank Kenney of this city and Eli Pantz of Boston in a glove contest, the pair being two of the cleverest men of their weight in New England. Had the contest been for a decision on points Kenney would have received the decision as he clearly outpointed his rival from start to finish. Kenney was in fine form despite the fact that he had appeared in Thornton, R. I., on Monday evening against Young Unholz, the champion of South Africa. That Kenney is improving every day and will yet be the peer of the top-notchers was evidenced by his work last evening. He was doing something all the time while his opponent showed a most exasperating disposition to hold on and waste time. Kenney introduced a few new ones to his Boston opponents, one of them being a sort of subway uppercut done in a clinch which invariably reached Pantz where he stows away the macaroni. Kenney kept both hands going all the time and it mattered not in what position he might be he could use them and Pantz was on the defensive about all the time. Pantz was some seven pounds heavier than Kenney but that didn't bother the Lowell boy in the least. He was right there with the cherries from start to finish and has fellow club members think better of him as a boxer than they ever did before. His exhibition last evening stamps him as one of the best in his class and he will make a worthy opponent for Chester Goodwin or Matty Baldwin.

Before the program opened Jimmy Gardner was introduced by Master of Ceremonies Martin Flaherty as the best 145-pound boxer in America, and it was a unanimous vote. Jimmy and Billy Gardner are about to make a tour of the middle west where Jimmy is matched with Young Black in Peoria, Ill., and Jack Thompson at Dayton, O. Billy, who is in fine form, has also been promised plenty of work on the trip.

For a curtain raiser Young Donahue and Bobby Keeler, two local men, went four rounds in a neat exhibition with honors even. Then Gus Ross of Boston and Young Clinton of this city entertained for six rounds. Clinton had the advantage of several pounds weight and likewise the advantage in the contest.

Tim Buckley of Nashua, who when last weighed, tipped the scales at 350 and is still going up, challenged any man of his weight in the club. The directors offered to appoint a committee of three whose combined weight would reach 350 to go six rounds with Tim, but the latter declined with thanks.

MICHAEL DAVITT

THE LATE MICHAEL DAVITT.

The Well Known Irish Leader is Dead

DUBLIN, May 31.—A notable career closed last night when, after a long and painful illness, Michael Davitt died peacefully and painlessly at 12 o'clock, in the presence of his eldest son, Michael, and his two daughters, who had devotedly attended him through his illness and of many of his most intimate friends, including John Dillon. Shortly before his death Father Hatton had been with him. Mrs. Davitt who had been in constant attendance on her husband, until a few days ago, when she herself was taken ill, lies prostrate in the same hospital, too weak to leave the room. She has not yet been informed of her husband's death.

The greatest sympathy has been displayed by all classes of society during Mr. Davitt's illness. Yesterday the hospital was besieged by anxious inquirers.

After a rally Tuesday night Mr. Davitt was able to speak to those at his bedside but soon showed that he was losing ground.

Mr. Davitt retired from the representation of South Mayo in parliament in 1899 but to the last took a keen interest in the politics of his country.

Death was due to blood poisoning, which followed two operations for necrosis of the jaw bone and spread so rapidly that all efforts to stay its course were unavailing. Mr. Davitt's illness began with an insidious attack of toothache.

For some time there were hopes for his recovery, but the state of his health, which was undermined by exertions at the recent general elections, greatly handicapped his progress.

OPP. CITY HALL

ANNUAL REGATTA

BUCKLEY WAS DEFEATED BY MILLER.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The fortieth annual regatta of the Harlem Regatta association was held on the speedway course, Harlem river, yesterday afternoon. The races were one mile and a quarter straight away and there were sixteen events and two trial heats on the program. The weather conditions were perfect and the races, as a rule, warmly contested.

John P. Buckley of Portland, Me., who was looked upon as a sure winner in the veteran senior event, was beaten quite handily by Miller of the Nassau Boat club of New York.

Senior doubles was the best event of the day from the standpoint of finished oarsmanship. It was a bruising contest all the way, Vasely and Hudre, of the First Bohemian Boat club, New York managing to win by a narrow margin from the Staten Island crew.

IRISH LEAGUE

TO HAVE NOTED SPEAKERS NEXT MONDAY EVENING.

The executive committee of the United Irish League met Tuesday evening and announced a change in the meeting nights. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, June 4, at A. O. H. hall and not on Sunday. For some time past President Lee has been endeavoring to get John O'Callaghan, the national secretary, to address the league and at the meeting on Tuesday evening he announced that Mr. O'Callaghan would certainly be here on next Monday evening. He also announced that the national treasurer, Hon. Thomas B. Fitzpatrick of Boston, would accompany Mr. O'Callaghan to Lowell and address the league. It is intended to make this meeting a rouser as it will be the last before the hot weather season. A fine musical program will be presented and a large attendance is expected. Pres. Lee will make an important announcement relative to the Ho for the Beach picnic.

RECEIVED DIPLOMA

MISS IDA McLAUGHLIN A GRADUATE NURSE.

Miss Ida McLaughlin, a nurse at St. John's hospital, was graduated Tuesday evening from the nurses' training school at that institution, receiving the much-coveted diploma, gold medal and black-banded cap. They were given by Sister Agnes in the presence of the sisters and pupil nurses. All adjourned to the nurses' house where light refreshments were served and a pleasant evening was passed as many of the pupils are accomplished musicians as well as devoted to the sick and suffering. A number of the former graduates were invited to attend, as usual.

Miss McLaughlin will practice in this city, and bids fair to have marked success here in her chosen profession.

George Mulligan of Wilmington is much concerned that somebody arrested for drunkenness gave his name. George does not seem to realize that some names are duplicated.

C.T.A.U. MEETING

John McKenna Elected First Vice President

LIVELY CONTEST FOR DELEGATES

To National Convention at Providence

About 400 delegates, who represented upward of 60 separate temperance societies in the archdiocese, attended the annual convention of the C. T. A. U. held in Dorchester, yesterday. Substantial gains in membership during the year were reported by nearly all the affiliated societies, and several new organizations were heard from.

The exercises opened with mass in St. Leo's church. The Holy Family Temperance league of the parish was present as a body. The Rev. Dr. John T. Mullen, rector of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, officiated, assisted by Frs. John V. Cronin and Reardon. Fr. Francis J. Butler, rector of St. Leo's and president of the union was master of ceremonies.

The Rev. George V. Leahy of the faculty of St. John's Ecclesiastical seminary, Brighton, preached.

The delegates were welcomed by the Rev. Fr. Butler. The committees were announced as follows:

Constitution and by-laws—Thomas F. Phalen, Roxbury, chairman; C. E. Callahan, Norwood; Charles H. Farrell, Maurice Dineen, Malden; Frank L. Burns, Lynn; M. J. Carroll, Brookline; Bernard Pettee, Brockton.

Credentials—Dan. J. Kelley, Brighton chairman, Neil J. Doherty, Woburn; William T. Cassell, Boston.

Organization—The Rev. Michael J. Doody, Cambridgeport, chairman; Lawrence E. Murphy, Boston, E. E. Gagan, East Cambridge; Edward F. Slattery, Lowell.

Resolutions—The Rev. Dr. John T. Mullen, Boston, chairman; Maj. John J. Leonard, Dorchester, Dennis A. McCarthy, Cambridge, Hugh Molloy, Lowell.

The gathering denounced the practice of drinking at public gatherings, meetings of political clubs and social and fraternal organizations. The movement to restrict the sale of liquor to women aims at checking sales even for home use.

It was announced that the recent raise in the per capita tax had proved beneficial financially. The increase of about 2000 new members during the year was attributed largely to the efforts of the Rev. Fr. Butler. The election results were as follows:

President, the Rev. Francis J. Butler, vice presidents, John A. McKenna, Lowell, and Mrs. Katherine Tillotson, Roxbury, treasurer, the Rev. M. J. Doody, Cambridgeport; general secretary, Otho T. O'Leary, Dorchester; financial secretary, Maurice Dineen, Malden; corresponding secretary, Frank L. Burns, Lynn.

Not the least interesting part of the convention was the scholarly paper on "Alcohol and its effect as a stimulant," prepared and read by Dr. John F. Connolly, a Harvard graduate, and he held the closest attention of the large audience. He contended in his paper that alcohol does not act as a stimulant on the system when used in cases of sickness, but rather as a narcotic, that gives a depressing effect.

The election of delegates to the national body in August at Providence, R. I., was spirited, not less than fourteen candidates for the three places having been named the result was made known shortly before adjournment, and it was found that Rev. M. J. Doody, Cambridge; Maurice Dineen, Malden; and Mrs. Mary Murphy, Boston, were the lucky ones.

The alternates selected were: John V. Donoghue, Lowell, Thomas F. Phelan, Boston; Miss Annie C. Graves, Roxbury.

The election of John A. McKenna as vice president was received with joy by the delegates with whom Mr. McKenna is deservedly popular. The latter made brief but eloquent remarks, emphasizing the necessity of active work in the union.

The report of the treasurer showed several hundred dollars in the coffers of the organization, and Secretary O'Leary's report, replete with many suggestions, showed a gain of three societies.

Representing the Mathews at the convention were eight delegates, namely, Secretary Charles Sullivan, John Coughlin, Edward Slattery, Charles Defoe, John Sharkey, John A. McKenna, John J. Coyne and J. V. Donoghue.

Pres. John E. Harrington and Stephen F. Ward of North Chelmsford attended the convention and Mr. Ward was chairman of the balloting committee.

Neat badges were worn by the delegates and everyone was provided with a new constitution nicely bound.
